Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars,

FOR SUNDAY, MARCH 9, 1952

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Some changes likely this month, and they are for our good. Today asks thought of God, and family pleasure in turn. Don't neglect other duties. Pray.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Essential matters of vigorous nature, our military and other forces are under virile Mars vibrations. Day favorable on whole except for some transactions. Care advised.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Start your day with prayer, church services. Then urgent tasks; later refreshing diversion, a hobby, entertainment. Think; plan to avoid losses.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Jupiter only planet in inauspicious position advising care in spending, investing, conferences. Otherwise, rays favorable on whole, and for our fighting forces, difficult matters. Pray.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo)—Home and family interests, intelligent gatherings, urgent "little" duties promoted by benefic Mars and Venus configurations. Attend church; indulge healthy recreation.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)—Some caution stressed today in agreements promises, written matters and study. Don't overdo anything. A pleasant, fruitful day can be had, depending largely upon you.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Fine Venus and other planetary vibrations for a very worth while Sunday if you help to make it so. Prayer and charity deeds are always our standbys. Enjoy recreation.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Not especially auspicious for writings, contracts or creating but certainly for for urgent hard tasks, military interests, activities requiring energy, initiative. Soul's needs first!

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Extra care, if investing or handling money matters. But try to keep activities in line with a true Sunday. No neglecting duties but you should enjoy some healthy fun in free time.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — Invigorating day which favors most worthy undertakings so long as they do not offend God, hurt our soul's salvation. It is fitting to enjoy a healthy hobby or other relaxation.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—A really practical day with sound matters leading in favor. This does not exclude delicate tasks though they may not be classed as wholly practical. Prayer, family interests top rated.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Both the practical and very artistic are favored this overall day. Review your "musts" tend to them as quickly as possible. Then to a pleasant relaxation. Pray, of course.

YOU BORN TODAY are innately kind, imaginative, intuitive and very clever, though you may not admit the latter. Develop and use daily all your God-given gifts. Your intelligent mind and conscience can attain a high place for your vocation. You must also have faith in yourself and in endeavors of even "little people," everywhere. Great things usually have small beginnings, often come from the average man or are best developed by him. Forge ahead under new methods with pioneering (if they're not impractical), folks. Keep good humor with you. Birthdate of: Oliver Wendell Holmes, great jurist; Sir Wm. Hamilton, Scotch metaphysician; Claire Trevor, actress.

He read to the House a circular letter by the Federation of Automobile Dealer Associations of Canada. It asked members to approach their members of parliament to gain support for a campaign against the government's credit restrictions and promised a widespread publicity campaign which, it said, members of parliament would like.

Mr. Abbott mentioned also the reported action of some tobacco companies in cutting down on delivery of Canadian cigarets. If this was true it was a highly questionable way of endeavoring to influence public opinion.

He added that whatever faults the minister of finance might have "he is a very hard man to frighten."

Non-Confidence Motion

The non-confidence motion introduced by Mr. Fair charged that the government has "failed" to provide adequate inducement for expansion of Canadian food production and "failed" to provide economic distribution and marketing for surpluses.

Mr. Bryce offered a sub-amendment urging establishment of a federal authority to deal with meat and dairy products during the "emergency" he said has arisen as a result of foot-and-mouth disease in Saskatchewan.

The federal controller should have power to establish floor prices for producers, to protect consumers by control of retail prices and to arrange equitable distribution during the emergency.

Earlier Trade Minister Howe said that Canada has reached a crisis in the handling of unusual amounts of tough and damp grain. He said no assurance can be given of prompt delivery opportunities next spring for grain harvested in a tough or damp condition.

Plight of Industry Theme

The plight of the textile industry and unemployment were the other main themes heard from Throne-Speech debate speakers.

Dr. W. F. Blair (PC-Lanark) said that unless some long-range program is devised, Canadian textile mills will have no defence against cheaper foreign textiles dumped in this country. He was supported by Earl Catherwood (PC-Haldimand).

George Hees (PC-Toronto Broadview) and J. W. Noseworthy (CCF-York South) said the government should act soon on the growing unemployment. Both complained about the present system of unemployment insurance payments. Mr. Hees charged that the "plundering and blundering" of the government was responsible for unemployment.

Clare Gillis (CCF-Cape Breton South), looking into the future, said he is convinced there will be no general election this year because there has been no mention of a national health-insurance plan.

This, he believed, the government would save for an issue in the next election.

FOOT-AND-MOUTH

Meanwhile, a packing house official in Edmonton said some meat was getting through Manitoba—in sealed cars. He said the amount, going to Ontario, was "only limited relief."

Mr. Gardiner said the provincial embargoes are "all wrong" and the federal government wants to get the provincial governments to break down those imposed by British Columbia, Manitoba, Quebec and Nova Scotia.

If the federal government fails, "we may have to do something else," he said.

Promises Co-operation

At Quebec, Premier Duplessis of Quebec promised his government's co-operation in dealing with problems arising from the outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease.

He said "Quebec's business is settled in Quebec, for Quebec and elsewhere" but this policy was "no obstacle to co-operation with all the country's governments as long as co-operation is not understood as a one-way street."

On the question of support for beef prices, Mr. Gardiner said nothing could be done under the present situation of restrictions under which it might be a question of price ceilings rather than floors.

He also gave details of the government program to buy surplus pork, authorized by order-in-council. He said pork has been clogging storage facilities, particularly since the outbreak of foot-and-mouth with the consequent embargo on livestock by the United States.

A reflection of the effect of foot-and mouth disease on the livestock industry was apparent Friday in the agriculture department's weekly review.

The review said prices showed wide variations under unsettled conditions. But prices, which showed a general decline a week ago, appeared to be strengthening with gains of $2 to $5 a hundred-weight recorded in some markets.

SUCHAN

Next came a tip from Toronto to Montreal police and the ambush was laid for Suchan who only three odd months ago took up residence on Cote Des Neiges giving what have been described as "the best of references."

Nobody on Cote Des Neiges Hill knew they lived beside a man who carried three guns. But that can be Montreal at times.

Under Another Name

Suchan occupied his place under the name of E. Lenoff.

To his apartment early last night went Dauphin and detectives Albert Cote, Maurice Bilodeau and Rance Poirier.

Dauphin and Cote hid in the kitchenette of the three-room apartment. Bilodeau and Poirier settled down in the kitchen where, between the two groups of policemen, anybody entering the apartment living room would be sandwiched.

At 9.40 p.m. the policemen heard someone approaching. They heard a key turn in the lock. Then Suchan entered.

"Everything was just as he had left the apartment," said Det. Sgt. Cote. "But he appeared nervous and suspicious.

"He looked around. Then he drew one gun. He looked at the kitchen door, half closed. He looked toward the bedroom. Then Dauphin showed himself and Suchan made a move as if to shoot and Dauphin didn't give him a chance. Dauphin fired three times and Suchan fell to the floor."

The shots struck Suchan in the arm and stomach.

Assistant - director Wilfred Bourdon, head of the detective department here, was tipped off yesterday by a long-distance phone call from Inspector Alex McCathie of the Toronto police.

Bourdon ordered the apartment surrounded and placed four men inside. Police said they heard someone running down the apartment stairs during the shooting, and said it could have been Jackson and Boyd.

Isadore Bobrone, attorney for the apartment house, said Suchan had been registered there since December under the name of E. Lennoff.

"He presented the best of social references when he applied for accommodation," Bobrone said. "We had these investigated and on the basis of these references he was given an apartment."

Police broke the news of the shooting only at 1 a.m., today, hoping that withholding of the news would aid in capture of the other two.

Nobody Loves Forever

By Margaretta Brucker

Before she reached the porch of the old rose brick house, Jessica dropped her wedding ring into her purse. Within the house silence greeted her. The door to her father's study stood open but he was gone. She rushed upstairs, flung open her own door and threw herseld down on the bed.

For an instant she lay quite still, inert and emotionless. Then she began to sob hopelessly and bitterly. How undo this wretched mistake? She did love Tom — yes, she loved Tom dearly, if love meant the wild delirium they had shared together. But the price was too high. This was no longer her home. She had exchanged home for uncertainty. The tears came in a flood.

She had promised to meet Tom, to go away with him. She must prepare to leave at once.

As she wrapped herself in a robe Annie, her personal maid who had waited on her hand and foot since babyhood, tapped on the door.

"Miss Jessie, you sick?"

Annie came in carrying a breakfast tray and stood with her dark eyes bent anxiously upon the girl.

"No, I'm not sick." She threw up her head belligerently. "I'm—I'm married."

The small black woman stared at her. "What fool thing you sayin' now? You married!"

"But I am married. To a soldier. His name is Tom Blake. I'm Mrs. Tom Blake." She snatched up her purse and opened it, dug up the ring and jammed it on her finger. She held up the hand for Annie to see.

"Your father goin' to shoot that soldier sho' as you're born, Miss Jessica. Lucky he ain't home."

"Where is he?"

"Lexington."

Jessica moved nervously back and forth putting on her clothes. She said "I'll fix a note and explain Now help me pack."

"Where you goin'?"

"With my husband," said Jessica jauntily. "Please get my bags and I'll tell you what to put in." She crossed the room and opened the mirrored doors of the wardrobe. She debated just what to select while Annie followed her about shaking her head mournfully and mumbling.

Neither heard the bedroom door open. Mary Belle Evans stuck her chestnut head into the room. "What has happened?" she demanded. "Annie acts as though there'd been a funeral."

"Just a wedding," Jessica did not turn her head.

Mary Belle said "so he put it over?"

"What do you mean?"

"He declared he'd marry you. Everyone kidded Tom Blake for being a fool and dreaming that a girl like you—"

"Please, don't say anything against Tom.

"I suppose your father went off this morning before you returned?" Mary Belle asked bluntly.

"I never get up until noon," Jessica said. "He wouldn't miss me."

"You'll miss him now." Mary Belle sat down. "Incidentally, what are your plans, Mrs. Blake?"

"Tom thinks he'll have a furlough. I suppose we'll spend it on a honeymoon," said Jessica uncertainly.

Mary Belle looked skeptical. "He'll take you home to meet his folks," she observed. "Got any money?"

"Not much. Why?"

"You'll need money, won't you?"

Money. The word meant nothing to her. There were charge accounts and bills her father always paid and pocket money when she needed it. Jessica opened her purse and counted out $3 and some change.

"Tom will give me money," she said hopefully.

"Any idea of a corporal's pay?"

"No. . ."

Mary Belle opened her own purse and brought up a roll of bills. "Here is my allowance," she insisted. "You must take it. I'll explain to Granddad and he'll let me have some more. You can't go off like this, Jess. Suppose you don't like Tom?"

"You're forgetting—I can't come back." Jessica brushed aside the tears and remade her face and soon Annie announced that the things she wished were packed and she would carry them downstairs. Mary Belle and Jessica followed.

Tom was at the station, big and clean-shaven and coming forward quickly to take Jessica's arm possessively. "I was afraid you'd stand me up," he said.

Mary Belle stormed. "you should be shot for persuading Jessica to go off like this."

The train roared in and a few people who stood about the platform regarded them curiously as Tom hurried Jessica toward the day coach.

"Well, we're on our way," Tom said.

Jessica forced herself to ask, "where are we going?"

"Akron." He tossed their bags in the rack overhead. "I'm taking you to Akron and leaving you with my folks until I'm discharged from the army."

It was late afternoon of a stifling June day when Tom and Jessica reached Akron.

Tom's sister Lucy met them at the station. She was a small girl with a neat figure disguised by a cheap navy blue suit. Her blond hair was drawn back primly from a broad forehead. She wore no makeup.

Lucy viewed Jessica with cool detachment and extended her hand for a limp shake; then offered her cheek to Tom for a brotherly kiss, and remarked that they must hurry, for the train was late and her mother had already prepared dinner.

"How's Mom?" asked Tom.

He and Lucy talked in low tones and ignored Jessica as they climbed into the front seat of the car. Once Jessica caught the girl's glance fixed upon her curiously but Lucy quickly looked away and continued her conversation with her brother.

The evening air was close and weighted with a queer heavy smell.

Tom took a deep breath as they passed a row of factories. "Rubber!" He turned to Jessica. "This is Akron baby. Rubber capital of the world. Not much like Titusville is it?"

No. It wasn't like Titusville or any other spot she had ever visited. The sidewalks were jammed with men and women hurrying home from work. Crowded buses and men on bicycles. Men in dirty grease-stained overalls, and women looking little better, Tired men. Tired women.

The confusion made Jessica's head ache.

The car carried them through the town and out into a district of old frame dwellings and finally stopped before a tall gray house. An uncompromising type of house, painted a serviceable color.

Tom escorted Jessica as far as the porch steps and then ran ahead and opened the screen door He shouted "Mom—I'm home!"

Home. Jessica sickened as she waited. Tom disappeared within and left her standing by herself while Lucy put the car away.

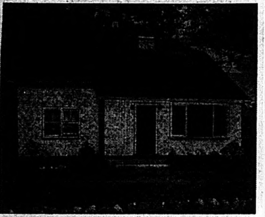
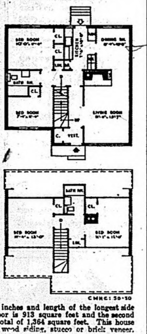
HOUSTON'S HOUSE-OF-THE-WEEK





Small, compact house plans have made an important contribution to a continuing supply of good housing in a period of rising construction costs. But the never-ending procession of two and three bedroom plans has left the impression that a new house for a big family requires a housing expenditure of at least $20,060.

Here is an attractive house design which will bring new hope to the prospective house-builder who has searched in vain for adequate living space within his means.

Note the big-family features of this plan: Four bedrooms, two bathrooms, a large living room and a separate dining room, and all in the economical one-and-a-half storey design. First floor bedrooms are well separated from the downstairs living area and the second floor bedrooms and bath allow the youngsters privacy they'll appreciate. The slight trend to open planning in the dining-living area gives the necessary "through" space for family gatherings and entertaining.

The good-sized master bedroom has "husband and wife" closets, another feature of this well-planned house. The two bathrooms will ease the crowding in the morning wash-up and the small front bedroom, close to the parents, would make an excellent nursery.

For estimating purposes the dimensions of the house are as follows: Complete width 32 feet 4 inches and length of the longest side 30 feet. The area of the first floor is 913 square feet and the second floor 451 square feet to make a total of 1,364 square feet. This house would look well with a finish of wood siding, stucco or brick veneer.

Working drawings of this plan, known as Design 50-50, are available from Houston's at a minimum cost.

NEW OUTBREAK OF FOOT-AND-MOUTH DISEASE

Airman Killed Another Injured In Car-Truck Crash

CPL. C.P. Doran, of City Victim in the Collision

One Trenton RCAF airman was fatally injured and a second airman was seriously hurt as result of a car-truck crash on the outskirts of Trenton Sunday night.

Cpl. Chas. Peter Doran, 85 Emily Street, Belleville, who police say was the driver of the car, died in the Trenton RCAF hospital a short time after being admitted. Still in hospital with concussion and facial lacerations is Cpl. Edwin M. Elliott of Middleton Park, Trenton.

The occupants of the truck were not seriously hurt and were allowed to go home after a check-up at Trenton Memorial Hospital. They are Murney B. Malloy, 291 Pinnacle Street, Belleville, his wife and 15-months-old daughter, Rita.

Occurs Near Trenton

The accident occurred about 8.30 half way between the No. 6 R.D. and the Trenton town limits near the Old Dutch Mill. The car in which the two airmen were riding was westbound from the air station towards Trenton, while the dump truck in which the Malloy's were riding was eastbound.

The car apparently veered and sideswiped the truck ripping the left side from the auto. The truck went out of control and overturned on its right side on the south shoulder of the highway. The auto come to rest on its four wheels in the centre of the highway.

Taken to Hospital

The two airmen were taken to the RCAF hospital, Doran by Weaver's and Elliott by an airforce ambulance, while Weaver's ambulance of Trenton took Mrs. Malloy and her little girl to Trenton hospital for a check-up.

Constables J. Fullerton and G. R. Hooker of the O.P.P. at Belleville investigated. A preliminary inquest is being held this morning at Trenton before Coroner Dr. E. A. McQuade.

Cpl. Doran has lived in the city for the past year and is married with two children.

Police Press Vast Manhunt For Slayer of Tipster

New York, March 10. (AP)—Police pushed a vast manhunt today for the killer of Arnold Schuster, the man who caused bank robber Willie Sutton's arrest.

Two major questions puzzled investigators:

Was the slayer an underworld figure, who killed the 24-year-old Schuster to avenge the arrest of Sutton?

Or was he a crank who hated informers and police in general?

Some 150 detectives picked up scores of former convicts for questioning, and pushed through the city hunting clues.

The No. 1 man sought was a convict murderer and prison fugitive, Frederick J. (The Angel) Tenuto, an old pal of Sutton. They broke out of Pennsylvania prison together in 1947.

Tenuto, already on the Federal Bureau of Investigation's 10-most-wanted list, was reported seen in New York Friday by a bartender. Police discounted the report because the description didn't tally.

Schuster pointed out Sutton, the most-wanted man in the United States, to police just 19 days before the young clothing salesman was slain Saturday night.

Six doors away from home, Schuster was hit by four .38-calibre bullets. People living nearby heard the shots and running feet. When they reached Schuster he was dead—victim of a smooth, vicious, gangland-type job.

Ends Days of Torture

For him, it was the end of days of torture, the fear of death ever present.

Police disclosed that he had received 11 threatening letters since he put the finger on Sutton. He had so many threatening calls that he had the number changed to an unlisted one. Neighbors said he hadn't left the house for a week before he decided to venture out Saturday after F.B.I. agents reassured him.

Police Commissioner George P. Monaghan said Schuster and his father, Max, had repeatedly turned down offers of a police guard.

Sutton is in jail awaiting trial of a bank-robbery charge. He said he was surprised by the slaying. Two other alleged Sutton pals, also in jail, were of no help.

Schuster's family was bitter.

"My hero, my hero. He had to be a hero," said his father. "He had to do it. And he got his reward."

ALL POTENTIAL CATCHERS

Richmond Hill, March 10 (CP)—Every citizen in this community 10 miles north of Toronto is a potential dog catcher as a result of a by-law passed by Whitechurch township council. The law permits citizens to pick up stray dogs and take them to the pound.

HAS FENCING CENTRE

Toronto, March 10 (CP)—For the first time, Toronto has a fencing centre. Enthusiasts predict that it will attract newcomers to the sport and give Toronto a predominant place in national and international competition.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, March 10 (CP)—Synopsis: Moist southerly winds are causing cloud and a few scattered showers in southwestern Ontario today and light snow in the north country. A storm over Missouri this morning is headed towards the province and will likely bring rain to southern and central regions tomorrow and more snow farther north. Trend towards higher temperatures is expected to continue on Tuesday except in extreme northwestern regions.

Lamport Would Take Control If Rates Raised

Toronto, March 10 (CP)—Mayor Allan Lamport said today that should the Consumers Gas Company raise its rates he will press immediately for city ownership of the firm.

Mayor Lamport's statement followed a newspage story in the Globe and Mail which said: "examination of how the firm's reserves are being depleted leads to one conclusion—an increase is inevitable."

Company officials refused to confirm the rumored increase. Mayor Lamport described reports of such an increase as "idle speculation."

He said natural gas from Alberta is on its way to Toronto. "That will bring down the cost soon. Why raise rates now?"

The last rate increase, amounting to 7 1-2 percent, was applied in February, 1951.

FORMER CUBAN PRESIDENT TAKES CONTROL OF ARMY

Two Guards Slain As Head of Govt. Flees

Havana, March 10—(AP)—President Carlos Prio Socarras fled from his palace today after reporting that forces of former President Fulgencio Batista seized control of the biggest military base in Cuba.

A bus load of soldiers followed his automobile and two tanks pulled up in front of the palace.

Lieut. Rafael Salas, a follower of Batista, took over police headquarters and announced: "I am a colonel now and chief of police."

Salas said Cubans were weary of gangsterism and graft and that army forces friendly to Batista had asked the veteran strong man of Cuban politics to take over.

Orders went out over police radios to detain several official automobiles — another indication that Batista forces were gaining control.

Socarras called upon all Cubans to resist Batista but after making the plea fled the palace. Reports circulated that he might be under arrest.

Two guards were slain at the palace in the first outburst of violence.

Major Establishment

In a statement issued while in the palace the president said army officers friendly to Batista had taken over Camp Columbia, major military establishment on the capital's outskirts.

On leaving the palace he made this statement: "We will resist if the people of Cuba support me and the constituted government."

This could be a trump card for the 52-year-old former army sergeant who led a revolt in 1933 from Camp Columbia and held control of this island republic of almost 5,000,000 persons for 10 years.

Prio, elected in 1948 for a four-year term which expires in October, in a statement to the people acknowledged that Batista grabbed control of the army.

Prio added, however, that all commands had "reported loyalty to the constitutional government."

He called upon all military men — and the rest of the population including the restive student faction — "to resist jointly with the president this dastardly attack."

Elections Set for June

Cuban elections have been set for June 1. Batista had announced he is seeking the presidency again, although he has not yet been formally nominated by his United Action Party.

Prio cannot be a candidate for re-election, since Cuban law prohibits a president serving consecutive terms.

Violence at the palace erupted when a police car, with sub-machine guns blazing, crossed the square in front of the building and fired at troops standing guard.

The guards returned the fire and at least two persons were killed and an undetermined number wounded.

Except for the shooting at the palace, Havana was strangely quiet with not a policeman in sight. The police radio had ordered all policemen to their stations and barracks, the action usually taken in Latin America in a serious emergency.

Destroyer Sioux Provides Landing Space on Deck at Sea for Helicopter

Esquimalt, B.C., Mar. 10 (CP)—H.M.C.S. Sioux is probably the only destroyer in history ever to provide a landing space for a helicopter at sea.

The story of how she did it came to light as Sioux pulled in here Saturday from her latest Korean patrol. Her crew told how her afterdeck was cleared and strengthened off the Korean coast Feb. 8 to allow the landing of a helicopter bearing an emergency case.

Naval officials believe it is the first time an aircraft ever landed aboard a destroyer.

The Sioux was carrying out anti-invasion patrols among the islands off the west coast of Korea when she received a message reporting an emergency appendix case on one of the islands. But due to ice conditions, no boat could be sent ashore so a U.S. army helicopter was sent in to pick up the unidentified patient.

A small helicopter made two landings first to test the deck. Then the larger helicopter bearing the patient gingerly but safely touched down after a practice run.

The patient was found to require an operation and Sioux set course for a British cruiser equipped with an operating room. The patient was transferred to the cruiser without a hitch.

19 Billion Dollar U.S. Industry Stands in Greater Danger Than at Any Time Since 1914

Wasington, March 10—(AP)—The United States' $19,000,000,000 livestock industry stands in greater danger from the world's worst animal malady — foot-and-mouth disease — than at any time since 1914.

A recent outbreak of the disease in Canada has virtually made the U. S. an island in a world dotted with areas of infection. The Mexican and U. S. governments are engaged in a joint effort to eradicate the disease in Mexico, where it bobbed up in 1947.

The disease is raging in Europe, many sections of Asia and in Venezuela and Columbia in South America.

Agriculture department officials say it will be a minor miracle if the U. S. escapes an outbreak this year. They say there has been ample opportunity for the virus to be brought into the U. S. from the affected area in Canada.

They say that should it get out of control, supplies of meat, milk, leather, wool and medicinal products of animal origin might be reduced by 25 per cent. An epidemic, they say, could cost farmers upward of $500,000,000 a year.

Consumers would feel the effect in reduced supplies and higher prices.

The department is trying to keep the disease from invading the U. S. by maintaining a ban against importation of cattle, sheep, goats, other ruminants and swine from areas where the disease is known to exist. The ban applies to all animals, both domesticated and wild, with the cloven foot.

It also applies to animal by-products, such as fresh, chilled or frozen meats, hides, skins, bones, wool, bonemeal, tankage. Likewise, importation of hay and straw from infected areas is prohibited.

Has Had Nine Outbreaks

U.S. has had nine outbreaks of the disease, the last being in 1929. The most serious was in 1914, when the disease spread to 22 States.

The disease is caused by a virus of which there now are six distinct types. Foot-and-mouth disease spreads rapidly. The disease takes its name from visible symptoms—blisters appear on the tongue and about the mouth, on the skin above the hoof-line, on the skin between the toes, on teats and udders, and on the snouts of swine.

In most European countries the disease had gained such a foothold that it has probably become a permanent infection.

Realizing that as long as the disease existed in Mexico American herds were menaced, the U.S. government has been co-operating with the Mexican government in an effort to stamp out an outbreak that first occurred in 1947. The U.S. has spent $122,000,000 of its own funds on this campaign.

No case of the disease has appeared in Mexico since last August.

Concern over the possibility of an outbreak in the U.S. has been deepened by the fact that the first occurrence of the disease in Canada was early last December. It was not finally diagnosed as foot-and-mouth disease until late in February.

In the meantime, there has been much movement of livestock from the affected area in Canada to the United States. The time of greatest danger will be in the spring, after the ground thaws.

Russian Diplomats Will Be Restricted in Their Movements

Ottawa, March 10. (CP)—Canada is going to restrict the movements of Russian diplomats and is expected to pen them into a small area around Ottawa.

The action will be taken as part of joint Atlantic Pact retaliation for increased restrictions on movements of western diplomats in Russia, it was learned today.

Canada's ban is expected to apply only to the Russian Embassy. There are two other Iron Curtain embassies here—Poland and Czechoslovakia—but they are not likely to be affected.

The Russian Embassy is being informed formally that members of its staff are not to go outside a certain area around Ottawa without permission from the External Affairs department.

The Atlantic Pact powers took the first step in this direction at their Lisbon meeting in February when they gave orders for a study of joint action. Their decision was made because Russia recently ordered western diplomats to stay within a 25-mile radius of the centre of Moscow.

Canada's action will represent the biggest step she has taken against the Embassy since the spy trials in 1946. The Russians withdrew their ambassador shortly before the spy probe broke and they never replaced him.

Leonid Teplov, charge d'affairs, is in charge of the embassy. There are 12 other men of diplomatic status and a number of others who do not have diplomatic status.

Kills Wife With Jack

Detroit, Maraeh 10 (CP)—A 36-year-old steam-fitter killed his wife with an automobile jack early today and then seriously injured himself and a passerby in a head-on auto crash.

Mrs. Juanita Beardsley, 29, a waitress, is dead. Doctors said her husband, Daniel, will recover from his injuries. Edward Barcia, 45, is in hospital with a fractured skull, body lacerations and broken bones in both legs and one arm.

Police said Beardsley waited in an alley beside the restaurant where his wife worked and killed her with the jack as she left the building. He jumped into his wife's car and roared away on the wrong side of the street, smashing head-on into a car driven by Barcia.

Death Sentence Given Soldier By Court Martial

Seoul, March 10—(CP)—A court martial today sentenced Sgt. Robert Burns MacDonald, 21, of New Waterford, N. S., to death for the murder of Pte. Harold Carlen Harrison, 31, of Truro, N. S.

The tribunal found that MacDonald shot his comrade to death Jan. 28 with a .45-calibre automatic during a quarrel in a house at Tokchon, 20 miles north of Seoul, Korea.

The court, in a report to Canadian army authorities in Ottawa, recommended clemency.

MacDonald is a member of the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery. Harrison, a member of the Canadian 25th Brigade headquarters, died in hospital Feb. 23.

MacDonald told the court martial he went to the Korean house in search of companionship after a day of drinking. He said he met Harrison for the first time there.

MacDonald said he recalled talking to Harrison about some chocolate bars and a blanket which had been stolen from his jeep, but said he had no recollection of firing a shot.

Was Waving Gun

During the trial two British soldiers, gunners J. Savage and Charles Parks of the Royal Artillery, testified they were in the Korean house when MacDonald came in, waving a .45 calibre automatic.

"Nobody moves or I shoot," they both quoted as saying.

They said Harrison entered from another room complaining: "What's all the noise about? I want to sleep."

Harrison turned to MacDonald and said: "Put that gun away. You ain't going to shoot anybody."

The soldiers testified words were exchanged between the two and then a gun "popped."

MacDonald then told them to wrap Harrison in blankets and put him in MacDonald's jeep. They said MacDonald then asked for directions to the nearest medical officer or hospital and left with Harrison in the jeep.

REPUBLICANS STAGING GREAT BATTLE IN N.H.

Eisenhower and Taft On Primary Ticket

Concord, N. H., March 10—(AP)—The pattern for a bitter down-to-the-wire battle over the Republican presidential nomination is being threaded together in New Hampshire.

Tuesday, the Republicans of this state, somewhat bewildered by all the outside fuss being made over them, vote in the first presidential primary.

Democrats will go to the polls to cast some light on the political fortune of Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, who is drawing on his reputation as a "crime buster" to oppose President Truman for the nomination. Surveys indicate Truman, who hasn't said whether he is running, may be the winner.

The outcome is expected to be close in the battle between forces of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio for endorsement in Tuesday's preferential (popularity) contest on the Republican ballot.

New Hampshire is the first state to hold its primaries, in which members of the respective parties indicate preference for presidential aspirants by choosing candidates to the national nominating conventions. The presidential elections will be held in November.

New Jersey Votes Next

With Governor Sherman Adams and other "big name" delegate candidates on his side, Eisenhower might get most of the state's 14 Republican presidential nominating votes. Taft has said he would be satisfied with four.

Whatever the outcome, both sides have made it abundantly clear the fight will go on with increasing intensity and probably with increasing bitterness.

Along with Harold E. Stassen, figured as a poor third in Tuesday's balloting here, the two major candidates are heading toward their next explosive collision in New Jersey's April 15 primary.

By then U.S. voters will have had time gauge the effect of 12-hour-a-day person-to-person campaigning such as Taft is conducting here, as contrasted with vote appeals by proxy for Eisenhower.

Taft has been hitting hard at Eisenhower, saying that nobody knows what kind of a candidate the general would make because he hasn't said anything on current issues.

READ LESSON

Hamilton, March 10 (CP)—Lieut. Gov. Louis Breithaupt yesterday read the lesson in Centenary United Church when he and members of his family paid an official visit to the city. The mayor and members of city council also attended the service.

Peterborough Airman Guardian Of Two Cougars Instead of One

Ottawa, March 10—(CP)—Somebody dumped a real problem into the lap of Flt. Lt. Allan Marshall of Peterborough, Ont., on his first night home from overseas—a live baby cougar. And what's worse, that makes him the guardian of two cougars.

The one Flt. Lt. Marshall received last night came by plane from Vancouver. A second is waiting for him in Calgary.

It was all started when the officers and men of 410 Cougar Squadron of the R. C. A. F. stationed at North Luffenham, England, decided to adopt a cougar.

A group from the Montreal squadron approached the London Zoo which said it would be glad to care for one under its adoption system, if the Canadians could find one.

The Calgary Zoo offered the squadron one of its two cougar kittens, the offer was accepted. That was before a Vancouver newspaper (Province) got a cougar from Forest Ranger Dave Williamson who captured three near Comox.

The newspaper packed the scratching, foot-long kitten into an R. C. A. F. Dakota piloted by Flt. Lt. Stewart Skinner of Vancouver. The plane and kitten, after an eventful flight which included giving the tawny cougar oxygen while flying over the Rockies, landed at Rockcliffe airport last night.

Flt. Lt. Marshall, the member of 410 Squadron who made the original suggestion to adopt a cougar, was handed the crate. He had just arrived from England on R. C. A. F. business.

Marshall bedded down his charge in a hangar at the airport and now is trying to make arrange to have his mates in Engin England adopt the Vancouver cougar as well as the one in Calgary.

All he has to do is get the London Zoo to agree to look after two cougars for 410 Squadron if the officers and men will contribute the seven shillings, sixpence (about $1.00) a week cost for each one.

Shooting of Cattle In Herds Affected To Start at Once

About 95 Cattle and 20 Swine are Involved

Regina, March 10. (CP)—Slaughtering of cattle involved in a new outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease is expected to start today. Work on a burial pit for the diseased animals was begun Saturday.

The new outbreak is in two herds in the Regina district. A third herd is regarded as likely infected and will be slaughtered. About 95 cattle and 20 swine are involved.

Dr. Kenneth Wells, senior federal veterinarian supervising control measures, said "clinical diagnosis indicated the new outbreak is definitely foot-and-mouth disease." Samples from the animals have been sent to the federal laboratories at Hull, Que.

The new outbreak was announced Saturday, the day after the slaughter of livestock from 22 farms and other infected premises had been completed—with the exception of one herd being kept alive for experimental purposes. In all, more than 1,100 cattle, sheep, swine and goats were shot in five slaughterings.

All three farms affected by the new outbreak are within a mile of the Regina city limits. One is north of the city and two are east.

First symptoms of the disease were found Friday. The nature of the symptoms was not disclosed officially but it is understood that some animals had begun frothing from the mouth, one of the most common symptoms of the virus infection.

Dr. Wells said Saturday that a continuing close check is being kept on all animals in the quarantined area, which now extends through 11 rural municipalities surrounding Regina city. He said only those animals which break out in foot-and-mouth symptoms and those known to have had direct contact with the disease will be shot.

Still to be slaughtered—besides the three herds involved in the new outbreak—are the 39 cattle in the dairy herd of Leonard Waas at McLean. It is on the Waas farm that the original outbreak is believed to have occurred last November. These animals are being kept alive temporarily to allow tests to establish virus types and immunity duration.

Agriculture Minister Gardiner, who arrived in Regina to confer with Saskatchewan leaders on the outbreak, said last night he will ask the Manitoba government to lift its embargo on the passage of livestock through that province from the western ranges to eastern Canada.

The minister said in an interview he is convinced after two days of observation here that cattle can be moved through Manitoba without danger of spreading the outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease.

Toronto Police Continue Hunt For L. Jackson

Toronto, March 10—(CP)—Toronto police today continued their hunt for Leonard Jackson as persistent reports from Montreal said the fugitive is headed back to Toronto and familiar ground.

Meanwhile, in hospital, Sergeant of Detectives Edmund Tong has for the time being won the fight of his life against death. With .45-calibre bullets still in his chest and mid-section surgeons yesterday reported the officer 100 per cent better.

Early today hospital attendants said Sgt. Tong is still on the critical list but that he is continuing to show slight improvement.

They added: "Sgt. Tong was very near death late Friday night and again on Saturday. His pain and torment were extreme. Only through fortitude and sheer grit — his determination to live — was he able to survive those hours."

In serious condition in a Montreal hospital is Steve Suchan, who was shot three times in a police ambush Friday night in a swank Cote De Neiges apartment. Suchan is charged with the attempted murder of Sgt. Tong and Sergeant of Detectives Roy Perry.

The two officers were shot down in cold blood in Toronto's west end Thursday.

Squads of Toronto detectives are still working on a round-the-clock basis in their hunt for Jackson, also charged with the attempted murder of Tong and Perry.

Police believe Jackson and Suchan were responsible for several bank holdups in the Toronto area in the last few months. Their information also leads them to believe Edwin Alonzo Boyd, who escaped from Toronto's Don jail last winter, is master-minding the holdups.

Jackson is thought to have ducked into the Montreal underworld until he could make plans to escape the city.

MOORING ROPES ON TUG CUT

Mooring ropes tying a winter-berthed tug to the local dock were found severed over the weekend it was reported today by city police. Officers stated cutting of the ropes was undoubtedly the work of boys as the tracks found around the boat were of small size. Even with the mooring ropes cut there was no danger of the tugboat drifting away as it is held fast by winter ice.

County Road To be Closed For Bridge Repairs

The section of County Road No. 8 between the Madoc Road and Moira, will be closed to through traffic while major repairs are being made to the timber bridge which carried this road over the Madoc branch line of the Canadian National Railway.

The location is on what is known locally as the Moira Road, or the Third Concession of Huntingdon township, and at a point about one-half mile east of the corner of the Madoc and Ridge roads.

The actual work is being carried out by the C.N. Railway stated County Engineer W. L. Langlois today. Some repairs are being made to the lower parts of this structure which are not interfering with traffic. But, since it has been found that new floor stringers must be installed and a new deck is also to be put on, the road will be closed while this part of the work is in progress.

The exact time when closing will prove necessary is not yet known but it is expected to occur [illegible] date on this coming Wednesday or on Thursday morning.

Any traffic destined for Moira (or points in that vicinity) and originating in Belleville or other points in the south of the county, should therefore go via the Tweed highway (No. 37) instead of the Madoc road.

The length of time it will be necessary to keep the bridge closed cannot be determined accurately ahead, but it will probably be for about one week, depending upon weather encountered and other factors.

Red Cross Organization Complete For District 'Blitz' Tuesday Night

Tomorrow is "Blitz Day" for the Red Cross.

Tomorrow evening some 400 Red Cross canvassers will take off from their various headquarters in a "lightning house-to-house canvass of the city."

In other parts of the district, in Picton, Wellington, Bloomfield, in Prince Edward County; in Trenton, Tweed, Marmora, Madoc, Stirling, Frankford, Batawa and other Hastings county centres, the good folk will act in conjunction with their city cousins in a concerted effort to put the 1952 Red Cross drive for funds "over with a bang."

Working in conjunction with the Red Cross committees and their assistants will be aircraft of the Royal Canadian Air Force at Trenton.

Planes Drop Leaflets

The planes will roar over the district twice during the day. At 9.30 in the morning the low-flying machines will drop leaflets on all parts of the district and will repeat the performance at 5.30 in the evening.

The quota for the city is $13,000. And for the district $7,000 making an overall allotment for the city and district of $20,000.

Leave your porchlights on. It will be the beacon of welcome to these hard-working people, who are giving of their time and effort to assist the Red Cross in its appeal for needed funds.

If circumstances force your being away at the time of the canvassers call, leave your contribution with a neighbor. You will get your official receipt in due course.

Make your contributions as generous as you can. Any amount large or small will be thrice welcome.

Canvass of the downtown business sections will take place in the morning in all parts of the district. Upwards of 150 male canvassers will take part.

Chairman of the residential area Mrs. Herbert McCabe said today that St. Thomas Parish House will be the headquarters for zone captains.

City is Zoned

The city has been divided in 16 separate zones with two captains in charge of each. Canvassers will report to their captains at zone headquarters.

Sixteen centres for zones have been donated free-of-charge to the committee. These include Christ Church Parish Hall; the Ray Grant Funeral Home; St. Michael's Academy; the office of the Children's Aid Society; Belleville Collegiate Institute; Kiwanis Centre; the homes of Mrs. Sidney Sillitoe, 16 Oriole Park; Mrs. H. Samuels, 29 Brock Street; Mrs. J. McKenna, 75 South John Street; Mrs. A. Goven, 61 MacDonald Gardens; Mrs. L. Blaker, 174 Pine Street; Mrs. P. Ray, 10th Sixth Street; Bayview Heights; Mrs. Art. Clare, Trent Road; Mrs. W. T. Simpson, 15 Reynolds Crescent; Holloway Street United Church and Ward's Grocery, corner of Chatham and Pine Streets.

Reports of the canvass will be broadcast at certain intervals over CJBQ.

Police cruisers will patrol the zone headquarters during the evening.

Prior to the blitz church bells will ring and reels of the Fire Department will patrol the city. Police and fire departments are co-operating with Chairman Alan Sprague and his assistants in every centre of the district.

Canvassers will start the 'blitz' canvass at six o'clock sharp.

Repair Crews Soon to Try Reconditioning Dakota Plane Damaged in Northern Takeoff

Trenton — (Special) — Repair crews of No. 6 Repair Depot at Trenton have another tedious task confronting them and by the time they have finished this job will have experienced the most rugged country and adverse weather conditions typical of the wilderness of northern Labrador this time of year.

Last week a twin-engined R. C. A. F. Dakota servicing the department of transport radio tower at Mekatina, 150 miles south of Goose Bay, cracked up on take off and was damaged to the extent that it could not fly. The crew escaped and were flown back to base by a Norseman bushplane on skis. Then air force recovery men were given the job of flying the big transport off the snow-covered lake before the spring break-up.

It means that repairmen will have to be outfitted with arctic clothing and move their equipment to the scene of the crash where a tent camp will be established. It is possible that snowmobiles and dog teams will be used to carry to repairmen and their equipment to the wreck.

At present there is 12 inches of slush and 30 inches of snow covering the 40 inch thickness of the ice over the lake which makes movement of heavy aircraft hazardous.

When the aircraft has been made serviceable it is planned to attach rockets to the plane to assist the take off. This method of lifting aircraft into the air is often used when planes are down in close quarters or the landing strip is soft and soggy.

Mekatina, a remote D. O. T. weather station, is located between Goose Bay in Labrador and Seven Islands on the north shore of the St. Lawrence River in Quebec.

Holstein Bears Triplet Calves Near Glen Miller

Trenton. (Special.) — Triplet calves came into the world last night at Michael Kotmos' farm on R.R. 5, east of Glen Miller.

The threesome, two bull calves and a heifer, were born to a three-year-old Holstein cow named Bessie. Veterinarian Glynne H. Jones of Trenton, was on hand.

Today the cow and her calves are doing well.

Trenton Firemen Make Two Calls On Saturday

Trenton. (Special.)—The Trenton Fire Department answered two calls on Saturday.

The first, a chimney blaze was at the home of C. Wesley, 17 North Scott Street, and was squelched before serious damage resulted.

The second call came from the downtown section. At first firemen thought the chimney on Fred Gitelman's store on Front Street, was ablaze. Closer investigation revealed that the chimney on Robertson's store next door was causing the trouble and firemen soon attended to it.

Cannifton-Corbyville Public School Holds 'Education' Week

The senior room of Cannifton-Corbyville Public School was filled on Tuesday afternoon when a goodly number of interested parents came to share in the "Education Week," program, the theme of which was "Education is Everybody's Business."

They, as well as the pupils, were fortunate in hearing Rev. W. R. Merrick, of Cannifton United Church, who took as his topic "Little Things" pointing out that such things as 'Punctuality' and being courteous, seemingly little things, are by no means 'little'.

Reeve Fred Mitchell, of Thurlow,, gave his audience an interesting address on "Education" depicting the value of different subjects and urging each to make good use of his time and become a good loyal citizen of Her Majesty, the Queen.

Mr. Wright, health inspector for Thurlow, briefly explained his job as such and pointed out the value of "water testing" and destroying "the common fly."

Major Honeychurch who along with Mrs. Honeychurch makes a weekly visit to the school was the next guest speaker. His address left the "grown ups" with the idea that if boys and girls are to live rightly, they must be taught the value of such characteristics as applying one's self and 'honesty'.

The pupils of the school contributed their share of the program as follows: Opening remarks, H. E. Darling; "Housing Shortage in Mother Goose Land" grades 1-2; story of "The Ocean and its Secrets," Helen Tweedy; "We Stamp With Our Little Left Foot" 5 Jr pupils; "Safety First," skit by grade III boys; story, "King George the Good," Bernard Tuepah; "Bouquet for Mr. Dunlop," Joan MacDonald; poem, "The Looking Glass Pussy", grade 2; sing song, everybody; playlet, "The Lazy March Hare," grades III-IV; "Gas and Oil Lines", John Plumpton; "Rock-aby, Lullaby" song grade 5-6; "Is Such Speed Necessary?" story, Carl Latchford; play, "The Obstructive Hat," grade 5-6.

An interesting and educational film entitled "Newfoundland," was the closing feature.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, March 10 — (CP) — Stock market prices made little headway today in early afternoon dealings.

Trading opened briskly then tapered off. Industrial dealings shrank to leading issues but a few golds, oils and metals attracted speculative interest. Volume for the first three hours was 1,810,000 shares.

Papers, constructions, banks and miscellaneous issues drew firm support to form industrials' strongest sections. Steels, foods and refining oils held gains and losses in balance but textiles, retail stores and manufacturing companies slipped.

Base metal losses ranged from pennies to about 25 cents. Coldstream, East Sullivan, Minda-Scotia, Ontario Pyrites, Quebec Copper and United Keno Hill were among the losers. Consolidated Smelters and Quemont edged upward.

Western oils were mixed as Anglo-Canadian, Calgary and Edmonton, Gridoil, National Petroleum, Sapphire and Canadian Williston strengthened while Devon-Leduc, Home Oil, Trans Empire and Punch weakened.

Senior golds were firm as Dome, Kerr Addison, Lake Shore, Lamaque and McIntyre climbed moderately. Secondary issues eased.

PRODUCE MARKET

Toronto, March 10. (CP)—Churning cream and butter print prices were quoted here today at 67-71 for churning cream and 67 1-2 to 68 for butter prints.

Fish and Game Club Will Hold Big Regatta

Campbellford — There was a splendid attendance of members at the March meeting of the Campbellford and District Fish and Game Proective Association on Thursday evening at the Parish Hall.

Minutes of the last meeting were read and approved by the secretary Lloyd Taylor, and on motion were adopted.

It was decided to hold a Regatta this summer, and W. S. Wiggins was appointed general chairman for this event, the selection of a committee to be left to his choice.

H. A. MacArthur has agreed to give a combination radio and television set to the club at cost price as first prize in the Regatta draw. There will also be two other prizes.

May Close Creek

A motion was passed to take steps to have Trout Creek closed to fishing for one year, as it will be stocked with trout this year. The land owners will be asked to sign a petition expressing their willingness to close the creek to fishing so that it may be presented to the department for ratification.

The annual membership fee to the Ontario Federation of Hunters and Anglers was renewed.

Forrest Dennis reported the High School will be available for the Association Rifle Club on Tuesday nights from 8 to 10.30 p.m. The committee in charge will be Doug Burgis, chairman; Otto Sarginson and Forrest Dennis.

Cliff Gibson introduced the guest speaker of the evening, Major P. K. Ketcheson, who is one of the foremost sportsmen conservationists in this province.

"Ketch" as he is known by his numerous friends delivered a most informative and interesting address on the subject of "Sportsmanship."

He stated that in all lines of competitive sports today we have to play the game according to the rules or pay the penalty. We have reached the point where we now have to look to the great outdoors for recreation, and the penalties here for breaking the rules of nature are far greater than in competitive sport. If we break the rules of fishing and hunting, nature steps in and as the good Book says: the penalties may reach to "the third and fourth generation."

Stresses Need of Courtesy

The speaker stressed the great need for courtesy among sportsmen. Is it any wonder that wherever one goes today it is a common sight to see "No Trespassing" "No Hunting" or "No Fishing" signs displayed. Hunters and fishermen tramp over farmers' lands and often cause damage to property without having the courtesy to ask the owner if they may do so. We should at least ask permission to hunt or fish on other people's land.

Major Ketcheson urged the members of Fish and Game clubs to teach the lessons of conservation to the younger generation in regard to our fish, game and forest resources. If this is not done the impact of this neglect will be so great that no province in Canada could withstand the devastation which would result.

Tells of Work

He told of the valuable work undertaken by the Carling Conservation Club in their extensive surveys of our wildlife. Most important of the surveys are as follows: 1. The fighting muskie; 2. The Moose; 3. The shore birds and water fowl; 4. The life of the woodland caribou; 5. The life story of the speckled trout, and this year the club will make a survey of the small mouth bass.

The Carling Company set aside a half million dollars for this work. Another half million dollars has been earmarked to carry forward the surveys. Major Ketcheson, who is the roving secretary of the club said "we want to be of service to all sportsmen" and thanked the members for their continued support of the Carling Club.

Three wonderful films in color were shown as follows: "Your Forest Heritage"; "Famous Fish I Have Met"; "Survival Perilous"—the story of the Woodland Cariboo.

George Lucy, voiced the thanks of the club to Major Ketcheson for his very fine address, and also the interesting and educational films shown.

Major Ketcheson was accompanied by Mr. H. B. Weller, representative of Carling's, both of whom were made honorary members of Campbellford Fish and Game Association.

Pilots Uninjured

Trenton. (Special.)—A Texas two-seated trainer crashed on the farm of Basil Brook, 3rd concession of Sidney township, about three miles north of the Trenton Air Station and two occupants, Flying Officers McCrea and Price were uninjured although badly shaken up.

The plane made a wheels-up landing after one of the pilots saw smoke filling the cockpit. He immediately shut the engine off and came in for a forced landing. A wire fence was ripped and the plane skidded about 1,000 feet before coming to rest. One of the pilots made his way to the Brook home and telephoned the station.

FORMER CUBAN

Despite Prio's announcement that the general staff headquarters had been taken by Batista followers, the president said:

"All commands have reported loyalty to the constituted government."

"For the people it will not pass unnoticed that this ambition of one man appears at a time when all political parties of Cuba were ready to participate in a civic demonstration.

Presidential elections have been called for June 1.

"I adjure all military men of Cuba that they maintain their oath of fidelity to the republic and to the workers, students, farmers, industrialists and merchants and in fact to all Cubans to resist jointly with the president this dastardly attack. I have confidence in all Cubans."

How the situation would work itself out with Prio in command at the presidential palace and Batista forces in charge at camp Columbia is a matter to be awaited.

The newspaper Alerta said the army has asked Batista to take over the government "to end the state of gangsterism and political unrest in Cuba" and that the 52-year old political veteran "always ready to serve his country, had done so."

BIG SHIPMENTS

Rio de Janeiro, Brazil (CP) — Brazil's Rio Doce Valley Company shipped 1,284,000 tons of iron ore abroad in 1951, according to the annual report. Exports were about 80 per cent more than in 1950, and about four-fifths of last year's total went to the United States.

THREE-LEGGED COYOTE

Minnedosa, Man. (CP) — A coyote minus one leg is roaming around 10 miles north of this town. Spotted recently by Roald Firby, the coyote is believed the same one that escaped from a trap by chewing off its imprisoned foot.

A DESIRABLE DELAY

"An intimation that the government is in no hurry to arry out its previously announced intention of revising s annuity plan was given today in the Commons by abor Minister Gregg," said an Ottawa dispatch to the lobe and Mail last Wednesday.

The article then continued that a bill to remodel the overnment annuity plan was studied by a parliamentary ommittee last fall, but abandoned during the rush of usiness toward the end of the session. If it had been assed, the bill would have increased the maximum govrnment annuity from $1,200 to $2,400. Another feature the bill was to provide cash surrender values on these overnment annuities before their due date.

At the time the bill was being studied by the parliaentary committee, it came under strong criticism by he insurance companies. The insurance company spokesnen opposed the bill on several grounds. One was that he scheme was not actuarially sound; in other words, the cheme cost more to operate than its income justified. They also said that it provided unfair competition for the nsurance companies. To extend the scheme, they said, was making a bad situation worse.

As was pointed out in these columns some weeks go, the insurance companies are operating a perfectly egitimate and sound type of business. They have as much right to expect to be exempted from unfair competition as anyone else. They would not be asking too much they were to ask the government to withdraw from the nnuity business entirely.

As far as we have been able to find out, no one has ever given any satisfactory explanation of how the govrnment happened to get into the annuity business in he beginning.

If the St. Laurent government forgets, completely nd forever, to increase the scope of these annuities, no ne will worry. If the government decides to abandon the whole business, no one will shed any tears about that, ither.

A VIGOROUS COUNTRY

Vital statistics published in the 1952 edition of the Canadian Almanac and Directory indicate that Canada has a vigorous and healthy population.

Canada's birth rate is 26.8 per thousand per year, the highest of the twelve representative countries listed. Canada's death rate is 8.9 per thousand per year, the lowest of the same twelve countries.

The United States and Australia stand second to Canada for a low death rate, with 9.6. The Union of South Africa is next to Canada for high birth rate, with 25.7. (This figure is for the white population of South Africa only).

The countries included in the list besides those mentioned are: Great Britain, New Zealand, Belgium, France, Spain, Italy, Austria and West Germany. The figures given are for 1950, the latest available.

In spite of inflation and all our other troubles, we are probably better off in Canada than we would be anywhere else.

CZECHS SEND US GLOVES

W. H. Leslie Pinkham, who represents a large British glove-making company, has been in Canada trying to find out why the Canadian market does not absorb a larger proportion of his concern's product.

He has found the answer, or part of it. In Montreal the other day, he stated that he had learned that Canada imported half a million pairs of gloves from Czechoslovakia last year.

Unless we have been misinformed, Czechoslovakia is one of those so-called Iron Curtain countries; in other words, Czechoslovakia has a Communist-dominated government and is, to all intents and purposes, a part of Russia.

It is possible that the people who make our import regulations know what is best, but to our way of thinking importing gloves from Communist Czechoslovakia when those same gloves could just as well be made at home or ought from the British just doesn't make sense.

ONTARIO LEADS

Half a century ago, the death rate in Ontario from tuberculosis was one per cent and the disease was regarded as incurable. Last year, the Ontario death rate from tuberculosis was only 13 per 100,000. The national death rate from the ailment was 27 per 100,000.

If Ontario's death rate from this disease is less than half the national average, surely there is something wrong in some of the other provinces.

MAN AND MIGHT

This life is full of wonder.
There's much we can't explain.
But give your heart to man alone and everything is vain.
And put your trust in force alone and blind you'll have to be
To every flower that decks the soil and every blossoming tree.

Give up your faith in power divine and serve the body's need;
Think all comes from the work of men you'll never plant a seed.
Think out of chaos beauty comes then, if you can, explain
The robin and his cheery song when springtime comes again.

Who rules by might, to greater might some day will have to fall.
Not power divine, but man-made power built up the firing wall.
The glories that are everywhere the humblest of the flowers
Give testimony to us all of powers surpassing ours.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

MARCH 10, 1932

For the first time this winter ice to the thickness of about two inches has formed on the Moira River here as far as the lower bridge.

Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Stillman spent the weekend in Montreal.

Miss Ruth Andrews and Mrs. Dorothy Darrah spent the weekend in Toronto.

Miss J. Tickell, with Mr. Charles Campbell, of this city, won the round in the mixed doubles at the Kingston Badminton Club tournament this week.

Mr. W. J. Symons and Mr. Joseph McDermitt, of Toronto, spent yesterday here with friends.

MARCH 10, 1922

A meeting was held at the G.W.V.A. club rooms in Marmora for the purpose of organizing a lacrosse club in that village. The attendance was large and those present were enthusiastic. The following officers were elected: Hon. President, Rev. J. T. Hanley; Hon. Vice-President, H. W. Sabine; President, H. R. Pearce; First Vice-President, J. P. Marrin; Second Vice-President, A. H. Connor; Secretary-Treasurer, M. E. Grant; Manager, A. J. Shannon; Executive Committee, the officers and S. C. Boyd, F. Pinner, H. Naylor, S. Feeney and A. T. Neal.

40 YEARS AGO

MARCH 10th., 1912

At the curling rink the semi-finals were played in the bonspiel between members of the local club. The games lasted until early in the morning and there were many interested spectators. The rink skipped by Frank Dolan, one of the oldest members of the club, both as member and player, won the contest. Mr. Dolan has long been one of the best players and most successful skips. That his right hand has not lost its cunning was fully demonstrated during the bonspiel. The following composed the rinks in the finals: R. A. Backus, Dr. Morley Day, Arthur Jones, Frank Dolan, skip, 14; Dr. Proctor, W. H. Hudson, Capt. Bottum, Charles J. Symons, skip, 9.

50 YEARS AGO

Belleville is to have a lacrosse team this year the boys should get busy and organize. There is plenty of good material here and with Harry Burrell and Billy Hitchon to show the boys the fine points of the game we should have a first class team and we are sure the citizens would give their generous support.

Mr. J. D. Monoghan left today for Halifax where he has accepted a position with a lumber company.

The Rev. J. Turnbull and Mrs. Turnbull, of Marlowe, Quebec, formerly of Melrose, are the guests of Mr. S. G. Sprague, McDonald Ave.

Mr. Joseph James, of Actinolite, was in town today.

Mr. A. W. Robertson, of Crookston, is stopping at Hotel Quinte for a few days.

Mr. Frank Brintnell, of Toronto, an old Belleville boy, is spending a few days in town.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

DON'T GET HIGH HAT

Many years ago a wealthy couple lost their son, an only child. While sojourning in Europe to recover from their grief, they decided that they would give their large fortune to some established college, probably on the eastern seaboard.

Now this rich man was by no means an imposing-looking person. He picked out a college which he wished to endow and upon his return from Europe, went to call on the president of that college. To his amazement, and much to the injury of his feelings, he was brusquely told by a secretary that the president was too busy to see him.

So he and his wife took the matter under further consideration and decided to build a college of their own. Thus by a piece of bad manners and an even greater breach of sound judgment, one of the great eastern colleges turned down the opportunity for millions.

This is a mistake which any of us can make very easily. Angels indeed slip in unawares at times The stupid people on earth are those who make distinctions between persons and get high-hat and nasty in so doing. Some of life's greatest opportunities have gone over the hill because, as they passed by, some selfish, stupid chap did not take the trouble to say "howdy."

OUR TOWN

BY JACK SCOTT

FIRST TENANTS

I could reach many hearts today, I'm sure, merely by running without comment a dozen letters written in the frail and spidery hand of the aged.

These are letters from old age pensioners who reacted eagerly —indeed, desperately—to the blue-print of a dream that will doubtless never be a reality, yet which almost everyone agrees is practical and greatly needed.

It began with a column in which I wrote of my wife's idea for a housing development in the country, exclusively for old age pensioners. I had no idea then that such a project would bring an immediate and overwhelming response.

Now, having that response, I frankly don't know what to do about it. It's merely idle daydreaming to hope that someone with the capital or the gift of organization will convert it into fact.

There are many suggestions. One writer, a man well-known and respected in Vancouver business circles, suggests that I take the lead in forming a company. He explains how this is done. He even draws up a list of influential people who would serve as a board of directors. It all seems so simply and orderly.

"Assuming that a project such as this might be launched with $200,000," he writes, "it would be no trick to find 2000 contributors at $100 each."

I agree with him. Indeed, a Mrs. E. L. Forster, of R. R .3, Cloverdale, has already volunteered the first $100. I will volunteeer the second and my publisher, Don Cromie, will volunteer the third. That leaves us only 1997 to go.

But I know it would take someone with more business capabilities that a man who has troubles with his own monthly budget. And so I cast out the suggestion and hope.

Before I write about those who have pledged their help, including one man who will lay out the electrical plans and specifications, and another who has volunteered to do the "town planning," I want to write about the people who need this kind of housing project.

The dozen letters I mentioned overhead are from old age pensioners who have applied for a cottage should my wife's dream come to life.

They are tragic, emotional letters from old people living in near squalor, paying terrible rents for hovels, barely existing in misery on their government pension. To these people, some of them married couples, the thought of a cottage in the country with a small parcel of ground and a feeling of independence is, as one woman put it, "enough to bring the tears flooding to my eyes."

"My wife and I have but one room for which we pay $12 a week," writes another pensioner. "Having no capital we have not been able to locate a small place of our own. Your wife's plan for a country housing area would be a godsend for hundreds and thousands like us."

"The man who could make this dream come true," writes another, "would find a place in the hearts of every old-timer who knows what it is to feel insecurity. Please put my name down for a single man's cottage."

One of the most interesting comments on this comes from a Mr. H. McLean, of Vancouver.

"On the day I read of your wife's idea I noticed an item in the paper concerning 10 gas deaths since January 1," he writes. "It would be interesting to know how many of them were pensioners.

"The question interests me because I live on the dge of the smog-ridden area stretching from Burrard Street east to Commercial Drive. I see hundreds of pensioners living in miserable rooming conditions in this area.

"I wonder to what extent these small pensions are tied to falling downtown assessment values. I wonder how many blocks of scabby establishments are just geting by on pension intake."

Another interesting comment is made by Harold A. King.

"In a national emergency," he writes, "we don't hesitate to spend millions, even billions, and vote and find the money in a matter of hours. This old age pension problem, in my opinion, is a national emergency. It concerns the welfare and well-being of our senior citizens who are trying to live on a pittance that barely keeps body and soul together.

"We can and do find the money for tanks and planes to the tune of $500,000 apiece and buy them by the hundreds. Next year they are obsolete and we give them away. Why can't we buy one or two less and provide decent homes and living conditions for our older citizens who did their part to make this great country what it is?"

There are a great many more letters. Three of them tell of somewhat similar plans and I'll discuss them here tomorrow. The import of all these letters is that this is a sound and practical plan, that it would be a project paying for itself over the years and a worthwhile experiment.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A wave of sympathy swept across Canada when news of the foot and mouth epidemic spread from the West. Some of it for the farmers who were going to lose their herds. But most of it was for the poor creatures, hundreds of them, that were to be destroyed in "cold blood."

Expressions of this sympathy were to be heard on all sides, around the house, down town, at lunch, everywhere. The women were particularly grieved to think of those poor cattle being deliberately shot. The whole business had a reminiscent touch of war time, of concentration camps, of the slaughter of the innocents.

None of us who felt this twinge of pity seemed to be aware of the normal destiny of those hundreds of cattle. Some were dairy cows, of course. But most of them were beef, remorselessly, inexorably headed for the dinner table with every roundabout chew of their cuds.

It may be that our sentiments and emotions are more affected by economics than we have supposed. Maybe it was the basic thought of all that waste of good, expensive steaks that instantly stirred our sympathies. The angels in heaven must have a lot of fun looking down and watching us arrive at our sentiments.

But on the other hand, there rises from this whole incident a more remarkable fact about us. It may be this pity we felt for all the cattle being shot in cold blood was genuine pity. Because, by some strange psychological process, we have arrived at an almost universal state of mind in which not one of us in a thousand normally connects a roast of beef on the dinner table as in any way associated with an animal in the pasture. We have the fantastic power of blotting from our minds the lumpiest, hardest and coldest of facts.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

BORN TO SUCCEED

Success in life is much easier to attain than failure. In striving for success we deal in positive ideas and objectives, whereas he who thinks only of failure deals in negative terms. Headed for success we cannot help but encounter failures along the way, but our object then is to overcome and triumph. Incentive is a precious ingredient.

Most of us were born to succeed. Of course Success is relative. Success doesn't mean the accumulation of money or even the recognition of one in receiving high honors, though many look upon such as success. Many a one of wealth would give all he has for just a little personal, genuine happiness, and many a man in public life has died with a broken heart.

Success is something you feel, that you radiate, and which stays long after you are gone. It's something out of the heart. It's living and achieving for the love of it, being daily enriched because of the personal satisfaction gained. This is the sort of success to which we are all born. If we want it, and consider it no sacrifice to attain it, it can be ours.

How many a one has gone to his grave as a failure, later, however, to be discovered as an outstanding success! I am reminded of a great essay on "Success" by R. B. Cunninghame Graham. He said: "For those who fail, for those who have sunk still battling beneath the muddy waves of life, we keep our love, and that curiosity about their lives which makes their memories green when the cheap gold is dusted over, which once we gave success."

How very long it takes any of us, or even the writer of history, to decide as to who is the greater —victor or vanquished? What a golden glory is merited by that one who merely strives — returning to himself and mankind the best of which he is capable! There you have an example of one born to succeed.

Personal Health Talks

A DOCTOR WHISPERS HIS APPROVAL

Reading your article on the place of the husband at childbirth (with his wife), I find myself very much in accord with you. My expectant mothers have brought me your articles from time to time, as I recall, articles on the positive value of breast feeding, rooming-in, on demand feeding. With these ideas I have agreed in toto. I write this because I feel that we can all use a bit of encouragement in our work. This is just a personal communication if you use any part of it I request that I not be directly of indirectly identified. (———, M.D.)

Thank you, Doctor.

I have never revealed the identity of a correspondent, lay or medical, without his or her written permission.

Aside from the circumstance that Oliver Wendell Holmes was responsible for this column—the Autocrat and Professor sketches were originally published serially in a New England magazine — there is a vague similarity between us, I like to think. Holmes was maliciously criticized by the bigshots of the profession because he taught that the doctors and nurses conveyed puerperal septicemia (childbed fever, blood poisoning) to their patients on their infected (unclean) instruments and hands. The blackguard!

The resemblance, I admit, is not striking, but I have received some pretty stiff treatment from bigshots in obstetrics, from hospital authorities, nurses and even general practitioners who dislike my teaching that the proper place for the expectant father is at his wife's side before, during and after the birth of their baby.

Ten years ago a book titled "Childbirth Without Fear," by Grantly Dick Read, M.D., was published in America (my copy has disappeared and I forget the publisher's name.) I advise every expectant mother to read this book and, if possible, engage a doctor who not only "permits" the husband to remain but insists on the husband's attendance.

One after another hospital or lying-in institution is changing over from the 19th. century methods to rooming-in, as the modern method is called. While the old timers still have their way most hospitals will coast along with the 19th. century methods — the customers are pretty gullible anyway. But in the next ten years we shall see the last of those quaint exhibits of the old time obstetrics, the mingling (and too often cross-infection of newborn infants behind a plate glass show window, and the monkey cage, where the dear sissy boys are kept sweet and innocent while their wives are incarcerated like animals, separated from their mates, at the mercy of the hospital staff. I say this separation of man and wife at the most sacred moment of their married life is a large factor in divorce. I can't understand how a couple who love each other accept it as "proper".

QUESTIONS and ANSWERS

Smoker's Duodenal Ulcer Complex

Husband has been a heavy smoker for 30 years. Now after a series of X-rays the doctors say he needs surgery — it looks like ulcer. (Mrs. M. D.)

Answer—He should stop smoking and see whether the "ulcer" symptoms do not clear up. It takes not less than three months to determine whether the condition was due to smoking.

A Medical Fad

Worried about sick because of the colds my children have throughout the cold weather. Had a doctor three times — the younger had penicillin and also aureomycin. It takes a fortune and the children have such frightful reactions — the eight-year-old breaks out all over, his eyes shut up tight from swelling . . . (Mrs. J. W.)

Answer—There's as much sense in giving such drugs for what ignorant people call "colds" as there is in calling an illness or indisposition "cold." You may learn something to the advantage of your children and your budget by studying the booklet Call it Cri — for which send 25c and stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Luminal

Notice you did not mention sodium luminal among the bariturates. Is this as dangerous as the barbiturates? (Mrs. H. S. G.)

Answer: Yes, luminal is a brand of phenobarital.

War Widows Besiege General

Marshal Pietro Badoglio, 81, who commanded Italy's armed forces in World War II, and in 1943 negotiated Italy's surrender to the Allies, is shown (centre) guarded by plainclothes policemen, after an angry group of war widows attempted to attack him. The women, who shouted "Assassin!" "Traitor!" at Badoglio, crowded around him as he left the Rome Church of Santa Maria of the Angels after attending memorial services for the Duke of Aosta. — Central Press Canadian.

This Is Real Catfishing

With a cat stranded atop a 60-foot tree in the rear yard of a New York building at 1058 Teller Avenue, the Humane Society sent out two experts with a fishing pole for a session of cat fishing. Agents Dave Darretta and Tom Cassall are shown on the roof of the building, fishing the cat off the tree top with a specially designed catfishing pole. — Central Press Canadian.

World Day of Prayer Held At West Huntingdon Church

Ivanhoe — Last Friday afternoon women from various churches met in West Huntingdon United Church for the World Day of Prayer service, making one unbroken chain of prayer around the world from dawn on the Fiji Islands to dusk on the Arctic island of St. Lawrence.

Mrs. William Grant, president of West Huntingdon United W.M.S., presided, and led in the call to worship, adoration and penitence.

Mrs. Hugh MacMillan, of Beulah United Church, conducted "Assurance and Intercession", while Mrs. Barton Haggerty, of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church was in charge of "Dedication."

A brief address, "Just Waiting" was given by Mrs. Keith Bray, based on Psalm 27: 14.

"Wait on the Lord; be of good courage, and He shall strengthen thine heart; wait I say, on the Lord."

"It is hard for us to wait," said the speaker, "delayed appointments vex us, a few seconds' pause at a red light raises our blood pressure. We live in a time of almost perpetual agitation and worry. But waiting has its value — in the spiritual life it is absolutely essential to have set seasons when the cares and the problems and the din of everyday life can be put aside, and some time spent alone with God.

"When the spiritual life is at a low ebb, there is only one thing that can bring back the surge of a spiritual tide. We have the promise: 'They that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run and not be weary; they shall walk and not faint.'

"By faith Abraham left his native land and his loved ones to go to an unknown country. In this experience of Abraham the outstanding lesson is not that he left the Ur of the Chaldees but that he never went back. Long after the vision had faded and the voice of God was silent, we find him still plodding on. He is walking, but not fainting. This experience to 'walk and not faint' comes only to those who daily wait upon the Lord".

Appropriate Solos

During the service Mrs. William Grant sang "The Voice of Prayer" and "Pause for a Moment of Prayer" was given by Mrs. Foster Wilson.

The offering was received by Mrs. Clayton Wright and Mrs. Lindsay Sills.

1953 service will be held in Beulah United Church, Ivanhoe, with Mrs. George Wood as key woman.

W. M. S.

The February meeting of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. Donald Haggerty and was well attended.

The meeting was conducted by Mrs. Morley Haggerty. The Scripture, John 6: 25-51, was read by Mrs. William Donnan, followed by prayer led by Rev. W. H. V. Walker.

An interesting talk on the key word "Bread" was given by Mrs. W. H. V. Walker.

"I am the bread of life," was one of the great "I am" sayings of Jesus. By His atonement and the Holy Spirit, Christ imparts a new life to the believer, and dwelling in our hearts by faith gradually adds to our faith, virtue, knowledge, self control, steadfastness, Godliness, brotherly kindness, love.

"Thus He nourishes and brings to maturity the reborn soul. Truly He is the bread of life. By such means as Bible reading, meditation and prayer may we come in to fuller communion with Him. "Give us this day our daily bread." This wise teaching does not conflict with the practice of making wise provision for the future — but it will save us from the folly of placing undue confidence in earthly stores."

A solo, "For You I Am Praying" was given by Mrs. Barton Haggerty.

A chapter in the Study Book on South America was given by Mrs. Harry Thompson. "The Lord is My Teacher" was read by Mrs. John McInroy.

It was decided to hold an Irish stew supper followed by an Irish program on March 17th.

Mr. and Mrs. Keith Bray, Karen and Barry were Sunday guests of Miss D. Vandome, Belleville.

Messrs. Edward Benson, Arthur Wood and Earl Benson attended the funeral of the late Mrs. George Reid, the former Mary Wood, held in Peterborough recently.

Sunday visitors at the home of Mrs. Alex. Fleming were: Mr. and Mrs. James Chapelle and Sharon, of Foxboro; Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Fleming and sons, of Springbrook, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Woods, of Madoc.

The Young Adult Group of Ivanhoe United charge spent Friday evening bowling in Madoc.

Misses Caroline and Dorothy Devolin, of Madoc, spent the week end with Miss Helen Fleming.

Mr. P. M. Woods, who has spent the past five weeks visiting in Toronto, London and Windsor, returned home on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Oddie and children, of Campbellford, were Sunday visitors of Mrs. J. Wright.

Record Budget Of $116,000,000 For Alberta

Premier E. C. Manning Friday night announced a record budget of more than $116,000,000 for Alberta.

Mr. Manning, also provincial treasurer presented his 1952-53 budget to the legislature, showing a big increase in oil revenue and major increases in spending for education, health and welfare, highways and assistance to municipalities.

By reducing its public debt steadily, the province will be debt free by 1973 he predicted. A surplus of $279,300 was estimated with no new taxation.

The Nova Scotia legislature heard Premier Angus L. Macdonald express hopes that the province has risen forever out of the "unfamiliar ground of deficits."

The premier, discussing the budget he tabled Thursday, predicted a surplus of at least $525,000 for the fiscal year beginning March 31. He noted that the province may have either a surplus or a deficit for the year just ending, deepnding on current negotiations with the federal government on the Dominion-Provincial tax agreement.

E. A. Hansford, C.C.F. leader in the Manitoba legislature, denounced the Manitoba government for its 1949 redistribution of seats. He told the legislature if the government had any sense of fairness it would act immediately to correct the situation.

Budget on Thursday

New Brunswick's provincial secretary-treasurer, J. G. Boucher, told the house that the budget will be brought down next Thursday. He made the announcement after the throne speech debate was concluded by Education Minister James W. Brittain.

Hope that the United States will someday return territory it has "grabbed from Canada in past years" was expressed by Labor Minister C. C. Williams in the Saskatchewan legislature. He mentioned the northern part of Maine and land along the coast of British Columbia as examples.

The British Columbia legislature heard a suggestion from Leo Minsick (CCF-Cranbrook) that Canada's primary highways be taken over by the federal government as its No. 1 defence project. He said roads are Canada's first line of defence.

Two members of the Ontario legislature — one a government back-bencher and the other a member of the opposition — urged the government to develop a new plan to assist housing. Harold Fishleigh (PC-Toronto Woodbine) and Arthur Reaume (L-Essex N.) mayor of Windsor, made their proposals during the throne speech debate.

REPUBLICANS

The Ohioan said Eisenhower's backers are "afraid" of the results and taunted them because he said they thought they had picked a favorable spot in New Hampshire but now seem to be changing their minds.

Attack Taft's Policy

Eisenhower rooters in return have said pointedly that Taft has no administrative experience and have attacked his foreign policy views. At least one local speaker contrasted Taft's role as a campaigner with Eisenhower's role as North Atlantic Treaty Organization commander.

The unknown quantity in the New Hampshire Republican contest is wrapped up in a slate of delegates running for Gen. Douglas MacArthur, despite the fact that he has said he is not a candidate.

On the Democratic side, Senator Kefauver has been running a soft-spoken, slow-motion campaign here aimed at appealing to reticent New Englanders.

The Senator's attractive wife. Nancy, has been getting in some campaign licks by making speeches in French in areas where there is a large French-speaking population.

President Truman has indicated he won't have anything to say about his future political plans until he returns from his current Key West, Fla., vacation the end of this month.

"There are about 19,000 blind in Canada, and only about thirty-eight clubs. However, the activities are tremendous. Bowling is one of the most popular sports across Canada. There is a basketball club in Toronto played by those with partial sight, with the baskets painted white and a light-colored ball. There is one group learning to play hockey. A cooking class was held in Toronto last year, and this year it is bigger and better so that blind wives may become good cooks. A music appreciation group who listen to recordings and have speakers has been organized in the west. In Montreal a class was formed to teach hairdressing and the use of cosmetics. There is a service club which helps the Red Cross and visits the sick. Some have literary periods when new literature is heard from talking books, and book reviews are given. A group in Victoria have joined up for civil defence."

The speaker mentioned the new building project which the C.N.I.B. have undertaken. There are 16 new centres across Canada now and more are planned.

"It is the essence of achievement." said Mr. O'Neill, "when the blind are thinking. not of themselves alone, but of assisting as Canadians to help each other and to help the sighted."

Paris Designer's Boutique Display Charms Britons

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, March 7—(CP)—Chic simplicity and feminine appeal provide the key-note of a boutique collection shown here by Paquin of Paris.

The spirit of the French boulevards seem to radiate from such creations as a dress of shadow-printed pure silk with grey and black scroll design on a gleaming oyster ground. The sheer simplicity of narrow stand revers, long narrow sleeves, neat waist and clinging skirt, swirling into a gored, petal finish, is seen in this and other designs and fabrics.

The boutique collections of Paquin, and such London designers as Worth, allows the not-so-rich to buy clothes from famous houses at prices similar to those of quality ranges in big departmental stores.

The sophisticated allure of such suits as a black hopsack with neat waist, curved hips and straight skirt will appeal to many. The tight skirt has an accordion-pleated frill at the hem and tucked side-seems that curve at the foot to give an apron effect emphasized by three buttons. The button design is repeated on the side-slit jacket pockets.

Another town style with many possibilities is a black dress with stand revers, its slim skirt gored into a flouncing finish and tight, three-quarter sleeves ending in huge starched cuffs of white pique. The latter are given a shallow curve and pointed edges.

For The Races

One of the loveliest styles is a race-track fashion with strapless black taffeta underskirt beneath a flared, three-quarter-length tunic top of white broderie anglais. The stiff organza skirt of the tunic flares out from a neat waist over the slim black underskirt, sleeves are long and narrow and the back is finished by a mandarin collar.

Stiff silk coats of brilliant colors and pyramid lines top such dresses as a carnation pink chiffon with strapless draped top and pleated skirt flaring out over a crinoline petticoat. The matching faille coat is equally effective with such items as a cocktail dress in almond-green taffeta with slim skirt, tucked and stitched corselet waist and low square neckline.

Short evening dresses in stiff silks and satins with exquisite beading give a wide choice of color and beauty—but star of the show was a ground-length ballgown called "ephemere." In a glinting shade of lime-gold slipper satin the dress has simple, full-skirted princess lines with narrow straps to the bra-shaped neckline.

Bodice and skirt are embroidered in spidery lines of silver beading forming panels of flowers, and the addition of a tremendous matching tulle stole adds to the ephemeral quality of the design.

Women's Institute

MELROSE W. I.

The February meeting of Melrose Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. T. Leslie with an attendance of 26 ladies. Two minutes' silence was observed in memory of our late Sovereign. The president, Mrs. A. English, conducted the business period during which an invitation to a euchre on March 12 by Quinte W. I. was accepted and $15 donated to the Red Cross.

A vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. Leslie and Mrs. E. Lazier for their leadership in the Girls' Club work. Ten girls completed the winter project. A letter of thanks from George Cole, who is stationed in Korea, was read.

Mrs. C. Hagerman, convener of "Agriculture and Canadian Industries", took charge of the program and called on Mrs. M. Lazier for a reading, followed by Miss B. McFarlane, who gave a humorous sketch, "The Friendly Cow".

All joined heartily in community singing, after which Mrs. E. Lazier gave an interesting paper, "Count Your Blessings."

Mrs. Leslie and Mrs. F. Robinson rendered a vocal duet, "Singing an Old Hymn," which was thoroughly enjoyed.

Mrs. B. Sherman read "The Chilly Neighborhood," stressing the fact that at an Institute meeting one always gets a friendly greeting. Mrs. Hagerman gave the topic on "Agriculture", which revealed many interesting facts regarding this great subject.

Helpful household hints were read by several members.

The president thanked the hostess and closed the meeting, after which refreshments were served and a social time enjoyed.

At Their Wits' End Over Their Son's Disintegration

"My husband and I are at our wits' end about our son," writes a distressed mother, and continues: "He married a girl we have tried to take to our hearts, but simply can't. She is so sloppy, careless, dirty and lazy that she is dragging my son down to her level in these matters, and her children as well. Her home is a mess all the time, as she is always sleeping.

"They have three lovely children, and we want to do all we can for them, though it is difficult, as she lets them come to see us only when convenient for her to have them out of the way. When they do come to see us, they are so dirty that I am ashamed of them. They always need good baths, and I try to clean them up, but I can't do much about it because their clothes are always so dirty. Altogether, I am ashamed that their mother is my son's wife.

"As for my son, she rules him entirely. He does exactly as she says. He had nice manners before he married, but has lost them. He wears dirty clothes, too, and always needs a shave. Since his wife controls the pocketbook, they are always way behind financially, even though there should be ample funds coming in to keep things going.

Feels Hurt

"My son is hurt because we don't go there any more to eat or to spend an evening, but it just got more than we could take, as we are not used to the kind of home they have. It is a most unpleasant situation, and it is breaking me all up, though my husband takes it another way and is becoming very angry about it.

"My husband and I are not young any more, and we need our son in so many ways to help us. Do you think there is any way I can get things straightened out without creating hurt feelings between his parents and his wife and having her look on me as an interfering mother-in-law? I might say that she has proved not to be a friend to us, as she talks about us behind our backs and we hear echoes of it from relatives and others.

Now since this son was, his mother indicates, brought up in an entirely different kind of home, what sort of young man can he be who would be attracted to a girl of this type? Even supposing that she did manage to put up a good front while he was courting her, why would he tolerate the conditions that developed after their marriage?

A Weakness There

It is too bad to suggest such a thing to this loving and troubled mother, but it looks as though there must be something weak in this boy's character that makes him prefer to follow the line of least resistance, rather than take a firm stand and let his wife know he is a man who wants to live and bring up his children by the right standards.

It would hardly be credible that this boy's father or mother would not have tried to talk to him about these things and help him to straighten out the situation himself. I doubt if anything can be accomplished through the daughter-in-law. If anything is to be done at all, it will have to be through her husband. Whether or not the parents have discussed the matter with their son, he seems to lack any realization that there could be any connection between his home conditions and their reluctance to come to his home, and I think this should be made very clear to him.

I sympathize and agree with the attitude of this father rather more than with the mother's, as I think it is high time one of them got mad enough to let their son hear some plain truths straight from the shoulder. This is what I would advise, and I would further advise that if it did no good, they see as little of their son's family as possible. It will hurt them to be estranged from him; but perhaps that is the only thing that will wake him up.

He's A Rarity, So Can Afford To Be Snooty

This rare Canadian bird, a gannet, doesn't seem interested in the youngster obviously fascinated at its appearance in the offices of the Canadian National Railways, New York. Food for Thought

By Mary Moore

Casseroles-First Class

Neither time nor space permit back fence chatter today because I am going to pack this column with casserole dishes—everyone a strong favorite, and I might add, ever so easy on the grocery money. I've remembered Lent too.

SPINACH AND TUNA A LA HOLLYWOOD

(My cousin married a Russian who sang in the Don Cossask chorus and once had some bit parts in Hollywood, but he's in the army in Guam now—but it shows how intimate I am with all the brightest Hollywood stars.) Wash and cook 2 bags spinach (2 lbs.) without any water—shake off as much washing water as you can. Turn it over several times—let it cook 6 minutes in all. Drain, add 1-4 teaspoon salt, chop coarsely. Then make this Mock Hollandaise Sauce: melt 4 tablespoons margarine or butter, stir in 4 tablespoon flour, then 2 cups milk until thickened. Add 1-8 teaspoon onion salt, 1-4 teaspoon dry mustard, and salt and pepper to taste. Let this cool a little and add 1-2 cup genuine mayonnaise, a tablespoon at a time, stirring after each addition. Add 1 tablespoon lemon juice. Mix half of this with the cooked and drained spinach. Turn into buttered baking dish. Open 1 7-oz. tin tuna and distribute the pieces over the spinach. Pour remaining sauce evenly over top. Sprinkle with 1-2 cup buttered bread or cracker crumbs (and a little cheese if you like) and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 25 minutes.

COLONEL'S LADY'S CASSEROLE

(If you decide to make this be sure you do it exactly as outlined—you will never regret it.) You have to ask the butcher to grind you 1 lb. beef and 1-2 lb. fresh pork together. Now cook it with two finely chopped onions in 2 tablespoons butter until golden brown.

Add 2 No. 1 tins condensed tomato soup, 1 3-oz. package white cream cheese crumbled. 2 tablespoons sugar, 1 1-2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce, 2 teaspoons salt, 1-4 teaspoon pepper. Simmer for 15 minutes or until thick. Have ready cooked and in a greased large casserole 1-2 lb. wide noodles. Pour meat mixture over. Brown 1-4 lb. sliced mushrooms in 1 tablespoon butter. Spread these over top. Sprinkle them with 1 cup crushed cornflakes. Bake about 1-2 hour at 350 deg. Fahr. but 5 minutes before removing from oven sprinkle top with 1-4 lb. salted chopped almonds. Will serve from 6 to 8 choosy people.

CHEESE TOMATO SOUFFLE

Girls you should know how to make souffle if you claim you are a good cook. Eggs are cheap. Lent is here, here's the recipe: what are you waiting for? Make a thick sauce by melting 4 tablespoons margarine or chicken fat and stirring in 4 tablespoons flour, then 1 1-2 cups tomato juice —preferably warm, until thick. Add 1-4 teaspoon dry mustard, 1-2 teaspoon salt and good shake of pepper. Stir into this sauce 1-4 lb. cheese cut up or grated—you may use processed or nippy cheddar. Then add 3 beaten egg yolks. Beat until stiff 3 egg whites with 1-4 teaspoon cream of tartar, then fold them in. Pour into greased large casserole. Cover top with strips of bacon if desired. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 50 or 60 minutes, and serve at once. For special occasions served with Mushroom or Shrimp Sauce.

The Variations of Souffle are many: Use milk instead of tomato juice for regular souffle or use 1 can condensed mushroom soup for mushroom souffle. Souffle always falls, so have the family at the table and bear it straight from the oven to them,—so that they see it at its best.

Fashion Flashes

OF COURSE color is lovely, but somehow, it is the white hat that best tells the story of Spring. A delightful new model is a squared front envelope beret of white linen straw with navy cording dividing the hat into four sections. The satin cordings meet at the crown where they are fastened with an ornament of red sealing wax. Navy mesh veil.

ALLIED to the full skirt, in one smart line, is the full or capelet sleeve—for both coats and suits. Navy wool crepe is used for a handsome suit. The jacket is trim, and has a pleated capelet sleeve lined with white-dotted navy silk, which also is used for the tuck-in ascot scarf.

NEW ADDITIONS to fabrics, blends and weaves, make for greater versatility of fashion, and ease of upkeep too, since many of the new weaves are washable and need no ironing. Orlon and nylon blend to make an ice fabric with a linen-like weave, that appears to good advantages in a group of separates for general daytime wear. Puckered nylon, printed, plain and in new airy weaves, is now moving into the stores for Spring and Summer wear. Prices are usually nice and light, too!

GAINING in popularity is the convertible bridal dress. A new design is a strapless dress of white lace, with a tiered, flounced skirt. For the aisle march, a redingote train of white satin is zipped on under the fold of a snug white satin jacket with a deep, cut-out keyhole front, which covers the strapless dress top. Jacket is fastened with tiny self buttons and has long sleeves that end in points.

RATING HIGH at good stores is the silk faille suit done on slim, easy lines — the jacket usually lined, the slim skirt eased by low-placed pleats. These suits are good for almost year-around wear.

IDEAL for theatre wear is the tiny hat with a bit 'o glitter. Pink satin is used for a shallow little cap with curling satin wings on either side; wings are covered with white silk braid and brilliants.

OF COURSE there are, and always will be, all sorts of trends and fads and fancies in new fashions. But the old reliables, the staples, go on and on, since they form the bulk of purchases. So again there are pretty one-piecers and two piecers of lustrous rayon or silk surah, done in good old polka-dots or neat floral or geometric motifs in charming color schemes. These are clothes that are easy to don, to doff and to wear, with shirtwaist tops and pocketed skirts that are moderately full—or, in the case of many of the two-piece dresses, on the slim side.

GOOD MANNERS

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Home Background More Appropriate Than Night Club for Anniversary Party.

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am planning to give a surprise Silver Anniversary party for my parents. My plan was to invite the aunts and uncles, but wouldn't it be nice to invite the cousins also? However, since my idea was to have the supper at a well-known night club, I am faced with the problem of the expense. Would it be my responsibility to pay for the suppers of all who are invited? (Our house is rather small, and so it would not be very convenient to have "Open House")

—J. F.

It is apparent, I think, that you are "biting off more than you can chew". A party such as you are planning, supper for quite a few guests at a night club, would not be so inexpensive that you could make your plans without serious consideration. To begin with, when you invite guests to a party, you must, as hostess, pay for all details of the hospitality. So (1) you should decide what your budget for the party can be; (2) you should find out, as nearly as possible, what the cost would be at the night club, for each "cover"; then (3) invite the number of guests you can pay for. However, even though your house "is rather small" I imagine that, with some wise planning, you could have the "open house" party there —and the home background is vastly more appropriate for this occasion, so much more dignified, and of course there would just not be any comparison in expense. You could have the anniversary party on a Saturday or Sunday afternoon (the Saturday or Sunday following the actual anniversary date, if the date falls in the earlier part of the week); serve a simple tea menu, with a festive Anniversary cake as a charming feature, and something, fruit punch or whatever you wish, for the toasts.

First Child Not the Only One to Have Birth-Announcement Cards.

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am expecting the birth of my second baby in a very short time. I would like to know if it would be correct to send out birth announcements. Our other child is a 6-year-old daughter, and when she was born we sent out announcements. But we are not sure that this is correct for any child after the first.

—M.M.

Yes, indeed — it is correct to send out birth announcements for a child, whether the first or any number after the first. As a matter of fact there is no reason why only the first child should receive this special attention. Relatives and friends will want to be informed of the birth of this second baby of yours; will want to be told the baby's name and the date he — or — she arrived.

Not Much Attention Paid to Wedding Anniversary Symbols

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

What kind of gifts are given at Silver Anniversary parties besides silverware? Is anything else correct?

—B.

Today not too much attention is given to the symbols of wedding anniversaries — not even such important anniversaries as the silver anniversary. In these practical days most of us planning to give an anniversary present generally give something that we think will really be welcome for the use of both husband and wife. And what good sense this makes when, for instance, the couple already has more silver than they want or need or, can care for, but are yearning for some electric item, say, that will mean such convenience to them. (But it's festively appropriate to use silver paper for the wrapping of the Silver Anniversary present.)

BEAUTY

HELEN JAMIESON

PLEASING VOICE BOOSTS CHARM RATING

There is more to beauty than meets the eye. There should also be an appeal to the ear and to the mind, and that is what happens when a girl has a nice voice and nice manners. A pretty girl is not a siren if she has a voice like a fire engine siren, if she shrills or shouts. It is said the world over that the American girl is the best-dressed, has the prettiest feet and the loudest voice. Let's soft pedal, break down that reputation for loud talking.

There are women who realize that their voices are lacking in qualities of charm, feel that it is just a blow of fate, that they must bear with it. They don't know that a harmonious voice can be cultivated. In many colleges throughout the land there are classes for training the speaking voice. Women spend billions of dollars every year on lovely clothes, cosmetics and beauty treatments. Why not spend a little for a charm quality that is practically priceless?

Few voices are naturally unpleasant; they are just not used properly. They are pitched too high, or so low that one is constantly forced to ask the offenders to repeat their words. Some actresses have this habit. It is maddening to an audience. They are keen on "repression", believing that is the highest kind of dramatic art. They repress themselves out of the picture, and the members of the audience file out feeling that they haven't had their money's worth, were not able to hear what was said.

The voice should run along a middle register, but never be a monotone. Enunciation should be clear. There should be interesting inflections. Speech should be neat. No sloppy jumbling of words run together; that happens when one talks too rapidly. People who uh-uh before every sentence, unable to get their vocal engines working, are the ones who drag out their observations and anecdotes until the listener grows weary and loses interest.

If you would improve your voice, say the vowels slowly and clearly. Read aloud to yourself. You may notice that you drop your g's, saying comin', or goin'. That's bad.

It is possible to form the habit of giving the vowels an open sound, pronouncing each word with precision and using a wide range of tones to give a beautiful, expressive quality to the speaking voice.

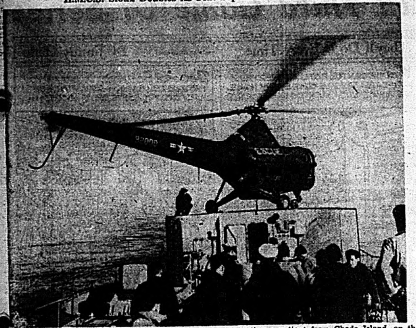
H.M.C.S. Sioux Doubles As Flat-Top In Rescue Emergency



When ice conditions prevented small boats from evacuating a patient from Choda Island, on the west coast of Korea, H.M.C.S. Sioux was called upon to play the rescue role of an aircraft carrier. One helicopter carried out two successful trial landings on the Sioux following which a second one landed with the patient. The above photo shows the destroyermen removing the patient to the ship's sick bay while the helicopter prepares to take-off from the confined landing area. The Sioux is now en route to Canada. — Central Press Canadian.

U.S. Foreign Policy Called 'Weak-Kneed'

Windsor, Ont., March 10—(CP)—Mrs. Lucille Vogeler, wife of a U. S. executive who was jailed by the Hungarian government and later released when the State Department agreed to ransom terms, last night called American foreign policy "weak-kneed."

"It is a humiliating sight to see the strongest country in the world cringing before bandits when they should be demanding; accepting dictation when they should be giving orders," she told a Christian Culture lecture audience.

Her husband is Robert Vogeler, a foreign executive of the International Telephone and Telegraph Company.

"Had it not been for the storm of public opinion stirred up by a friendly American and British press Bob (Vogeler) would still be a prisoner," Mrs. Vogeler said.

She said State Secretary Dean Acheson refused to take any action until "I blackmailed him by threatening to release full details of his lack of co-operation to the press and to seek a personal interview with President Truman."

Canada's Forests Yield Bumper Pulpwood Crop

Deep in Canada's forests, an army of some 275,000 lumbermen is feverishly finishing this year's record harvest of pulpwood for the pulp and paper industry. This industry accounts for almost a quarter of Canada's total exports, with Canadian newsprint alone supplying more than half the world's needs. Here, a woodworker piles logs on to truck which hauls the pulpwood to nearby frozen streams or lakes to await the spring thaw and the colorful drive down the waterways to the mills. — Central Press Canadian.

All Phases of Red Cross Activities Need Generous Support of Public

Here are a few notes of "factual information" as to the volume of Red Cross work done in Ontario over the past year.

Disaster Services—In the first nine months of 1951, there occurred 465 disasters in Canada, thirteen of which were major disasters. Canadian Red Cross assisted 3,843 individuals and 314 families at a cost of $44,000.

The Corps: As active now as in war years, 339 members of the Canadian Red Cross in four detachments, gave 70,005 hours of service. They meet troop trains, help the Department of Citizenship and Immigration. They engage in hospital service transferring patients to and from treatments, visiting shut-ins; often arranging entertainments for hospitalized veterans.

Ontario Women's Work Committee: 137 branches worked on this work for Ontario Division, with 1,918 volunteers participating in making articles of clothing and hospital supplies. Altogether 299,565 articles were received by the Ontario Division.

Dental Program: Dental coaches are sent in outlying districts whereby Red Cross dentists interviewed 227 mothers; of 1,119 appointments completed 501 restorations on primary and 617 on permanent teeth, rendering 230 pre-school and school-age children dentally fit.

Outpost Hospitals: 8,134 patients spent a total of 63,285 hospital days in Ontario Outpost Hospitals in first nine months of 1951. 1,803 babies were born under the Red Cross flag. 4,209 operations were performed; 7,511 outpatients cared for; nurses made 4,838 home visits; visited 275 schools and examined 3,010 school children.

Swimming and water safety: With Swimming Class enrolments amounting to 15,154 for 1951, it is noteworthy that over the past six years nearly 70,000 children and adults have enrolled in these classes instructed by 2,[illegible]0 trained instructors.

Nutrition: Important nutrition education is carried on by this department. Talks are given to parents and teachers, pre-natal classes and organizations. A monthly publication "Food Notes" is distributed to mailing list of 2,300 and "School's in For Lunch" is sent to 1,100 rural teachers.

First Aid: Four First Aid Instructor Training Schools are conducted at hospitals in Ottawa, Port Arthur, Kitchener-Waterloo and Windsor. A total of 115 candidates were enrolled. Also 72 Standard First Aid Courses were held with an enrolment of 1,791.

Junior Red Cross: This is the largest youth organization in the world with over 38,000,000 members. It has a three-fold program; health, service to others and international friendship. In Ontario there are 12,510 branches and 394,165 members.

Volunteer Nursing Service: Its objectives are to increase skill of homemakers in caring for sick; to equip individuals with knowledge and skill sufficient for their cooperation with Public Health agencies; to prepare for Volunteer Service in the community. 146 classes were attended by 1,456 women. The Service also maintains loan cupboards containing sickroom equipment lent to patients when requested by the doctor. 164 branches operate Loan Cupboards and 6,287 loans of such articles were made.

Homemakers Service: 2,975 families were assisted in the 24 branches operating this service, which have homemakers go into the home and look after the children, prepare appetizing meals and keep the home running smoothly while mother is ill. Many calls come from young mothers expecting a new baby.

National Blood Transfusion service: In 1951, 263,000 bottles were collected; and 110,000 persons received blood transfusions in Canada. Blood Donors are urgently needed to carry on this service.

Campaign canvassers are the Red Cross volunteers who take the first steps to make these services possible. Give generously, to this work of mercy.

Junior Hawks Whip Kingston Vics 8-4 To Win Third Game Of Series

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

PETES HERE TONIGHT!

The senior Hawks smarting under that 8-2 setback at the hands of the Peterborough Petes in Peterborough Friday night will be vengeance-bent tonight when the teams tangle in Memorial Arena for the second joust of their best-of-seven semi-finals series. The Hawks hope to be back at full strength tonight and apparently have not struck the stride that kept them at the top of the heap for a considerable time during the schedule. However they feel that tonight is their night to howl and the tilt is deserving of a large crowd.

HAWKLETS CLICK!

Meanwhile the junior Hawks are riding high. They defeated the gallant Kingston Vics 8-4 on Saturday night before a tremendous crowd of almost 2,000 fans. The victory was the third in a row for the surging Hawklets and they are now confident they can take the series in four straight, albeit stranger things have happened. The teams go at it again in Kingston tomorrow night and the fifth game, if necessary will likely be tabbed for Thursday night here.

Following the tournament and presentation of prizes the youthful court stars of the future were entertained at a buffet supper in the main lecture room of the armouries.

POLICE-FIREMEN GAME

Register Five in Row Before Vics Hit Hemp in 2nd Heat; Crowd of 1983 Sees Struggle

Paced by the two-goal effort of Henry Therrien, the Belleville Junior Hawks advanced to within one game of winning their Junior B group championship on Saturday night at the Memorial Arena when they won an 8-3 decision over the visiting Kingston Vics before the largest crowd of the season. One thousand, nine hundred and eighty-three fans were in attendance.

In scoring their third straight win over the Kingston adversaries, the Hawks were never headed, jumping into a 4-1 lead at the end of the first period, leading 5-2 at the end of the second, and outscoring the Vics by a 3-2 edge in the final stanza.

Scoring points were evenly divided, Therrien being the only Belleville player to tally more than once. Singletons were notched by Strahan, Lalande, DeGray, Mason, Wilson and Doran. Lalande and Wilson also were credited with assists as well as Carey, Jacklin, and Houle.

Chevrefils once again paced the losers with a brace of goals, Reid getting a goal and an assist and D. Senior notching the other goal. Assists were given to Tozer, Montgomery, Reynolds, Vallier and N. Hegarty. The latter was playing his first game since early in the season.

Game was in many respects, carbon copy of the previous meeting between these two clubs on Thursday night in Kingston, the outstanding exception being that the Hawks did not have to come from behind to win.

Play was very ragged in the first two periods of play and, although the Hawks pushed five goals across the line to only two for the visitors, the score did not fully indicate the play. Vics checked very closely and were checked closely in return but the Hawks showed more finish around the goal mouth.

"Sonny" Therrien cached the first goal of the night on a lovely stickhandling effort. He took Ray Carey's pass at centre ice, manoeuvered around two Kingston defenders, and deked Bob Senior out of position before netting the puck on the short side.

Don Senior got that one back later on a three way play with Ned Hegarty and Tozer that caught the Hawk defence with their guard down.

Montgomery went off for tripping Lalande and the latter combined with Jacklin to set their linemate Billy Strahan up just seconds later to put the Hawks out in front once again a lead which they never relinquished.

Lalande connected again at 15.38 on an unassisted play on a shot from about 15 feet out. The shot, screened by a Vic player, was fired from the left side and caught the right corner.

DeGray backhanded a relay of a shot by Wilson in the dying minutes of the period, shooting through a maze of legs and bodies to fool Senior completely. The netminder had no chance on that one.

Light Rhubarb

Mason and Chevrefils traded scoring punches for the only goals of the middle frame, play still being ragged. Highlight of the period came once again in the last minute when Ned Hegarty and Bob Wilson engaged in a fistic duel, the latter going to the dressing room for repairs. Each was assessed five minutes in the penalty box.

Carey and Mulholland went off for high sticking early in the third and Wilson and Whyte followed seconds later, leaving each team playing four a side. Chevrefils capitalized on a lapse by the usually reliable Lalande in the Hawks end of the ice to put the Limestone lads temporarily back in the game.

Three solo rushes by Wilson, Therrien and Doran, however, put the damper on any hopes that the Vics might have entertained of winning. In each case the Hawk player took a loose puck from centre ice, outskated all pursuers, and made a clever play to outsmart Senior in the nets.

Therrien's rush was made all the more brilliant by the fact that the Hawks were playing a man short at the time.

Wilson Reid wound up the scoring for the night on a ganging play. Vallier and referee Nigh getting assists on the play. Nigh parked himself in front of the Hawks net to obscure the view and deflect the puck onto Reid's stick.

Stars for all-round performance on the night's play went to Therrien, DeGray and Mason who once again took turns on both forward and defence units.

MALCOLM ROBB

Malcolm Robb, well known city barrister was elected president of the Belleville Baseball Association at the annual meeting held here over the weekend. Mr. Robb succeeds past-president Jack Carson.

Edmonton Mercurys, Canada's Olympic hockey team, defeated Switzerland 5-3 yesterday in Lausanne, Switzerland.

More than 14,000 spectators braved a heavy rain to watch the Canadians take revenge for the 5-4 defeat inflicted on them by Switzerland at Zurich last Tuesday.

The pace was slow because of the rain, although the ice was in good condition. The Canadians dominated the play throughout most of the game and only Switzerland's goal keeper saved his team from a heavy defeat.

Silar Dunklee of Sun Valley, Idaho, yesterday won the United States cross-country skiing championship in Paul Smiths, N. Y. by beating out Canadian champion Claude Richer of Ottawa, a student at St. Lawrence University, by 34 seconds. Dunklee's time over a 11.3-mile course was 1.30.03.

Johnny Bratton, Chicago welterweight, yesterday withdrew from next Friday's fight against Johnny Saxton of Brooklyn at New York's Madison Square Garden when he injured his hand in training. Bratton hurt his hand while boxing Orlando Zulueta of Havana, at his Pleasantville, N. J. training camp.

The executive council committee of the Swiss Ice Hockey Federation decided in Zurich, Switzerland, yesterday that the 1953 world hockey championships will be played at Zurich and Basle from March 5 to 15. The tourney previously was awarded to Switzerland.

Canada and the United States split the honors in Banff, Alta., yesterday and Saturday in the fourth North American ski championships. Three of the six titles went to each country.

Leafs Split With Red Wings But Lose Ground to Canadiens; Rangers, Bruins Tied for 4th

(By The Canadian Press)

Detroit Red Wings, firmly ensconced as National Hockey League champions, gave a queer exhibition of inconsistency during the weekend, losing 6-3 at Toronto and then walloping the Toronto Maple Leafs 6-1 Sunday at Detroit.

A near record crowd of 15,626 jammed Detroit Olympia for the Sunday feature.

Toronto picked up two points on its weekend showing, but still lost ground to second-place Montreal Canadiens who rallied for a 4-4 tie with the tail-end Chicago Black Hawks at home Saturday and came through with a 2-0 victory Sunday against the Rangers in New York.

In the weekend's only other tussle, Boston Bruins, playing at home, downed Chicago 4-2 to move back into a fourth-place deadlock with New York Rangers.

Saturday night at Toronto, the two clubs were tied 1-1 at the end of the first period with the Leafs holding a 3-2 lead by he finish of the middle session. Outscoring the Wings 3-1 in the final stanza, Toronto walked off with their 6-3 victory.

Cal Gardner, Ted Kennedy, Tod Sloan, Ray Timgren, Max Bentley and Hugh Bolton divided the Maple Leaf goals while Gordie Howe, Sid Abel and Larry Zeidel scored for the Red Wings.

Crush Leafs Sunday

Sunday, the Red Wings took a 4-1 first-period edge and added singletons in the final two sessions to march away with their 6-1 win. Marcel Pronovost, Metro Prystai, Sid Abel, Red Kelly, Alex Delvecchio and Gordie Howe picked up Detroit markers with Tod Sloan spoiling Terry Sawchuk's shutout for the Leafs' lone goal.

Howe's goal was his 41st of the season, tops in the league. He also picked up two assists to boost loop-leading point total to 75.

In picking up a 4-4 tie with Chicago Saturday night, the Canadiens were forced to wipe out a three-goal lead and help Elmer Lach celebrate his night when fans and teammates presented him with more than $10,000 worth of gifts.

The Black Hawks took a 3-0 first-period lead on goals by Gus Bodnar, Bep Guidolin and George Gee. Then Paul Meger started the Habs on their way in the second and Bill Gadsby made it 4-1 at the end of the second. Third-period markers by Johnny McCormack, Paul Meger and Bernie Geoffrion produced the tie. Geoffrion's goal came at 18.12 of the final session.

At New York, Dick Gamble and Bert Olmstead scored in Montreal's 2-0 Sunday victory over the Rangers. Gamble tallied at 18.22 of the second period and Olmstead scored in the final minute of play when the Blueshirts took Emile Francis from the nets in an effort to produce a tie with an extra forward.

Woody Dumart, Ed Sandford, Ed Kryzanowski and Dave Creighton scored the Bruins' Sunday goals with Gus Bodnar getting both Chicago markers.

Training Camp Briefs

(By The Associated Press)

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 10—(AP)—Mickey Mantle and Jackie Jensen, who are fighting it out for Joe DiMaggio's old centre field spot with the world champion New York Yankees, both are on the sidelines with bad legs.

With these two laid low, Bob Cerv played centre yesterday against the St. Louis Cardinals. The Redbirds won 3-1.

Miami, March 10 (AP) Centrefielder Duke Snider of the Brooklyn Dodgers was slated to try out his sprained left ankle in a batting drill today. It has been responding to treatment and he probably will be back in action before long.

Phoenix, Ariz., March 10 (AP)—The National League champion New York Giants split up into two squads today, the regulars going to Tucson to play the Cleveland Indians and the second-stringers heading for Mesa.

Manager Leo Durocher will accompany the B squad, so he can look over some of the rookies and see some of the players who will make up his bench against the Chicago Cubs.

The Indians beat the Giants yesterday, 5-4.

Tucson, Ariz., March 10 (AP)—With a rookie named Jim Fridley in right field, Cleveland's outfield is showing the kind of punch that was sorely needed in last season's pennant drive.

Fridley seems to be taking seriously manager Al Lopez' advice to show everything he has right now if he wants to stay with the club instead of returning to Dallas. In two games against New York Giants, he has picked up five hits.

Clearwater, Fla., March 10 (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds plunked down $3,500 to get big Bill Bevens, and the one-time Yankee pitcher is showing signs it may have been their wisest investment in many a moon. Bevens toiled three innings in an exhibition game at Tampa yesterday, allowing just one hit and no walks as the Reds beat Detroit 1-0.

Clearwater, Fla., March 10 (AP)—Manager Eddie Sawyer of the Philadelphia Phillies is returning to the coaching lines.

After watching his club wallop Boston Red Sox, 13-4, yesterday to even its exhibition record at 1-1, Sawyer announced he will coach at third this year. In 1950 with Sawyer in the third-base coaching box the Phillies won the National League pennant.

Bowmanville, Port Hope Players Dominate Jr. Badminton Tourney

Bowmanville and Port Hope, with the former predominating, made nearly a clean sweep at the Central Ontario Badminton Association's junior tournament held in the Bridge Street Armories on Saturday.

Play was fast with some exciting matches being played before the various finalists were declared.

The tournament was held under the aegis of the association with the Belleville Garrison Club repeating a splendid job as host organization.

I. Woolly of Bowmanville, starry young racquet-wielder, won the men's singles, defeating D. Masters also of Bowmanville by 15-7, 11-15 and 15-3 scores after a thrilling court duel.

Miss C. Hutchinson, of Bowmanville, took the measure of clubmate M. Leask in the ladies' singles, winning a hard-fought three-game struggle 18-7, 8-11 and 11-8.

Double Victory

The Misses Leask and Hutchinson teamed in the ladies' doubles and took the matches and title from Misses N. Laurie and S. Pointe, of Port Hope in another extended series by the scores of 15-10, 4-15 and 15-4.

R. Leask, Bowmanville and K. Smith, Oshawa, were defeated in the men's doubles, bowing to D. Masters and I. Woolly 15-10 and 15-11.

In the mixed doubles, Hutchinson and I. Woolly won another victory for Bowmanville, defeating G. Robson and D. Masters 15-11 and 15-1.

Albert College, Belleville, turned up a winner in the consolation mixed doubles with S. Steck and Guy Bausson winning over E. Lowenmark and B. McMahon, Port Hope by 15-10 scores in two sets.

Albert Wong, of Albert gave R. Ballet, Port Hope, a spirited battle in the consolation boys' singles before losing a close-fought match by 18-17, 15-6 and 15-7 scores.

Miss M. Laurie defeated sister N. Laurie 11-9 and 11-8 to win the consolation girls' singles while in the girls doubles, E. Haultain and M. Laurie, Port Hope defeated E. Prower and T. Goddard, Bowmanville by 15-10 and 15-11 scores.

D. Laird and J. Markle of Bowmanville rounded the series of victories for that town by taking the men's doubles from R. Ballet and E. Montizambert, Port Hope 15-11 and by 15-5 scores.

Efficient Committee

The tournament was exceptionally well handled with Mrs. Kay Smith, vice-president of the Central Ontario Badminton Association and president Captain Harold Vaughan heading an efficient committee.

Messrs. Lennox Smith and John Boyd looked after the games scoring with secretary Alice Stuart handling her job in an efficient manner. Lieut. Col. Jack Tatham was in charge of the "birds" with Mrs. Tatham looking after the lunch arrangements. Major Everett Fairman aired the results over the public address system. A fine job, well and efficiently executed.

Dutchies Lose To Mercurys; Stratford Wins

(By The Canadian Press)

Owen Sound Mercurys climaxed their uphill battle into the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A playoffs Saturday night at Kitchener when they managed to shade Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen 4-3 and win their best-of-seven semi-finals with a convincing 4-1 edge in games.

The Mercs now await the winner of the Stratford-Brantford series where Stratford Indians lead 3-2 on the strength of their 6-3 Saturday victory over the Redmen. The sixth game of this best-of-seven playoff series is scheduled tomorrow night in Brantford.

In OHA Junior A play, Toronto St. Michael's College Majors finished off Galt Black Hawks Saturday night in Galt when they downed the Chicago farm club 5-4 to sweep their best-of-five quarter finals in three straight games.

The Collegians now sit on the sidelines until St. Catharines Teepees and Kitchener Greenshirts finish their best-of-five series. This quarter-final is deadlocked 1-1 on the strength of the Teepees' 2-1 Saturday night home victory over Kitchener. The third clash is slated for Kitchener Tuesday.

Sunday afternoon Guelph Biltmores and Toronto Marlboros opened their best of seven OHA junior A semi-finals before 11,460 fans in Maple Leafs Gardens with the Marlies taking a 1-0 lead on the strength of an 8-6 victory. The two clubs meet again Tuesday at Guelph.

In Northern Ontario Hockey Association playoffs, Noranda Copper Kings captured the Porcupine Senior Hockey League title Sunday afternoon when they dropped Porcupine Porkies 4-1 to win the best-of-seven final series 4-2. The Kings meet the winners of the NOHA senior A circuit where Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds lead a best-of-five final 1-0. The Greyhounds and North Bay Black Hawks fought to a 4-4 tie in the second series game Saturday.

At Fort Frances, the Fort William Beavers edged Fort Frances Canadiens 3-2 Saturday to take a two-game lead in their best-of-seven Thunder Bay Senior Hockey League finals. The third tussle is scheduled for Fort William Friday night.

WEEKEND STARS

GERRY McNEIL, Montreal, who chalked up his fourth shutout of the season as Canadiens blanked New York Rangers 2-0.

GORDIE HOWE, Detroit, who scored once and assisted twice as the Red Wings ran roughshod over Toronto Maple Leafs 6-1.

GUS BODNAR, Chicago, who scored his team's two goals although the Hawks dropped a 4-3 decision to Boston Bruins.

BERNIE (BOOM BOOM) GEOFFRION, Montreal, who fired the tying goal Saturday as Canadiens played to a 4-4 deadlock with Chicago.

Bowling

Men's Commercial

Star Welding rolled high pinfall of 3277 in the Men's Commercial Bowling League at the Bowl-O-Drome on Friday night and together with Moose Lodge, Bosiaks and Gourley Motors scored seven point wins over Rockets, Balyx Brothers, O'Neil Sales and Mead Johnson respectively.

Stephens-Adamson and Alemite won by a 5-2 edge over Legionnaires and Welding Gases in the other two contests.

Individual high scorers were below average with Jack Fitzgerald topping the league with 731. Other scores over 650 included Gar Anderson 725, Ross Huffman 684, "Sugar" Martin 678, Hank Ryan 671, Max Peoples 670, Ross Purchase 663, Jack Yerex 655 and Harold Thrasher 651.

Bosiaks still top the loop by a scant one point margin, having 131 points to 130 for Moose Lodge and 127 for Star Welding. Gourley's hold down fourth place with plenty to spare on either side of them with 100 points followed by Rockets 86, Welding Gases 83, O'Neil Sales 74, Stephens-Adamson 72, Alemite 72, Balyx Brothers 63, Legionnaires 36, and Mead Johnson 32.

As in other years, each bowler is permitted to invite one guest. In the case of a man and wife bowling in the league, they may bring another couple.

The playoffs were discussed in detail, and it was decided that they would be run twice-weekly in the finals and semi-finals as in other years. The second night of the week, would depend upon what night or time was open.

The subject of forming a nine o'clock league, made up of bowlers from the waiting list, and additional bowlers, was brought up. It was unanimously agreed that no action should be taken that would in any way disrupt the present set-up in the seven o'clock league. It was decided that each captain would contact all members of his team, and ask them if they wished to bowl at nine o'clock for any specific reason. A few members are very late in getting off work, and find it difficult to make it by seven. Any who did wish to bowl at 9:00 would be replaced in the seven o'clock league by those on the waiting list. It would be the duty of the ones transferring to the nine o'clock league, to form the new league, and canvass for any additional bowlers who were required. The new league would operate completely independent of the present league, but would take part in the same closing banquet. It was suggested that the two league winners play off for a permanent trophy.

Frankford Sport

Frankford — The Frankford Bowling League saw no change this week, except for a tightening of the race. The Crackpots, under Ross Huffman, blew a chance to wrap up the league pennant, as they dropped five points to Harry Hearn's Hotshots. Lohnes' Pinpoppers dropped five to Jack Farley's Fireballs, who moved into a second place tie with the Pinpoppers. Russ Hogg's Inkspots, who have been steadily climbing of late, came within two points of Bob Morglan's Bobsmob, by taking five from them. Ed Tomecek's Rockets picked up another five points this week, at the expense of Ray Scott's Skeeters.

Preston Chase made the 300 Club for the second time this year, with a 315 and Edna Huffman rolled a neat 270 to join the Ladies 250 Club.

Standings to date:

Crackpots 106, Pinpoppers 99, Fireballs 99, Bobsmob 89, Inkspots 87, Hotshots 81, Rockets 72, Skeeters 67.

Frankford.—A meeting of the executive of the Frankford Bowling League was held in the office of E. G. Lohnes, following Thursday's night's bowling, to discuss in detail, plans for the annual league banquet, May 9. It was unanimously decided that it would be held, as in other years in the Frankford Community Hall rather than out of town, as some had suggested. President Francis Murphy was placed in charge of arrangements for caterers for the banquet, with Secretary, Wayne Arbuckle assisting.

Messrs. Karl Austin and Jack Farley were placed in charge of the entertainment, and it will be their duty to secure a dance orchestra, and possibly additional entertainment between the banquet and dance times. Gene Lohnes was placed in charge of decorating the hall, and will select his own committee.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Vengeance is not what you look for in a bridge game. Your aim is to win the most points. If you can make more at your own bid you should not double the opponents for revenge.

Again see the deal we are discussing. Here it is:

NORTH
♥J 4 3
♦9 8 5
♣A 7 2

WEST
♠K
♥K Q 10 9 8 6 2
♦None
♣J 10 9 8 5

EAST
♠Q J 9 7 4 3 2
♦J 7 3 2

SOUTH
♠10
♥A 5
♦A K Q 10 6 4
♣K Q 6 3

The bidding was rounding into shape like this:

South	West	North	East
2 D	2 H	2 NT	Pass
3 D	4 C	4 D	4 S
4 NT	5 H

With the south opening of two diamonds north can be confident of defeating five hearts. To double that bid is very tempting. The set is bound to be several tricks.

However, south has already indicated desire to go to slam. The make of a slam will pay more than opponents can lose at five hearts doubled. So, north decided to try for the bigger amount.

The four no-trump bid by south asked partner how many aces and kings he held. In answer thereto, north responded six clubs. This is my convention answer for showing two aces and no kings.

With diamonds indicated as the future trump, east was willing to pass. South now bid six diamonds, the place he considered safest. But west was stubborn and made a sacrifice bid of six hearts.

North could double this. But south knew what was what by now and could make the final decision. So, north passed. As did east. This put the final say squarely up to the south hand.

South weighed the advantage of doubling six hearts. Then he made up his mind boldly and decided to bid six no-trump. It was a tight decision. And it took courage.

East led the singleton heart. See how north took 12 tricks.

Copper Kings Win Porcupine League Title

Noranda, Que., March 10. (CP) —Noranda Copper Kings won the Porcupine Senior Hockey League title yesterday with a 4-1 victory over Porcupine Porkies. The win gave them the best-of-seven series 4-2.

Copper Kings now take on either Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds or North Bay Black Hawks in the Northern Ontario Senior A finals.

Yesterday's victory followed on the heels of one for the Kings in Timmins Saturday night. They took a 3-2 edge in the series by beating Porkies 6-4.

Kings battled through a scoreless first period, counted three goals in the second and split two in the third.

Ed Bury counted twice, while Paul Petrucci and Des Besidowski each got one.

French, American Chessmen Tie

Havana, March 10. (AP) — French champion Nicolas Rossolimo defeated Cuba's Francisco Planas last night in 38 moves, while Samuel Reshevsky of the United States was beating Cuba's Rogello Ortego in 39.

Rossolimo and Reshevsky were tied for leadership of the International Chess Masters' tournament after the 13th round. Each has 10 points.

Eric Eliskases and Miguel Najdorf, Argentians, and I. A. Horowitz of the U.S. were in a three-way tie for second place at nine points each.

HOCKEY'S BIG SEVEN

(By The Canadian Press)

Detroit's Gordie Howe continues to be a ball of fire in the waning National Hockey League, sniping two goals and getting as many assists during the weekend to move further ahead of the pack in the league's individual-scoring departments.

Howe now has a record 41 goals and 34 assists for a point total of 75, 15 more than second-place Elmer Lach of Montreal Canadiens who has 13 goals and a pace-setting 47 assists.

Ted Lindsay of Detroit is third with 55 points — 21 goals and 34 assists.

The leaders:	G	A	Pts
Howe, Detroit	41	34	75

Puerto Rico Votes For Self-Government

Dr. Antonio Fernos-Isern, Puerto Rico's resident commissioner to the United States, is shown leaving the polling booth after casting his ballot in San Juan to ratify the new constitution of Puerto Rico. Dr. Fernos-Isern, former president of the constitutional assembly, helped draft the new document. The constitution, which will enable the people of the U.S. territory to govern themselves for the first time, was ratified by a vote of 373,418 to 82,473. — Central Press Canadian.

Soccer League Re-Elects Digby As President

The annual general meeting of the Eastern Ontario Football League was held in the Y.M.C.A. in Belleville on Friday evening, President Les Digby in the chair. It appears likely that most of last season's teams will compete again this year although Vimy Signals of Kingston, indicated that owing to service movements they felt they would be unable to operate this year. Belleville indicated that at present they were undecided as to whether or not they would be in position to enter. Application for membership was received from a Toronto club and was favorably received by the body.

In order to try and eliminate defaulted games it was decided that each club on applying for entry to the league should post an appearance bond of $25.00 which would be returnable to the clubs at the end of the season providing the schedule had been completed.

The constitution was changed to standardize the rule for substitution of players. In future substitution will only be allowed on stoppage of play for a goal, goal kick, injury to player or at half time. It was decided that subject to approval of the Ontario Football Association the League would assume power to discipline any player ordered from the field of play for misconduct.

Boyd Findlay of Belleville, took the chair for the election of officers for the coming season which resulted in Les Digby being returned for a third term of office as president. Tony Machola, of Batawa, was elected vice-president and John Poulton of Kingston, was returned as secretary-treasurer. It was decided that in future the League's annual meeting shall be held in November.

April 15th was set as the deadline for entries from clubs and the first matches will be scheduled for the first Saturday in May.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

Phoenix, Ariz., March 10 (AP) — He was pitching his first World Series game, said Sal Maglie, and he couldn't, somehow, get really interested in it.

That is the only way the superb pitcher of the New York Giants can explain his dismal failure against the Yankees in the fourth game of the last World Series.

"That fight down the stretch and the play-off with Brooklyn were the world series for me, I guess," Sal said, thoughtfully. "That was the kind of competition I love, and I gave it everything I had. When we did finally win out I felt there could never be anything greater, and I somehow felt that this was just another ball game when I started against the Yankees.

"No, I wasn't tired. At least, I didn't feel tired. I had had four days' rest, and that's more than I need. But I didn't have my control and I wasn't mad at the Yankees."

There can be no question of Maglie's courage in the tight places or any suggestion that he was overawed by the Yanks. You don't post a 23-6 record and beat the Brooks five out of six ment.

He was reminded that on the first day he was supposed to pitch it had rained, and that he and the other Giants, flushed with a 2-to-1 lead in games and raring to get on with it, had sat around the clubhouse and looked dejectedly at the floor. Did he think he might have had his stuff, plus the incentive, on that day?

"I've thought about that, but I don't know," Sal replied. "I know I felt ready and confident that day, but I did the next day, too, and I couldn't get the ball over the plate. When I did get it over, the Yanks hit it."

Intent May Be Horse of Year

Arcadia, Calif., March 10 (AP) Intent, which was just another race horse until a month or so ago, set his sights today on the title of 1952's horse of the year. A lot of horses will kick up a lot of dust before the decision comes down, but as of today Intent has (A) a record amount of money to his credit; (B) a much better leg on the mythical trophy than Hill Prince or Counterpoint, to name a couple of leading challengers.

His owner, Harry Isaacs, a Baltimore textile man, has banked $181,075 on Intent's accomplishments at the current Santa Anita meeting, a record topping Great Circle's $152,574 here last year.

To do it, Intent won three rich Santa Anita fixtures, although he was disqualified and put second in the $100,000 handicap for bumping Miche in the stretch. That cost Isaacs another $84,000. But in the Maturity, Intent returned $112,000.

The meeting brought the Kentucky bred's total earnings to $192,650. He didn't race as a 2-year-old and picked up only a little over $11,000 as a 3-year-old.

He was the big noise not only of the meeting but of getaway day, Saturday, when he ran down Be Fleet and Bryan G. to take the $33,200 first prize in the $50,000 San Juan Capistrano at a mile and three-quarters. A crowd of 49,000 made Intent the favorite for the first time all season. But he still paid $5 to win.

Varsity Cagers TrimQueens77-42

Toronto, March 10. (CP)—The University of Toronto Blues wound up their season's play in the Senior Intercollegiate Basketball loop Saturday night with a 77-42 trouncing of Queen's University.

The win left Toronto in a second-place tie with McMaster University. The championship went to the University of Western Ontario. Queen's holds third spot.

It was blonde Toronto forward, Eddie Brennan's night as he piled up 19 points for the winners. Eddie, in his last appearance in Intercollegiate Basketball after three years as a Toronto mainstay, picked up six baskets in a row—two foul shots and four field goals—in the third quarter.

Don Griffin led the losers with 17, points, Jim Kelleher countered seven and Bob Purcell tallied six. Kingston was left with only five players in the final quarter as they lost three men on fouls.

Cornwall Whips Brockville 6-1

Brockville, March 10. (CP)—Cornwall Falcons downed Brockville Magedomas 6-1 here Saturday night in the third game of their best-of-seven New York-Ontario Senior Hockey League finals. Brockville leads the series 2-1.

Dalton Wells, a 16-year-old junior player brought up to replace Roger Bourget, injured in the teams' last clash, scored two goals for the Cornwall Club. The fourth game is scheduled for Tuesday in Cornwall.

AT THE McCARTHY — Blonde Shelley Winters and rugged Richard Conte are starred with Stephen McNally, Alex Nicol and Charles Bickford in Universal-International's exciting new suspense film, "The Raging Tide." John McIntire heads the large supporting cast. "The Raging Tide" opens today at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre.

AT THE CAPITOL — Rosalind Russell, who appears with Brian Ahern and Janet Blair in the hilarious comedy hit "My Sister Eileen," opening tonight at the Capitol Theatre. And on the same program thrill anew to filmdom's glamorous star team: Spencer Tracy and Loretta Young in "Man's Castle".

AT THE BELLE

"I'll See You In My Dreams" Rich, Warm Wonderful Story

Patricia Wymore, Warner Bros. dancing star, has an important role in "I'll See You In My Dreams", the big musical production based on the life and songs of Gus Kahn, Doris Day, Danny Thomas and Frank Lovejoy head the cast of the rich, warm wonderful story . . . every tune a top all-time favorite, now attracting large audiences to the Belle Theatre, continuing Today and Tuesday, matinee daily.

In the musical, Miss Wymore plays a Ziegfeld girl, a type of role to which she is especially suited since she sang and danced in "Up In Central Park" and "Hold It", both top Broadway hits.

It is also interesting to note that in packing a chorus with perfect legs for the Ziegfeld numbers, dance director LeRoy Prinz used the same method employed by the famous producer years ago. Each of the girls Prinz selected had to be able to hold a quarter between her calves, knees and thighs without having one of the coins fall to the ground.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For TUESDAY, MARCH 11, 1952

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Don't waste time, energy on matters of unimportance. Tend today's business today. You may find opposition; have things in order, you will then have more leeway.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Some matters could get out of control if not watched carefully. Finances, mental problems ask forethought but not worry. Confusion if you are not calm, practical and hopeful.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—You may have an extra load to carry, but don't let it cause doubt as to your ability, nor be irritated. Be solid; tabu pettiness, leave that for the egos. Pitch in and win.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—This week's tasks may seem never ending; unsolved matters crowd. But you keep forward trend; don't give ground under doubt or pessimistic thoughts. Pit your best against the best.

July 24 to Augnust 22 (Leo)—Practically in same category as Gemini today. Level-headedness, calm, smart thinking will put you far out front. Don't be surprised at good news and deeds from unexpected places.

August 23 to September 23 (Vigro)—Be ready for the unusual, new and inspiring happenings, especially after 2 p.m. But don't be disappointed either. Some personal affairs could be set aside to give the more urgent time.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Type of influences you feel greatly hinge on your personal attitude, how you react to conditions, problems. We have free will; you who can give such fine example, don't let us down.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Pay attention to the other fellow's idea and progress. Give him credit for all he deserves. May have to suppress some tendencies. Mixed conditions clear gradually.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Planetary vibrations now offer more encouragement for personal and business affairs. But it's no time to become extravagant, make foolish loans, or disregard present influences.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—May be extra fortunate in love, social and personal undertakings. New adventures abound; study each move well beforehand. Bypass useless hazards, personal disputes.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—You could make this a very productive day all round with a little extra push. Be not too persistent, but soundly firm. Co-operate with new and improved methods, suggestions.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—If willing to give some extra time and effort to achieve greater rewards now, you will be the happier. Thoughtfully planned, intelligent tries, handling money carefully always pays.

YOU BORN TODAY: Natal planet Neptune, Sun in Pisces, indicating a kind, loving nature. You are industrious, soundly methodical, making conclusions after due consideration. Innately honest, amiable. A comforting friend in distress. Work or business that requires inspiration suited to your gifts. High advancement if you will look always forward, not backwards. Make able lawyer, doctor, nurse, manager artist. Should enjoy work connected with the sea, navy, farm or charity. Finish well what you start. Need more self-appreciation, believe in you.

Birthdate of Torquato Tasso, Italian epic poet.

"Charity Begins At Home"
QUOTE OF THE WEEK

PETE HOFFMAN and BOB MORGAN

A lot of people have said it since — but the expression, "Charity Begins At Home" was originated by the Greek pastoral poet, Theocritus (310-265 B.C.). His idea was that Greece should make itself great and forget about helping the people it conquered (Thanx to Donald Beatty, Annapolis, Md.)

Eight Killed In East Canada During Weekend

(By The Canadian Press)

A mid-air collision of two Vampire jet airplanes killed two reserve airmen and brought to eight the number of persons killed in eastern Canada during the weekend.

A Canadian Press survey early today showed six persons killed in Ontario, one in Quebec and one Nova Scotia.

Besides the two air-crash victims, four people died in traffic accidents, one beneath the wheels of a train and one at work.

FO. Robert Yates, 30, of Toronto and Wing Commander Alan E. Fleming, 30, of Port Credit, were on a routine training flight in Vampire jets of a Toronto reserve squadron 20 miles north of the city when their planes collided in flight.

Both were killed.

Another airman, Cpl. Peter Doran of the R. C. A. F. station at Trenton, was killed in an automobile-dump truck collision that sheared the top off the car in which he was riding near the station.

Near Jamestown, Ont., 100 miles north of Sault Ste. Marie, Ellis Cash, 24, was on his way home after a day in town when both his legs were cut off by a railway train. He died in hospital.

Clarence Nelson Beebes, 45, was crushed to death at Peterborough when the cement loader he was driving turned over on him. Bert Stewart of Whitby was killed at Oshawa, Ont., when he was thrown out as his automobile rolled down an embankment.

In Quebec Province, Marilyn Coates, 4, was struck and fatally injured by a snow removal truck in Sherbrooke.

At Maitland, N. S., Mrs. Winnifred Barry, 58, was killed when the truck in which she was riding was struck by a train.

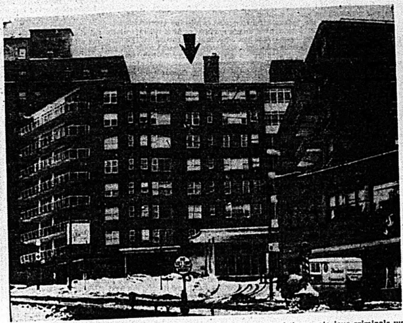
One Gunman Ambushed In Montreal; Police Hunt Other Two Wanted In Shooting Of Toronto Officers



Arrow shows apartment in Montreal where Steve Suchan, one of three notorious criminals wanted by Toronto police, was ambushed and shot by four Montreal police officers. Police in Quebec and Ontario are continuing hunt for Edwin Boyd and Leonard Jackson, believed to be accomplices of Suchan in the recent shooting of Sergt. of Dets. Edmund Tong and Det.-Sgt. Roy Perry on Toronto street. — Central Press Canadian.

One of victims of gunmen, Sergt. of Dets. Edmund Tong, is fighting for his life in Toronto hospital. In a Montreal hospital, his alleged shooter, Steve Suchan, is under police guard. Here Det.-Sergt. He was carrying three guns when police caught him. — Central Press Canadian.

WHITE'S DISTRICT

WORLD DAY OF PRAYER

White's District—World Day of Prayer was held at White's Church with the president, Mrs. Glen Meyers of the Bayside Woman's Missionary Society presiding. The theme was "Christ Our Hope." She was assisted in the worship service by Mrs. Walter Jones, Mrs. George Bilham, Mrs. H. I. Mooney and Mrs. Frank Leach. Suitable hymns were used throughout. Mrs. Mooney offered a prayer for the nations of the world and their leaders. Mrs. Leach for the Royal family and especially for the new Queen Elizabeth II and the Dominion of Canada; Mrs. Hunt for the homes in the land, the new homes and for the young people; Mrs. Rutter for the older churches and the new churches that they may stand firm in their faith and go forward and Mrs. Fox for the missionaries.

Mrs. Meyers took charge of the dedication service. Mrs. M. Denton of Belleville, the guest speaker spoke fittingly on "What Your Money Does" giving many worthwhile points for her listeners to carry away with them.

Wesley choir, under the direction of the pianist, Mrs. A. Downey of Wesley Church rendered an anthem.

The hymn "The Day Thou Gavest, Lord is Ended" was used to close the service.

Bayside W.M.S.

Mrs. Frank Leach was hostess to the ladies of the Bayside Woman's Missionary Society on Wednesday afternoon with the president, Mrs. Glen Meyers presiding.

The worship service was taken by Mrs. Meyers. Mrs. Frank Leach gave an interesting resume on the constitution of the Woman's Missionary Society.

Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Leach were appointed Baby Band leaders for Wesley district. The delegates to the presbyterial in Grace Church, Trenton, in March are: Mrs. Walter Jones, Mrs. Charles Wilson and Mrs. Everett Nicolson.

Mrs. Meyers had charge of the Study Book "From Lakes to Northern Lights."

The hostess served refreshments and a social time was enjoyed.

Nobody Loves Forever

By Margaretta Brucker

When Lucy came around the house she asked "where's Tom?"

"Inside."

Lucy's glance told her that she knew what Jessica guessed—Tom was breaking the news of their marriage to his mother. She said hastily, "Tom sent mother a wire this morning. She expects you." Her gray-blue eyes warmed a little as the two girls mounted the steps together.

Inside, the house was cool, the air stagnant. No sunshine. A flight of long dark stairs led upward and as Jessica hesitated in the hall Tom came through the house from the rear and said awkwardly "mom's coming."

As he spoke a woman came toward them. A small woman, thin and wiry with graying hair pulled back severely from a broad, high forehead. A pair of cold, colorleiss eyes regarded Jessica with no hint of welcome.

This was Tom's mother. "How de do," she said.

Tom said "when do we eat?" Which broke an awkward silence.

"Take you wife upstairs to the front room, Tom," said his mother.

"No one ever sleeps there," said Tom.

"She will."

The woman's mouth tightened grimly. She turned her back on them and returned to the kitchen.

Tom picked up the bags he had dumped on the hall floor "Come on," he told Jessica. "Mom's having chicken and noodles. Regular celebration."

Upstairs Tom opened the door of a bleak high-ceilinged room which faced the front street. Jessica looked at the ugly heavy golden oak furniture, a dresser and a washstand, two chairs, a huge wardrobe towering in one corner. Suddenly, without warning, she began to cry, silently, the tears running down her cheeks and splashing on her tightly gripped hands. She sat down on the edge of the big bed.

Tom's eyes showed alarm. "What the dickens!" He sat down beside her and she turned her face against his khaki blouse. "Tom don't go away and leave me here."

"Don't go! Why, I'm in the army. I have to go and where would you stay but here? I don't imagine your father would rush to take you back. It's pretty swell of mom to be willing to give you a home—"

"Please, Tom, please!"

He stood up. "Look," he said flatly "we're married. I have to go away and you have to stay here and wait for me to come back. You're doggone lucky, if you only knew it. Come wash your face and let's go down to dinner. Mom will be all upset. She hates hysterics."

Jessica arose. She said in a low strangled voice "I'm not hysterical, really. Please be patient with me, Tom."

He grinned. He caught her shoulders and turned her about and kissed her. "That make it well?"

She could not answer. How could a man be so lacking in understanding? Treating her like a hysterical child who would be comforted by a kiss.

Before she had been in the house 24 hours Jessica knew that Tom was completely blind to any fault in either his mother or his sister. In turn they worshipped Tom. And spoiled him.

Jessica endured endless snubs when she tried to win Mrs. Blake's approval. Lucy echoed her mother's opinions, whether willingly or because she feared to differ with her mother, Jessica could not tell.

She did not know that she had interfered with Mrs. Blake's plans for the son she worshipped and that Mrs. Blake would not forgive her, that she had a strong contempt for any girl incapable of doing household tasks, that she blamed Jessica for the marriage and disliked her; and yet, because it was Tom's wish that his wife remain with her until he came home, Tom's decision was respected.

Unaware of his mother's antagonism and too blinded by lack of understanding to be aware of Jessica's low spirits, at the moment, Tom stood between them; but every day brought the time closer when he would leave her. Every day made her more and more determined to tell him she would not stay with his mother and sister. Every day Jessica weakly postponed the actual scene she felt would follow when she announced her unwillingness to accede to Tom's decision.

Day by day she realized that she and her husband had only one thing in common—love-making, infatuation, the same attraction which rushed them headlong into this miserable situation. Love-making was the only weapon Jessica possessed and shamelessly she used it whenever she had the chance to get Tom alone. Her caresses pleased and flattered him. Could she win him away from those two women with her kisses?

She was almost sure she could and the day before Tom left she put her influence to the test.

She sat before the window doing her nails and Tom came in from the bathroom for his shaving kit. "I don't like that stuff you put on your nails," he said bluntly.

"You won't be here to see it." Jessica held up a hand and wiggled the fingers to dry her polish.

Tom rattled a drawer, slammed it shut. "Mom doesn't like it either."

Jessica bit her lip. "When I'm in a place of my own she won't have to see it," she observed boldly.

"What are you talking about?"

"An apartment."

"An apartment?"

She nodded and slanted her eye at him and smiled, but Tom would have none of it. His face was hard and angry.

"Just get that nonsense out of your head," then bluntly, "remember, you haven't any money."

"You have an allotment, don't you?" she demanded.

Tom shifted his glance and busied himself collecting his shirt and tie from the back of a chair. Finally he answered "Mom has that. I've always turned my pay check over to Mom and she banks it. I used to do it when I worked at the plant and since I've been in the army I've done the same."

"But you're married now." Her self-control was slipping fast.

"That doesn't change things. Mom's willing to take you in and board and room you. She's promised to try to teach you something useful. I'm not wasting money on apartments. We'll need every cent I can save for when I get home. You should be thankful."

"If you say that again, I'll scream!"

Jessica jumped up and over-turned the nail polish which ran in a trickling stream across the faded rug. "I hate to stay here. I hate your mother and she hates me. Things are different here," Jessica ended weakly, frightened by Tom's angry face.

"You bet they're different. We don't have a pack of servants to wait on us. We have to work. We have to save and get ahead and plan for the future. When I come back you'll have to know how to wash my clothes and pack a dinner pail and live on a workingman's wages. Ever think of that?"

No. She had not thought of that. She was too proud to remind Tom that he had not considered that when he held her in his arms and urged her to marry him. He had given no thought to the future. He had wanted her—she must belong to him.

She did. And there was no escape. She had $20 of borrowed money between her and dependence upon Tom's mother and sister.

She said meekly, "I'm sorry, Tom. Please don't be angry."

The day following the argument Tom left Akron. Jessica went to the station with him. She clung to his big hand. She cried. Tom, too, was shaken. He held her close and kissed her over and over. He said "Don't worry, honey, I'll come home."

She watched him stalk away through the crowd. Tears blinded her as she left the station.

Lucy, who had accompanied them, said with sudden kindness, "don't cry. Tom's lucky, he'll come back."

"But I'm so alone here."

Lucy was silent for a moment. Then she said "mom means to be kind. She—well she never expected Tom to marry a girl like you."

During the first few weeks after Tom's departure Jessica tried to pattern her way of living after that of Tom's mother and sister. Up early. To bed early. Desperate efforts to learn to cook and clean. She burned her hands and cut her wrist. The oatmeal was lumpy and there were seeds in the orange juice. The toast burned while she read a serial story in the newspaper. The covers of her bed were never neat and even but always straggling and lopsided. She left a trail of dust behind her.

She struggled to win the approval of Tom's mother but Mrs. Blake froze her. Mrs. Blake regarded her attempts with veiled contempt and made no effort whatever to help her.

She tried to make friends with Lucy, believing that behind her primness Lucy must be like the girls she knew. She could be pretty and attractive with a little effort. Lucy disciplined herself. So much accomplished before she went to the office in the morning. Lessons at the Y in the evening.

Jessica said to her one day "you might be 40 Lucy. Don't you ever have any fun?"

"Of course. I love my office work, and I have the Y."

Jessica shrugged scornfully. Why try to change Lucy?

There was a bungalow across the street, a little house that looked oddly out of place in the row of old fashioned frame houses which crowded close beside it. A girl lived in the Cape Cod bungalow. She went off to work in the morning dressed in cheap slacks, with her head done up in a bandanna handkerchief. She came back in the late afternoon looking tired and dirty. She was happy. She sang as she went about her work. She had a service star in her window.

It was fun to watch her. In the evening she sat on the steps and hosed the scrap of front lawn. Once when Lucy and her mother went off to church meeting Jessica slipped across the street and walked past the house and the girl called to her "Hello! Come in."

Jessica went in and sat down on the steps. The hose splashed and cooled the pavement, hot after a sultry July day.

The girl said "My name is Doris."

"I'm Jessica Blake."

"Tom's wife?" Doris stubbed out her cigaret and went off the porch and turned off the hose. She came back and stood looking down at Jessica. She said bluntly, "how are you making out?"

Jessica stiffened. It seemed outrageous to confide in this ordinary looking girl. Yet the girl seemed to like her. Yes, Doris showed a warm and sympathetic interest and Jessica found herself pouring out all the details of her life across the street.

Doris sat down beside her and smoked and offered her a cigaret. "It must be the devil to live with that pair," she said.

She agreed that Jessica would be happier if she had a job.

"Lucy should be able to help you," she said. "She has a stand-in with her boss."

Jessica said "she's silly about him."

Doris flashed her a glance but made no answer.

Jessica determined to approach Lucy about a job, but when she did Lucy did not encourage the idea. "There's plenty to do here," she said pointedly.

"Your mother doesn't like to have me help her."

Lucy looked tired. "I wish you and mother got along better together," she said wearily.

Jessica had an opportunity to talk to Doris again the next evening. "I don't care what kind of work, I do" Jessica said vehemently. "I'll wear overalls or scrub out offices, but I will not continue to be dependent upon Tom's mother."

She made a plan to meet Doris the next morning and try her luck at the employment office of the plant where Doris worked. She bathed and did up her hair and went to bed early. She was in high spirits. Tomorrow would begin a new day. She must get to sleep and be bright and alert. Finally she dozed off, only to waken with an odd dizziness when she tried to lift her head from the pillow.

This was ridiculous. Cool morning air stirred the curtains and she decided to get up and sit by the window. The air would clear her silly head.

She stood up, then sat down hastily, shaking all over.

Her head felt light and her stomach queasy.

Jessica forced herself to her feet, took two steps and knew nothing until she opened her eyes and was lying in her bed. It was broad daylight now. Her mother-in-law stood with her back toward her staring out of the window.

Jessica stirred. Mrs. Blake turned Gray eyes met black eyes in a hard long stare.

Bruntjen Cleared Of Introducing Cattle Ailment

Government to Pay Plane Fare to Vancouver

Ottawa, March 11 (CP)— Willi Bruntjen received more public attention during his five-month residence in Canada than most immigrants. But he will be happy to forego it in future.

Bruntjen will leave tonight for Vancouver after being cleared by Agriculture department officials of having carried foot-and-mouth disease to Saskatchewan farms from his native Germany.

Eleven days of tests at the Hull, Que., laboratories of Department of Agriculture established that Buntjen was free of any trace of the disease. The clothing and effects destroyed in making the tests were replaced and Bruntjen was given $50—the price he set himself—for his trouble. The government will pay his plane fare to Vancouver.

Former Corporal

Bruntjen, a former German army corporal who speaks only a few words of English, told his plans for the future through an interpreter.

He said he didn't stay long on the southern Saskatchewan farm where foot-and-mouth disease was suspected early in the outbreak which has crippled the Canadian livestock industry.

He moved to Pine Falls, Man., about 160 miles from Winnipeg, then later moved east again to Heron Bay, Ont., about 150 miles east of Port Arthur.

By the time R.C.M.P. and Ontario Provincial Police got on his trail, he was headed for Vancouver, still unaware of the nation-wide search for him as a possible carrier of foot-and-mouth virus.

Reads The Kurier

Bruntjen said he knew from reading a German-language weekly newspaper, the Regina Kurier, that foot-and-mouth disease appeared in some south Saskatchewan herds.

Bruntjen said he sought help in getting work from immigration officials in Vancouver who turned him over to R.C.M.P.

"I was afraid I was going to be deported," he said. "It is very good that everything came out negative. I have 10 times better chance of making a living in Canada than in Germany, and I would not like to have gone back."

Bruntjen, husky, blond and 27, said he plans to make a home here permanently. Later he may bring out his sweetheart from Germany and set up housekeeping on a poultry and swine farm, if he can get enough money together to buy one.

NO DAMAGE REPORTED

Reggio Calabria, Italy, March 11 — (Reuters) — An earthquake shook this major southern Italy city last night. No damage was reported.

Montreal Youth Held for Slaying Of His Employer

Montreal, March 11 — (CP) — Police today are holding Louis-Jacques Cote, 18-year-old native of Chicoutimi, Que., in connection with the crowbar slaying last night of his 24-year-old employer.

The body of Jean Allaire, father of three children, was found in the washroom of his machine shop on northend St. Lawrence Boulevard, his head beaten to a pulp.

Police said this is what happened:

Cote had been employed by Allaire for three months and had just finished a term at Bordeaux Jail where he underwent treatment in the psychiatric wing of the prison hospital.

A quarrel ensued over money and Allaire was beaten about the head with a 50-pound, steel bar.

Rene Jasmin, in his home adjacent to the machine shop, said he heard a scuffle then there was the sound of a window breaking.

A man walked out and drove off in Allaire's automobile, parked outside, ramming into a parked car as he did.

Jasmin said the car returned a few minutes later. He went downstairs and spoke to the man who got out.

"Where is Allaire?" he said.

"He is dead upstairs," the man answered. "You had better not go up there unless you want the same thing to happen to you."

Jasmin went upstairs, discovered the body and phoned police. Meanwhile, the man drove off again and was picked up by police shortly after when the vehicle went into a snowbank.

Police said Cote admitted arguing with his employer over his salary. He told police he was only being paid $6 a week, plus his meals.

Bevan Defeats Censure Attempt By Moderates

London, March 11. (AP)—Aneurin Bevan today defeated an attempt by Clement Attlee's moderates to censure him for bucking Labor Party views on rearmament. The motion was defeated 172-62 at a party meeting in which Attlee at one time was booed.

All that Attlee salvaged was a watered-down version of restoring "standing orders" of party leadership. Under standing orders, rebels can be expelled from the party. But the resolution as finally adopted left loopholes for the Bevanites.

The party decision avoided censure of Bevan and his 56 followers. Bevan had not recanted in any of his beliefs and headed off an iron-clad crackdown on his bloc.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, March 11 (CP) —Synopsis: Monday night was mild with continuous rain over all southern Ontario and mild with snow in the Kirkland Lake region. Until 7:30 this morning the total rainfall reported was heaviest along the north shores of Lake Erie and Lake Ontario where it averaged from one to one and one-quarter inches and decreased northward to less than one-half inch at North Bay.

The centre of the disturbance causing this widespread precipitation was south of Lake Erie this morning and will move northeastward to near Montreal by evening. As the disturbance moves eastward the rain will gradually end and cooler air will cover the province by tonight.

Wednesday will be mainly cloudy and colder in all regions.

ST. LAURENT SAYS FOREIGN POLICY CABINET BUSINESS

But Will Consult House Before Action Taken

Ottawa, March 11 — (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent assured the Commons yesterday that no foreign undertaking by Canada will constitute a commitment until parliament has approved it.

But, at the same time, he reminded the chamber that the framing of foreign policy is the business of the cabinet, not of parliament, and that parliament always can oust the government if it does not agree.

The prime minister's statement was the outgrowth of a clash with George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, over a foreign-policy speech in New York Friday last by External Affairs Minister Pearson.

Mr. Pearson, now in Washington, was not present to reply to Mr. Drew's protest that he had made four important declarations on policy concerning the far east in his New York speech without first consulting parliament.

The clash between the two leaders took some of the shine off the throne-speech debate as it moved into its second week.

In the opening phases, Robert McCubbin, parliamentary assistant to Agriculture Minister Gardiner, reported that no evidence of foot-and-mouth virus has been found on Willi Bruntjen, the German immigrant who has been examined as a possible carrier of the livestock disease.

Plan Devised

Mr. St. Laurent said a plan has been devised to advance payments to Canadian with war claims resulting from death or personal injury. Forms have been sent to those involved.

The Chamber gave first reading to a bill providing for a redistribution of parliamentary representations on the basis of shifts in population during the last ten years.

In the Throne-Speech debate itself, David Croll (L—Toronto Spadina) urged the government to make full use of the advantage to populate Canada on a large scale and to aim at a population of 25,000,000 in 20 years.

Rain Drenches City

Hamilton, March 11 —(CP)—As abnormal rains drenched the city today Mayor Lloyd Jackson's telephone began jangling at 3 a. m. with flood complaints from irate citizens.

Cellars are flooded, rumpus rooms in basements are ruined, and ditches are filled to overflowing; road conditions are 'terrible,' Ald. Kenneth Crockett reported.

"It's an act of God, we just have not the facilities to look after it all. Many people are just so downhearted, yet there's not much that can be done about it."

U.S. Pilots Turn Huge Camouflaged Red Supply Base into Blazing Ruins

Seoul, Korea, March 11 (AP) — United States jet pilots turned a huge comouflaged red supply base into blazing ruins today in the most intense attack of the Korean war with flaming jellied gasoline.

Flames spread over a four-square mile area of the supply depot.

"It looked like hell itself," said some of the pilots, who flew a total of 250 sorties in waves.

Swarms of red jets streaked down from Manchuria to try to protect the base near Sinmak, 30 miles northwest of the truce village, Panmunjom.

U.S. Sabre jet pilots shot down three MIGs in air battles, probably destroyed another and damaged five.

That boosted red planes knocked out to 19 in two days. The air force reported seven MIGs downed and three damaged yesterday. U.S. losses, if any, are reported only weekly.

F-80 Shooting Stars attacked the supply depot, camouflaged so it "looked like an innocent farming village." Pilots said they could see it was a fake. Then they let loose.

They poured 33,300 gallons of searing napalm (jellied) gasoline) on the area, blasted it with 300,000 pounds of explosives, and raked it with 45,000 machine-gun bullets.

They attacked through a curtain of anti-aircraft fire. The Shooting Stars unloaded their bombs, roared back to base and came back with new loads.

Pilots said they demolished at least 32 red anti-aircraft positions but lost count of the number of installations and red troops destroyed.

The U.S. Fifth Air Force said they still were attacking the flaming area at nightfall.

"There isn't much of anything left of that place," one pilot said.

The air war continued to overshadow ground action along the thawing front lines.

A U.S. Eighth Army briefing officer said the reds Monday failed to throw a single, probing attack at U.N. lines. Only a few small patrol clashes were reported.

The air battle pitted 41 Sabres against 208 MIGs. The red planes were trying to break through the protective jet screen thrown up around United Nations fighter bombers attacking ground targets.

Russia Proposes Big-Four Conference to Unite Germany And Write New Peace Treaty

Moscow, March 11 (AP) —The Soviet Union proposed today an immediate big-four conference to reunite divided Germany and prepare for a peace treaty barring the Germans from alliances aimed at any of their Second World War enemies.

Western observers in Moscow predicted Britain, the United States and France would turn down the proposal, which included a detailed outline of principles which the Russians said should be the basis of the peace treaty.

Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko handed the plan to big-three diplomats in Moscow last night.

A final peace with Germany was pictured in the identical Soviet notes to the western big three as the key to a "once-and-for-all" easement of east-west tensions.

"The signing of a peace treaty with Germany will be conducive to the improving of the international state of affairs as a whole, thus being conducive to the establishing of a stable peace," the Soviet communication said.

Russia put the unity of Germany ahead of a peace treaty draft, saying the treaty must be worked out with the participation of a general German government.

After the Big Four and Germany agreed on a draft, it would be presented to an "international conference where all the interested states would be represented."

The Soviet list of principles for a German peace seemed identical with previous Russian proposals on the subject.

They called for putting the German borders on the lines set by the Big Four in the 1945 Potsdam Conference. (This gave a big slice of pre-war East German territory to Poland but the west has declared the decision was temporary, subject to revision in a peace treaty.)

The Russians also proposed Germany have land, naval and air forces "essential for the defence of the country" and be allowed war industries only big enough to equip these permitted forces.

Occupation forces would be withdrawn within a year after the peace treaty became effective.

The treaty also would "insure the removal of the possibility of a revival of German militarism" but would give former army officers and former nazis — "excluding those who are serving sentences passed by courts for committing crimes"—the same civil and political rights given other Germans.

Hotel Clerk Who Gave Tip Is Threatened

Toronto, March 11—(CP)—A Toronto motel clerk who gave police the Montreal address of gunman Steve Suchan said today he has received anonymous threats.

Suchan, shot and wounded in a swank Montreal apartment, was sought in connection with recent Toronto bank robberies and the shooting of two Toronto detectives last Thursday.

The clerk's tip led police to the Montreal apartment where they ambushed Suchan.

Police were reluctant to discuss the threats. The clerk, who was not named, is reported to be under police "surveillance."

The search today continued in Toronto without let-up but there was a feeling in police circles that Jackson and Boyd had fled.

The threats to the clerk, a police official said, were like those received by Arnold Schuster, 24-year-old Brooklyn pants salesman, who "fingered" Willie (The Actor) Sutton. Schuster was shot to death in Brooklyn Saturday night.

Go To Hamilton

A Toronto detective went to Hamilton today to help the police force there search for the hunted men.

Hamilton's inspector of detectives Walter Hagan said: "I don't believe any of the men are here now, but we're not overlooking any possibility."

Toronto's mayor Allan Lamport, in an interview today, agreed with Judge Robert Forsyth who said yesterday the city is on the way to becoming a crime centre. The mayor said the way to check its progress in that direction is for police to crack down on lawbreakers and for the courts to hand out stiffer penalties for crimes of violence involving weapons.

"If every judge realized, as does Judge Forsyth, the terrible crime potential of a city of this size, we'd have fewer policemen in the hospital. Anyone who carries a loaded weapon without permission is a possible murderer," he said.

Farmers After Grain

Toronto, March 11. — (CP)—Southern Ontario farmers, hoping for an early spring, have already purchased or are making inquiries about seed grain, the Ontario Department of Agriculture said today in its weekly crop report.

In Northern Ontario, bush operations were said to be ahead of schedule in Cochrane and Kenora counties while trucks are operating day and night in the Algoma district to get logs out of the bush before the breakup.

Throughout the province, restrictions on livestock shipment has brought marketing almost to a standstill. The department said there is a good supply of feed on hand.

Welland Brothers Sent for Trial On Murder Count

Welland, March 11 (CP) — The story of a 1949 killing was told in court yesterday when two Welland brothers, James Aldred Kelsey, 33, and Frank Lloyd Cross, 28, were committed for trial on a charge of murdering Sam Delibasich, a Welland Taxi driver.

Kelsey testified at Cross's hearing—the brothers use different surnames—that Cross told him: "We can knock him (Delibasich) off and take the cab."

They hired the cab outside the city and told the driver to turn up a side road. There, Kelsey said, he struck Delibasich on the head with a hammer from the back seat and handed the hammer to Cross who also struck the driver.

Kelsey said the driver jumped out and started running and Cross knocked him down with his arm. "To make sure, I plunged an ice pick in his back," Kelsey testified.

Delibasich's body was found Dec. 17, 1949, in a Thorold township side road, three miles north of here.

Extensive Skull Fractures

Dr. Lorne Whitaker of St. Catharines, Ontario pathologist, said death was caused by extensive skull fractures and lacerations and destruction of brain tissue.

In Kelsey's hearing, evidence was given by Inspector Charles Wood of the criminal investigation branch Provincial Police.

He told of questioning Kelsey in Niagara Falls, N.Y., last January after Kelsey was arrested for illegal entry into the United States.

When the hearings ended, Magistrate Harley D. Hallett instructed the press not to use any evidence that might be prejudicial to the accused at their trial. The move was suggested by Crown Attorney T. F. Forestell.

Kelsey testified that he and his brother drove the cab to Toronto where they tried unsuccessfully to sell it. They threw the ice pick and hammer into Lake Ontario.

Shortly after Kelsey's arrest Jan. 17, Cross was brought back from New Brunswick where he moved after the cab driver's body was discovered.

The hearings were held in nearby Allanburg.

FROST, SALSBERG CLASH BRIEFLY OVER EDUCATION

Communist Charges Hope Report Buried

Toronto, March 11 (CP) —Premier Frost and J. B. Salsberg, communist Labor-Progressive member for Toronto St. Andrew, clashed briefly in the Ontario legislature yesterday over the controversial Hope report on education.

Mr. Salsberg, arguing that the House should study and debate the report before acting on "piecemeal" government bills on education, charged the government had "buried" the report and had a "conspiracy of silence against it."

Mr. Frost said the government was not trying to evade discussion on the report, and that Mr. Salsberg had had several opportunities to speak on it.

The government's policy was unchanged from last spring the premier said, when he told the legislature that educational conditions were satisfactory and the government was not bound by the recommendations of any commission.

The Throne Speech debate continues today following speeches yesterday by three Progressive Conservative members—Kelso Roberts (Toronto St. Patrick), John Yaremko (Toronto Bellwoods) and Robert Macaulay (Toronto Riverdale).

Works Minister Thomas announced at the opening of yesterday's sitting that charges of theft and of falsification of records have been laid against the superintendent of construction at the government's proposed fish hatchery at Mills Lake near Englehart, in northern Ontario.

The cross fire between the premier and Mr. Salsberg arose during debate on the principle of a minor government bill dealing with the admission of slow-learning pupils to special vocational classes.

Bill Finally Passed

The bill was finally passed, but not before the speaker, Rev. M. C. Davies, arose twice to rule Mr. Salsberg out of order. Mr. Davies ruled that the Hope report could not be debated during consideration of the bill.

The Hope report was issued in 1950 after five years of study by a commission under Mr. Justice J. A. Hope. One of its most contentious recommendations would have reduced the number of classes in separate elementary schools.

Mr. Thomas outlined the investigations made following a statement in the legislature last September by E. B. Jolliffe, then CCF opposition leader, that there was "evidence of a somewhat shocking nature indicating the improper expenditure of public funds in connection with the Hills Lake fish hatchery."

Their investigation was continued by Mr. Thomas after he became works minister in October, and eventually brought in the provincial police.

Mr. Thomas said Mr. Smith has been dismissed from the department.

Butler Announces Cuts in Imports, Further Austerity

But Income Tax Slashed For Lower Paid Workers

London, March 11 — (CP) — A drastic cut in imports and new restrictions on gasoline and excess profits today gave Britons a new round of austerity. But the chancellor of the exchequer told the Commons there will be no increased taxes on tobacco and liquor.

Chancellor Richard Butler, making his first budget speech, said food subsidies will be reduced to £250,000,000 a year, a reduction of about £160,000,000. Food subsidies are one of the means by which the British government held down the cost of living.

Slashing of food subsidies will mean increases in a wide range of food prices which may cost an average of about one shilling and sixpence a head per week.

Among foods which will be increased in price will be meat, bread, flour, milk and tea.

Family allowances given to every family for each child under 16 years of age — but not including the first child — will be jumped from five shillings to eight shillings a week.

Tax Cars High

Butler also announced an increase in automobile licence fees from £10 to £12, 10 shillings.

He announced an increase in the bank rate for loans in an effort to make money dearer and to halt inflation.

The excess-profits tax was promised by Churchill last fall before his Conservatives won the Oct. 25 election.

The tax, retroactive to January, will skim 30 per cent of everything over a standard reckoned on the last three years' earnings. It will has a ceiling of 18 per cent of total profits.

The gasoline tax brings the price of an imperial gallon in Britain to four shillings, three pence, an increase of 7½ pence.

The announcement that there will be no new tax on tobacco and liquor is gratifying to most Britons. Cigarets cost about three shillings, sixpence for 20.

Juggle Income Tax

He announced a juggling in income-tax rates which he will exempt some 2,000,000 low-income earners from any tax.

Corporations will also get some tax relief to help offset the new excess-profits tax. The rate on earnings held in reserve, now five per cent, will be cut in halves. The rate on earnings paid as dividends, now 25 per cent, will be cut to 17½ per cent.

Butler said he plans to raise entertainment tax on admission tickets to football and cricket, Britain's main sports. He did not specify how much; "a bit more" was the way he put it.

Rates on parcel post within the United Kingdom will be raised an unspecified amount. Letter rates will remain unchanged.

There will be a "small increase" in the cost of telegrams and telephones and the fee for postal orders.

The chancellor estimated the slash in imports at £100,000,000 a year. Its purpose is to stem the drain on Britain's gold reserves. This brings to £600,000,000 the total of import cuts ordered since the government of Winston Churchill took office last October.

Butler said Britain will have a treasury surplus of more than £350,000,000 in the fiscal year ending March 31, but added the country's position in international trade is steadily growing worse.

The Chancellor said British spending by the end of the current fiscal year will total about £4,070,000,000 or £120,000,000 less than estimated last April.

He issued a stern warning that the financial policy he is presenting will determine Britain's future.

The House was packed as the chancellor rose to deliver one of the most critical budget speeches in Britain's history. The task before him was not only to balance Britain's domestic accounts but to restore the world's confidence in sterling currency.

There were cheers from the Conservatives when Butler entered the Chamber. He carried the famous old red despatch box of the chancellor and in it were tax secrets all Britain awaited. He also estimated total revenue for the 12 months would be £4,440,000,000, about £200,000,000 more than the budget estimates.

Future Uncertain

"The future is uncertain and the consequences of failure are dire. We are determined not to fail," he said.

Red Falsehoods Are Upsetting Truce Talks Says Gen. Ridgway

Munsan, Korea, March 11. (AP)—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway said today that red falsehoods are upsetting Korean truce talks.

The U.N. Commander said armistice negotiations have reached a point where it's impossible to tell what is going to happen. He blamed communist negotiators "who resort to intemperate language and deliberately employ known falsehoods."

Ridgway branded red stories that Allies are using germ warfare as "completely, absolutely and categorically false."

He speculated communist accusations were either (1) an attempt "to cover up their inability to prevent epidemics and to contral them after they do occur" or (2) an indication they plan "to employ such methods" (germ warfare) themselves.

Ridgway said he was not accusing the reds of plotting to initiate bacteriological warfare, "but it is conceivable". And, he said, he wasn't absolutely certain that epidemics are sweeping red Korea but evidence indicates bubonic plague is rampant.

Red radios have been pouring out the germ warfare stories for almost three weeks. They have not been mentioned in truce talks.

In the armistice talks themselves Rear-Admiral R. E. Libby told the communists:

"We are getting fed up with your attempts to make things appear as facts that are not facts."

Libby's blunt statement came in answer to accusations from North Korean Maj.-Gen Lee Sang Cho that the Allies "raised extensive fabrications to further delay" negotiations. Lee referred to Allied demands for an accounting of missing Allied troops, including 50,000 South Koreans, as "dexterous delaying tactics". Tuesday Lee asked for an accounting of 1,036 persons he said the Allies hold in prison camps. He handed over three lists of names. He said the U.N. was burdening talks with "trifling odds and ends."

Libby snapped back: "We cannot regard 50,000 unaccounted-for military personnel as what you call 'trifling odds and ends'."

Kinsmen Enjoy Guest Artist

It was good fellowship night at the Kinsmen club meeting Monday evening with the business session being brief and the evening devoted principally to Gordon Bailey, guest artist for the night.

A former staff member of the old Toronto Globe Mr. Bailey, who comes from Lang, near Peterborough, is a cartoonist of note as well as an impersonator. His characterization of the church deacon literally brought down the house. He was introduced by Barney Parsons and thanked by Harold Meyers.

The business session was confined mainly to a report on the club's community swimming pool project. Club members were again assured the pool would be opened during the early part of June. Club president, Ben Yanover, presided.

Curlers Requested To Attend Meet At City Hall

Old and prospective curlers, especially the young men of the city are invited to attend a meeting at the City Hall on Thursday evening at eight o'clock. No money is required nor will any be asked for at this meeting. It is simply a meeting to get the feelings as to whether Belleville should join the legion of curlers in this province.

There is a possibility that the Memorial Arena could be utilized for curling for a space of two or three weeks after the hockey season has closed and before the wrestling season opens. It will be necessary if the Arena is used for those attending on Thursday evening to draft a letter to the Arena Commission asking for specific dates and the cost of the Arena for the time used. It is understood that stones can be obtained and the necessary persons to mark the ice. Five sheets of ice could be put on the Arena and this would accommodate about 200 curlers.

There are many in the city, who have come from other centres where curling is an active sport and who wish to curl, while there are many others, who have never curled but would like to have a try at the popular game. All these questions will be discussed and by the enthusiasm of the meeting will a decision be made. Thursday night is an open night, there are not hockey matches billed, and it will not take long to explain the whole proposition and arrive at a decision. This probably will be the last attempt to try and get the game going again in this city, where the game flourished for so many years. Take a night off and show by your presence that you are interestd.

Red Cross 'Blitz' Campaign Starts at 6 O'clock Tonight

This is "B" Day.

This evening at six o'clock some 350 canvassers will leave their zone headquarters on the second annual house-to-house "blitz" campaign for funds for the Red Cross.

They will call on you-and-you-and you.

While General Campaign Chairman Alan Sprague, chairman of residential areas Mrs. Herbert McCabe, and their assistants are confident of the outcome, success won't be assured unless the wholehearted support of residents of the city is forthcoming.

This morning 150 male canvassers called on the downtown business sections of the city as did those of other communities in the district.

Planes Over District

Royal Canadian Air Force planes roared over the city and district shortly after 9:30 this morning dropping leaflets calling the public attention to the campaign. This evening at 5:30 they will repeat the stunt.

Campaign officials respectfully request all citizens to be courteous to the canvassers, all of whom are giving of their time and effort free of charge.

They suggest that porch-lights be left burning in order to facilitate the work of the canvassers so that the "blitz" can be concluded in the shortest time possible.

Reports of the success of the "blitz" will be aired from time to time over station CJBQ.

Later reports from Trenton, Wellington, Madoc, Marmora, Tweed, Picton and other centres which are staging the blitz in conjunction with the city organization will be promulgated over the air.

Residents are requested to leave their contributions with neighbors if circumstances force them to be absent from their homes.

Give generously when the canvasser calls.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, March 11 (CP)—Stock market prices drifted lower today in early afternoon dealings as yesterday's decline spread to all sections.

Industrials, golds, base metals and western oils opened irregularly as slightly firmer support checked industrials' and base metals' recession. Within the first hour, however, support weakened and industrials and metals again turned lower. The trend then spread rapidly to golds and oils.

Volume for the first three hours was 1,859,000 shares.

Papers, refining oils and manufacturing companies led industrials lower. Steels and retail stores held gains and losses in balance but agricultures, constructions and miscellaneous issues weakened. Banks and utilities edged upwards.

Western oil losses ranged from pennies to about 25 cents. Anglo-Canadian, Central Explorers, Federated Petroleum, Long Island Petroleum, Scurry and Trans Empire traded lower.

Base metals slipped as Cassiar, Coldstream Copper, International Nickel, Mindamar, Quebec Manitou United Asbestos and United Keno Hill posted losses ranging to about 25 cents.

Senior golds dipped. Giant Yellowknife, McIntyre and Wright-Hargreaves turned lower. Secondary issues showed a broad list of penny declines.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

Toronto, March 11 — (CP) — Ontario stockyards cattle trade was fairly active today with prices 50 cents lower on steers and about steady on other grades. Receipts: cattle 520; calves 30; hogs 230; sheep and lambs 30. The holdover from Monday was 1,200 cattle.

Medium to good weighty steers sold at $25-$27 with a few choice upward to $28. Medium to good light steers and heifers were selling at $24-$26.50 with a few good heifers bringing $27. Good cows were at $22-$23.50 while a few heavy bulls brought from $17-$20. Fed yearlings sold mostly $25-$29.50 according to quality.

Calves were at $32-$34 for choice vealers and from $25-$31 for common to medium.

Hog prices were at $26 for Grade A with sows $15 dressed.

Queen's to Enter Field of Research, Graduate Study

London. Ont., March 11. (CP)—Queen's University immediately is to enter the field of research and graduate study on a scale exceeding every Canadian university but McGill, Rev. S. M. Gilmour, principal-elect of Queen's Theological College, said here last night.

Although he was not authorized to give the details, Dr. Gilmour intimated that the research program will be financed by a large sum from private sources. An official announcement will be made soon, he said.

Speaking to members of the local branch, Queen's Alumni Association, and their guests here, Dr. Gilmour hailed the development as a new era in the life of Queen's.

Money will be available from private sources as it never has been before, he said, to encourage graduate study and research and it "very soon" may put Queen's in the forefront in that field.

Only students with outstanding qualifications will be accepted, Dr. Gilmour said, but men from all over Canada will be able to apply for scholarships "better than anywhere else in Canada, except McGill," he suggested the McGill

Together with the Commonwealth "we shall win through again."

But one can go only so far cutting imports before one starts reducing one's own export market, and exports are vital to the British economy, he said.

"We shall have to provide for an increase of about £50,000,000 in the volume of exports.

"This means a tremendous task for our exporters but we must help them and safeguard the employment of our people."

Extra supplies of steel from the United States should enable an upward movement.

In view of the overriding need for exports home investment will have to be reduced substantially. This was the reason for the boost in the bank rate.

The announcement drew cries of "shame" from the Labor opposition.

Make Money Scarcer

"One of the surest ways to make sterling stronger is to make it scarcer, and that is what we intend to do," Butler said.

"If the budget is to fulfil its main function and restore confidence in the pound, it must further reduce government expenditure and make a significant effort in reducing taxation . . ."

"This country has taken on far too much at once—as anyone outside would agree."

He then announced that an excess profits tax will be imposed on business firms, backdated to Jan. 1.

"Sacrifices should be equally borne," Butler said. "I am not prepared to see excessive profits being made as a result of rearmament."

The levy on profits would be 30 percent of the excess profit or 18 percent of the total profit, whichever was less.

Need More Exports

He said Britain's economic woes resulted because exports failed to expand quickly enough to meet the rising cost of imports. Deficit on balance of payments over the year was £400,000,000 more than expected.

Speaking of the Commonwealth, Butler said prices for tin, rubber and wool which were so high in 1950 and 1951 are falling closer to normal levels.

Speaking of the drain on the sterling area's gold and dollar reserves, Butler said:

"If they had been allowed to run down, we here in this island would, before the end of the year, have found ourselves unable to secure either our daily bread or the raw materials upon which both employment and production depend."

By the end of 1951 the reserves stood at only £835,000,000.

The chancellor said $2,000,000,000 have been lost from gold and dollar reserves since last June.

To halt the drain, fresh import restrictions will have to be imposed, he said. This will reduce imports from all sources to about £3,150,000,000—a reduction of 10 percent from 1951.

But industry's essential needs will be met and stocks will not be reduced below a reasonably-safe level, he said.

Judge Orders Rail Unions To End Strike

Cleveland, O., March 11 — (AP) — A federal judge today ordered three rail unions to end their strike and to keep the walkout from spreading to other lines.

Judge Emerich B. Freed granted a government suit to end immediately the strike started Sunday morning against the New York Central lines west of Buffalo and the St. Louis terminal line.

He scheduled a hearing for March 19 on the government's request for a permanent injunction. The hearing will start two days before today's 10-day temporary injunction expires.

Unless engineers, firemen and conductors call off their strike, they are liable to fines and imprisonment for contempt of court.

Gen. Eisenhower Expected to Win In New Hampshire

Concord, N. H., March 11—AP—The country's first presidential primary election began early today in New Hampshire, bringing thousands of voters to the polls in a contest closely watched by both major political parties and the men they may nominate this year.

Voters cast their ballots to do three things:

1. Elect candidates and alternates to the Republican and Democratic conventions in Chicago this summer. The conventions nominate the candidates for president.
2. Express their preference for the next president.
3. Write in the name of their choice for vice-president, although no candidates were listed in that category.

New Hampshire sends 14 representatives to the Republican convention and eight to the Democratic.

Republicans chose from among Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Senator Robert E. Taft, Harold E. Stassen and William R. Schneider, St. Louis lawyer—or anyone else whose name they cared to write in.

Democrats picked between President Truman and Estes Kefauver of Tennessee—or any write-in they wanted.

In some communities, voting on local questions will precede the presidential primary balloting, and the counting of ballots on local questions will be completed before the tabulation on the bigger contest.

For that reason, New Hampshire officials said that if both the Republican and Democratic races are close there may be no decisive trends apparent before Wednesday morning.

Political observers expected the vote to go over the 100,000-mark, setting records for many communities.

Major interest focused on the struggle between Eisenhower and Taft on the Republican side.

This is Eisenhower's first test in the national political arena. He is in Europe as military head of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and has neither appeared nor participated in the manoeuvres in New Hampshire.

New Hampshire may be the test of Taft's vote-getting abilities. He campaigned hard in the state, making 36 speeches in three days and firing most of his big guns at the Democratic administration and at his opponents who argued that if nominated, he could not be elected.

Eisenhower was generally believed to have a slight edge over Taft in the race.

In the Democratic contest, Kefauver conceded he was fighting an up-hill battle against Truman backers.

Meek to Hang For Murdering Employer's Wife

Cornwall, March 11. (CP)—Elias Meek, 21, last night was sentenced to be hanged June 10.

The Cornwall district farmhand was convicted of the Sept. 28 knife murder of Mrs. Dolly Alguire at her farm home, 10 miles north of here.

When jury foreman Herbert Riley of Cornwall announced the verdict after four hours deliberation, the only sound that could be heard in the crowded court room was the sobbing of Meek's two sisters.

Meek's defence counsel, J. C. Horwitz of Ottawa, immediately announced he would appeal the verdict handed down by Mr. Justice H. A. Aylen.

When Mr. Justice Aylen asked Meek if he had anything to say before sentence was passed, Meek quietly replied: 'No Sir."

As the judge passed sentence, Allan Alquire, the murdered woman's husband wept openly. Meek's aged father sat motionless beside defence counsel Horwitz, then leaned forward and shook hands with him.

The trial opened March 3 and resumed yesterday after a weekend recess. A previous two-day hearing judged Meek sane enough to face trial for murder after defence contended he was suffering from schizophrenia a split personality.

Member Says Minister Getting 'Lobby-Eyed'

Ottawa, March 11—(CP)—J. W. Murphy (PC—Lambton West) applied a new term—"lobby-eyed"—to Finance Minister Abbott in the commons last night.

He said Mr. Abbott is "getting sort of lobby-eyed" because he suspects lobbyists in every parliamentary corner. The minister saw lobbies in delegations representing motor car and cigaret manufacturers and in a newspaper ad criticizing taxes on refrigerators.

Mr. Murphy said no one favored certain types of lobbies, such as those in the United States, but the groups coming to Ottawa to seek lower taxes had been forced by Mr. Abbott himself to make representations.

Mr. Abbott interjected that he had nothing against legitimate representations, but he did not think groups such as motor-car dealers should try to "influence" members.

"My only objection is that they try to make Charlie McCarthys of members of parliament," he said.

"You're the Charlie McCarthy of those advisers of yours, if you ask me," Mr. Murphy retorted.

Mr. Murphy said Mr. Abbott had made a "bad blunder" when he increased the tax on cigarets last year.

The only way the tobacco industry could be revived would be for taxes to be reduced to a point where a package of 20 cigarets could sell for 30 cents instead of 42 cents.

The government should not hold back taxation cuts for an election year.

"We should have an end to this political budgetting," said Mr. Murphy.

WOMEN'S CORPS FORMED

Tokyo, March 11 — (Reuters)—Peiping radio said yesterday that red China's first women's air corps pilots have completed one year of rigorous training and flew in formation over Peiping.

ST. LAURENT

He asked the government to stand by its present "excellent" immigration program—which has brought more than 500,000 persons to Canada since the end of the war—and not to give in to those who seek a reduction in the flow of immigrants. Immigrants brought new wealth, new industries and now jobs to this country.

Slams Taxation Policies

J. M. Macdonnell (PC—Toronto Greenwood), financial critic for the official opposition, criticized the government's taxation policies and urged it to make every effort to recover lost markets in the United Kingdom. The government's tax policies had increased trade difficulties.

James Sinclair (L—Coast-Capilano), parliamentary assistant to Finance Minister Abbott, suggested the government was pursuing a wise course in reaping big budgetary surpluses and reducing the national debt. That was more than the Conservatives had done in their years in office.

John Diefenbaker asked the government to initiate a federal-provincial conference to discuss the proposed redistribution of parliamentary seats. A plan should be worked out to prevent provincial representation from falling below a certain figure.

Hazen Argue (CCF—Assiniboia) asked for a federal authority to establish floor prices for meats and to control their retail prices as a protection for agriculture. Declining meat prices, partly due to the foot-and-mouth outbreak, were threatening the farmers.

Mr. St. Laurent replying to Mr. Drew's protest over the Pearson New York speech, said he takes "a quite divergent" view from that of Mr. Drew on the question of constitutional practices.

In his view, it is not the practice of the government "to ask parliament to approve of the responsibility it exercises in advising the Governor-General as to administrative government."

Will Inform House

"With respect to external affairs," he went on, "if any new commitment is to be made or to be recommended by the government, it will be declared to the House and will not become a commitment until the House has had an opportunity of saying whether or not it has confidence in a government that is prepared to make that kind of a commitment."

If parliament did not have that confidence, it could overthrow the Cabinet.

He noted that Mr. Pearson is chairman of the North Atlantic Council and that his use of the word "we" in speeches does not necessarily refer to Canada.

Mr. Drew, in his protest, took exception to Mr. Pearson's declarations that "we" should tell Red China that any new aggressions will be met by collective agreement, that no aggressor should expect to be admitted to the United Nations, that Formosa can not be allowed to fall into red hands while the Korean war continues, but that we do not intend to overthrow the communist rulers of Red China itself.

Mr. Drew said:

"Unless we are to have authority over decisions affecting the future of Canada, the parliament certainly can no longer claim to assert its proper authority on behalf of the people of Canada."

News of Trenton

Ample Supplies Of Lumber Have Been Delivered

Trenton (Special) — Ample supplies of lumber have been delivered to Trenton due to excellent logging conditions prevailing throughout the north country this winter. Cord wood is hard to get because the chemical industry is buying every available stick at higher prices for processing into various chemical products. The left-overs from the cordwood are marketed as charcoal.

Local dealers are paying $18 a cord for hardwood in the bush.

FILLED TO CAPACITY

Trenton — Excepting for the maternity ward the Trenton Memorial Hospital continues to be filled to capacity.

Since the hospital was officially opened a little over a year ago more than 2,650 patients have received treatment there.

CELLARS FLOODED

Trenton — Heavy downpour of rain in the last 24 hours has caused flooding of cellars and sewers in many parts of the town.

Today the town office was deluged with calls from the townspeople for assistance in pumping their cellars out.

At one point down by the air station drainage from the airfield was running across No. 2 highway.

APPLICATIONS RECEIVED

Trenton — Town clerk O. W. Larry has received several replies to an advertisement for a new town engineer.

A week ago Heino Riga, engineer since August tendered his resignation and it was accepted. Mr. Riga leaves his post April 1. Council will hold a meeting shortly to deal with the applications.

ENQUIRIES RECEIVED

Trenton — With one large industry already secured and slated to commence building a factory here this spring other enquiries for industrial sites are being received a town official reported today.

A heavy industry prepared to spend several millions in Canada is still negotiating for a location here. Last fall it was understood this company was looking for land elsewhere.

TOWN IS "BLITZED"

Trenton — The town is being blitzed by 250 Red Cross canvassers today. Honorary chairman of the local committee chief constable Jack Taylor has requested residents to leave their porch lights burning between 7 and 9 p. m. this evening until after the canvasser has left. Objective of $2500 for Trenton is expected to be reached.

Bell Microwave Radio System Will be in Operation by Time TV Inaugurated Rotarians Told

The Buffalo-Toronto section of the Bell Telephone's projected Buffalo-Toronto-Montreal microwave radio system will be in operation by the time television is inaugurated in Toronto this year, H. G. Young, the company's general manager in charge of the project, said in an address at a luncheon meeting of the Belleville Rotary Club at noon yesterday.

The Buffalo-Toronto link in the system will comprise a transmitting station at Buffalo, a relay station at Fonthill and a receiving station in Toronto. "The Toronto-Montreal section, comprising 11 relay points and terminal stations in Toronto, Ottawa and Montreal, will be completed in 1953," Mr. Young said.

The system will provide additional long distance telephone circuits between Toronto, Ottawa and Montreal, and also two channels for television transmission between Toronto and Montreal.

Describing some of the problems involved in testing possible routes for the microwave system, Mr. Young mentioned that it had been found while testing between Fonthill and Toronto that Lake Ontario, over which the signals must pass, tended to act as a reflector. Such reflection caused interference resulting in fading of the television image.

"This problem has been solved by a fortunate quirk of microwave transmission," Mr. Young explained. "Signals transmitted at different frequencies do not fade at the same time from this cause, and, therefore, the television signals will be carried on two frequencies. Special equipment in Toronto will automatically switch from one frequency to the other as reception changes, thus keeping the signals at the highest quality."

Land Already Purchased

Towers in the system will range from 50 feet up to 200 feet in height. Land has already been purchased for the erection of these towers and work on them has begun, Mr. Young said.

A steel tower of such sturdy construction that it will not sway appreciably even in the strongest wind will be built at each relay point, Mr. Young said. In addition, buildings to house the equipment will have to be constructed, in many cases roads built to the station, and power and telephone lines brought in. Emergency power equipment will be provided to ensure operation of the system despite power failures. The stations will average about 27 miles apart.

The speaker was introduced by Rotarian Grant Proctor while the expression of appreciation was made by Rotarian Stan Goodwin.

Other guests and visiting Rotarians including T. A. Werriner of Toronto, Rev. A. E. Mackenzie of Toronto, A. Baldwin of Northport, and T. K. Franklin, W. H. Finkle, H. J. Code and Donald Moorman of Belleville were introduced by Arthur Francis and welcomed by song.

Birthday roses were given to C. B. McGuire and William C. Springer by Harold Parker on behalf of the club.

A TRAM SURPRISE

Montrealers are finding out very quickly that municipal ownership of the transportation system is not all that many of them hoped that it might be.

Montreal Tramways Co., from which the city took over the system last year, was continually in hot water with the public over a long period of years. Criticisms of its operating policies covered a wide range, the chief of which were: inadequate service, outdated rolling stock and lack of proper personnel training.

Now the city — or a commission responsible thereto — is operating the transit system, and citizens are finding out to their sorrow and dismay that conditions are considerably worse than they ever were under private ownership.

More to the point, despite the fact that, as a publicly owned system it is relieved of the heavy tax burden which the tramways company was forced to carry, the question of an increase in fares has arisen. — (Montreal Financial Times.)

NATURE'S BALANCE

Mr. James Hartley, M.L.A. for MacLeod, has mentioned a new crop hazard, mice. Grain that has been in the swath or stook all winter is being destroyed "by mice in their millions."

And at the same time Mr. Hartley has drawn attention to the cause, or to a cause. He recalls that an intensive war against coyotes has been waged for the past couple of years, with a good deal of public money going into the war, and thousands of coyotes have been taken out of circulation. Coyotes feed largely on mice.

Sheep men are mostly responsible for the anti-coyote campaign. These wild dogs haven't been bothering other types of farm livestock to any great extent, although chickens and perhaps the odd calf have been taken. But the loss in wheat, caused by killing coyotes, may be much greater than the loss in sheep which would have been caused by not killing coyotes.

It's always dangerous to upset nature's balance.—Calgary Albertan.)

DOUGLAS FIR, 1,106 YEARS OLD

It was written in England three hundred years ago — "Generations pass while some trees stand, and old families last not three oaks" — and it comes back to mind as one reads an item telling of the felling of a Douglas fir on Vancouver Island. It had a circumference of 15 feet, and was reckoned to be 1,106 years old. That tree was firmly rooted in the forest when the Conqueror landed at Pevensey and Harold died at Hastings; had, in fact been growing a matter of two centuries then. It had reached noble proportions by the time William Rufus was slain, Stephen was taken prisoner and Matilda was crowned. It was two hundred and fifty years old when Westminster Hall was built, the hall in which the late King George VI lay in state before his funeral. A colossus of the forest, it was growing old when John was forced to sign at Runnymede. —(Halifax Chronicle-Herald.)

NO RED KING?

According to Radio Free Europe, some leading chees players in Soviet Russia advocate changing the names of some of the chess pieces as being too "capitalistic."

They mention especially the "king" and "queen"—which in some capitalistic societies are mainly of historical interest. We can imagine that the antireligious state might take objection also to the "bishop" in his turn.

The name principally proposed for substitution is "stakhanovite," or high-production worker. That term in the Communist attempt at speed-up of socialized industry might equate roughly with "knight." But surely the higher values would be reserved for "commissar" and "marshal."

At the lower end of the scale is a piece whose name would not have to be changed at all. The "pawn" should fit instantly and naturally into the Stalinist nomenclature. —(Christian Science Monitor.)

MORE TRAFFIC DEATHS

Traffic accidents in Ontario took 48 lives in the first month of this year, 26 of the victims being pedestrians. Ten drivers, nine pedestrians and three cyclists were killed.

The January toll of 48 killed compares with 47 a year earlier, but is lower than the same month of previous peak accident years, 1941, 1949 and 1950.

As usual, excessive speeds, breaches of safe driving and safe walking rules were prominent in the accident causes. The only encouraging feature was a decrease in child pedestrian deaths. Three children were killed in the month compared with six in January of last year. — (Port Arthur News Chronicle.)

EARNING POWER

My boy, no meter will display
Your earning power from day to day.
No company that you can choose
Can furnish you with power to use
And regularly send a bill
Each month for so much strength of will.

The earning power that you require
Won't come to you by pipe or wire
As water, was and current flow.

You are the only dynamo
That can provide the force you'll need
In your ambition to succeed.

Within yourself, your heart and mind,
Your earning power you'll have to find.
It is a blend of faith and skill,
Courage, tenacity of will,
And for the kind of work you do
Your earnings will be paid to you.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

March 11th., 1932

More than 200 crippled children in Belleville have been given treatment by medical specialists through the efforts of the Belleville Rotary Club. Numerous cures have been made and some cases are under treatment now here and in Toronto.

The traffic difficulties in the city and country caused by the recent heavy fall of snow are being overcome gradually. The roads are badly rutted and great care has to be taken in driving.

Since the heavy snow storm the coal dealers have received more orders for coal than they have received in many weeks. The winter has been mild and considerable wood has been used in place of coal. Now it is a little colder and coal is desired.

Marking the 13th. anniversary of the formation of their lodge orchestra, Eureka Lodge No. 283 A. F. & A. M. entertained the members of the orchestra and other members of the lodge at a banquet following the regular meeting of the lodge. The orchestra was formed some years ago by W. B. Riggs. The present conductor is Reg. Hinchey and he cut the birthday cake.

March 11th., 1922

Mr. S. A. Lockwood has purchased from Mr. John G. Shaw the brick residence on Highland Avenue formerly occupied for some years by Prof. D. R. Coleman.

Dr. A. B. Haffner of New York City, has taken over the office and practice of Dr. McCulloch, Campbell Street. Dr. McCulloch will locate in Toronto.

Letters have been received from Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Cook of this city who are spending some time in the Old Country. Mr. Cook, who has crossed many times, says that the trip over was the roughest in his experience.

Mr. Charles Wills of the Hydro staff at Hamilton spent the weekend here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Casper Wills, Yeomans Street.

New members of the Rotary Club who were introduced at the luncheon today were: Arthur McGie, Douglas Reid and Beaumont Jarvis.

Trenton Golf Club recently elected the following officers: Hon. President, James Little; President, Harry F. Whittier; Vice President, C. K. Temple; Secretary, E. M. Parker; Treasurer, Mrs. Temple; Committee, J. H. Sills, B. H. Siddall, T. F. Rixon, J. Tinney and Dr. Farncombe.

March 11th., 1912

The annual meeting of the Sidney Township Sunday School Association was held at Centenary Church. The Rev. E. F. Howard, the pastor of the church, opened the meeting after which the President, E. B. Lott, took the chair. Of the thirteen schools in the district ten were represented and the reports submitted were most encouraging. At the evening session, F. E. O'Flynn of Belleville, took up a "model class", composed of a number of young men from the audience. Mr. O'Flynn illustrated his method of teaching a lesson that had not been prepared by the class. Mrs. D. E. Coon took up the study of a lesson and showed her method of instruction. H.K. Denyes gave an interesting talk on the adult Bible class movement. The following officers were elected: President, E. B. Lott; Vice President, W. H. Finkle; Superintendents of Departments, —Elementary, Mrs. D. E. Coon; Adult Bible Class, F. Rikel; Teacher Training, W. H. Finkle; Home, John M. Bell; Missionary and Temperance, Mrs. George Clarke; Delegate to Provincial convention, W. H. Shorey.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

GOOD GOVERNMENT

In a free land every citizen has his responsibility to perform if he desires good government. As Abraham Lincoln put it: "Government of the people, by the people, and for the people." No one is to be left out if it's a free government. But this kind of a government must have its alert watchers all the time.

Government, first of all, belongs to the people, not they to the government. A stock owner in a corporation is concerned with how that organization is run and keeps an eye upon all its workings. If irregularities or crookedness is evidenced, that stock owner does something about it—and that pronto! We as stockholder citizens in our Government should be just as concerned. We can't have good government when we pay no attention as to how it is run.

No government can ever be perfect, but it can be kept honest. If the people's representatives, elected by them, do not perform honestly they can be voted out, and they always should, regardless of any party affiliation. Nothing in a free government is so important as the privilege of the ballot. Those who do not faithfully use it do not deserve good government. Always register, and vote at any election, or forever hold your tongue in criticism, should be the procedure.

The moral and spiritual fibre of a nation begins its deterioration the moment a citizen neglects his duty to government. Nothing is more sacred in a democracy than the free privilege of the ballot. All of us suffer humiliation when an elected representative of ours violates his oath of office, or turns to selfish personal gain. William E. Gladstone, the great English statesman, once said: "It is the duty of government to make it easy for the people to do right and difficult to do wrong."

We are witnessing these days too many instances where government has been making it too easy for some to do wrong. The corrective process still remains with the individual voter. It's his government and he should take pride in the fact.

FIRST TOTAL $1,605

Toronto, March 11 (CP) —First collections from Toronto's 625 newly-installed parking meters totalled $1,605.80. Some 1,350 meters will be in place by the end of this week and are expected to yield $200,000 a year.

OUR TOWN

BY JACK SCOTT

THE LAST WORD

The idea of a housing development for old age pensioners, which I've been discussing here, has been tried in various forms. An experiment in the pulp and paper town of Powell River is an interesting example.

Fred Parsons writes me about it. The scheme is tied in with the accident-prevention program at the mill and, in effect, the company has a standing bet with the employees.

For every day the mill runs without a lost-time accident the company pays five-cents-per-employee into a fund for Senior Citizen Housing. That comes to around $85 to $90 aday. The fund, in turn loses five dollars for every day an accident victim is off.

Last year the company paid a cool $11,600, Mr. Parsons writes, and the first eight houses have been built and occupied on twelve acres of land deeded by the company. The employees' committee hopes to build at least twenty such houses and plans for a community hall and a laundry, The rent is $10 a month.

This is limited to retired employees and, also, of course, it is a subsidized plan, but it shows what can be done.

I admire, too, the simple dedication of Fred Parsons: "We believe that there is still some substance in the old commandment, 'Honor thy father and mother'. A nation which cannot respect its pioneers is poor indeed."

Another example of a plan exclusively for pensioners is operating at Garden Bay, Pender Harbor, according to Mrs. W. Bristow.

Mrs. Bristow tells me that there are several cottages there for the use of elderly people who, as she puts it, "are too old or feeble to be left alone in an isolated spot, yet would be miserable if brought to the city to end their days in an institution or in the kind of rooms they could afford to rent."

The cottages are used in connection with the work of the Columbia Coast Mission and are largely financed by the Church of England.

Again this is a semi-charity affair and not comparable to the project I've been talking about. But it is one answer to a particular problem.

There is, too, a group known as the Senior Citizens' Homes Association Ltd., and its president, J. E. Paynter, tells me the 24 homes have been built for rent "to married pensioners or for two women who will be contented to keep house together." I hope to accept Mr. Paynter's invitation to look over his development.

Mr. Roy Compbell, an electrical engineer who has offered his services should the dream come true, has an interesting comment.

"Your column," he writes, "brought back memories of a story I read about the Robbie Burns Memorial. A large sum has been collected for a monument or some such token of remembrance.

"Someone suggested a group of cottages be erected at a cross roads in Burns' home district to house the old folk. These were offered at a very nominal rent and came in single and double sizes. When one of an old couple passed on the widow or widower would move into a single dwelling and still remain among old companions.

"We have just lost a humble and great man similarly loved by all in the late King George. Why not have another memorial?"

Mr. Campbell offers not only his services, but his partner has agreed to making the town planning layout and water and drainage plans.

Another man, an established architect who prefers anonymity, has written to me to say that he would be glad to design the cottages as his contribution.

Finally, a letter from Norman Seymour, of New Westminster, who tells me that his parents have, in effect, tried out the plan and found it worked.

"If you are ever driving up the Fraser Valley stop in at a small cottage, reached by the attached directions," Mr. Seymour writes. "There you'll find my parents, both over 70, living as old people ought to live.

"Their little home has but two rooms, but it was designed by an architect and everything is as compact as the inside of a trailer and twice as homey. This was built for only $1200 five years ago, the lot itself costing only $350. They have their own vegetable and flower garden and a half-dozen chickens. On their $100 monthly pension they live very well indeed.

"My father read of your plan and was enthusiastic. If it were done on a mass scale it would surely bring the same contentment and happiness in old age that they have known since leaving the city."

Well, there it is. I'm sorry to have taken up so much time with a subject that can only interest a minority of readers, but this whole idea is exciting with possibilities.

If there were some way of getting only a few old people out of their miserable rooms and into a new life it would be a wonderful thing and perhaps a forerunner to a new kind of consideration of our senior citizens.

Strength for the Day

WAR IS INCONSISTENT

The greatest arousal of peace sentiment that the world has known for two thousand years began about the year 1900 with the organization of peace societies and the attempt on the part of idealists, statesmen, and great business men the world over to do away with war. They realized that war is inconsistent with the humane sentiments of modern life, that it destroys more property than any peace settlement can pay for, and that from beginning to end war is always bad business, bad economics, bad morals.

It is interesting to note that two of the most outstanding business men of modern times, Andrew Carnegie and Henry Ford, were particularly interested in peace, which speaks volumes for its economic advantages. For centuries the peace movement had consisted of a feeble minority protest made either by idealists far ahead of their age, or by pacifists who disbelieved in war under any circumstances.

Today there are millions of people in the world who have sworn never to let an opportunity pass by to raise their voices against war.

And these people are not pacifists, not mere dreamers, not theorists, but people who believe that war jeopardizes and may perhaps destroy the social benefits that modern civilization confers.

HOW SILLY CAN A WOMAN GET?

I am a woman 46 years old and recently had a few facials as the muscles of my face were beginning to droop.

(This is going to be good. Let the poor creature continue.)

The type of facial I had is supposed to be the very latest electronic system.

(Quiet, please. You haven't heard the half of it yet.)

They are wave therapy treatments, which, as you probably know. . . .

(Therapy, as you evidently don't know, is a $5.98 way of saying treatment.)

. . . are two rods with electric current in their ends.

This is applied to the muscles of the face which in turn is supposed to exercise and tone the muscles.

(As long as elementary physiology and hygiene are so carefully neglected in school and college, the credulous sex will cling to the fatuous belief that a machine or a messeuse can do their exercising for them, and once a woman turns that way from the road to health she may say, goodbye to beauty.)

After taking 10 my face felt firm and less flabby but they are expensive and I could not afford to keep them up.

(Nonsense! Women spend more than a million dollars a day for cosmetic nostrums and what purports to be "beauty" treatment.)

I am wondering now if they might have been harmful, as my face looks droopier than before I took them. If they are not harmful I'll try to take another course. . .

(Signed) ....

(No, they are not harmful, so far as I know. Most of the "beauty" monkeyshines used by women are harmless, if ye disregard the waste of money and time which, wisely used, might enable the woman to conserve any beauty she may have. What a woman seeks, in vain, when she invests in cosmetics o "beauty therapy" is the appearance or look of youth. When you have been sufficiently "amazed" by the marvellous skin creams and electronic gadgets, Stupid, send me 25c and stamped self-addressed envelope for the booklet The 7 Keys to Vite. The definition of v-i-t-e begins like this: The preservation of the characteristics of youth, better-than-average nutritional condition, etc. etc.)

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Scared

Will the fact that a person is scared of the blood pressure machine make the blood pressure go up higher than it is when the person is calm? —(Mrs. C. C.)

Answer—Yes. Why be scared? The gadget can't hurt you.

Heart Tonic

I want to tell you the heart tonic you recommend in the CVD booklet has done more for me in two months than all the digitalis and pills I have taken in four years. . .(H. C. E.)

Answer—Naturally. For the booklet CVD, dealing with heart and artery troubles, send 25c and stamped, self-addressed envelope.

How to Be Happy

I am a victim of migraine and I M. Told you have a good treatment for it. We get great pleasure and fine health advice from your articles—when they are printed. Happy bowling! (Mrs. S. E.)

Answer—Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for pamphlet Why Have Headache? I imagine one could be happy on the bowling green but for the fact that when one reveals a tobacco pouch all the cadgers whip out pipes and come a-running.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Those of us who are devoted window-shoppers are obliged to call the attention of the merchants to the fact that their window dise can't be seen for the art. With

In large numbers of good shop windows, not only in the big stores but even in some of the smaller stores on expensive real estate down town, the merchandise can't be seen for the art. With Easter drawing nigh, the window dressers, who feel their art is greater than merchandise, let their fancies go free. Not merely is nine tenths of the window space given over to modernistic experiments in design, but what little marchandise remains is entirely bedazzled out of the picture. And we who like to toddle along the street gazing in windows at merchandise, at goods, at Things, are frustrated. We get that uneasy, slightly self-conscious feeling which assails us in art galleries.

A shop window is supposed to be paused in front of. Its purpose is to halt the passer-by, and entice him within. And there are thousands of us eager to be enticed. We are the window-shoppers.

If the general managers of the stores would cross the road and get their neighbors to let them stand upstairs at a window, from which they can watch the passing throngs, they would get an eye-opener. It is astonishing how few people halt, let alone slow down, in pedestrian traffic down town. The characteristic down-town foot traffic just swirls along, with never an eye to the right or the left.

How different in the up-town shopping streets. They are now the window-shoppers' paradise. Since the up-town merchants cannot afford window dressers who wear berets, or even small beards, they have to do a home-made job. And the windows are full of what shop windows are for. Things.

Chaos But No Panic As Grandstand Collapses

Some of the 200 persons injured when temporary stands built for the Sonja Henie ice show collapsed at a Baltimore, Md., armory, are shown as they scrambled among the debris. The Fifth Regimental Armory, gaily decorated for the first night performance, was converted into a temporary hospital minutes after the wooden stands, folding chairs and nearly 1,000 men, women and children plunged to the floor. — Central Press Canadian.

Farm Forum Notes

Four forums reported, Brookdale, Foxboro, Hazzards and River Valley with an aggregate attendance of [illegible].

The ideas with regard to immigrants were varied. River Valley suggests that the majority of immigrants have a roving or adventurous nature and have only left home to see more country before they settle down. They also suggest that farmers have to appreciate their own industry and present it in a more gracious manner to their employees.

Needs Organization

Foxboro states that agriculture must be better organized to compete with other industries.

Hazzards think that immigrants go on the farms only to complete passage fare to this country, this tends to make them despise the industry of agriculture and use it only as a stepping stone to something better. When one considers lack of understanding, less pay for more work, long hours, the wonder is so many stay rather than leave the farm.

Brookdale speaks along the same line. Immigrant labor leaves the farm because they are free to choose the best opportunity with the advantage of better pay and shorter hours.

Canadian youth have much the same outlook, to better themselves financially and with more leisure time. Perhaps they are not given enough responsibility and encouragement.

Foxboro says: "The old men won't let the younger ones try their own ideas and hang on to the almighty dollar themselves."

Remedy Noted

A remedy for these conditions might be metter living conditions, year round employment, a welcome to the community life, a sympathy for the new Canadian in showing him the best side of Canadian way of life.

Proper screening is a must in admitting immigrants, letting in only those who will make good citizens, and let them know when they enter they are free men. Also don't paint Canadian life too rosy, because Canadians have their difficulties too. It is a new country and has vast unexplored resources, requiring help to develop them.

Entire British Press is Hostile To Bevan Rebels

London, March 11 (CP) — A sidelight on the left-wing revolt against Britain's rearmament program, led by Aneurin Bevan, is that virtually the entire British press is hostile to the rebels.

For more than a year since the first rumblings of dissent were heard the weight of editorial opinion has been solidly against the Bevan group, whose main claim is that the arms bill is too big.

Among daily newspapers, only the communist Daily Worker has found common cause in what is known as "Bevanism."

In the weekly magazine field, the only noteworthy sanction has come from the left-wing New Statesman and Nation and from the Tribune, whose contributors are the principal supporters of Bevan in the House of Commons.

Disapproval of rearmament - without-tears, on the other hand, has been consistently expressed not only by Conservative papers but by such independent publications as The Times, The Economist, and The Observer and by the independent Liberal Manchester Guardian and the Liberal News Chronicle.

Advanced in Pamphlet

The arguments of the Bevan group were first fully advanced last spring in a Tribune pamphlet.

Entitled "one way only," it received surprisingly harsh treatment.

In recent weeks as the rearmament issue came increasingly to the fore, the Manchester Guardian and The Times warned leaders of the Labor Party opposition against the dangers of bowing to the Bevan group—as it has often been expressed, "of allowing the tail to wag the dog."

Developments this week may show whether the Labor split is prominent or whether a compromise can be arranged. Meanwhile the Weekly Observer said yesterday in a comment that crystalizes the anti-Bevan case.

"Any individual who would stake his life on a wager that there will be no war in, say the next five years, would clearly be a reckless fool. Mr. Bevan asks Britain as a nation to act like such an individual."

Three Children Die

Bedford, Que., March 10—(CP)—Three small children died today when a fire, caused by an explosion in an oil burner, ripped through the home of their parents.

Dead are Lise Smith, 2, her sister Pierrette, 4, and their brother Robert, 6. They were the children of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Smith of Bedford.

Police said Mrs. Smith ran for help after the explosion and when she returned she was unable to get past the flames which blocked the doorway of the second-storey flat.

A passing motorist turned in the alarm and the flames were quickly brought under control, but too late to save the three children, one a cripple and another blind.

WEDDINGS

MALE—HARVEY

A quiet wedding was solemnized on Saturday, March 8th, at St. Andrew's Manse, Belleville, by the Reverend J. G.Hornsby, when Margaret Lillian Harvey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. Harvey, became the bride of Charles C. Male, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Male, of Toronto, Ontario.

The bride was attractively attired in a navy and white bengaline suit with navy accessories and wearing a corsage of pink roses. She was attended by Miss Vera Keegan of Belleville, who wore a two piece navy silk crepe ensemble with white and navy accessories and corsage of pink roses.

Mr. Arnold Ethier, of Belleville, attended the bridegroom.

Mr. and Mrs. Male left for a short wedding trip to Toronto. Upon their return they will reside in Belleville.

MACAULAY—PICCIONE

Daffodils, carnations and other spring flowers provided a lovely background in the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville, on Monday, February 25th at 9 a.m. when the Reverend L. M. Dubbery united in marriage Elda Piccione, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. M. Piccione, and Charles E. Macaulay also of Belleville, son of Mrs. R. D. Macaulay, of Mexico City, and the late Mr. R. D. Macaulay.

The Reverend Sister M. Wilhelmina rendered the traditional wedding music, assisted by four choir boys, who sang before the ceremony, "O Matchless Heart of Mary" and "To Thee, Heart of Jesus Burning," with Martin Halloran and Gregory Butler, grade 8 pupils of St. Michael's Academy, taking the solo parts, and during the mass, they rendered a "Hymn to St. Anthony."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was radiant in her bridal gown of nylon net over taffeta, featuring a molded bodice with nylon yoke outlined with matching rosettes and sheath-like sleeves ending in V-points over the wrists. The floor-length, bouffant skirt was attached to the rosette-trimmed many pointed bodice. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a coronet encrusted with seed pearls, and she carried a shower bouquet of red roses.

Miss Mary Piccione, of Belleville, sister of the bride, was her only attendant, attractively gowned in pale green nylon over taffeta fashioned with tight-fitting bodice with narrow bertha in cape effect. The skirt was full having a full, hip-length crinoline effect overskirt. She wore three-quarter length matching mitts, matching picture hat with yellow roses and carried a shower bouquet of matching yellow roses

Mr. Frank Piccione, of Toronto, brother of the bride, was groomsman; Mr. John Piccione, of Toronto, brother of the bride, and Mr. Robert J. Carey Jr., of Belleville, were ushers.

The reception was held at Lattimer's Town Room, where the bride's mother wearing dark blue crepe and lace with corsage of pink roses, received the guests. She was assisted by the bridegroom's grandmother, who was gowned in dark grey with black accessories with corsage of pink rosebuds.

Later, the young couple left for a tour of the Northern United States on their way to Vancouver, B.C., the bride travelling in a dark grey suit with grey kidskin topcoat, green accessories and corsage of red roses. Mr. and Mrs. Macaulay will reside in Vancouver, B.C.

Out-of-town guests were present from Montreal, Napanee, Frankford and Toronto.

THE LOVE OF MONEY

I had no thought of money
In childhood's care-free day,
I would not work for money
For life seemed oh! so gay;
There were wild flowers to gather
In the deep fragrant wood,
There were birds in every tree-top
And fairies bad and good.

The streams in Spring were bordered
With cowslips gleaming gold,
I gathered them, so precious,
All that my hands could hold;
The days were filled with magic,
The twilight full of dreams
Enchantment ruled my spirit
What need of gold's bright gleams?

But with the years' swift passing
I've learned the money's need,
Although I felt the evil
Of the miser's grasping greed:
But money is not a source of evil,
But the love of it, we're told,
And what blessings to the needy
Come from our gifts of gold!

Queen's Knowledge of Affairs Of State Surprises Diplomats

By R. B. MacLurkin

London, March 10—(Reuters)—The Queen has astonished British statesmen and foreign diplomats with her remarkable grasp of state affairs.

Many who were ready to treat the 26-year-old queen as a beginner have had to make a quick reappraisal. They've found she knows almost as much as they do.

Only a month after assuming the throne, Elizabeth has absorbed intricacies of current foreign questions, knows a great deal about what is going on in the commonwealth, and seems likely to become an expert on Britain's tricky colonial matters.

When she receives Prime Minister Churchill and her other statesmen she is reported to be confident and fluent. She questions them shrewdly and likes to be given sketches of personalities behind events.

With parliament in session now, she daily considers reports of her ministers and holds conferences with her private secretary, Sir Alan Lascelles, chief link between the Queen and her advisers.

The young queen also knows everything that goes on at cabinet meetings. She is supplied with every document available to top government ministers—cabinet agenda and minutes, foreign office cables, reports of cabinet committees.

Foreign ambassadors give her inside information on what is happening in their own countries.

Best-Informed Woman

All this, combined with her natural aptitude, has made her, in a matter of weeks, probably best-informed woman in the world.

But her knowledge and grasp of affairs is no surprise to men who knew her before she became queen.

Her father, King George VI, during the last year or two of his life, taught her the secrets and routine of monarchy and discussed with her—sometimes for hours at a time—world affairs, British policy and colonial affairs.

Elizabeth has made one change in the routine her father followed. It is not important—except to herself and two small individuals.

The weekly audience the prime minister has with the Sovereign used to take place at 5:30 p. m. The Queen has changed it to 6:30.

That is because in the hour between 5 and 6 in the evening Elizabeth ceases to be a monarch and becomes a mother. She spends every minute of it with her two children, Charles and Anne.

BRIDGE ST. CHURCH W.M.S.

The regular meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society of Bridge Street Church was held on Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Taylor Franklin played appropriate musical numbers. Mrs. Houston, presiding, read a few passages of scripture.

Mrs. Houston welcomed all members and visitors. The reading of the monthly reports was followed by a brief and thoughtful discourse from Mrs. Farnsworth as secretary of Christian stewardship. From the four parts of her program, temperance, peace, racial brotherhood and social welfare, she chose "Temperance" on which to base her remarks. She concluded by quoting a piece of Rudyard Kipling's.

Mrs. George Campbell and Mrs. Massey's group took charge with Mrs. Campbell presiding. Mrs. Massey read the creed of a Canadian and led in responsive reading and prayer.

Comprehensive Review

Mrs. Campbell introduced Mrs. Arthur May, the speaker of the afternoon, who gave a most comprehensive review of a few chapters of the study book, "From Lakes to Northern Lights" by Malcolm C. MacDonald, a book which sets out in factual fashion, illuminated by flashes of humor and many good stories of the work of Home Missions in Canada.

Those listening to this fine review were led in thought from that historic meeting in the old Mutual Street arena in Toronto, on June 10, 1925, to the recent york in the Maritimes, the rural conferences and their problems and the call of the city church.

She spent some time also on the Institutional church work and at greater length with new Canadians and their special needs. The helpfulness of the student ministry and the urgency of new churches was well explained.

In closing, Mrs. May read an article describing a broadcast in Belleville during which Mrs. William Doyle introduced members of her class of new Canadians, and who, in turn spoke of their pleasures and their desires in their adopted country.

A pleasant interlude was the singing of an Icelandic and a German folk song by the president, Mrs. Houston accompanied by Mrs. Hubbs.

Mrs. Montgomery moved a vote of thanks to Mrs. May for the educational review of Home Missions and to Mrs. Houston for the suitable solos. Mrs. Franklin was at the piano.

A cup of tea was served by the group in charge.

Mr., Mrs. T. Burrs Celebrate Their Silver Anniversary

Twenty - five years ago in St. Gregory's Roman Catholic Church, Oshawa, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Burrs, of Irishtown, pledged their troth with the Reverend Father Bench, officiating, and recently in commemoration of this auspicious event, they, with fifty guests, held celebration in the beautifully decorated Engineers' Hall.

The guests were received by Mrs. Burrs, who was attractively gowned in navy sheer and wearing a pink rose corsage with silver ribbons. She was assisted by Mrs. John Lattone.

The early part of the evening was devoted to cards, after which an appropriate address, signed by Mrs. E. Sondenburg, Mrs. A. Donley, Mrs. E. Mowers, Mrs. Percy Trace and Mrs. E. Lattone, was read by Mr. Alex Hickey, of Oshawa, a brother of Mrs. Burrs.

Previous to the presentation, made by Mrs. E. Lattone, of a 1847 chest of silver, and electric tea kettle, the wedding march was played by Mrs. M. Doyle. Mr. and Mrs. Burrs most graciously expressed their appreciation for the lovely gifts and for the many good wishes extended to them on this, their silver anniversary.

Refreshments were served later by Mrs. C. Young and her assistants, which included the lovely anniversary cake, cut by the bride and bridegroom of 25 years ago.

Dancing brought a happy event to a pleasing conclusion.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

A woman's who's letting her life run to seed

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a woman in my early forties, have been a widow for ten years and have two children, one 11 and one eight. The last one was a love child. The father and I were keeping house together, but finally broke up because of the interference of outsiders. He always brought his money home, and as I worked nights, he helped with the housework over weekends. After we broke up, I met another man, nicer-looking than the first, but he doesn't help me either financially or with the housework. Yet I like his personality, and when we go out, he does always bear all expenses.

Now the first man says he sees where he did wrong, and he would like to come back with me, particularly on account of his child. He has always continued to give me money to care for the child, but he would like to be with her more of his time.

I don't want to come right out and tell the second man that I want to go back to the first one, so what do you think I should do?—D.

Dear D.:

What I think you should do is either to get married or stop living with either of these men. Since you are a widow, I can't imagine why you prefer to have affairs instead of getting married again and leading a respectable life. What sort of home is it for children to grow up in, living with parents who are not married to each other?

My advice to you is that you have the decency to be honest and frank with this second man, tell him you intend to marry the father of your second child, then do so and start making the right kind of home for your children. Keep on the way you're going and both your own life, and your children's lives will go to seed.

A girl who'd better use some commonsense

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 16 years old and still going to high school, but I have decided to quit school and get married. My father said it was all right if I did, but he won't let me get a job, and he is not able to get me the things I really need if I am going to be married. So you can see I won't be able to get married unless I do get a job.

My fiance wants us to get married in the spring, and I can't tell him why I can't. What can I do about this?—M. M.

Dear M. M.:

I think you would be a very foolish girl to stop school before you are graduated, and I think you are much too young to get married anyhow. I am very surprised that your father has consented to your marriage, and it seems strange indeed to me that he should be willing for you to marry, but not to get a job. Or does he think you should wait and let your husband buy you the things you need?

This whole situation seems extremely wrong to me, and if neither your fiance or your father have any sense, then I hope you will be the one of the three to use your head and realize that you had better wait at least long enough to finish school before you take any other step. Once you have finished school, you can probably do as you please about getting a job. And by that time, you may not even want to get married at all, or may have found another boy you like still better than this one.

More Soap Dope

Mrs. Walter R. asks this question: Dear Miss Moore: I was reading how to make homemade soap. I was wondering if you could send me a recipe on how to make some nice white soap out of the rinds of pig and waste fat. Mrs. Walter R.

My answer to Mrs. Walter R. consists of the following recipe

PLAIN WHITE SOAP

This may be perfumed and used for hand soap.

Four pounds of solid fat (melted)—(see instructions for clarifying fat below), 1 9-ounce can lye, 5 measuring cups (1 quart milk bottle) of cold water, 1 scant cup of cold water, 3 tablespoons borax, 1-4 cup ammonia, 2 tablespoons sugar. Do not use aluminum for this. Have the 1 quart cold water in an enamel or granite container (or wooden pail), then slowly pour the lye from the can into the quart of water. It will bubble and steam and water will heat up. Allow it to cool down to room temperature. Do no put your hand in it. Mix the borax, sugar and ammonia with the 1 scant cup of water. Mix well, then add this to the lye stirring a little with a smooth stick. Warm the fat until it is a liquid but do not heat it more than this. Now cool it to 110 deg. Fahr.—warm to the hand. Add the lye slowly to the fat (not the fat to the lye) stirring slowly and continuously for 15 minutes. Do not falter—this determines the smoothness of your soap. At the end of stirring time add from 4 to 12 drops of whichever perfume you choose: oil of lavender or rose geranium, wintergreen, rose extract. Pour into flat parchment paper-lined boxes. A smooth "flat" or butterbox is ideal. Better if stored for 1 month before using. When this is hard it may be shaved on a food shredder to make chips for the washing machine which are quite satisfactory. You could divide the soap in two parts and perfume only half of it.

TO CLARIFY FATS

Some soap makers think pork and mutton fat are best for homemade soaps. Beef tallow makes the hardest soaps. Any kind of fat may be used, even oil or chicken fat or bacon grease fat in which many batches of fish have been friend. Mix the fats together. To 5 lbs. add 2 quarts cold water, then bring slowly to boiling point. Strain through double thickness of cloth and chill. Lift the layer of fat from the water. The sediment clinging to the bottom should be carefully scraped off. Heat the fat once more to evaporate off any excess water remaining in it. When the water is gone fat becomes still. Do not heat any longer or it will smoke. Harden fat once more before using it for soap.

Another letter on cleaning problems says

Dear Madam: . . .French chalk and cleaning fluid take spots off wallpaper. Well I cannot get it any place. Can you tell me where I can purchase it. . . I would be pleased if you could tell me where to buy it.—Mrs. J. P.

ANSWER:

While the suggestion may have appeared at the root of my column it was not my idea. My best advice about cleaning grease spots on wall papper is to rub them with straight, but not too hard up and down strokes with 2-day-old white bread. Keep using fresh slices of bread as they become soiled. Stubborn greased spots sometimes yield to heat. Place a double thickness of blotting paper over the grease spot. Press fairly warm iron on it, being careful not to burn your fingers or to hold it there long enough to heat the wallpaper too much. It melts the grease and the blotting paper soaks it up. Repeat.

GOOD MANNERS

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Thank-you notes are "winning" gestures

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please tell me what is the deciding factor about writing a note of thanks after one has thanked personally for a gift? For example, is it necessary to write a thank-you note for a gift which was not purchased to be a gift, but which is a sort of "hand-me-down"? A very dear friend of mine recently gave me a red-and-pearl necklace which she bought for herself several years ago and never liked. I happened to say that I was going to buy a red necklace for a dress I had bought, and the next day she sent me her necklace, which was exactly the type and color I wanted. I thanked her over the telephone. Should I also write a note of thanks?—Anita M.

The "deciding factor" about writing a note of thanks after one has thanked personally for a present is one's urge to "make assurance doubly sure" that the kind giver-of-the-gift is entirely and charmingly convinced of our appreciation. There are certain things that people of charm do and say that are overtones of courtesy . . they aren't perhaps strictly necessary, but they are heartwarming, they are chaiming, they are memorable. These endearing people are the ones who write the pleasant thank-you notes that "follow up" the spoken words of thanks. . .the girl who writes thank-you notes for her shower presents, or for presents brought to her birthday party. . .the guest who writes a note of appreciation to a hostess a day or so after a party.

We just can't make a mistake by writing a letter of thanks. . . . and the less "called for" it is, the more winning it is. It wins friends for you, wins their devotion to you ,and wins your personal satisfaction that you've made a kind bow to kindness. Just think how pleased your friend will be if you write her now telling her how enchanted you are with her present, how proudly and happily you are wearing her necklace, and that it is particularly dear to you since it once belonged to her!

Attendants' husbands (and wives) invited to rehearsal dinner

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Some time ago you suggested, in answer to the mother of a prospective groom, that it was a nice idea for the groom's parents to give the rehearsal dinner or supper. My husband and I would like to follow this suggestion of yours, and we have made out a tentative list of guests we would invite. In talking over our plans with the bride's mother (who, incidentally, is delighted with our idea to give this dinner before the rehearsal), she happened to say that two of the ushers and three of the bridesmaids are married. Would it be necessary for us to invite the wives of the ushers and the husbands of the bridesmaids?—Martha B.

Yes. . . you must invite the husbands of the bridesmaids and the wives of the ushers. (I imagine that when the bride's mother "happened to mention" that some of the attendants are married, she may have been hinting about the required courtesy of inviting the wives and husbands . . .yes?) As a matter of fact, it is taken for granted that wives (or husbands) of attendants are invited to all pre-wedding festivities.

BEAUTY

HELEN JAMIESON

Complexion Powders

Beautifying is as old as the hills. No doubt Eve, seeing her reflection in a pool, decided that her lips looked pale, so touched them with strawberry juice. Of course, we're only guessing; we weren't there.

Interest in appearance starts as soon as a little girl has sense enough to think about the subject, and it marches right on through adolescene, young ladyhood, middle-age and the winter of a woman's life. Why not? Woman is a spectacle. Self-respect should inspire her to be a pleasing one.

Distributed by King Features Syndicate

Powder should be applied to a clean skin surface.

When a girl powders her nose it does not occur to her that the practice has been going on for centuries in India, Egypt, China and Japan, as well as in Europe and the Americas. In old times, powders were compounded mainly of rice starch, clay, bismuth, or almond meal. They were perfumed with sandalwood or patchouli. Rose petals were thrown into jars containing powder, in the hope that it would pick up the subtle fragrance.

Powder not only dims the shine caused by exudations of the sebaceous glands, but it acts as a protective agent against strong sunlight, cold, harsh winds and atmospheric dust. Many products contain antiseptic elements that are beneficial. All of them are harmless. If your skin breaks out in a rash, don't get panicky and blame the powder you are using. It is more likely to be something you have eaten.

Common ingredients in powders are starch, talcum and oxide of zinc. There was a time when lead was used, but that was banned. The zinc gives body to powder, helps it to stay put instead of flying away with the first little breezelet that hits you. Some foundation cosmetics combine stearate of zinc, a bland oil and other elements. They take place of powder, but must be applied carefully to produce a smooth surface.

The fine quality of powder depends upon the ingredients used and the manner of compounding. So that there will be no grit or residue, the mixture is often blown through finest bolting cloth, though other processes are preferred by some cosmetic chemists.

Some of our high-grade powders carry perfumes that cost as much as $500 a pound. Nearly all these scents are blends or bouquets which are more popular these days than the simple flower odors that our grandmothers loved.

Powder should be applied to a clean skin surface, and powder pads should be renewed frequently.

Children of Mary Hold Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Children of Mary was held recently in St. Michael's high School.

Reverend Father Buckley gave a most interesting talk to the girls on the meaning of Lent. He explained there has been a change made in the law of abstinence this year.

The meeting adjourned after a short program.

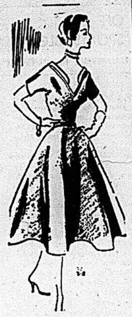
Spring Wools



Flattering daytime dress

By VERA WINSTON

While cottons have been un? dergoing a change of pace, wool hasn't stood still either. Wools are now so light, so airy, so tissue-thin that they appear in beautiful afternoon fashions. Either navy or beige is used for this sheer wool dress good for almost any smart daytime occasion. Cut on simple lines, it relies on a pretty neckline for eye appeal. The deep flattering V is outlined with self stitching and bordered on the inside like a cuff with white pique. Short sleeves, snug bodice and full flared, taffeta lined skirt complete a pretty picture.

Pesky Petes Edge Senior Hawks 4-2 To Go Two Games Up In Series

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

CLOSE ONE!

The senior Hawks deserved a better fate in that Petes tilt last night but they lacked punch around the opposing nets and thereby hangs the tale. Then too, one Harding came up with another of his outstanding performances in the Petes nets, thwarting the Hawks on several occasions when close in.

Big Vern Goyer lacked his usual dash and fire but Keith MacDonald and "Knobber" Day skated miles in an effort to pull the game out of the fire. It was a hard-checking tilt with both teams speeding both ways with plenty of play in mid-ice.

The Hawks are now two down in the semi-finals series and face a stiff task if they are to pull the next four games from the classy Petes.

Meanwhile the surprising Kingston Sacs getting plenty of OHA help even at this stage of the game, rapped the Peterborough Eagles for their second straight loss in Peterborough last night. The Petes Oshawa reinforcements have been missing since the playoffs started and the McGillis crew has been forced to recruit several junior Links players.

The Hawks travel to Peterborough on Wednesday night for the third game of the series with the Eagles back in Kingston on a ditto mission.

COBL ANNUAL TONIGHT!

Tonight the Central Ontario Baseball League goes into its annual session at the Prince George Hotel, Kingston. There will be the usual election of officers, etc., but most important of all will be entries and potential entries. We are informed that Peterborough definitely "wants in" and just what will happen to that entry is hard to guess at the moment. After all Brockville and Smith's Falls were two of the most potent teams in the loop last year and just how they will welcome a Peterborough entry is a matter, for the moment's conjecture. Picton, we understand want no part of the COBL or the Ontario Baseball Association. Batawa, we presume will enter as will Belleville and Kingston. However it all hinges, as we said before, on who wants to enter. There is talk of American teams wanting "in". But they are east o' here. Tonight will tell the story.

IT'S NOT CORN OFF THE COBB

Ty Cobb, famous American League star, comes out of retirement to give the oldtimers version of modern baseball. In the current issue of Life magazine, the famous Detroit Tigers star takes modern baseball apart.

He claims that any baseball athlete "if he has just picked up the knack of pulling the modern lively ball to the fence can get in the major leagues."

There is not a first class major league base runner extant today, claims Cobb. On the other hand, he says, today's pitchers and catchers have never learned to stop a good baserunner.

Cobb raps present day managers. "Their strategem", he says, "loses more games than it wins. All it does is slow up the game to a point where a spectator never knows what time he will get home."

Cobb pooh-poohs the bonus boys. He says the oldtimers had more brains than brawn. His articles should cause a furore in present-day major league circles. It will be interesting to note the repercussions.

MINOR HOCKEY

In order to avoid further protests or complaints about the spare goalie having taken part in games as a forward or defenceman, OMHA President Herb Parker has ruled that for all remaining games in the Ontario Minor Hockey Association playdowns, the spare goalie, if dressed in hockey gear, must wear on arm band of red or contrasting color on his left arm, above the elbow.

President Parker has also announced the appointment to the executive of J. E. C. "Jim" Austin, of Stouffville. Mr. Austin, a very active district convener for several years, takes his place on the OMHA executive immediately.

HAWKS THRIVE ON EGGS!

Looks from here as though the Chicago Black Hawk's Sunday matinees have paid off in more ways than one. In addition to the fact that the Hawks have played to some 55,684 fans for five afternoon games, the boys have had a change of diet and at the moment the "Sunday" Hawks are "egg-minded" (no reference to the shutout system) and are enjoying evenings at home with their families.

The Chicago restaurants must have noted an upsurgence in the sale of juices, bacon and eggs and toast since the Hawks took on the Sunday matinees, according to a story here. While the boys love their steaks thick and rare, the lads have had to be satisfied with the eggs and juice, especially after a tough Saturday night game. And from the record the egg diet hasn't done so bad by them.

As a Chicago hockey writer points out, the Sunday matinees "have been a box-office success and has made a hit with the players, too.

The Hawks play their final Sunday matinee on March 16th and the experiment will be ended for the season. According to President Bill Tobin, the total todate warrants the trial of the Hawks next season for as many Sunday afternoon games as possible. And who can blame him?

PEEWEE GAME

Belleville pee-wee all-stars will play the first game of a home-and-home series with Kingston Pee-Wees at the Memorial Arena on Wednesday night.

The game is slated to start at 7.00 p. m. being played in three twenty-minute periods prior to the Glen Roy-RCAF clash at 8:30.

These same two squads will play the return game in Kingston on Saturday afternoon.

Dickie Moore, Montreal Canadiens' sensational rookie forward, has established himself as quite a National Hockey League personality in his first year in hockey's big tent. In games up to the morning of March 8, Moore had played 16 consecutive games in which he'd garnered at least one point in each contest. During his 16-game streak, Dick had scored 16 goals and earned 11 assists for a total of 27 points. This isn't too far away from being two-points per game.

The well-built 21-year-old Montreal youth had missed three games during his streak through injuries. A badly swollen knee caused him to miss two games after he'd gone six straight, tabulating at least one point a game and the same knee forced him to miss a game after his streak reached 15 straight. Toronto Maple Leafs figure prominently in Moore's outstanding scoring performance as the streak originally started against the Leafs on January 23, and the Leafs supplied the opposition both times when he came back after being on the shelf with his knee injury.

Fast Hard-Checking Struggle Marks Typical Senior Tilt; Hawks Have Edge, Petes Score

An outplayed Peterborough Petes squad took full advantage of opportunities here last night and defeated Belleville Hawks 4-2 in a hard-checking senior 'B' tilt to take a two-game lead in the current semi-finals bracket.

The teams clash in Peterborough Wednesday night in the third game of the best-of-seven series.

The Hawks playing it hard both ways had an edge on territorial play throughout the game. Harding in the Petes nets was the bete noir of the Belleville squad turning back what seemed to be definite tallies.

The Hawks, flashing the brand of hockey that characterized their play in early season led the Petes 2-1 at the end of the first period.

Two in Second

The Petes flashed back with periodical breakaways. Their passing was good and they were almost poison, especially Chum Fryia in front of the Hawks nets. They shoved home a pair of goals in the second heat, one of them the cheap variety and scored another in the third session to grab the verdict.

It was fast, clean hockey, a typical Belleville-Peterborough tilt. The game was clean with referees Bill Reason and Art Casterton of Kingston handing out but nine penalties, five of them going to the Hawks. One was costly. MacDonald drew an interference sentence in the second and Chummy Fryia banged in a sloppy rebound for the tying marker. The Hawks defence looked bad on that one.

It was a nip-and-tuck battle all the way with the Hawks deserving a better fate. Their checking nullified the Petes smart passing plays but their offensives were met by a stubborn Petes defence aided and abetted by the outstanding work of Harding.

Coach "Red" Doran paced his crew with a terrific effort. Big Vern Goyer was lethargic. Keith MacDonald and "Knobber" Day skated miles as did Peter Jones and Wardhaugh. Huck Reeves was the team's opportunist, banging home the two Hawk goals in the first period.

Fryia Good

Chum Fryia was the pick of the Petes despite the fact he scored only one goal. He was a skating fool going both ways and on one occasion broke in the clear with only Lefort to beat but the stocky Hawk goalie beat him to the punch. Gus Leonard and brother Ernie with Dugan and not forgetting Harding were the pick of the Petes, the latter finger-tipping two shots that were labelled.

The teams battled for 14 minutes in the first period with a crowd of 939 thrilling to the speedy plays. Huck Reeves broke the scoring ice when he fired a hard low drive from Desjardins passout. Play raced up and down the ice with both goalies having narrow escapes then Dugan smashed home Stewart's rebound to tie the count. But Reeves flying in 10 seconds later put the Hawks one up on another low hard drive from Don Barrett's pass close in.

Hawks had a definite margin in territorial play in the second period but the opportunists Petes playing canny hockey waited for the breaks and got them. Ernie Leonard stood outside Lefort's crease and calmly poked in Robinson's rebound as the Hawk's defence looked weak. With seconds to go Chum Fryia on a Pete's breakaway fired home Gus Leonard's pass to put the Petes ahead 3-2.

The Hawks roared back to the offensive in the third period but the Petes playing a packed defence held off all their efforts. Again it was nip-and-tuck with the Hawks having the edge but they could not beat Harding and his blueline stalwarts. With six minutes to go Mason locked the door when he fired home Dugan's pass to beat Lefort.

Rookie Canadiens Share Spot With Pace-Setting Red Wings

Montreal, March 11—(CP)—Detroit Red Wings may have clinched the National Hockey League championship for the fourth time in as many years but a fair share of the spotlight covers of couple of rookies performing for Montreal Canadiens.

In team standings, the Wings have had things pretty well their own way, widening their advantages as the season progressed. Right-winger Gordie Howe of Detroit has done just about the same thing in the individual honors department.

On the other hand, Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion and Dickie Moore, are the new Canadiens who aren't doing too badly at all for themselves.

Boom Boom Bangs 'Em

Geoffrion is in fifth place in the standings, a noteworthy fact in itself. But here's where the "boom boom" comes in. He has scored 28 goals more than any other player in the league with the exception of Howe, well out in front with 41.

Moore, in games up to the morning of March 8, had played in 16 consecutive games in which he had garnered at least one point a game. In the 16-game streak, he scored 16 goals and earned 11 assists for a total of 27 points which isn't too far off two points a game.

In standings, Detroit has won 40 of 64 games played, losing only 13 and tying 11 for a point-total of 81, 18 more than the second-place Montreal Canadiens who have won 32, lost 23 and tied nine.

Toronto comes next with 70 points and is followed by Boston and New York, tied with 55 points apiece. Chicago is in the cellar with only 38.

In the individual department, Howe has 75 points—41goals and 34 assists and second-place Elmer Lach of Montreal had 61 from 13 goals and a pace-setting 48 assists.

Ted Lindsay of Detroit is third with 56 points, made up of 21 goals and 35 assists, and is followed by Don Raleigh of New York with 16 goals and 38 assists for 54 points.

Howe's 41 goals are just nine short of tying Maurice Richard's mark of 50 goals in a season while Lach's 48 assists are seven shy of Ted Lindsay's record of 55 assists in one eaon.

Terry Sawchuk of Detroit leads the goalkeepers with 121 goals-against in 64 games for a 1:89 average. Sawchuk also leads in shutouts with 11.

The most penalized player is Gus Kyle of Boston who has 123 minutes and the Leafs the most penalized club with 763 minutes.

The 1951-52 Stanley Cup playoffs mark the Wings' 14th straight appearance in the spring classic. The last time they failed to make the post-season playoffs was in 1937-38.

Western Mustangs Win Varsity Cage Title

London, Ont., March 11—(CP)—Western Mustangs wrapped up their seventh straight senior intercollegiate basketball crown last night when they scored a 62-52 victory over Queen's University.

The Mustangs with seven consecutive victories in the senior intercollegiate this season have one more game to play. They meet McMaster in Hamilton on Thursday night. Regardless of the outcome of this game, Western will finish on top.

The game provided little in the way of excitement for the small crowd, with Western building up a 17-13 lead at the end of the first quarter and gradually pulling away from the Gaels in the last three periods.

Queen's starry forward, Don Giffin, pumped in 26 points in a standout performance. He hit for 10 from the field and six free throws for his total to top all scorers for the night.

Outside of Glen Pettinger, Western gave a lack-lustre showing as they rebounded poorly and shot poorly from the floor, particularly in the second half. Pettinger hit for eight field goals and 16 points to lead the Western win. He also played a fine floor game.

In the preliminary game, Western Colts eked out a 49-47 win over Kitchener Blues.

Stampeders Nip Westminsters 7-5

(By The Canadian Press)

Calgary Stampeders kept their playoff hopes alive in the Pacific Coast Hockey League last night by coming from behind in the third period to defeat the top-riding New Westminster Royals 7-5.

The Stampeders' win moved them into sixth place in the league —the last playoff spot—two points ahead of Vancouver and Victoria, both idle last night.

Frank Ashworth led the Calgary third-period drive with three goals. Other scorers for the home force were Ernie Dickens, in the second period, and Norman Larson, Archie Scott and Hal Brown in the third. Clayton Lavell scored two for new Westminster and Gordie Fashoway and Ken Ullyot one each.

Schroeder Quits Davis Cup Play

San Diego, Calif., March 11 (AP)—Ted Schroeder veteran Davis Cup tennis player, said yesterday he has decided to pass up playing in future Davis Cup matches and at Forest Hills and Wimbledon.

He said he was bowing out of big time tennis "for purely personal reason. I don't want to make the effort necessary for big time tennis."

"I'd just like to play the game for the fun I get out of it," the La Crescenta, Calif. refrigerator salesman told a civic club luncheon.

Hoppe May Win Title Undefeated

San Francisco, March 11—(AP)—Masako Katsura, only woman ever to challenge for the world three-cushion billiard championship, makes her do-or-die bid tonight against a fallen favorite.

Tiny Masako split her first two games while her opponent, Joe Chamaco of Mexico City, was upset in both of his. Two defeats virtually eliminate a contender from championship hopes in the single round robin tournament.

Eleven-time champion Willie Hoppe won his third straight last night, defeating Jay Bozeman, Vallejo, Calif., 50-37 in 42 innings. On the records, dopesters have to figure he'll go into the final game March 22 undefeated—and that he'll meet then a challenger who also is undefeated, or has lost only one game.

So for all practical purposes, entrants with two or more defeats must be considered out of championship contention. However, they're still capable of upsetting those higher in the standings and thus influencing the title picture.

Japan's Kinrey Matsuyama kept his unbeaten status by thumping Irving Crane, Binghampton, N. Y., 50-44 in 48 innings. He's possibly the greatest threat to Hoppe's continuance on the throne. Ten-time national champion of his native Japan and three-time runner-up for the world title before the Second World War, he's shooting exceedingly well despite wartime retirement.

THE Calvert SPORTS COLUMN

by Elmer Ferguson

If you can find any list, anywhere, of world champion figure-skaters, you'll find that just over a half-century ago this title was won by a Canadian, a famous Louis Rubenstein. And he won it in St. Petersburg.

Russia hasn't changed much in a century or so, or even more. Perhaps, if there's any change, it has been for the worse.

Over fifty years ago, there was the glitter and the glory of St. Petersburg, then the capital of that vast domain. There was the pomp and barbaric magnificence of the court of the Czars. But beyond the stateliness and show, there was the poverty, the threat of the bomb-throwing Nihilists. There was the pogroms and the purges, and there was the sullen suspicion, even in high places, of strangers.

Louis Rubenstein, a true amateur, paid his own way to Russia. He arrived there at noon, the day before the great meet, to be skated on an open-air rink, with lavishly decorated boxes to be occupied by closely-guarded royalty centering the stands. The young Canadian, inspected the great rink ice-surface. He checked the system and gradients under which he was to compete against champions of many countries.

Then he did a few practice spins on the wide-bladed heavy skates of the day, went to his hotel, ate his supper and retired to bed, to rest up for the gruelling test of the next afternoon.

But his rest was brief. At midnight, there came a thunderous knocking on his door and in heavy tones fraught with menace he heard: "The police. Open up!"

So he opened his door, and there stood six huge Cossack police. They gruffly ordered: "Dress, and come with us."

Louis did. He was taken to jail, put in a cell, locked up. In the morning, a plate of thick porridge was shoved through the door. That was breakfast. And now the world figure-skating title seemed far away. Louis Rubenstein was frantic. He demanded that he should see the British consul, and at last permission was granted. The British consul, who, Louis Rubenstein once told me, was a giant of a man with bristling mustache, overhanging eye-brows and piercing glance, spoke sharply to the Russian captors. He didn't ask, he demanded that Louis Rubenstein be released at once.

So, in early afternoon, our young Canadian was released, but with one proviso. He must be out of Russia within 12 hours of the finish of the meet.

Meanwhile, the Russians, crafty then as now, had secretly changed the system of competition. But that didn't bother Louis Rubenstein. He was a great skater under any system. He whirled through the school figures faultlessly. And when it came to the free style, he swung in front of the royal boxes and etched his own name deeply into the ice — LOUIS RUBENSTEIN, CANADA.

There was no question about the victory. The young Canadian, with only a bowl of coarse porridge to support him, was adjudged world champion. Then he was rushed to the train, and an hour or so after the meet was over, he was on his way out of Russia, and very glad of it.

So we guess Russia of years ago wasn't much different to Russia today, with suspicion, hatred, police, prisons. And now, an Iron Curtain, too.

Reds' Powell Is Cinch For Scoring Title

New York, March 11 (AP)—Ray Powell, 26-year-old centre of Providence Reds, enters the final week of play in the American Hockey League virtually assured of the scoring championship and assist crown.

Powell has collected 95 points, 17 more than runner-up Steve Wochy of Cleveland. He has amassed 58 assists, 11 more than teammate Barry Sullivan and Jackie Hamilton of St. Louis.

The veteran sharpshooter also is in the running for the goal-getting title. Powell has tallied 35 goals, two less than Wochy's pace-setting 37.

Powell, who has two games to play, previously won scoring honors with Kansas City of the erstwhile United States League in 1948-49 and 1949-50.

Goalie Johnny Bower of Cleveland Barons has just about wrapped up goal-tending honors. He has a 2.38 goals-against average. Gil Mayer of Pittsburgh is second with a 2.48 mark. Mayer leads in shutouts with five. Pete Durham of Buffalo is tops in penalties with 166 minutes.

Bevens Missed Series No-Hitter, Now Looks Good in Comeback Effort

By JOE REICHLER

Tampa, Fla., March 11 (AP) — "See that big fellow over there?" Cincinnati manager Luke Sewell was saying. "He's an old friend of yours. Why don't you go over and talk with him. He may be the biggest story of the year."

"The old friend" turned out to be Floyd (Bill) Bevens. Remember him? He's the guy who came within two strikes of pitching the only world series no-hitter.

This is the same Bevens who needed only one more out to pitch the Yankees to a no-hit victory over the Dodgers in the fourth game of the 1947 series. Picture the drama packed scene.

The Dodgers at bat, runners on first and second and two out in the ninth. Bevens hadn't allowed a hit. Cookie Lavagetto, pinch-hitting for Eddie Stanky, missed the first pitch then lashed a long liner against the right field fence. The blow not only ruined Bevens' no-hit dream but gave the Dodgers a stunning 3-2 victory.

Attempting Comeback

The big righthander, now 34, is attempting a comeback with the Reds after four years of wandering around from one minor league team to another. A mysterious ailment that caused his pitching arm to go dead at the height of his career had caused his dismissal by the Yankees before he had pitched a single game in 1948. Visits to doctors all over the land failed to restore the strength to the arm.

Finally, Bevens was advised to see Dr. Wayne Anderson, Cincinnati trainer and osteopath. That was in the winter of 1950. Anderson, after much probing, found the source of the trouble. After weeks of treatment, Bevens finally was ready to pitch.

Bevens chucked his job as appliance salesman and took a job pitching for his home town Salem club of the class B Western International League. The Reds drafted him from that club for $4,000 after he had won 20 games and pitched 263 innings. Now let Bevens tell the rest of the story.

Bevens is 34, a father of three boys. He realizes he may not be as good as he was in his days as a Yankee starter, but he is convinced he can still pitch winning ball in the majors.

To Use Chalk Instead of Resin

Washington, March 11—(AP)—A substitute for ring resin, in official use by the boxing commission here, may end the need for wiping off a fighters gloves after a knockdown.

It's a familiar sight to boxing fans: A fighter gets knocked down. When he gets up, the referee wipes off his gloves. That's to clean off the resin, scuffed around the ring to keep boxers from slipping. It can blind a man.

The substitute adopted by the District of Columbia Boxing Commission is a chalk, precipitated calcium carbonate. Commission chairman Heinie Miller said today it prevents slipping better than resin and is so mild that doctors prescribe its internal use for some stomach ailments.

GALT CURLERS SPLIT

Galt, March 11. (CP)—Fred Perry's Galt Curling Club rink yesterday shared top honors with George Thomson's Plattsville foursome in the Galt Club's annual invitational bonspiel. Perry won three games and marked up a plus of 15 while Thomson's crew came through with a trio of victories and a plus of 17.

Gord Wallace Gets Decision Over Zastre

Hamilton, March 11. (CP)—Gord Wallace of Brantford scored a unanimous 10-round decision over Winnipeg's Eddie Zastre last night in the feature bout of a professional fight card held here. Wallace weighed 169 and Zastre 171.

For the better part of the fight, the heavy-slugging Wallace attempted to box with the ring-wise Zastre. Throwing caution to the wind in the closing rounds, he bored in and made it a fight.

Zastre caught a lot of Wallace's blows in his gloves, but still got into hot water in a terrific ninth round. Wallace had him backed into a corner, but couldn't set him up for the knockout.

Howard Leslie, a hard-hitting negro from Saint John, N.B., took the semi-final affair with a technical knockout over Brantford's Jimmy Tokarz at 2:10 of the third round.

Both fighters stood toe-to-toe in the slam-bang engagement with Leslie dropping Tokarz several times in the third. Referee Jack Silvers finally called a halt to proceedings although the dazed Tokarz had managed to regain his feet after an eight count.

In a four-round preliminary, Johnny O'Sullivan, 133, Toronto, defeated Don Grinton, 130, Brantford, in a unanimous decision.

HELPS INDIANS

Calgary (CP) — Tenders have been called for construction of a staff residence for the new Indian hospital at Hobbema, Alta. The hospital itself, a two-storey frame building with eight wards, has been in use for some months caring for Indians who previously had to go to Wetaskiwin or Ponoka for hospital treatment.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

The squeeze play in bridge is usually an emergency measure. It is a play that must be tried when nothing else will answer the purpose. It works when an opponent is trying to protect more than one suit.

When opponent is down to the last few cards he is not always able to protect everything. This is why a difficult deal should be peeled, down to the fewest possible tickets for opponents to hold.

North was declarer at six no-trump in this deal:

NORTH
♠A 8 6 5
♥J 4 3
♦9 8 5
♣A 7 2

WEST
♠K
♥K Q 10 9 8 6 2
♦None
♣J 10 9 8 5

EAST
♠Q J 9 7 4 3 2
♦J 7 3 2

SOUTH
♠10
♥A 5
♦A K Q 10 6 4
♣K Q 6 3

Because west had bid hearts several times, the opening lead from east was his singleton heart. Dummy in south won this trick with the ace after north studied the situation.

It seemed evident that a heart trick must be lost. Somewhere along the line west had also bid clubs. This was an indicator that the clubs would not break three and three.

So, declarer could not count on making a fourth club. If so, it looks as if a club trick may be lost. To save one of the losing tricks something will have to be developed by a strip or squeeze.

A dummy top diamond brought in trick two. When west shows void in that suit a finesse through east is necessary. For this purpose the north hand is entered with a spade to the ace.

Diamonds were successfully finessed. Leads in that suit were continued until dummy had only one sparkler left. The club king was led for a trick and each hand was then down to five cards.

Dummy was still in possession of a diamond, a heart, and Q 6 3 of clubs. North retained a small spade, the J 4 of hearts, and the A 7 of clubs. West clung to three clubs and the K Q of hearts. East had only spades.

Dummy now led the last diamond and north threw the spade. West was caught in the squeeze after giving up a card. Work on it.

Sport in Brief

(By The Canadian Press)

Thoroughbred racing officials, noting the record-breaking attendance and betting at several winter tracks, gave credit today to the U.S. crackdown on bookmakers and increased public confidence in the sport.

If the tremendous upswing continues at the summer tracks as the horses move northward, 1952 may be the biggest ever for the business, now conducted in 24 States. It could surpass the all-time record year of 1946, when $1,830,287,455 was shoved through the mutuel windows.

In 1951, a survey showed $1,629,239,777 wagered, 17.01 above 1950. Attendance last year hit 24,302,020, up 6.01 per cent over 1950 And revenue to the States hit a record of $99,927,423 in 1951.

Betting at the New Orleans fair grounds hit an all-time high of $23,885,695 for the 81-day session which ends Saturday. The previous high was $20,167,398 in the 1946-47 season.

Continental Press Service said yesterday at Cleveland it will shut down its national race news wire network after Wednesday's report.

"Conditions affecting racing publications throughout the country" are forcing Continental out of business, the service admitted.

Turnabout, owned and driven by Ed. Stanbury of Campbellford, Ont., easily won both heats of the sixth and featured harness event at Toronto's Dufferin Park yesterday.

Top shuttle stars are in Winnipeg practising for the 1952 Canadian Badminton championship matches which open Wednesday. At least ten former champions will compete in the four-day matches. Heading the list is Vancouver's Daryl Thompson, defending men's singles champion.

More than 250 entries are expected for Montreal's Golden Gloves boxing tournament, officials said today. Eliminations will start March 19, with the semi-finals listed for April 21-22 and the finals April 25.

Clint Hodgins of Clandeboye, Ont., who drove Proximity to world harness racing records in 1950, will fly to Toronto for Canada's first "Sports Celebrity Banquet" Thursday night. Hodgins is training harness horses at Orlando, Fla., and will make the Toronto trip especially for the banquet, in aid of the Ontario Crippled Children's Society.

Dickie Moore, Canadiens' fast-skating rookie, is in hospital undergoing treatment for badly-bruised knees. It was announced last night. He will be out of action for Thursday night's game with Toronto Maple Leafs here and may also miss the weekend games with Boston Bruins.

Four more players have signed 1952 contracts with Montreal Royals of the International Baseball League, general manager Guy Moreau announced yesterday. They are catchers George Pfister and Charlie Thompson, Pitcher Ed Roebuck and outfielder Walter Moryn.

Charles A. Comiskey II, former vice-president of Chicago White Sox, joined the Liberty broadcasting system at Dallas, Tex., today as vice-president in charge of sports coverage. Comiskey, scion of the White Sox family, resigned from the Chicago organization several weeks ago in a dispute over what he called meagre earnings and inadequate tenure guarantees.

Outfielder Dick Wakefield was released by Cleveland Indians yesterday and immediately announced he intends to join Chicago White Sox.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

Los Angeles, March 11—(AP)—Willie Veeck is in town for a quick look at his refurbished St. Louis Browns, and he is both voluble and effusive about everything he sees.

Veeck already has been granted a couple of brief interviews by his manager, Rogers Hornsby, and has applied for another.

The Rajah is the busiest man on the west coast as he whips his remarkable collection of rookie and ambulant veterans into a fighting ball club, but he obviously intends to meet Veeck halfway.

"Don't worry about Rajah and me getting along," Bill laughed. "I'll have a lot of fun with him, but I know how far to go. I did not hire him because I wanted a companion."

"I hired Rajah because I think he is the greatest baseball manager in the world," Veeck continued. "He was my idol when I was a kid peddling peanuts during the games. Between us, we're going to give somebody trouble . . .

"Rajah has only one thing in mind—to win a pennant. Neither of us has ever been interested in second place and we never will be. Nobody remembers who finished second. Who was second in the American League two years ago? Boston? Wrong. It was Detroit, and nobody even knows it now.

"We won't win it this year, of course. Cleveland probably will—another set of my boys, incidentally. But we'll set a few records and we'll show you a young, hustling ball club that intends to go places. I think we'll have the most rookies in our line-up that ever started a big league season. There'll probably be only one player in there on opening day who was there a year ago, Bobby Young at second base."

AT THE CAPITOL — — Janet Blair who appears with Rosalind Russell and Brian Aherne in Columbia's hilarious comedy hit, "My Sister Eileen," now showing at the Capitol Theatre and on the same program thrill anew to filmdom's glamorous star team: Spencer Tracy and Loretta Young in "Man's Castle". Wednesday, on our stage, Women's Hospital Auxiliary Fashion Show.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, March 11 (AP)—Florence Hackett has been handling Esther Williams' swim suits, wet and dry, for most of the amphibious star's movie career. And she has problems.

"Take that suit Esther had to wear in 'Skirts Ahoy,'" the wardrobe official said. "There was a scene in which she swam in the regulation navy suit. It's made of cotton and designed for waves to use when men aren't around. Well Esther wore it in the water, it was just too sexy.The censors wouldn't allow it."

The problem with Esther's suits is that they get fancier and fancier They have to be out of this world in design and yet swimmable.

The one she's wearing in "The One-Piece Suit" is a full-length affair of lastex covered with thousands of sequins. "It has to be skin-tight," remarked Miss Hackett. "When Esther takes it off, she looks like a waffle.

"Another suit in this picture is so tight it won't go on when it's dry. I have to keep a bucket of water in Esther's dressing room, dip the suit in water and help Esther tug it on."

Suit design gets to be an expensive proposition. When several takes are made of Esther diving in the water, a dry suit is needed each time. The stand-in also requires the same suit. Six suits are made for each number.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo)—Soften enthusiasm to a sensible tone and master your daily tasks with your usual good will and fairness toward others and their opinions. Familiar routine, essential duties favored for gains.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)—Not all promising for all activities and interests but will be responsive day to smart management and tending to the urgent, necessary things. Be patient, reasonable, and gain more.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Read notations to other Signs. Choose advice that best fits your schedule and general interests. Day stresses moderation and matters with which you are familiar.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpia)—Incuinations show a tendency to slow one's activity somewhat. This is right, if it means to think before deciding and acting. Study; check for errors, benefits will accrue later.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Yop may not need extra speed or unction today. In fact, keep emotions down, ambition in order and you will go farther in any work. Be patient with others and yourself.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — Your occupation and other familiar matters will progress quicker than with new, strange issues. Be careful in all and avoid needless mistakes. Be cheerful, hopeful.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Don't waste your time idling, nor neglect little essentials. May have to urge yourself to speed up some tasks, and more quietly attend other duties. You can benefit.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—If you keep even with day's schedule you will do well. Make whatever improvements you can where needed and as you go along; don't overload self with too many minor details.

YOU BORN TODAY have fine characteristics that rightly developed and used can bring you and yours much happiness. Abundant talent and artistic ability; keen intuition; creative imagination; kindliness, and generosity are strongly inherent. You are above pettiness, are usually charitable in thought and deed. May be too reticent at times to show your capability. These are sharply competitive times and you may have to stress what you can do.

Birthdate: George Berkeley, Irish bishop, philosopher.

Wellington on the Lake

March came in the other day
Crowned with sunlight bright and gay;
Noiseless were her fairy feet
In her voice was music sweet;
Changed she was from March of old
With its wind and storm and cold,
Fighting stern King Winter's power
To bring life to fern and flower—
But tho' March may tempest bring
She's the harbinger of Spring!
—H. B. A.

March came in with dazzling sunlight, but on Wednesday, she was showing her old-time power by covering the earth with snow.

The hockey match on Monday night between Marmora and Wellington resulted in victory for Marmora. A large crowd was in attendance.

The March meeting of the local W.C.T.U. was held on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. L. Wiltse with the president, Mrs. Effie Phillips in charge.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Root, Melville, were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Tait on Thursday. Mr. Root is recovering from a recent operation in Belleville hospital.

Miss Gladys Lumb, Belleville, spent the weekend at her home here.

Miss Marjorie Vance, a teacher in Picton public school, was in town Friday evening, and called on Mrs. W. H. Anderson, bringing a beautiful gift of tulips and daffodils. Miss Vance was a successful teacher in Melville school for several years.

Miss Viola Valleau spent a weekend in Campbellford guest of Rev. and Mrs. Smith.

Miss Nellie Arthur writing from St. Petersburg, Florida, tells that the city is filled with tourists. Every available place is occupied. She also writes of the fine memorial services held in the Anglican and Presbyterian churches in honor of the late King George VI.

Miss Gena Benson writes from her home in Windsor that she has spent much of the winter in Detroit with her nieces.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Everall, Picton, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Everall, Gilead, on Sunday, and attended morning service in Wellington United church.

The World's Day of Prayer was held in St. Andrew's Anglican Church with a good attendance.

Mrs. R. C. Pyne is spending a few weeks in Trenton, guest of Mr. and Mrs. C. Boyle.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Davern entertained at dinner on Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Ben Anderson, Miss Lillian Anderson and Mr. John Anderson, Mountain View.

Mr. and Mrs. Blake Conley and Mr. and Mrs. Billy Covert were guests of Mrs. John Conley on Sunday.

Twenty-four pupils of Mrs. E. A. Maybee gave a fine piano recital on March 1st.

Hillier Christ Church Guild

The March meeting of the Guild of Christ Church, Hillier, was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Morton, Consecon St., Wellington, on Wednesday, March 5. Notwithstanding adverse weather conditions there was a good attendance.

The president Mrs. H. Weese presided. Following the devotional, plans were discussed for holding a card party in Hillier town hall on the evening of St. Patrick's. These parties held during the winter months have proved very popular. The retiring secretary, Mrs. Wright, was presented with a pretty cup and saucer in recognition of her services.

At the close refreshments were enjoyed. All enjoyed the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Morton who are now nicely settled in their new home in Wellington but who hold in kind remembrance their former home church in Hillier.

Mr. Fred Conley, of Orillia, spent the weekend with his mother, Mrs. John Conley, Wellington.

Mrs. Phoebe Stewart passed away at her home here after a lingering illness. The service was held in the Friends meeting house, Main Street.

B.C. Legislature Passes Bill To Allow Coloring in Margarine

(By The Canadian Press)

The British Columbia legislature has passed a bill allowing margarine manufacturers to color their product.

When the bill receives royal assent and becomes law — possibly about the end of the month —B.C. will become the second province to allow coloring of margarine. Newfoundland is the only other province to allow such action. The bill received third and final reading last night.

Mrs. Tilly Rolston (Ind.—Vancouver-Point Grey) introduced the bill, similar to one which was defeated last year.

An amendment by Attorney-General Gordon S. S. Wismer was passed which set down rules for inspection of margarine factories, wholesale and retail firms and testing of margarine by government inspectors.

The Alberta legislature approved a resolution asking the federal government to take immediate steps to remove the embargoes placed by five provinces on dressed meats. The motion was sponsored by Agriculture Minister D. A. Ure.

Mr. Ure urged the lifting of the embargoes on importation into and the transportation through these provinces of dressed carcasses which have passed inspection by Canadian government officials at Alberta slaughtering plants.

The five provinces are: British Columbia, Manitoba, Ontario, Quebec and Nova Scotia.

Agriculture Minister A. W. Mackenzie told the Nova Scotia legislature that the danger of foot-and-mouth disease being taken to Nova Scotia is "very remote." He said the horses, which arrived in Kentville, Friday, came from Alberta with no stopover for feeding in Saskatchewan. They left before the province's three-week ban on such imports went into effect.

Liberal Leader Heard

In the Alberta house, Liberal leader J. Harper Prowse said the Alberta government's treatment of municipalities is "niggardly" and urged appointment of an unbiased royal commission to study provincial-municipal relations.

Mr. Prowse, first opposition speaker in the budget debate, also said the Social Credit government should drop its "rich uncle—poor nephew' attitude towards municipalities.

The controversial Hope Report on education brought a brief clash between Premier Leslie Frost and J. B. Salsberg, Labor-Progressive member for Toronto St. Andrew.

Mr. Salsberg, arguing that the house should study and debate the report before acting on "piecemeal" government bills on education, charged the government had "buried" the report and had a "conspiracy of silence against it."

Mr. Frost said the government was not trying to evade discussion on the report and that Mr. Salsberg had had several opportunities to speak on it.

The government, he said, had not changed its policy from last spring when he told the legislature that education conditions were satisfactory and the government was not bound by the recommendations of any commission.

The Saskatchewan legislature was told by Health Minister T. J. Bentley that the federal government's failure to control rising prices was largely responsible for the increasing cost of the province's hospital services plan, estimated to cost $15,000,000 this year. He said the plan should not be as expensive at it was but the province had no control over rising prices which pushed up costs.

Most of the traditional ceremony will accompany the first session of the 47th general assembly of Prince Edward Island when it opens tomorrow. However, no social functions will be held in respect to the death of the King.

Sabre Jets Zoom Over North Bay's Big New Air Base

By BOB VEZINA
(Written for The Canadian Press)

North Bay, Ont. (CP) — Some 600 workers and about $18,000,000 are being used to carve Canada's first all-weather jet air station out of a 6,000-acre plateau three miles northeast of here.

The giant station, expected to be completed late this year when the personnel will be increased from its present 400 to 600 men, will become a permanent link in the defence of Canada's far-flung northern approaches.

The R.C.A.F. moved in last September and No. 430 Fighter Squadron, equipped with F-86E Sabre jet fighters of Canadian manufacture, has been carrying out training operations. An operational training unit, slated for night fighter work when CF100 all-weather jets arrive, now is warming up on navigational and radar training in Mitchell bombers.

The new base is being built around an airport opened by the Department of Transport in 1938. Used during the Second World War to accommodate a Royal Air Force Ferry Command unit, it later was a stop-over spot for Trans-Canada Airlines and private planes. The original airport will remain under D.O.T. control.

The station, covering 200 acres of former farmland, has become the site of 170 modern housing units for married air force personnel. Another 100 units will be completed this year. Allowance deductions for rent amount to about $51 a month for ranks below sergeant.

Big Population

About 90 children attend the modern station school. Population of the base is expected to reach the 2,000 mark by next fall Barrack blocks will be constructed for single men.

A messing staff, working with the most modern of electrically operated equipment, turns out meals for approximately 200 persons a day. Civilians working on the station pay 50 cents per meal.

Most expensive structures on the site will be two giant concrete and steel hangars. Reinforced with 520 tons of steel, each hangar will cost about $1,000,000. One probably will be completed this summer. Fireproof and requiring little maintenance, their life span will far exceed that of conventional wooden hangars.

The project, supervised by Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, is being carried out by some 675 men employed by a Toronto contracting firm.

The station's effect on North Bay's economy is a source of considerable satisfaction to merchants and real estate operators. Property in the station areas has skyrocketed in price and station accounting officers estimate that more than 90 per cent of a $750,000 yearly payroll will find its way into North Bay's cash registers.

Makes Naval History

The port of Halifax extended Canada's first welcome to a visiting Swedish warship when the light cruiser Gotland arrived at the end of a courtesy cruise to South and North America. She was returning a visit by Canadian naval units to Swedish waters. — (CP from National Defence.)

APPOINTED GOVERNOR

St. Thomas, March 11 — (CP)— Provincial Constable Raymond W. McDonald yesterday was appointed Governor of the Elgin county jail. Mrs. McDonald was appointed jail matron.

Troops in Europe Starting to Get Cigarets in Bulk

Ottawa, March 11 — (CP) — Canadian troops in Europe now are starting to get Canadian cigarets in bulk.

"The cigaret situation hasn't been too good, but it now has settled down," an army spokesman said last night.

First of the 5,000-man 27th Brigade, dispatched to Hannover, Germany, arrived November last. Since then they have been forced mostly to puff British cigarets.

Under regulations officers and men may place orders for Canadian brands with their respective paymasters at 400 cigarets for $2.25 or 800 for $4. These orders are relayed to Canada for fulfillment by tobacco companies.

However, there has been a 3-month lag. The army spokesman said this delay could be partly placed on the army and tobacco companies. There was no particular blame on either.

There has been no complaint from Korea where the 25th Brigade has been stationed.

BIG ADDITION

The Northwest Territories, area 1,309,000 square miles, was admitted to the Canadian Confederation in 1869.

Casual purchase...

SHE'S REACHING for some small change — perhaps to pay for a cup of coffee, or some candy, or her favorite magazine. It's the kind of casual purchase we all make every day.

You may not think of your telephone bill in just the same way. Yet the daily cost of telephone service is a "small change" purchase too. The most anybody pays for a home telephone is 18¢ a day; most people pay considerably less.

Measure this cost against the value of your telephone's round-the-clock convenience... the way it saves you steps, time, money. Think, too, how its usefulness has grown. You can reach twice as many people as ten years ago; and more telephones are going in all the time.

Few home necessities mean as much as your telephone, or match it for all-round value.

Nobody Loves Forever

By Margaretta Brucker

"Jessica said feebly, "what happened to me?"

"You fainted dead away."

"But I must get up." Now she remembered. This was the day she was to meet Doris.

Mrs. Blake said harshly, "lie still. This is no more than I expected would happen."

"Happen?"

The woman's angular face tightened. "You should know what has happened. Unless I miss my guess, my girl, you're pregnant."

Betsy Gordon Blake was born one stormy spring morning in a two-bed ward at the Akron hospital.

As she sat alone the evening after the trip to the airport, Jessica reviewed those dreary months of her pregnancy. Remembered how weak and miserable she had been and now Lucy's kindness was the one bright spot in those long weary weeks. Now there was no hope of independence. Now she could take no job. This was the end of any chance to escape from her obligation to Lucy and her mother-in-law.

A rigid sense of obligation to Tom made her mother-in-law exert every effort to give Jessica the best of care until the baby came, but there was no change in her feeling toward the girl.

Sometimes Jessica surprised a softening in Lucy's lovely gray-blue eyes. She felt the timid touch of Lucy's hand upon her own, but when she tried to thank her, Lucy said hastily "I'm doing my duty. Bet's my brother's child."

A letter came with a Kentucky postmark. Mary Belle Evans. Jessica recognized the handwriting on the envelope. Mary Belle offered congratulations.

"Imagine you with a baby! I told your father but he made no comment.

"I met the wonderful Tay Hadyn at a Bond Drive in Lexington last week and how could you miss a chance liket hat, honey? He's gorgeous."

Tay Hadyn and Mary Belle. An odd little stab of envy stirred Jessica. Suppose —just suppose that Tay and Mary Belle—silly of course to imagine anything so ridiculous as their marriage.

But a year later, when Betsy was staggering about learning to walk a letter came from Tay's sister Evelyn announcing Tay's engagement to a girl he had met in Kentucky—Mary Belle Evans.

The invitation to the wedding arrived right on the heels of that letter. Never a word from her father. Letters from Tom in Germany. Now the war in Germany was over and Tom was held with the army of occupation but soon he might be home. What then?

Jessica forced her mind to consider just what Tom's return would mean to her. What did Tom feel toward her?

His letters told nothing. They carried no hint of the infatuation which had made him follow her blindly about a little Kentucky town three years before. That brief interval when they were together . . . the wedding . . . the trip to Akron . . . Tom's departure. How long ago those events seemed now. Tom was a stranger who had entered that silly carefree life she had led in Kentucky and had taken her away to live with a woman she hated. A woman who still refused to accept her as her daughter, who criticized everything she did, what she wore and how she cared for her child, who established an arbitrary set of morals which Jessica must follow because she was Tom Blake's wife. This or that was right, and this or that was wrong.

Lucy abided by her mother's judgment always.

Lucy had her work to occupy her mind and she concentrated upon that work and labored slavishly for her employer. Her life was molded into a pattern of stern adherence to duty. Her mother and the man for whom she worked limited her horizon.

Useless to try to wake Lucy up, thought Jessica. A born old maid and quite satisfied to be one.

This afternoon had been an example of how impossible it was to alter Lucy. Always she reverted to type, as when she showed such open disapproval at the airport, attaching significance to a casual conversation, magnifying a chance acquaintance.

What had the man felt?

Idly Jessica let her thoughts travel back to the short time when she stood absorbed in the scene at the airport and forgot that she was Jessica Blake with a 2-year-old daughter and a husband who would shortly return from overseas. It had been fun, a reprieve, something apart from the drab existence she led with Lucy and her mother.

Encouraged by the man's bright glance of admiration, stung by Lucy's silly disapproval, she thought seriously of how she could find independence for herself and Betsy.

She must. Otherwise she would have no choice when Tom returned but meekly to accept his decision for their future.

Jessica rose and turned on the light and rummaged in her dresser drawer for the ring she had kept hidden ever since her marriage. It was a ring which had belonged to her mother, a cluster of diamonds in an old-fashioned setting.

The day following the airport adventure, Jessica gave the excuse of shopping to her mother-in-law and persuaded her to watch Betsy for a few hours in the afternoon.

She dressed with unusual care. She dropped the ring in her purse and set off. She had no idea of values and planned to visit a downtown jeweler and have the ring appraised. There should be enough money from its sale to repay the old debt to Mary Belle and leave her enough money to take some kind of training.

She must and would be free before Tom came home.

Th sky was brilliant the air crisp and exhilarating. Jessica was excited and a little breathless as she pushed open the heavy plate glass door of the jewelry shop.

A little later the lovely cluster of diamonds lay winking up at her on a pad of black velvet and an elderly man with keen gray eyes regarded first the ring and then Jessica.

"Yours?" he asked sharply.

"Mine?" She stiffened. "I beg your pardon?"

He apologized. "There are all sorts of people in a town like this and we have to be careful. This is a particularly beautiful and valuable ring. I should like to have time to examine it carefully if you care to leave it."

Something in Jessica's face must have shown her disappointment for he picked up the ring again, studied it for a minute, and said, "I'll advance a $25 deposit on it. You may return it if you decide not to sell."

Jessica bit her lip. She hadn't planned to return. Twenty five dollars—that would repay Mary Belle and leave her five over.

She smiled. "Very well."

The ring lay on the black velvet, the gold soft and yellow, the diamonds brilliant. Suddenly someone just behind her said "let me see that ring Joe."

In the mirror before her Jessica saw a tall thin man with unruly black hair and very light eyes. He was thin-lipped and arrogant. He reached around her and picked up the ring in spite of the jeweller's movement to cover it with his fingers. He said "this is a honey. How much is it?"

The jeweller's glance wavered. In that moment Jessica knew that the man was a good customer and one the owner disliked to offend, and that he was uncertain and embarrassed.

She, herself, despised the thin man. His cool impudent stare which swept up and down her. Those, hard insulting eyes and his arrogant manner.

The jeweller found his tongue. "The ring is not for sale. The young lady brought it in for appraisal," he explained.

The man dropped the ring. His cool glance hinted that he regarded Jessica as a pauper.

"I'll take the ring with me," said Jessica icily. "I've changed my mind about selling it."

She snatched up the ring and dropped it in her purse and left the store, walked a block and realized she had acted like a fool for no reason. No harm to have an appraisal on the ring. Also, there was the $25 deposit. She passed a store window and saw a coat which would look wonderful on Betsy.

He retraced her steps, entered the store and said to the jeweller, "I was foolish to leave but I didn't want that man to have my ring."

He smiled and said "he has plenty of money to pay a good price for what he wants and he always knows what he wants and gets it."

Jessica handed him the ring. "Probably I was too hasty in deciding not to sell," she said.

She walked away with twenty-five dollars in her purse and the jeweller's assurance that he could promise a large sum for her later.

Obeying a sudden impulse, she entered the store she had passed earlier and purchased the coat for Betsy. Fifteen dollars. She felt reckless and extravagant but pleased with herself. Later she would repay Mary Belle Evans, who was now married to Tay Hadyn and did not need the money.

She was hot and a little tired. She was just a block from the Mayflower Hotel. She paused, walked forward slowly and hesitated before the entrance. What fun to go inside and visit the Terrace Room. Music, a cool drink. She'd had no lunch and was hungry.

Her feet carried her into the lobby and up the little flight of steps in the direction of the music.

A moment later she was at a table by herself watching the smartly dressed people seated about her. There was an afternoon tea dance in progress. Jessica relaxed and greedily ate her sandwich, sipped her drink and listened to the music.

A voice said "hello. What luck to find you here!"

Jessica gave a little gasp of astonishment.

The man smiling down at her was the man of the airport.

"You're alone?" he asked. And at her nod pulled out a chair and sat down.

"I was just about to leave—"

He shook his smooth brown head. "This is too good," he said firmly. "I've been thinking about you all day and wondering just how I co find you. I came downtown on a business trip and thought I'd drop in for a quick drink. Now you and I must have one together."

She objected weakly. She had a guilty feeling that she should not have come, that she should leave at once. She should not feel this flood of happiness because a man admired her and talked sheer nonsense—but such wonderful nonsense when you have been bound and restricted and denied any fun for ages!

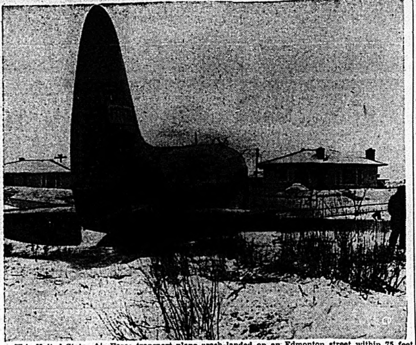
Lands on Street



This United States Air Force transport plane crash-landed on an Edmonton street within 75 feet of a row of houses just south of the Municipal Airport. The plane crashed soon after taking off on a flight to the far north. It skidded 800 feet across a snow-covered open area to a safe belly-landing. None of the five crew members was hurt. The plane was understood bound for a project of the Eldorado Mining and Refining Ltd., the government-owned corporation which has charge of uranium development in the north, with a load of reinforcing steel. — (CP Photo.)

BANDIT CAPTURED AFTER FUSILADE OF SHOTS

Gardiner Denies Cattle Ailment Likely to Spread

United States Lifts Ban On Mexican Importation

(By The Canadian Press)

Canada's foot-and-mouth livestock problem appeared to be easing today with continued slaughter of infected prairie herds and no new outbreaks reported in the quarantine area around Regina.

Agriculture Minister Gardiner, who flew to the south Saskatchewan scene almost a week ago, was on his way back to Ottawa. Tuesday at Winnipeg he met with government officials of Manitoba, which along with British Columbia, Quebec and Nova Scotia, has imposed an embargo on Saskatchewan meat.

Danger Less

The minister said the danger of the disease spreading is now less than at any time. He declined to comment on his discussions with Manitoba officials but indicated strongly that Saskatchewan livestock now could move eastward with no danger of spreading the disease.

At Regina itself livestock reported as new cases last weekend were slaughtered. The latest killings — 107 head of cattle and 55 swine—completed the immediate slaughtering program except for one herd due to be shot Thursday.

This is the herd of Leonard Waas of McLean, Sask., where a disease first described as stomatitis, broke out last November. Mr. Gardiner has said he is convinced this outbreak was not foot-and-mouth disease. The Waas herd has been under quarantine under-going tests to determine what it had and results of examination have been sent to the agriculture laboratories at Hull, Que.

With the slaughtering the Waas herd a total of 1,291 will have been killed since the outbreak was first confirmed last month.

Ousted President Charges Batista With Treason

Havana, Cuba, March 12. (AP)—Ousted President Carlos Prio Socarras today charged Cuba's strong man, Fulgencio Batista, with treason and said he is confident the country will "not remain long with a military boot on its neck."

Prio, who left his palace Monday after former President Batista seized control of the army and police by a swift coup, remained in refuge in the Mexican Embassy.

He is awaiting arrangements for his departure into exile in Mexico.

In a letter to newspapers, Prio said he fled to Matanzas Monday to try to raise a military defence against Batista, but found the regiments already had gone over to the revolution.

"Without troops it was impossible for me to resist," he said. He charged that Batista was impelled only by ambition in breaking "the constitutional rhythm of Cuba", attained after years of struggle against military rule.

Batista will go to the presidential palace today to preside over the first formal meeting of his handpicked cabinet.

Batista, who has proclaimed himself the custodian of all executive and legislative power, pledged today that his government will devote itself to "repression of communist infiltration" and "pseudo-revolutionary gangsterism."

Jackson's Wife Says She Knew He Was a Crook Before Marriage

Montreal, March 12 — (CP) — Ann Roberts, the woman who said she married gunman Leonard Jackson last February, said at police headquarters today: "I'll always love him. He's my guy."

She surrendered with Jackson last night when a hail of police bullets and tear-gas bombs riddled their one-room basement apartment. Jackson is the second of three wanted men caught. Steve Suchan was wounded and captured Friday night. Edwin Alonzo Boyd is still free.

"I knew Len was a crook ever since I first met him in Toronto two years ago," said the 24-year-old woman. "But I loved him just the same.

"I know Steve Suchan well and think he's a sweet guy. I think I saw Boyd once."

She said she had been worried since the shooting of two Toronto detectives in Toronto last week.

"Len was with Steve in Toronto at the time. I stayed alone here in the apartment.

"We haven't had a proper night's rest since then. Len always had a .45 automatic under his pillow at night and never went anywhere without at least one gun."

Then she talked about last night's gun battle.

"The bullets were flying all around us and the noise was terrible. Len told me he would never give up; that he would fight it out like Steve did.

"Tear gas started to fill the room. My eyes were on fire and I could hardly see Len. But I heard him yell to the cops, 'I'm coming out; don't shoot.' "

She said she came to Canada from Newcastle - on - Tyne four years ago, and that she had been married and divorced in England.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Mar. 12 —(CP)—Synopsis: Most of the province reported clear skies last night, and temperatures showed a marked difference between northern and southern regions. Far northern Armstrong reported a 16 below zero in the minimum for Toronto registered 31 above zero.

Today will be mostly sunny throughout the province, but increasing cloudiness heralding the approach of another storm may be seen over southwestern Ontario this afternoon, and these clouds will gradually spread across the province as the day progresses.

Thursday will be a wet day for most of Ontario but a continuation of the mild spell is expected.

DOZEN SPEAKERS SPEAK ON WIDE VARIETY OF TOPICS

Throne-Speech Debate Continues in House

Ottawa, March 12 — (CP) — The Commons gave attention yesterday to an assortment of subjects as the five-day Throne-Speech debate continued to hold sway.

No dominant theme developed in the day-long discussion and a dozen speakers spoke on a wide variety of topics.

The debate roamed over fishing, Maritime storm damage, conditions in Germany, textiles, parity prices for farm products and the industrialization of the prairies.

One cabinet minister — Fisheries Minister Mayhew — entered the discussion to report that "maximum protection" has been obtained for British Columbia fisheries in the agreement concluded last year with Japan and the United States.

Mr. Mayhew, who represented Canada at a treaty-making conference in Tokyo, said the Japanese have agreed not to fish for salmon, halibut and herring in the coastal waters of Canada and the United States.

In the opening stages, Defence Minister Claxton said deliveries of Canadian cigarets were made last month to the satisfaction of the men of the 27th Brigade in Germany, though there had been delays previously in getting smokes to them.

He suggested the agreement removes the long-standing B.C. fear that Japan would fish along the B.C. coast. The agreement does not change long-standing Canadian arrangements with the U.S.

Jackson Even Minded Baby for Mr X While He and Wife Went Shopping

Montreal, March 12 —(CP) — "I'm afraid that other fellow will come here after me," said janitor X last night.

Janitor X is the man who tipped police that gunman Leonard Jackson was living in the Lincoln Avenue building where Jackson was shot down by detectives.

Mrs. X, white-faced and nervous, said:

"I don't care what you do, I won't sleep tonight and I'm getting out of here tomorrow."

Janitor X refused to be named. He was afraid Edwin Alonzo Boyd, third member of the trio, would try to avenge Jackson. The other man, Steve Suchan, was shot down by police Friday night.

"I recognized Jackson's picture in the newspaper last night," the janitor said.

"And just think, only today I was talking to Jackson about Suchan being shot. I said it must be awful to be shot like that but how about those poor policemen in Toronto who were shot."

In Jackson's one room apartment the sink splattered with blood, the walls gouged by bullets and the window panes shattered, the janitor told his story.

"Jackson registered here Feb. 11 with this woman he called his wife. He told me then his name was Andre Wilson.

"The rent for the one-room apartment is $12 and he paid it promptly every Monday morning.

"They were a very quiet couple and most respectable as far as we could judge. There was never any drinking. Jackson even minded our baby when we went shopping.

"Suchan came about two weeks ago to see Wilson, or Jackson, and the woman. He had lunch with them then and again a day or so later.

"I had no reason to be suspicious about any of them until I saw pictures of Jackson and Suchan in the newspaper."

"Police came early tonight and showed me more pictures. When I said 'yes, that's him,' they told me to get my wife and child out.

"As we left our apartment, just down the hall from Jackson's I saw two policemen on the stairway outside Jackson's door.

"Two more were in my kitchen, from where they could see Jackson's door. More policemen, I don't know how many, were standing on the ground outside his window.

"I heard one of the policemen on the stairs call to Jackson to open the door. Then the shooting started."

Toledo Strikers Openly Defy Court and Union Order To Return to Their Employment

Cleveland, O., March 12 — (AP)—With Toledo, O., strikers openly defying a court and union order to return to work, the New York Central system was having difficulty today in restoring train runs to normal.

Most of the conductors, firemen and engineers were back on the job, said the road, after a three-day strike. But the Toledo rebellion and the small turnout on the shift at Elkhart, Ind. — also on the main line — were hampering operations, the road announced.

An N.Y.C. spokesman at Chicago said this morning it appears unlikely that the road can send mail or passenger trains from Chicago today on the main line. There are not enough men to operate the trains, he said.

Many of those strikers who did climb back aboard the locomotives and cars did so grudgingly, knowing their strike had gained them nothing but a loss of pay, the road and unions conceded.

In Toledo, there was outright revolt. Five hundred die-hard strikers quit their brotherhoods in a body, and decided to form a new union. The new organization will be called the Model Railroad Club.

The Toledo strikers, however, decided they will see how they feel about the matter after they got out of bed this morning. They will hold another vote today — this time by secret ballot.

If they persist in remaining on strike, a road spokesman said, the N.Y.C. could be forced to route through trains to Chicago through Canada.

Try to Persuade Workers

In Elkhart, Ind., union leaders still were trying to persuade the strikers to go back early today.

Picket lines also were maintained for hours and angry meeting were conducted at such points as Cleveland, Niles, Mich., Buffalo and Chicago last night before it was decided to quit striking.

The return-to-work order was sent out by strike leaders a few hours following Federal Judge Emerich B. Freed's granting of a restraining order yesterday to the army, which has controlled the railroads since Aug. 1950.

The strike, called by surprise Sunday morning for working-rules changes and higher pay, also was against the St. Louis Terminal Railroad.

The New York Central estimated the strike was costing $1,000,000 in daily revenues. In addition to the 6,000 strikers, 30,000 other N.Y.C. employees had been laid off.

Some plants — notably in Cleveland — had laid off several thousand workers, and coal mine operators in southern Ohio and Illinois were starting to worry.

Navy Toughens and Tightens Defences of Atlantic Harbors

Ottawa, March 12—(CP)—The navy is toughening and tightening defences of major Atlantic harbors, but strict secrecy cloaks most of the work.

A special section of the navy is in charge of the steps to create so-called seaward defence bases at Halifax and St. John's, Nfld., and probably elsewhere. But it's largely a secret section as far as the public is concerned.

Its job is to defend the harbors and approaches and to leave the role of going out to meet the enemy at sea to other elements of the fleet.

The secrecy which surrounds it also cloaks the small, fast "harbor defence patrol craft" to be specially built for this job and supposed to be capable of coping with both submarines and mines. Harbor defences also include minesweepers.

There are two main obvious reasons for the secrecy. One is Russia's possession of submarines capable of reaching Canadian coasts—they proved it last year—and penetrating any loose harbor defences. Russia, as well, has dangerous mines to sew around harbor mouths.

The second reason, naval officials say, is that there is little sense of erecting defences if a potential enemy knows the plans.

The latest public indication of what is going on came with disclosure that a wharf and "other permanent installations" are being built at St. John's for seaward defence base.

All the navy will say about them now is that the wharf will be 300 feet long and 125 feet wide, that estimated cost is $543,450 and that work will start as soon as weather permits. The contract went to the Diamond Construction Co., of Fredericton.

The only other place where it has been announced seaward-defence work is going on is Halifax. A naval spokesman said this should not necessarily be taken to mean that other harbors on either coast are being neglected or that they are wide open to attack.

However, in the commons yesterday Dan Riley (L—St. John-Albert) urged the government to pay particular attention to the denfence of the port of Saint John, N. B., and argued that the provision of adequate facilities there are as essential as any other defence project.

BANDIT SHOT TO DEATH

New York, March 12. (AP)—A grocery store proprietor shot one bandit to death and chased another from his store when the two tried to rob him last night. Lorenzo Bacener disregarded threats of the two men and ducked behind a counter after his gun. Police said Bacener fired two shots, felling one man and possibly wounding the other.

Bandit Reported In Good Condition At Hospital

Montreal, March 12 — (CP) — Leonard Jackson, Toronto gunman cut down by police bullets last night, was reported in "good condition" at Montreal general hospital today.

The hospital switchboard was swamped with calls about the bandit.

Jackson, shot in both arms and in the stomach, was told by doctors that the newspapers wanted to know how he was.

"Tell them I'm all right," he said.

Doctors said they will remove a bullet from his wrist today. Nothing will be done at present about the stomach wound.

Doctors said the slug apparently was lodged in soft tissue and no emergency operation was necessary pending further examination.

When Jackson was brought into the hospital last night his first question was about the police.

"Did I get any of the cops?" he asked.

He appeared relieved when told none had been hit in the gun battle.

"That's good," he said. "I was hoping I hadn't hurt any of them."

Internes said Jackson's artificial foot was removed. He told them he lost his foot in a railway accident in 1944 or 1945.

"That boy won't be shooting again for some time," said an interne. "And he can't walk out of here with his artificial leg off."

Another interne said: "They're treating him like a king, even to having a four-man bodyguard. And the hospital didn't ask this guy for any $100 deposit before they let him in."

Jackson was quoted as saying: "If anything happens to me, let my wife know." He gave her initial only as "L."

The woman was identified by police as Ann Roberts of Toronto. She told them she married Jackson in January.

GEN. EISENHOWER WINS OVER TAFT, TRUMAN DEFEATED

Sen. Kefauver Smashes Democratic Machine

Manchester, N.H., March 12. — (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower hammered out a complete and overwhelming victory over Senator Robert A. Taft (Rep. O.) in the New Hampshire primary today, and Senator Estes Kefauver (Dem. Tenn.) smashed the Democratic State-Party organization, defeating President Truman.

It was the first United States primary—a state-wide election of delegates to party national conventions and at the same time a popularity poll of presidential candidates.

The results, in both the Democratic and Republican contests, came as a surprise, both to the victors and the defeated.

Eisenhower swept the popular vote, and won all 14 Republican delegate races.

Truman Overwhelmed

Kefauver overwhelmed Truman by a comfortable margin, and also won all the 12 delegates, who have eight convention votes.

With 273 of the State's 297 precincts reports, the polls were: Eisenhower 39,533; Taft 30,115.

With 274 precincts reporting, Kefauver had 18,347 and Truman 15,122.

Eisenhower's margin nearly doubled the most optimistic prediction of any of his followers. That was 5,000; most estimated less than 2,500.

As to delegates, the consensus before the election was that he would take 12. Taft had said he would be satisfied to win four.

In terms of pre-election forecasts, Kefauver's victory over Truman was even more stunning. The Tennessean made modest claims—but not for a victory—in the popular vote, and said he believed he would win "some delegates."

Eisenhower Pleased

In Frankfurt, Germany, Eisenhower said, when told the returns "any American who is honored by so many other Americans considering him fit for the presidency should be proud, or, by golly, he is not American."

In the Republican primary, Harold E. Stassen, ex-governor of Minnesota, had approximately 5,000 votes out of the nearly-complete ballot count. Stassen was entered only in the preferential ballot; he had no delegates in the race.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur was given approximately 2,700 Republican write-in votes. None of the candidates who ran as delegates favorable to him was elected. MacArthur had requested his admirers not to enter his name in the "popularity" primary.

16 Names on Write-in

Sixteen names appeared as write in on the Democratic ballots—half of them Republicans. New Hampshire Democrats cast more than 100 votes each for Eisenhower and MacArthur, along with a smattering for John Foster Dulles, Taft, Stassen, Governor Earl Warren of California, Senator Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, and Louis P. Schneider, St. Louis lawyer.

Democrats receiving write-in votes included ex-postmaster General James A. Farley, Governor Adlai Stevenson of Illinois, Senator Paul Douglas of Illinois, vice-president Alben Barclay and Senator Russell of Georgia.

Man-Made Military Satellite Predicted by Inventor Von Braun

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
(Associated Press Science Editor)

Huntsville, Ala., March 12 (AP)—There will be no Iron Curtain anywhere if the vision of the maker of the German V-2 guided rocket comes true.

The vision is a military space station—a tiny, man made moon, 1,075 miles up—which each day would see every square mile of the earth's inhabited surface and the people moving around as clearly as from an airplane at 5,000 feet.

The dreamer is Prof. Wernher von Braun, the youthful German genius who made the V-2, and who now at 39 feels that the military satellite is possible. He lives here and is taking out United States citizenship papers.

The military satellite would circle the earth once every two hours. It would circle from north to south, at nearby right angles to the earth's rotation.

Thus if it passed over New York City at 10 a.m., on its next circuit down from the north it would travel somewhere over Denver and the west coast. In 24 hours it would see everything on the earth by daylight. And also it would come up each trip on the opposite side for a night view by radar.

The satellite would carry a telescope, through which you could see a strip of earth more than 1,000 miles wide as clearly as if you were only 5,000 feet away.

Leonard Jackson Found Holed Up In Montreal Apt.

Police Believe Third Member Of Trio, Boyd, Will be Caught

Montreal, March 12 — (CP) — Leonard Jackson, second of a wanted trio of desperadoes, surrendered last night after a furious battle of blazing guns and tear-gas bombs.

His pal, Steve Suchan, fell under withering police fire Friday night, in an expensive apartment several blocks away.

Tear-gas finally ended the exchange of more than 500 bullets on quiet Lincoln Avenue, a few blocks from the Montreal Forum.

Jackson and a woman who said she is his wife staggered half-blinded from their basement apartment and surrendered.

Jackson, who has an artificial foot, was reported by police today in "not very serious condition" in hospital. Jackson told police he lost his foot in a train accident seven or eight years ago.

Edwin Alonzo Boyd is the last of the Toronto trio. They have been sought since a $24,000 bank holdup last Tuesday in Toronto. Jackson and Suchan are wanted on attempted murder charges — the wounding of two Toronto policemen about to arrest them.

An early morning tip that Boyd was seen in suburban areas across the St. Lawrence River sent detectives swarming into south shore communities. However, it is believed the tip was erroneous.

No police were wounded in last night's battle. Neither was the 24-year-old woman who came reeling with Jackson from the one - room apartment where police found machine-guns and hundreds of rounds of ammunition.

Jackson was taken to hospital with bullet wounds in his stomach and arms.

The girl was taken to police headquarters where she was identified by police as Ann Roberts of Toronto. She produced papers to show she was married to Jackson in January.

Jackson yelled at police and grinned defiantly as he was placed in an ambulance and taken to hospital. His girl friend, about 30 years old, was taken to police headquarters.

As Jackson was put in the ambulance, he shouted:

"I know who tipped off the police and Boyd will be back to get them."

The trap for Jackson was well laid.

The uniformed police and plain-clothesmen were scattered for blocks about the area. The attack on the building was carried out by the full 16-man homicide squad.

Accompany Squad

Two Toronto detectives accompanied the squad as they hammered on the door leading to the apartment.

"Come out Jackson,," a policeman yelled. "The game's up."

"Come and get me," yelled Jackson. "The door is unlocked." As he yelled, Jackson fired, and the policemen returned the shots and began backing to the street.

Jackson smashed out a window with the butt of an automatic, and kept the police at bay for 15 minutes as he fired steadily.

Police rained shots at the window, and finally heaved in a tear-gas bomb which forced Jackson to the street. Wounded and choking he finally gave up and his girl friend followed him from the building.

Police said the tip-off came from the janitor of the building.

The janitor said Jackson moved in Feb. 11, using the name Andre Wilson. They said he was quiet and bothered no one.

Suchan and Jackson are wanted in the attempted murders of Sergeant of Detectives Edmund Tong and Det.-Sgt. Roy Perry of the Toronto police force.

Toronto Officer in Forefront

Bourdon led the force. With Detective John Gillespie of Toronto and Det.-Sgt. Leo Murray of Montreal at his side, they hammered on Jackson's apartment door.

The door started to open, a bullet whistled past Gillespie's car.

"I managed to get a shot at him and he staggered," said Gillespie. "He ducked sideways, shooting with both hands, and kicked the door shut."

Then from stairways, windows and hallway and from outside the building police fire smashed into the apartment.

Det. - Sgt. Roland Perron traded his .45 for tear gas and hurled "six or seven shells" into the apartment.

'Blitz' Wonderful Success, $16,205 Collected in Night

"A wonderful success."

That was the terse but appreciative statement of Red Cross general campaign chairman Alan Sprague today following last night's successful "blitz" of the city and Hastings and Prince Edward counties.

The total amount collected in the canvass of the business sections and "blitz" of the city and other centres is $16,205.

With further returns to come in general chairman Sprague said this morning he expected the total will amount to nearly $22,000 or approximately $2,000 "over the top" of the allotted quota of $20,000.

In the city proper $10,400 was collected. This amount includes the blitz and morning canvass. The latter amounted to $1,500.

Good Organization

From the Bata Shoe Company Ltd., and its employees came $500. Picton donated $2,500. This included Wellington, Bloomfield and other parts of Prince Edward county. Trenton's donation was $1,055. Madoc gave $400. Stirling folks contributed $500. Tweed and district donated $850.

Attributed to Organization

The success of the "blitz" it attributed to not only the generous response of the public but the highly efficient organization of the general committee and its sub-organizations.

Nearly 400 lady canvassers left their headquarters sharp on time and in a remarkably short period had "covered" their allotted zones. Zone captains worked hand-in-hand with campaign headquarters and the organization dovetailed into a whole that was a highlight of concerted effort.

General appreciation of the Red Cross, its officials and campaign officers to the general public and to those who assisted in any way will be forthcoming in a day or so.

In the meantime residents of the city and district, and those of Hastings and Prince Edward counties can hold their heads high with justifiable pride over a job well done.

Donald Martin New President Junior Farmers

Acting president of the Hastings county junior farmers for past six months, Donald Martin of R.R. 2, Tweed, was elected to the office at the annual meeting held at Stirling on Saturday.

Other officers include Robert Burkitt, Frankford, vice-president; Eloise Sine, Franford R.R. 2, secretary; Ralph Swan, Corbyville, treasurer; and directors, Mrs. Fred Bailey, Madoc, Gerald Clancy, Harold, and John McComb, Belleville R.R. 5.

County director is Charles Bates, Shannonville, a member of the Tyendinaga junior farmer club.

The meeting was well attended with over 75 members attending. Miss Eleanor Saracuse, president of the Ontario junior farmers' association, attended the meeting and spoke on the opportunities and importance of junior farmer work.

Recreation was the theme of the day with Charles Weir and Miss Orphie Orr of the community programs branch of the Ontario Department of Education, leading.

District Farmers Are Disposing Of Breeding Stock

Due to the low market price for hogs, Bay of Quinte district farmers are disposing of their breeding stock with a larger than usual number of sows being sold. This is stated in the weekly crop report of the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

At two auction sales in Prince Edward County little pigs went for as low as $3 each, while a high of $265 was received for a grade cow. Springers at community auction sales have dropped from $50 to $100 each. Most farmers have plenty of feed and less cattle than usual.

Interest is increasing in the use of suitable grass and clover seed mixtures with many farmers cutting down on the clovers and increasing the grasses.

In Lennox and Addington county a number of farmers have been left holding dairy cattle that had been sold for shipment to the United States.

Hockey Referee Saves Child From Drowning

Port Hope, March 12—(CP)—Hockey referee Peter Nigh, 29, of Peterborough, interrupted a trip to a game last night long enough to save Billy Niles, 7, from drowning.

The boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Niles of Port Hope had been riding an ice floe down the Ganaraska River when the ice broke beneath him. He grabbed an overhanging branch and hung on for more than five minutes while a chum tried to flag a passing car.

That was when Nigh came along, on his way to referee an Ontario Hockey Association junior B game at Kingston between the Kingston and the Belleville teams. He stopped his car, stripped off his coat, plunged into the river and brought the boy to shore.

He then drove the boy home, borrowed some dry clothes and went on to the game.

Parks Board Approves Purchase Of Two Greenhouses for $1,000

The Belleville Parks Board will grow and raise its own plants and shrubs for use in beautifying the various parks in the city.

This was the decision arrived at by members of the parks board at a recent meeting when the purchase of two greenhouses was approved at a cost of $1,000. The board will purchase two greenhouses from Mrs. W. T. Bamford, together with heating plant and several hundred flower pots.

The green houses will be moved to the exhibition park and will be used to grow plants and shrubs for use in city parks.

Parks board members approved of a lease being granted to the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club for the pavilion on Victoria Park. The requested lease was for five years with the option of renewing for another five years. The Yacht Club would make repairs to the building during the term of lease.

No action was taken regarding the request of the local Commodore's orchestra for a renewal of of their lease on the fair grounds building in which they conduct dances. The matter was laid over until new board members have the opportunity to review the present lease, which expires in May, 1952.

Will Ask Aid of Council

City council will be asked to assume the cost of repairs on the Station Street Cenotaph. In a letter to the parks board from branch 99 of the Canadian Legion, it had been requested the Cenotaph be repaired and a suitable flag pole erected. The board secretary will write city council requesting the city to attend to the work.

Members discussed the Victoria Park project and decided to hold a joint meeting with city council, and the harbor commission to draw up a definite plan for the park and the harbor.

Three standing committees have been suggested for the parks board. These are a planning committee; administration committee; and public relations committee. The finance committee will consist of one member from each of the three standing committees.

Attending the meeting were chairman Max Matthews and members Cleo Colling, Everett Liddle, Harry Smith, Art Keeggan and secretary Orland Pinkston. Parks superintendent Gordon C. Nicholson was also present.

Engineers Hear Talk on Radio By H. G. Young

The use to which radio is being put by the telephone industry was the topic of an address heard Monday evening by members of the Belleville branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada. Speaker at the meeting was H. G. Young who earlier in the day had addressed the Rotary Club on the same subject.

Mr. Young said that radio had been used in the telephone industry for many years but only in a limited capacity where poles and lines were not available such as trans-oceanic communication.

Although 500 telephone circuits are now available for use between Toronto and Montreal, additional facilities would soon be required and a radio system using a very high frequency was now under development. The system would also be used for television transmission.

Mr. Young went into some detail on the construction of towers and relay stations being built between Buffalo, Toronto, Ottawa and Montreal, noting that one of these was under construction near Stirling. He noted there was no provision for the transmission of television programs to home receivers in the immediate vicinity, the sole purpose being to transmit programs from Toronto to Montreal.

The towers would provide four frequency channels, one for television transmission from Toronto to Montreal, one for television from Montreal to Toronto, and two for telephone.

It would be possible to put 600 telephone circuits in the band of frequencies required for television.

The speaker was introduced by F. C. Adset with thanks being expressed by S. Sillitoe. Vice chairman G. A. Bradford, presided.

No Action Taken By Committee On Sale of Lots

No action will be taken by the city property committee regarding the sale of lots 154 and 157 Dundas Street, East, until the matter is discussed with the parks board. This was decided at a meeting of the city council property committee on Monday.

A recommendation covering the sale of the lots had come up at the last meeting of council but the matter was referred back to be investigated by the property committee when it was stated the parks board was interested in the properties as a possible park site.

Elmer Street west from Yeomans Street will be closed, it was recommended, subject to the approval of the city solicitor that all adjoining property owners have signed the petition.

No action was taken by the committee on an offer for the purchase of the old county home, the matter being referred to city council for direction.

Convicted Killer Believed Guilty of New Murder

U.S. federal agents and police are searching through New York State for Frederick J. Tenuto (above), an alleged killer-accomplice of Willie Sutton, in the hunt for the slayer of Arnold Schuster, 24, who was shot to death on a Brooklyn street. Schuster's tip to police led to the arrest of Sutton. New York's greatest manhunt focussed in Brooklyn after a bartender reported seeing Tenuto in the area. An escaped murderer, Tenuto is one of the FBI's "ten most wanted" men and authorities believe he is the one member of the Sutton bank-robbing gang still at large. — Central Press Canadian.

Three Picked Up

Montreal, March 12 (CP) —Donald Kindred, a Negro, was found badly beaten in the basement of a Torrence Street building today and police picked up three men for questioning.

Police said earlier reports that a man was shot to death was erroneous. They said an argument apparently broke out in the building. Neighbors said they thought they heard a shot as three men and women left hurriedly.

CREWS SEEKING BLOCK

London, March 12 —(CP)— Six miles of pipeline remained to be searched by a fresh crew this morning seeking the block in the Sarnia long Imperial Oil pipeline.

With Geiger counter and "scintilometer" a fresh crew of workmen followed a radioactive pig plug which is being flushed through the pipeline.

A pipeline pig is a metal device sent through a pipeline to clear obstructions wherever they occur and to find flaws in construction.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, March 12 — (CP) — Industrials pushed steadily higher today in early afternoon stock market dealings but other sections made little headway.

Trading was active in selected western oils and a few golds and metals attracted speculative interest. High Crest Oil was a standout as it gained pennies in a turnover of more than 200,000 shares. Volume for the first three hours was 2,013,000 shares.

Refining oils and papers led industrials upward while constructions, miscellaneous issues and liquors drew firm support. Steels and foods held gains and losses in balance but manufacturing companies and retail stores slipped.

Base metals posted a majority of moderate declines. Consolidated Smelters, Falconbridge, International Nickel and Quemont showed losses ranging from fractions to about $1. Coast Copper, Quebec Manitou and Steep Rock dipped pennies.

Western Oils were mixed as Anglo-Canadian, Central Leduc, General Petroleum, Kroy and United Oil strengthened while Mid-Continent, Scurry and Superior weakened.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

Toronto, March 12. (CP)—Ontario stockyards cattle trade was active today with prices strong on all grades. Receipts: Cattle 170; calves 40; hogs 380; sheep and lambs 20. The leftover from Tuesday was 300 cattle.

Good to choice weighty steers sold at $27-$28 with a few selling at $28.25 and medium steers from $25 to $27. Good heifers sold mostly $27. Medium to good cows were at $21 to $23.50 with common downward to $18. A few bulls brought from $18 to $22 while good to choice fed yearlings were from $27 to $29.50.

GARDINER DENIES

Mr. Gardiner has said that the slaughtering method of eliminating the disease is in accordance with United States regulations. This is the only method of elimination which would satisfy the United States and bring about a re-opening of the American border to Canadian cattle shipments. The U.S. closed off Canadian shipments as soon as the foot-and-mouth outbreak was confirmed in this country.

Meanwhile, Willi Bruentjen, 27-year-old German immigrant who was cleared of suspicion as a carrier of the foot-and-mouth disease, left Ottawa for Vancouver by air. Picked up by the R.C.M.P. after a widespread search, he spent a week at the Hull agricultural laboratories but was released during the weekend after tests on him and his effects proved negative.

It was at one time suspected that Bruentjen, who came to Canada from Germany last October and worked on a farm in the Regina area, might have unwittingly carried the disease to this country.

Now the government is finding him a job in a packing plant at Vancouver.

Four Communist MIGs Shot Down In Air Battles

Seoul, Korea, March 12. (AP)—United States Sabre-jet pilots shot down four more communist jets today, for a total of 15 destroyed in three days.

Eleven other Russian type MIG-15 jets were damaged in the three days, the United States Fifth Air Force reported. U. S. losses, if any, are announced weekly.

Four MIGs were destroyed and two damaged in a seven-minute battle Wednesday morning over northwest Korea between 20 F-86 Sabres and 17 reds. The reds did not show in the afternoon.

Air battles completely overshadowed ground action for the third successive day.

The U.S. Eighth Army reported the only infantry action was in mountains of the eastern front. In the early morning reds fired rifles from long range at the U.S. 25th division for 10-minutes and at the Turkish brigade for 15 minutes. Two small groups of communists briefly attacked Allied positions northeast of the Punch Bowl.

To Lift Mexican Embargo

Washington, March 12 — (AP) — The United States announced today it plans to lift a ban against cattle, sheep, swine and other ruminants and livestock products from Mexico by Sept. 1.

The embargo was put into effect in December, 1946, when an epidemic of foot-and-mouth disease broke out there.

Plans for removing it was disclosed in a joint statement issued by Agriculture Secretary Charles F. Brannan and President Miguel Aleman of Mexico.

The embargo will be lifted providing there is no new outbreak of the dread animal disease in the meantime.

This announcement came only about two weeks after the U. S. had closed the Canadian border to livestock and livestock products because of outbreak of the disease near Regina. The disease also exists in much of Europe, Asia and in parts of South America.

Before the embargo, Mexico shipped between 260,000 and 530,000 head of cattle annually to the U.S.

The U. S. and Mexican governments have worked jointly for 5 years to stamp out the disease. The U. S. spent about $123,000,000 on the program, administered by a joint commission.

The last appearance of the disease in Mexico was in August, 1951.

Creek Overflows, Disrupts Traffic, Causes Damage

Trenton. (Special.) — A creek overflowed at north Trenton yesterday, flooding the Wooler road from the Front Street intersection to the C.N.R. subway and the fields adjacent to the highway. Water more than two feet deep swirled through the subway, making motor travel under the passover almost impossible. Some motorists chose the detour via Trenton street and the roadway to the rear of the C.N.R. Station. A house partly built was partially submerged and a pile of lumber on the site for further construction floated down toward the river. Percy Hodge, the owner, will have extra expense recovering the materials swept away.

WANT TO USE BASES

Washington, March 12. (AP)—State Secretary Dean Acheson said today negotiations will start with the Franco government soon for the use of military bases in Spain.

The United States is seeking use of both air and naval bases. Acheson told a press conference that negotiations will involve these bases and also "the use of the $100,000,000 already voted by the Congress for aid to Spain.

Five Egyptians Given Jail Terms Following Riots

Cairo, March 12—(Reuters)—The Egyptian Supreme Military court today sentenced five Egyptians to from eight to 12 years hard labor in the first of a series of trials following Cairo's "black Saturday" riots. The Egyptians were charged with setting fire to a theatre. A sixth man was acquitted.

The Egyptian public prosecutor, in demanding "the maximum exemplary punishment," said the riot leaders "stabbed the country in the back."

"They acted like beasts, sowing and spreading sedition under cover of patriotism," he said.

The prosecutor produced a map of Cairo in support of his contention that there was "an attempt at conspiracy to burn down the capital."

Exemplary punishment must be meted out so that the world could know that "there is law and justice in Egypt."

Murder, arson and looting marked "black Saturday," culmination of anti-British agitation since Egypt scrapped her treaty with Britain in October and demanded evacuation of British troops from the Suez Canal zone.

Nine Britons were killed in the riots, and within 24 hours King Farouk dismissed the Wafd government of Mustapha El Nahas Pasha and installed the independent Aly Maher Pasha in his place. Maher Pasha subsequently resigned and was replaced by another independent, Ahmed Naguib Hilaly Pasha.

M. MacLeod Boyer, Canadian trade commissioner in Cairo, was among those killed in the riots.

INFORMATION, PLEASE!

Here is what Inspector L. H. Nicholson of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police had to say in Ottawa on Thursday last when he was asked by the Canadian Press whether the foot and mouth disease in southern Saskatchewan had been introduced into this country by Willi Bruntjen, the German immigrant who has been under investigation:

"There is no evidence whatsoever that would indicate Willi Bruntjen deliberately transmitted or had any intention of transmitting foot and mouth disease."

We are not sure whether that answer was satisfactory to the Canadian Press or not, but we have no hesitation in saying that it is highly unsatisfactory to more than a few other people.

We are not primarily concerned about whether Willi "deliberately" transmitted foot and mouth disease or not. We believe what the public wants is the following information: (1) Did Willi, or did he not, bring foot and mouth disease virus into Canada? (2) If Willi did not bring the foot and mouth disease virus, who did?

AN UNUSUAL FASHION SHOW

Mrs. Lydia Kirk, whose husband was until recently U.S. ambassador to Moscow, has put one over on the Communists. Before leaving Russia, Mrs. Kirk bought an extensive and representative supply of women's apparel in Moscow's leading stores.

It is not part of the record, but she may even have told the Reds that her reason for stocking up was that it was difficult to purchase such elegant garments in the United States. In any event, she made her purchases and kept a record of the cost of each, in terms of American currency.

But Mrs. Kirk had no intention of wearing the kind of junk that Russian women are forced to accept. It was not even destined for distribution among the wives of the poorest workers in the United States.

The latest creations of the Moscow modists are on display, with the price paid for each translated into American money, in the windows of one of New York's leading women's clothing stores. Later, the merchandising company plans to put the Moscow products on display in the stores it operates in other American cities.

A Russian dress, which cost $128.20, is of such quality that no American woman would want to be seen wearing it. It is shown alongside American-made dresses costing about one third that amount. An ensemble, consisting of suit, dress, tweed coat, pair of shoes, imitation leather bag and pair of gloves, valued in Moscow at $461.40, is shown alongside an American-made ensemble of incomparably superior quality which is offered for about one third the Russian price.

Mrs. Kirk did her self-appointed task thoroughly. The exhibition of Russian-made apparel is complete down to the last detail. The American store, realizing the advertising value of the stunt, did its part well too. There is even a copy of Moscow's Mod (Mode), which costs $10 a copy, alongside a copy of Harper's Bazaar, a leading American women's magazine which sells at 60 cents a copy.

This novel fashion show is said to be causing a riot of mirth among the women of New York. But it has its serious side, too. Said Walter Hoving, the president of the firm which presents the joint display to the public: "A way of life reflects itself in the products made available to the consuming public. The American way places the emphasis on private responsibility. The Soviet Russian way places all responsibility in the hands of the all-powerful state. So that you may judge for yourself, Bonwit's (the name of the store) is privileged to present together the products of the two systems. Here you see for yourself some concrete examples of the accomplishments of the two great conflicting civilizations of the twentieth century."

DIVORCE DECLINES SHARPLY

The divorce rate in Canada continues to drop sharply, according to Rev. F. W. L. Brailey, spokesman for the Board of Evangelism and Social Service of the United Church of Canada.

After rising during the war years, the rate reached a peak of 8,199 in 1947. In 1948, it was down to 6,881. In 1950, it was down to 5,208.

The percentage figures would be still more impressive, since there has been a substantial increase in population in recent years.

CIRCUS-GOING GRANDPA

Although I am a grandpa gray,
As elephants
I clapped my hands and cheered, I'd say,
As happily as they did.

When all the circus clowns came in
And every ring invaded,
I'll swear I wore as wide a grin
While watching them as they did.

When two enormous dancing bears
Went through a waltz unaided,
My eyes were just as wide as theirs.
I marvelled just as they did.

Three children But as young as they,
I'm sure I should be graded,
For at the circus, I can say,
I did whatever they did.

In spite of a couple of inches of water on the ice surface, it was some game. Badgley for the locals introduced a new kind of stick, however, he could not get away with it as it had brass knobs on the end. Hibbart in goal packs a mean bunch of horse shoes. Frechette has a bad habit of trying to score when no one is around. The referee had some time watching Harvey, however, he did not get away with much. Freddie for the losers can shoot when he gets a chance and Mac. is not so heavy as he thought he was. Arnott did not show up well owing to the spray of water, he says that he never was a good sailor. The following composed the teams: Locals, Hibbart, Frechette, Badgley, Oliphant, Arnott, Wheeler; Power Department, — Cook, McElrath, Anderson, Waldorf, Brown, Langley. Sub., Leslie. BETTER A WIDE MARGIN

A little girl was being taught the Twenty-third Psalm. It was a pretty hard assignment for her little brain and sometimes she got mixed up considerably. But one mix-up was most significant and suggestive. Attempting to recite the opening declarations of the Psalm, this little girl said: "The Lord is my Shepherd, what more do I want?"

That is almost as good as the original, and certainly if she grows up with that conviction in the forefront of her mind, she can be sure of a lot of happiness and contentment. For the people who are convinced that the Lord is their shepherd find that they have about everything in life to make it significant. Such people are very seldom plagued with worry. They have a sea of hope into which they cast their anchor in the night of despair, knowing that the morning will dawn and that the tumultuous sea of trouble will subside. In times of temptation people who recognize the overarching providence of God feel a protection which shields them and keeps their moral life intact.

If the Lord is our Shepherd what more do we want? If our hope and security lie beyond the circle of this world's events, then with courage and confidence we can meet whatever assails us. We have something which in value surpasses everything else by a wide margin.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

UNDERSTANDING

Who would not have as many understanding friends a spossible? With such we are free to think and express our thoughts, dreams, or aspirations without fear or favor. I once talked with a friend who told me of a wonderful father, and after telling me of an incident during a serious illness which she had, she remarked: "He always understood."

Reading in Thoreau's Journal I came across an item where he paid a great tribute to his friend Alcott. He said: "In his society almost alone I can express at my leisure, with more or less success, my vaguest but most cherished fancy or thought. There are never any obstacles in the way of our meeting. He has no creed. He is not pledged to any institution. The sanest man I ever knew."

In a lifetime some of us may be fortunate enough to have one or two friends like Thoreau had in Alcott. And what a comfort, what an inspiration such a one proves to be! Too many people are weeded with suspicions, jealousies, and bitter resentments, to be tolerant, kindly, and understanding.

If we cannot radiate cheer, hope, faith, and kindliness we had better remain silent. Most understanding people do just that. Rather than arouse bitterness, unhappy talk, and misunderstanding they prefer to say nothing. What great space there is in this world for those who have understanding and who demonstrate it in their daily lives!

Nothing is so difficult to understand as the working of the inward life of another human being —his thoughts, sorrows, struggles, ambitions, successes and failures. They are all housed there to a greater or lesser degree. We, who are so alike to all others, ought always to try to understand. It would save so much unhappiness, both for ourselves and others.

What a world of philosophy is contained in those lines from the Psalms of David: "Wisdom is the principal thing; therefore get wisdom; and with all thy getting get understanding." Things that we don't understand are of no use to us!

Airmen's Shrine to be Erected In Historic York Minster

My E. S. JOHNSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, March 12—(CP)—A shrine to perpetuate the memory of some 20,000 commonwealth and allied airmen who lost their lives in defence of the Free World in the Second World War, is to be erected in Britain's historic York Minster.

The memorial, designed by Prof. Albert E. Richardson, noted architectural authority, will primarily commemorate the sacrifice of the men who served with formations based in north-east England, embracing the famed No. 6 Canadian bomber group.

The project will be financed by public subscription and contributions will be invited from the people of all the commonwealth countries.

In launching the drive for funds, Sir John C. Slessor, marshal of the R. A. F., commended the idea of a shrine as a tribute to the courage of the allied airmen.

"York Minster was a landmark well-known to our aircrews coming and going on their missions," he said. "It is a perfect choice for this memorial to the many thousand airmen from this country and others of the commonwealth and empire, and from allied countries, who went out from their bases in the north and did not return."

Clock Feature

The memorial, to be set up in the north transept of the cathedral, adjoining the women's memorial of the First World War, will feature an astronomical clock, showing the phases of the moon and the solstice, embodying the picturesque signs of the zodiac. On the reverse side of the clock will be a map of the night skies depicting the constellations of the northern hemisphere under which the airmen flew.

If feasible, representations of the aircraft flown, may also be included.

Under the clock will stand a lectern on which will lie the Book of Remembrance listing the names of the men who did not come back. Arrangements will be made for one page of the book to be turned each week.

Symbolic Figures

Both clock and lectern will be enshrined in a monumental framework of oak, surmounted by symbolic figures of Courage, Skill, Sacrifice and Victory, on the lateral sides will be carved and colored the armored badges and mottoes of units which operated from north-east England.

Very Rev. E. Milner-White Dean of York, said the venerable Minster may well have been the last glimpse of an English scene before darkness blotted out the landscape.

The corner chosen for the memorial site will be known as the British Legion and R. A. F. Association memorial chantry.

"There the Book of Remembrance will abide perpetually and the clock register the seasons of the skies through which our airmen flew," the dean said. "The empty space of the north transept facing the book and clock will serve as a most noble chapel for prayer."

TWINS BECOME PARENTS

We have four daughters in our family, two of whom are twins, and each of the twins has borne children, one of them has twin boys.

(H. L. W.)

Twin sisters married brothers (not twins); the one twin sister had 14 children, the other 15. Who says one of twin sisters is always sterile? (Mrs. G. S.)

My twin sister and I are 51, the oldest of a family of seven children, three boys, four girls. My sister has borne four sons. I have borne three boys and four girls. (Mrs. A. M. K.)

There have been twins, sometimes two sets, as far back as my mother's family history runs, in every generation till now. My grandmother had two sets of girl twins. Three of these girls married and bore five, two and eight children respectively—my mother is the one who bore eight, including a pair of twin girls. I am married and have two grown sons, one married a twin and she has borne him two children. (Mrs. H. S. W.)

I am a twin. I married a twin. A daughter was born to us. I am now married a second time and have borne two healthy sons to my second husband. My twin sister has borne three sons. (Mrs. H. G.)

My sister-in-law is twin to a boy. She is 28, married 6 years and no prospect that she will have a baby. She has Ben Told a woman can't have children if her twin was a boy. (Mrs. S. L.)

I am the mother of twins, boy and girl. They are seven years old and as healthy as one could wish. But the other day I learned that when twins of opposite sex are born, the male will be sterile. (Mrs. B. C.)

Some such thing may be true of twin calves. I'm not qualified to give an opinion about that.

I went through my files of reports from twins about their children, but I failed to find one from either side of the boy-girl combination.

Among our readers there may be one or more who can refute the notion that either the male or the female of boy-girl twins is sterile. If such there be I hope he or she will tell me about it. I am sure Mrs. B. C. and many other readers who worry about it will be grateful for the knowledge.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Disinfecting Infected Tonsils

Informed you once wrote an article about treatment of infected tonsils without tonsillectomy. Many physicians I have asked know of no other treatment than tonsillectomy. (Miss B. W. A.)

Answer—The method of choice, in my opinion, is diathermy, electro-coagulation. But this is a technique beyond the skill of the ordinary hammer and tongs operator. So he usually "has never heard of it." It is virtually painless, requires no hospitalization, is far safer and at least as effective as the major operation called tonsillectomy. However, it takes time, patience and skill, and so—

Oh, Come, Now

Many letters do not rate answers because they are out of order, for one of these reasons: They are not signed. They are more than 100 words long. They do not pertain to personal health and hygiene. They do pertain to disease, diagnosis or treatment. They do not inclose stamped, self-addressed envelope.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

What happened to the zoot suiters? Gone probably where the flying saucers went. There was a curiously daft quality about our world two and three years ago that seems to have cleared up very nicely at the moment. About the only lunacy that remains on this, the verge of spring, 1952, appears to be the radio rage for both male and female weeping, howling and bawling in song. But since the radio has the habit of killing a song, or a style of singing, in about three weeks to a month, this lachrymose era is likely to be over before the first red, red robin comes bob, bob, bobbin' along.

A shrewd psychologist of my acquaintance blames the zoot suit epidemic on a normal post-war psychosis. Having been brought up through childhood in a period when the style of clothes defined the man—to wit, the military uniform—the youths of the zoot suit era hungered unconsciously for something distinctive in dress. Having, as children, striven to affect the uniform in their childish play, they revolted against it on reaching the fringe of maturity. So, when somebody invented that fantastic cut of draped pants and grotesque-shouldered, long-tailed coat, there was an immediate acceptance of it by those dim enough in the wits.

The stomach is not the only part of us capable of hunger. The brain can hunger too. After years of wart-ime food, consisting of fears, terrors, mysteries and threats, the brain went hunting about, in peace time, for a taste of the old nourishment. And flying saucers supplied the need very neatly.

The human spirit is a hungry thing, like a child. Somebody has to watch it all the time, or it will eat nothing but cookies.

Britain Looks to Record Budget To Restore Confidence in Pound

London, March 12. (AP)—Britain looked today to a record budget of £4,150,000,000 ($11,520,000,-[illegible]) to restore world confidence [illegible] the pound and to slow up the [illegible]ain on the country's vital gold and dollar reserves.

At the end of February, those reserves totalled only £1,480,000,000. The treasury considers that perilously low.

The government believes too that the budget which cuts income tax and the tax on overtime, will restore workers' incentives to produce more—something Britain has to do to survive.

Newspapers generally hailed the budget introduced yesterday in the House of Commons by Richard A. Butler, chancellor of the exchequer, as "brave", "hopeful," "bold," and "imaginative". Dissenters were the Pro-Labor Daily Herald which attacked it as "bad and unjust", and the Communist Daily Worker which called it "the most vicious class budget in British history."

Labor members decided to attack it during the immediate Commons debate as offering no solution for, nor contributions to, Britain's export and defence problems, but simply redistributing income against the poor in favor of the middle classes. Some Socialists called it "a recipe for a slump."

But generally, Britons who expected a budget which would mean even harsher austerity, considered it mild.

Expect Market Slump

One of the immediate effects will be a stock market slump, brokers said. Paradoxically, that will be because the budget has "strength and soundness," they added.

They said the slump will be caused by the raise in the bank rate from 2 1-2 to four per cent—which the Bank of England ordered with Butler's approval to put a tighter rein on all credit.

Another almost-immediate effect will be higher prices for basic foods such as bread, fats, cheese, butter, sugar, bacon, eggs, and milk because of the £160,000,000 cut which Butler directed in the £140,000,000 government food subsidies.

Butler cut income taxes by raising earned-income and single-persons allowances and allowances for children, increased old-age pensions and family allowances, boosted the gasoline tax 7 1-2 pence a gallon making the price four shillings and three pence and ordered an excess-profits tax on business profits above the average for 1947-48-49.

The income tax cut, which will free 2,000,000 of the lowest-paid workers from paying any tax, will give more incentive for overtime work, Butler said.

He ordered an additional cut of £100,000,000 in Britain's imports. Since November, the import bill has been slashed by £600,000,000.

Will Provide Surgery

Toronto, March 12. (CP) — Ontario will join the federal government's medical plan to provide surgery for blind persons whose sight can be restored by removal of cataracts.

The Provincial Department of Health, in making the announcement yesterday said that under the plan, federal authorities will contribute 75 per cent and Ontario 25 per cent of the cost of remedial treatment and surgery for pensioners whose eyesight may be recoverable to a degree. The service will be free to pensioners.

Testing Armored Vest

Seoul, Korea, March 12. (AP)—United States infantry in Korea are testing a lightweight armored vest that is all nylon. It weighs only seven or eight pounds—about half the weight of metal alloy vests, the army said today.

Last February the army tried nylon vests that contained protective inserts of lightweight metal.

The latest vest is designed to protect against mortar, grenade and shell fragments. These normally account for 60 to 80 per cent of combat wounds.

The nylon vest will sometimes stop a .45-calibre slug but will not protect against high-velocity rifle or machine-gun fire.

SIGNS CONTRACT

Hollywood, March 12. (AP)—Ethel Barrymore yesterday signed a long-term contract for a series of half-hour television shows to be known as the Ethel Barrymore theatre. She will variously appear as a commentator and actress.

S.A. Slashes Imports

Capetown, March 12. (Reuters)—South Africa today slashed imports by one-third as its contribution to the battle to prop up the sterling currency area's sagging economy.

Consumer goods bought abroad will be whittled down to 40 per cent of the 1948 figure this year, compared to 60 per cent for last year.

Eric Louw, Minister for Economic Affairs, announcing the cuts, said it is necessary not only to ensure that South Africa's sound exchange position should be maintained, but it follows on the conclusions reached by the Commonwealth Finance Ministers last January.

Celebrates Anniversary

Vatican City, March 12. (AP)—The Pope today celebrated the 13th anniversary of his coronation as Pontiff at a solemn Pontifical Mass in the Sistine chapel.

Several thousand persons gathered in the chambers leading to the chapel to cheer the Pope with shouts of "Viva il Papa" as he was carried by on his portable throne.

The Pope was elected March 2, 1939, his 62nd birthday. His coronation was held March 12, 1939.

33 Killed in Crash

Bahia, Brazil, March 12—(Reuters)—Thirty-three persons were killed and about 40 injured today in the worst road disaster in Brazilian history—a crash between a bus and a truck loaded with Brazilian dust bowl refugees.

The truck was jammed with destitute farmers and their families.

The bus was travelling between Salvador and Euclides da Chuna.

The farmers were moving out of the drought-stricken belt of northeast Brazil.

BUILDING $1,000 FENCE

St. Thomas, March 12 — (CP)—The Public Utilities Commission is building a $1,000 fence around its water storage dam and lining a travelling crane and an employees' rest cabin with boiler plate. The commission is protecting its property and employees from shots fired by target - hunting "sportsmen." Twenty - five panes of glass have been broken in the waterworks building and recently two men were arrested for shooting at glass insulators on a 2,200-volt power line.

MARMORA

Art Duncan Gives Diversified Talk at C. of C. Dinner Meeting

Marmora—Art Duncan president of the Trent Valley Hockey League, who is also personnel relations officer at Batawa, gave a diversified talk to the local Chamber of Commerce at its monthly dinner meeting in the Royal Hotel, on Thursday evening.

His theme was "Good Humor," and following a series of humorous stories, dealing with various types of people and his imitation of characters at a talent show, he struck a more serious vein in giving his impressions of what constitutes a good Canadian yesterday, today and tomorrow.

Canadian Way of Life

The Canadian way of life, he declared was not complete without a sense of good humor, and with the large number of immigrants taking up residence in this country, one should display the true Canadian pattern of life, so that they, too, might be attracted to it and absorbed in it.

The speaker was introduced by Major Percy Gray and thanked by Ritchie Wells.

The new president, Vaughan Glover extended a welcome to the various visitors present.

Secretary R. E. Neal read extracts from letters received in support of the request that the closed season for deer hunting south of No. 7 highway be ended. Roger Young was commended for his fine work as chairman of the Membership Committee, after he had presented his report of the membership being extended to 70. He expressed the hope that it would be further increased to 90 by the end of the year.

Red Cross Drive

The president mentioned the forthcoming Red Cross drive in the district. He regretted that the chairman, past president, A. F. Fraser, was unavoidably absent and so details could not at once be learned "But" he said with emphasis, "The drive will be on."

Joseph Hulsmans spoke briefly of his recent trip to his native Belgium, which revealed so many changes in that country since he left it over 32 years ago.

The question of entertaining the hockey team at a future dinner meeting met with favorable response.

Trophy Display

Art Duncan interposed to say that the Senator W. A. Fraser trophy won by Marmora, would be on display at such dinner but its actual presentation would be delayed with that of the trophies of other sections until the league championship trophy, the Bata cup had been won. It was decided not to run a regatta at Crowe Lake this summer.

APPLY FOR INCREASES

Toronto, March 12 — (CP) — The Ontario Milk Control Board yesterday was wondering if the settlement of disputes between producers and manufacturers of canned and processed milk lies within its jurisdiction. The producers have applied to the board for increased prices paid for milk by the manufacturers. The board was set up to control milk sold in bottles and cardboard containers to the consumer. Judge A. B. Currey, chairman of the board, said its jurisdiction would have to be checked before it considered the application.

HAD WONDERFUL TIME

Dundas, Ont., March 12 (CP)—A six-year-old Dutch boy, unable to speak English, had a wonderful time yesterday after his first session in a Canadian school, but his parents had a couple of anxious hours. School children and teachers joined John Heersink in a search along a flood-swollen creek at noon, looking for his son Hans, but Hans was enjoying the hospitality of a police officer who had found him crying several blocks from school. Constable Fred Simmons took Hans home with him for lunch because the boy could only say his name was Hans. Later the officer drove to school, learned of the search and located the boy's father.

DEAR TELEPHONE CALL

Phoenix, March 12. (AP)—It cost Mrs. Daniel J. Freese $9,000 to make a nickel telephone call yesterday. Calling from a public phone booth, Mrs. Freese forgot her purse which contained $9,000 in large bills. She missed her purse 15 minutes later and returned to the booth. It was gone.

WEDDINGS

LAWRENCE—PAYNE

Spring flowers and ferns formed the setting in Point Anne United Church, for the wedding Saturday, March 1, of Beverley Dora Jean Payne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Payne, Point Anne, and George Edward Lawrence, son of Mrs. P. Lawrence, of Collingwood, and the late Mr. Percy Lawrence. The Rev. Oscar E. Wagar officiated.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was charming in a gown featuring a bodice of Chantilly lace over satin, and bouffant skirt of net over satin, with back and front panels edged in lace. Her three quarter length veil was held by a small Juliet cap. She carried a semi-cascade bouquet of bronze roses and white hyacinth bells, and wore pearls, the gift of the groom.

The bridesmaids were Miss Ruth Payne, gowned in orchid net over taffeta; Miss Tove Jensen, of Toronto, in a similar gown of yellow, and Miss Kathleen Payne wearing green. All wore matching head dresses of net and taffeta, and carried semi cascade bouquets of daffodils, mauve sweet peas and pussy willows.

Mr. Gerald Neal, of Toronto, was groomsman; Mr. Arthur P. Jones, of Toronto, and Mr. Eric Payne were ushers.

The wedding music was played by Mrs. R. Puffer, and the solos, beautifully rendered by Miss Beverley Buck, of Belleville, were, "The Lord's Prayer" before the ceremony and "At Dawning," during the signing of the register.

At the reception, the bride's mother and the bridegroom's mother received the guests; the bride's mother wearing navy with navy accessories and corsage of pink carnations and the bridegroom's mother a gown of gray silk with gray accessories with a corsage of pink roses.

For a motor trip to Lake Placid, Quebec and Montreal, the bride wore a gray suit with red accessories, with white corsage. Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence will reside in Petawawa where the bridegroom is a lieutenant with the Royal Canadian Dragoons.

Dr. Bruce Cronk Describes Eskimo Life on Southampton Island

The Contact Club of Christ Church held an open meeting this week when president Jeanne Jackson welcomed over a 100 including representatives of all the women's organizations of Christ Church and the W.A. of Foxboro.

Dorothy Sloan introduced the speaker of the evening, Dr. Bruce Cronk, well-known Belleville son. Dr. Cronk, with a Queen's University group spent six months in the Arctic working for the Defence Research Board on the problem of acclimatization of the white man to Arctic conditions. With his informal and pleasant mode of address, Dr. Cronk gave a most interesting report of the life of the Eskimos as he saw it on Southampton Island.

Eskimo is White

"The Eskimo" said Dr. Cronk, "is a Canadian with black hair, a Mongolian slant to his eyes, his skin, where it is protected by his fur and skin clothing is as white as ours. The Eskimo is not only a Canadian, but also a neighbor, only 18 hours from Belleville by air. The Eskimo has, perhaps one of the best philosophies in the world, one of happiness, and vast hope with great loving kindness and co-operation among themselves. The Eskimo is completely honest and never shows anger.

"The Eskimo bothers not with clocks, he eats when he is hungry, sleeps when he is tired, hunts when food is needed. So long as he has half a whale or more cached away, he is happy playing games with his family.

"Cat's Cradle is played with as many as 97 configurations." But what really staggered Dr. Cronk was to find a booming bridge club on Southampton Island! The Eskimo, though easily amused, is highly intelligent, and readily took to this game introduced to them by an American.

The Eskimo language is like none other, and extremely difficult to learn as one of their words means a whole paragraph in English, and the change of only a syllable in the word gives it a different meaning. Four Eskimos talking sound like eight or ten pigeons in a loft; the sound is guttural but soft.

Grown up at Five

The Eskimo child, until the age of four or five, is a little demon, ruling the roost with a vengeance! Then suddenly at about five, a swift transition occurs when, with no fuss or fanfare of any sort, the child suddenly becomes the quiet obedient servant of his elders. He has grown up.

This pampering of the children in their early years may be more readily understood when one realizes the high infant mortality rate among the Eskimos. A couple, married at fifteen or sixteen years of age, by prearrangement between their fathers, will, in the course of their lifetime, produce perhaps 16 children. Of these, only half will survive more than a year, and only three will reach teen-age. The mother nurses her child until he is two or three years of age, or until he can eat meat. If her milk fails as often happens if food is scarce, she attempts to chew up meat for the child, but usually the baby dies. If measles or mumps apepars in a community half the population dies. T.B. is also a scourge.

The life of the Eskimo is truly one of survival of the fittest. Starvation stalks them constantly. In hard-pressed times, waiting for food, with harpoon ready, an Eskimo may stand motionless at his hole in the ice for 26 hours or more. The hunting is often difficult indeed, with always the danger of the hunters being floated out into the Arctic.

Flowers as Vegetables

During their two weeks of summer, when flowers bloom sparsely in the land Eskimo children run about eating the bright flowers like candy. Except for sea-weed, fresh or dried, these flowers are the only form of fresh vegetable food these children have.

Fred Beeby, as projectionist, ran off some films taken on Southampton Island, to show Dr. Cronk's Eskimo friends engaged in activities such as harpooning the white whale, spearing the char, and so on. These films revealed also the malnutrition of the Eskimo children.

So impressed was Dr. Cronk with the improvement in the condition of these children affected by the use of powdered skim milk that he intends to send them as much of it as he can on the government ice-breaker which will reach them in August. Through a collection taken at the meeting, the Contact Club was happy to be able to give Dr. Cronk enough money for one barrel of powdered skim milk for these needy children.

Mary Fletcher expressed the grateful appreciation of the meeting to Dr. Cronk for the pleasure of his informative talk and films showing people who, beset by difficulties, yet are happy.

Refreshments were served to all by Mary Colling and her volunteer committee.

At the last business-work meeting of the Contact Club, treasurer Winn Taylor, reported the net proceeds of the club's annual bridge and euchre to be $122.

The next meeting of the Contact Club will be held following the Lenten service.

J. Musgrove Shows Interesting Films

Film strips on "Good Manners and Social Adjustments", were the highlights of Monday evening's monthly meeting of Avondale Home and School Association. These were shown by Mr. J. Musgrove, of Belleville Collegiate and they were a production of McGraw, Hill Publishing Company. Such films prove highly beneficial to not only the student but to many parents as well.

Good manners, well-learned enable the mingling with others to be done in an easy fashion, and with self-confidence.

The main item of business concerned the "Open House" to be held in the new school one evening during the first week of April, in place of the regular Home and School meeting.

At this there will be a good display of "hobbies", by both children and adults of the community. Recreation and refreshments will be part of the program.

The meeting closed with refreshments served by mother of Grade III.

GOOD MANNERS

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Her aunt has right idea about courtesy

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My aunt, my favorite aunt, and I have the same birthday, but until this year we have never celebrated it together. This year she and my uncle moved from the suburbs to town, to a house only a block from our house, and so, last week, we had a double celebration of our birthday. Some of the guests were her friends and mother's friends, and some were my friends. Practically everyone brought us birthday presents —we opened them as they were handed to us, and of course thanked for them. It never occurred to me to write thank-you notes, but yesterday my aunt happened to say that she had written all her thank-you notes, and—had I? When I admitted I hadn't written any, she said she was ashamed of my manners, and that I should write a note for each gift, even now at this late date. Do you think this is necessary?—Virginia.

I'd like to add my nudge-toward-good-manners to the so-right suggestion of your "favorite aunt". Since doubtless you are her "favorite" niece, naturally she would be mighty happy and proud to have you the fine kind of person who is willing to take a little trouble to write words of appreciation for a thoughtful, generous gesture from a relative or friend. Do follow her gracious lead, my dear Virginia. . . .make it your charming, charming habit, to write a thank-you note for every present given to you, even though personally handed to you! That's a shining path to being liked. Write those notes, even though "postponed".

A tea to celebrate her high school graduation

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When my young sister is graduated from High School this spring, she has asked to have a tea to celebrate the occasion. Will you please answer some questions we have about this plan?

1. What part should I, her only sister, take in the party? She would like to have me stand in the receiving-line with our mother and her, but I think it might be better if I 'preside' over the tea-table.

2. Should this tea be for her young friends only, or should we invite grown-up friends of the family who have always known her and who, I am sure, would love to come?

3. A cousin of ours, a 12-year-old girl, and my sister are devoted to each other, and my sister wants her to take some part in the occasion. Could she properly be in the receiving-line, or what would you suggest?—Beatrice T.

1. I suggest that you, your mother and your sister be in the receiving-line —your mother first of course, since she will be hostess, then your sister, the guest of honor, and then you. It will be more important that you be in the receiving-line (or at least stand nearby to make introductions and so forth) than to preside over the tea-table. To serve at the tea-table I suggest you invite two (or, better, two for each hour of the party) relatives or family friends, gracious women who will gracefully take care of this part of the party.

2. I should think this is definitely the kind of party to which you should invite friends of all ages. . . .and I imagine this is what your sister would want.

3. How about your giving your sister a good-looking guest book (perhaps one bound in her favorite color) . . . and then have your young cousin take over the delightful task of seeing that every guest registers in it.

Food for Thought

Special-Purpose Menu

N. L.—This is for you.

Tomato Soup
Homemade Jellied Veal
Mustard Pickles
Delmonico Potatoes
Quick-Cooked Spinach
Raw Turnip, Carrot and Celery Slivers
Raisin Squares
Cheese
Coffee

DIRECTIONS:

N. L. asker for homemade jellied veal and raisin squares with maple icing—so since I'm always short of space I made it up into this menu.

N. L. also said "jellied veal that isn't sour (or pickled)—something to use for leftover veal or pork—not too highly spiced". (If there are readers who want to make jellied veal starting with raw veal shanks, they can write to me and I will print it.)

JELLIED VEAL

Soak 2 tablespoons gelatine in 4 tablespoons cold water. Dissolve in 2 1-2 cups hot meat stock or diluted consomme or bouillon from tins or use 2 1-2 cups boiling water plus 1 teaspoon MSG, 1 teaspoon salt and 1 tablespoon lemon juice. Let this stock stand until it begins to jelly. Pour into loaf tin to 1-4 inch depth and place sliced or chopped veal on it. Chill until set. Continue these layers until all meat and stock are used up. If you care to slices hard-cooked egg and fancy cooked carrot shapes may decorate bottom of mold. Chill until set. Turn out on cold meat platter, garnish with parsley, radishes, tomato, etc. Slice with very sharp knife. Use any other cold meat besides veal if you wish.

DELMONICO POTATOES

Pare and cube 4 large potatoes. Put in shallow baking dish, dot with 2 tablespoons butter, sprinkle with 3-4 teaspoon salt, and shake of pepper. Cover with 1 1-2 cups milk. Sprinkle top with at least 1 cup grated cheese. One hour at 400 deg. Fahr.

RAISIN SQUARES

Make recipe for Plain Paste: 1 1-2 cups pastry flour, 3-4 teaspoon salt, 1-2 cup best shortening, 3 or 4 tablespoons cold water. Divide in halves. Roll out 1 half to fit shallow pan. Cover with

RAISIN FILLING

(Same as for Banbury tarts) Remove seeds from 1 lemon and slice it and add to 1 cup water and simmer 20 minutes. Remove lemon and put through food chopper or chop on board. Return to water, add 2 cups chopped seeded raisins and 2 cups sugar. Mix 3 tablespoons flour with 1 tablespoon fine cracker crumbs and 1-4 cup water. Stir this into the first mixture until it thickens, then cook over hot water 10 minutes stirring occasionally. Cool. Spread over pastry in pan. Cover with

TOP CRUST FOR RAISIN SQUARES

Roll out second half of Plain Paste. Cream 5 tablespoons butter or margarine and spread 1-3 of it on half of the pastry, fold other half over it and roll lightly. Repeat twice more using all shortening. Roll out finally to fit over raisin filling. Tuck in corners and edges to make them neat. Bake at 500 deg. Fahr. for 10 minutes, then reduce heat to 400 deg. Fahr. to finish. Cool in pan. Cut into squares with very sharp knife. If to be frosted do so when cold but still in pan.

MAPLE ICING

(For Raisin Squares)

1 cup brown sugar, 1-4 cup water, 1-4 cup corn syrup, 1-16 teaspoon cream of tartar, 1 teaspoon maple flavoring, 2 egg whites. Mix sugar, water, corn syrup and cream of tartar. Stir over heat until it boils. Cover and boil 4 minutes. If any crystals of sugar remain on sides of pan wipe them off with damp cloth. Boil to 238 deg. Fahr. (soft ball). Remove from heat add flavoring and let stand 5 minutes. Beat egg whites stiff, and pour syrup over them slowly while beating until of spreading consistency. This is an excellent frosting for a layer cake with date and walnut filling.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

No wife need take abuse indefinitely

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I have been married for five years and have three children.

In all these years, I have never been happy because my husband has run around with other women. For a time, we were separated, but we finally went back together again.

Now, he frequently gets drunk, and when he does, he comes home and accuses me of things that are untrue. He insists that I have men come to my house when he is away. He says our bank account should be in his name because the man is the boss around his own house. Also every time he gets drunk, he beats me.

I am tired of this life, so please tell me what to do.—Mrs. C. V.

Dear Mrs. C.V.:

I don't see any reason why you should continue to take abuse from your husband. It may be that you should get some sort of legal separation from him by which he would be directed by the court to support you, but refrain from molesting you in any way.

If there is a welfare agency in your city, I advise you to go there and discuss your problem. If you don't know how to find such an organization, ask your minister, or inquire at the police station or go to the YWCA. You should be able to get the information you need at any one of these places.

Don't cut off your nose to spite your face

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I'm 18 years old and have had one special girl friend for nearly a year. We always get along very well and have a very good time when we are together, but there is one thing that worries me. That is, when we go to a movie, or are anywhere in a group, she seems to show more interest in other boys than she does in me.

Do you think I should keep going with her when I'm not sure whether or not she loves me?—M. B.

Dear M.B.:

If there's a girl you like, and with whom you always have a good time when you're together, don't you think you would make a big mistake to stop going with her just because she doesn't concentrate on you when there are others around? Wouldn't you be doing what the old proverb says —"cutting off your nose to spite your face?" In other words, you would be cheating yourself out of a nice friendship and a lot of fun that's apparently all yours a big share of the time, just because it's not all yours all the time. Does that make sense?

Think it over. If you do, and if you're any sort of logical thinker, I'm sure you'll decide that you'll be kinder to yourself if you just let things ride as they are.

BEAUTY

HELEN JAMIESON

Oil the wheels of beauty.

It is wonderful the way women are hanging on to youthful appearance! If you have any old-time family photographs, take a peek at your great-great-grandmother. She wore a bonnet and shawl and, at thirty, considered herself an old woman, ready for the shelf. Look at your own grandmother. Pert and perky, latest hairdo, lips and cheeks tinted, clothes chic! "Look, granddaughter! Gram is dancing."

Many factors have combined to bring about this happy state of affairs. Among them are outdoor sports, the balanced diet, the daily bath, and mental hygiene.

We must not overlook the part that cosmetics have played in keeping women young-looking and adorable. Women who have their cream pots handy, who dip their fingers into them every night and anoint face and hands regularly, are taking out insurance against any number of beauty sorrows.

Complexion, scalp, hair, fingernails—yes, even the toenails—are benefited by lubrication. The free use of emollients conditions the flesh so that early wrinkles will not form. Also, the practice is likely to keep the complexion free of the discolorations that come with advanced birthdays.

Think of all the mean influences that tend to dry the skin—strong sunlight in the summer season, flaying winds when the weather is cold, and atmospheric dust. Oily cosmetics combat all of them. So do not begrudge the money you spend for toiletries. You get your money's worth—that is, if you use them faithfully, day after day.

As a woman grows older, the condition of her skin changes. Sebaceous glands that may have been disturbingly active in her young days, causing her to wear out powder pads by the dozen, gradually weaken, with the result that the epidermal coat is dry, often shows little flakes. That is not the time to let up on good-looks chores. It is the time to be extra faithful to them.

As the skin dries out, so does the scalp. The hair may suddenly become brittle, break at the touch of the comb. A little brilliantine should be applied when the hair is being arranged each day. Hot mineral oil, applied to the scalp and frictioned in briskly, will keep scales from forming.

Fingernails sometimes lose delicacy in middle age. They, too, are benefited by lubrication. Apply a cuticle cream every night; it will not affect the polish unfavorably. It will keep the flesh surroun ing the nails in a healthy cond tion.

Huge Oil Refinery to Make Boom Town of W. Australia

Perth, West Australia, Mar. 11—(Reuters) — The Anglo-Iranian Oil Company's decision to build an $89,600,000 refinery to help replace the Abadan refinery lost in Iranian oil nationalization, promises to make a boom town of the sparsely-populated state of West Australia.

When completed in 1955 or 1956, the huge refinery at Kwinana on Cockburn Sound will have an annual capacity of 3,000,000 tons, biggest in Australia.

Announcement of plans to build the refinery in West Australia has already brought indications that steel and cement and other industries may set up plants here.

Government officials estimate income from the refinery will easily eclipse wool and wheat as the state's major industries.

In 10 years, West Australia's population, now only about 500,000, is expected to double.

The West Australian government has committed itself to huge expenditure to meet the needs of the Kwinana refinery, including dredging of the channel entrance into Cockburn Sound so that 32,000-ton oil tankers can enter freely. This will take five or six years and it is expected to cost about $11,200,000.

During the three or four years the refinery will take to build, nearly 4,000 men will be employed. Then an operating staff of about 1,000 will be needed to keep it working at full capacity.

Under the announced arrangements, Anglo-Iranian will finance the project independently.

All materials in short supply in Australia will be imported including some 80,000 tons of steel for construction of the refinery — about half of it for storage tanks.

Storage for crude oil and intermediate and refined products at Kwinana will total around 1,000,000 tons, compared with Australia's present total seaboard storage of 1,300,000 tons.

Member Wants Federal Aid For Education

Toronto, March 12—(CP)—The Ontario legislature yesterday heard a suggestion that Canada's constitution, the British North America Act, be "brought up to date" to permit federal aid to education.

Elmer Brandon (PC—York West) said education has become half the total of the municipal tax bill and ratepayers are wondering where the peak will come. Federal and provincial grants "with no strings attached" would take part of the burden off the local taxpayer.

The grants would also promote equality of opportunity for school students across Canada.

Mr. Brandon's plea, made during the throne-speech debate, was supported by Alfred Cowling (PC-Toronto High Park).

One solution was for the municipal councils to have representation on boards of education or else have power to appeal to budgets of school boards.

G. Mennen Williams, governor of Michigan, visited the legislature and from the floor of the house pledged his "continued support" of the St. Lawrence seaway. He spoke of the longstanding friendship and co-operation between Michigan and Ontario.

In honor of the governor's visit, the old mace which was used in the early legislature of Upper Canada, from brought out for the session. The mace was captured by the American troops in the War of 1812 and returned in 1938 by President Roosevelt.

When the mace appeared, Premier Frost commented to the Michigan governor that Canada took Detroit during the War of 1812 and returned it but the United States took 125 years to return Ontario's mace.

Mr. Brandon said part of the surpluses of the Ontario and federal governments should be distributed to the municipalities Municipalities were forced to pay federal sales tax on everything they bought and thereby contribute to the federal surplus but they were not allowed to budget for a surplus themselves.

The throne speech debate continues today.

Splendid Rescue Made by Pilot Of Helicopter

Tokyo, March 12 (Reuters) —A helicopter flying in tight circles wound a rope around a United States pilot floating in icy waters off the North Korean coast and succeeded in rescuing him.

Air force headquarters here, releasing the story today, described it as "one of the most remarkable rescues of the Korea war."

Capt. Clarence W. Tuxbury, a marine pilot, was the man saved in the "Maypole" rescue.

He bailed out of his plane and was floating in the sea when a helicopter tried to drop a rope to him.

His hands were too cold to grip it tightly, so the helicopter flew in tiny circles until he had enough rope wound around him to hold on and be hauled into the plane. The helicopter pilot was Maj. Amerson E. Hellier.

College Teacher Found Safe, Well In South Carolina

Rock Hill, S.C., March (AP)—A three-month search for Dr. Barbara Morehead, former South Dakota State College English professor, ended when she was located here yesterday, safe and in good health.

The attractive, 39-year-old educationist dropped from sight after checking out of a Marshall, Minn., hotel Dec. 8, the day after she disappeared from the college at Brookings, S.C.

Her brother, C. W. Morehead of Welland, Ont., arrived here last Sunday to join her.

She explained her disappearance by saying "I just wanted to get away to something different. I was very nervous and felt that I wasn't doing well with my teaching."

Dr. Morehead told the Rock Hill Herald that she failed to notify state college officials because her decision was made "on the spur of the moment."

Dr. Morehead said she travelled to San Francisco where she obtained a typist's job with an insurance company.

She became friendly with a Rock Hill woman. When her friend decided to return to Rock Hill, Dr. Morehead accompanied her on the bus trip.

DOZEN SPEAKERS

ernment employment agencies are doing their best to assist the men.

In the Throne-Speech debate, Capt. H. W. Herridge (CCF—Kootenay West), supporting the C.C.F. claim that the Atlantic Alliance has committed itself to unrealistic and disastrous defence targets, said the C.C.F. is disturbed by those in the United States who advocate an immediate war with Russia, N.A.T.O. was dominated by U.S. military leadership.

In a broadcast speech outside of the Commons, External Affairs Minister Pearson accused the C.C.F. of giving comfort to Russia by "irresponsibility" advocating cutbacks in N.A.T.O. rearmament targets. Those goals were an absolute minimum.

Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, V.C. (PC—Nanimo), reporting on a recent stay in Europe, said the Germans have made an "amazing" industrial and financial recovery from the effects of the Second World War. They are determined to reunite eastern and western Germany.

Walter Dinsdale (PC—Brandon) said the government's big defence program provides an "excellent" opportunity to encourage the industralization of Western Canada. Slow western industrialization has led to many western high school graduates moving to Eastern Canada.

Says Some Ports Disgrace

Dan Riley (L—St. John-Albert) asked the government to launch a continuing program of improvement and expansion of harbor facilities. Some of the facilities in the Port of Saint John, N.B., were a disgrace to the country.

John Dickey (L—Halifax), parliamentary assistant to Production Minister Howe, and T. A. M. Kirk (L—Digby-Yarmouth) joined in urging the government to provide assistance to Maritime fishermen who lost their equipment in the recent Atlantic coast storms.

George Hees (PC—Toronto Broadview) asked the government to bring to a halt what he called "legalized dumping" of American textiles on the Canadian market. Hundreds of Canadian textile workers had been thrown out of their jobs by the unfair competition.

J. A. Ross (PC—Souris) suggested the government stimulate food produtcion by establishing parity prices for farm products. Existing support prices for cheese, butter, eggs and other produce were too low.

C. E. Johnston (SC—Bow River) expressed hope Finance Minister Abbott will include some anti-inflationary measures in his April 8 budget. Measures taken by the government to date had not reduced prices.

John Blackmore (SC—Lethbridge) said Canada is not contributing to the spread of communism when she does not use some of her abundance to feed the hungry people of the world. Steps should be taken to overcome distribution problems.

Huge Salmon Catch Expected In 1955, Next Cycle Period

Vancouver, March 12 — (CP)—When the summer of 1955 rolls around British Columbia fishermen expect a record catch of sockeye, the prince of salmon

A. J. Whitmore, chief supervisor of fisheries here, said the number of sockeye successfully making their way to spawning grounds of the Fraser River system in 1951 was almost double that of 1947, the previous cycle year.

Sockeye salmon — the number one fish in British Columbia's number two industry — are four-year fish, returning to their spawning grounds every fourth year after roaming the sea.

Last year the fishing industry reached an all-time-high value of $91,000,000 — $21,000,000 higher than 1950. Of this the salmon haul was $50,000,000, an increase of $12,000,000 over 1950.

There are five species of salmon: sockeye, springs, coho, pinks and chums, all of great commercial importance. Sockeye is the most valuable because of its canning qualities: its more or less uniform size, the deep red color of its flesh and its oil content.

Fishing of salmon is done mostly by gill netters in and off mouths of rivers, but some by purse seines.

In 1950 a virtual "keep out" order was issued to Russian and Japanese fishing fleets by the 5-man International Pacific Fisheries Commission, which rules the waters off the Fraser.

They said the Fraser extended beyond the three-mile limit "indefinitely westward."

Previously any waters beyond the three-mile limit had been regarded as the high seas, and seiners made rich hauls intercepting sockeye before they reached the Gulf of Georgia and the river mouth.

Difficult Problems

The problems encountered by the B. C. Fisheries Research Board with regard to maintenance of the salmon industry are made difficult because salmon spawn in fresh water.

Industrial and agricultural development of the province tends to interfere with the fish in reaching their spawning grounds. This is true also of Washington State. The removal of forests, clearing of land for crops, and building of dams all have adverse effects.

In 1913 the run was almost wiped out by a slide at Hell's Gate, millions of salmon dying in the boiling water of the Fraser.

Since that time, every fourth year has seen an increase in the run.

Introduction of fish ladders has been a tremendous help to the industry. The fish, fighting their way upstream to interior lakes, sometimes come face to face with an unsurmountable fall. Fish ladders, with their average three-foot jump, enable the salmon to continue on their journey.

Dams pose a special problem, overcome by hauling fish by tank truck from the lower level to the top where they are placed in the river once again.

In Washington State tests are being carried out by an international commission to determine how many make the return trip to the sea.

International co-operation is needed to insure the perpetuation of this multi-million dollar industry.

Men Sent Out To Get Jackson At All Costs

By WILFRID BOURDON
(Assistant Police Director)
(As Told to The Canadian Press)

Montreal, March 12 (CP) —As chief of Montreal detectives I sent my men out to get Jackson at all costs last night.

If that order had cost Jackson his life, I would have felt no remorse.

Jackson is a killer. But like all these "tough men" after a first show of bravado, he broke down and cried like a baby.

When my men ordered him to come out he didn't hesitate to fire at them.

I don't know whether Boyd is in town, but if he is his chances of survival are slim. We'll get him. There are few places for rats of this nature to hide out. Eventually they make a mistake and tip their hands.

My same order—shoot to kill—is as applicable in Boyd's case as it was in Jackson's.

The Toronto detectives sent down have been of great help. While they have not been able to help in the actual footwork involved, they were right on hand when the shooting started.

We were lucky that Jackson was hit before he had a chance to get a suitcase open containing two machine guns and hundreds of rounds of ammunition. I still don't know why the girl with him didn't start operating one of those weapons. That would have made it twice as tough for us.

There are patches of blood on the apartment floor. It's all Jackson's blood—that's the thing I like about the situation.

TWO OFFICIALS ARRESTED

Indianapolis, Mar. 12 (AP) — The FBI yesterday arrested two bank officials on charges of falsifying loan records totalling $75,000. Evans Matthew Rust, 42, vice-president of the Peoples State Bank and James E. Walpole, 27, assistant manager of small loans until he resigned last September, were jailed. The FBI said both admitted making false notes to conceal loans they had approved which later proved uncollectable.

$100,000 FIRE LOSE

Passaic, N.J., March 12 (AP)—An oil stove explosion set off a fire last night that burned through six frame buildings and made 26 persons homeless. Damage was estimated at $100,000.

VISCOUNT ALEXANDER

Governor-General of Canada for six years.

He came to us from overseas
With military honors crowned,
To represent our Sovereign King
With wisdom and with tact profound.

This was to him an unknown land,
His birthplace was on Erin's shore,
Somewhat reserved, he yet made friends,
And Canadians now his name adore.

With wife and family for six years
He filled with joy old Rideau Hall.
The while he journeyed far and near
In answer to the country's call.

His public service nobly done
On a small farm he would retire,
But lo! Old Britain called him home,
To higher rank he might aspire.

His work is for the world's defense—
He bade not Canada "Goodbye"
"I'm coming back", is what he said,
We'll wait and on his word rely.

Aberdeen Angus And Herefords Bring Good Prices

Toronto, March 12 (CP) —Good average prices were paid for Hereford and Aberdeen Angus bulls at the annual bull show and sale of the Ontario Beef Cattle Improvement Association.

Top price in the Hereford division was $2,500 for a young bull and in the Aberdeen Angus section the peak price was $1,000. Herefords brought an average of $595 for 75 head while 36 Aberdeen Angus bulls some of them quite young, brought an average of $516.

The reserve champion Hereford, Ringwood Del Rupert 5th, consigned by George Rodanz of Stouffville, Ont., brought top price of $2,500 paid by the Oxford County artificial insemination unit.

Champion of the show, Rodanz' Ringwood Del Zota, brought $2,000 from the same group.

Harvey Blackburn, buying for the Blackburn estate of Uxbridge, Ont., paid top price in the Aberdeen Angus class. He bought the champion Angus bull, Bandolier of Malden 13th, consigned by Dr. W. F. James of Georgetown, Ont., for $1,000.

Pearson Accuses C.C.F. of Giving Comfort to Reds

Ottawa, March 12—(CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson last night accused the C. C. F. of giving comfort to Russia by "irresponsibly" advocating cutbacks in North Atlantic Treaty rearmament targets. Such an attitude, he said, could lead to disaster.

"The tragic fact is that, though the feeling of tension arising from the menace of Russian military aggression, has to some extent eased in recent months, the situation remains explosive and full of danger," Mr. Pearson said in a speech prepared for delivery.

Present rearmament goals are an absolute minimum, he declared.

"It would be foolish—and worse—to slacken our determination now to carry out the policy of collective defence which is beginning to make an impression inside the Kremlin walls."

In a free-time CBC political broadcast, the chairman of the N. A. T. O.'s council singled out in particular statements by the C. C. F. national council that N. A. T. O. has become dominated by military leadership which has set targets which are "disastrous and irresponsible." In particular the C. C. F. deprecated the aim to have 50 divisions in being this year, said the figure is impossible to attain and that the effort may wreck the economies of western European powers.

Refuses Call

Mr. Pearson said it is "sad" that the C. C. F. seems to be moving towards the communist position which holds that the Atlantic alliance of 14 countries is an aggressive coalition. The phrases used by the C. C. F. represented "exactly how the Klemlin would describe" N. A. T .O.'s goals of divisions this year, 90-100 by 1954.

By implication, he refused the C. C. F.'s call for Canada to urge a cutback in those goals.

"In fact," he said, "those goals do not represent increases but decreases over those set a year ago and which the C. C. F. approved. They are the bare minimum necessary to provide the only kind of deterrent to aggression that Soviet Russia with its 175 divisions understands.

". . . to say now that our defence effort is becoming too great and is becoming aggressive is not serving the cause of peace. On the contrary, it encourages those who would destroy peace and fightly realize that N. A. T. O. is the greatest obstacle in their way."

Governor Pledges Continued Support Of Seaway Project

Toronto, March 12 (CP)—Governor G. Mennen Williams of Michigan yesterday pledged "continued support" to the St. Lawrence seaway.

During a one-day goodwill visit to Toronto, Governor Williams spoke as the province's guest at the opening of yesterday's sitting of the legislature.

In a speech from the floor of the legislature he said the seaway will bring "benefits for peace as well as wartime defence . . . for generations to come." He added:

"I pledge my continued support to this great project in the fervent hope that it can provide another example of North American co-operation."

Co-operation and friendship between Michigan and Ontario were the main points of the governor's speech.

The relationship between the two people "has long since ceased to be that of strangers and foreigners," he said.

The governor mentioned the war of 1812 along the Canadian-United States border.

"We have reached the stage in our relations where our friendship is so deep and permanent that even our past wars have been drained of bitterness and we remember only the bravery of those who fought on both sides."

This "unparalleled achievement of neighborliness and international goodwill" was due to a "basic agreement on ultimate values," stemming from a common ancestry.

The governor and Mrs. Williams met Premier Frost and his cabinet at noon yesterday, followed by a meeting with Ontario's Lieutenant-Governor Louis Breithaupt. The governor had lunch with the cabinet.

Earlier he toured the city.

START FORMAL TALKS

London, March 12—(Reuters) —Britain and The Netherlands yesterday started formal talks to draw up a new trade agreement. The old one expires this month.

Thrilled, Glad Jackson Captured Says Detective

Toronto, March 12 (CP)—Detective Roy Perry, one of two police officers shot down by bandits last Thursday, said from his hospital bed yesterday that he is "thrilled and glad" that Leonard Jackson was captured.

He heard the news of Jackson's arrest in Montreal over his bedside radio. "Now I hope they get (Edwin) Boyd."

Detective Edmund Tong who has been on the critical list since he was wounded was "too tired to be told about it," his nurse said. His condition has continued to show a slow improvement.

Tong and Perry were shot when they approached a car with two men in it while investigating a bank robbery.

TO PROTECT TIPSTERS

Albany, N.Y., March 12 (AP)—Legislation was introduced in the State Assembly yesterday that would forbid police or other officials from revealing the identity of persons giving them tips on criminals. The measure stems from the slaying in Brooklyn of Arnold Schuster, whose tip to police led to the arrest of bank robber Willi Sutton.

Junior Hawks Defeat Kingston Vics 8-5 To Sweep Series Four Straight

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

THAT'S IT!

That's that. Now for Barrie or whoever the august Ontario Hockey Association says is the next stepping-stone to the junior "B" championship. The Hawklets short two defencemen came through with flying colors in a rugged battle with the Kingston Vics last night to notch their tenth win in eleven starts and sweep the group finals with the battling Vics in four straight games.

And Bill Cook's Hawklets are worthy champions. They won the honors the hard way coming from behind on three separate occasions to snatch victory out of almost certain defeat. All of their victories were clean-cut and the youngsters deserve all the honors the group title brings with it.

The entire squad played consistent hockey in the group playoffs. True there were moments of lapse but the squad always rallied and with reserve power that was their forte swept through to victory. Ted DeGray was the standout of the series with Hector Lalande, and George Jacklin, of North Bay, Henry Therrien, of Chapleau also turning in brilliant performances. Billy Strahan, Duke Doran, Ross Mason and Don Barclay came through with flying colors while the rest of the pack including Pete Green, Bob Wilson of North Bay, Johnny Munro, Bob Green, Ray Carey, Houle and their pals held up their end in an outstanding manner.

OUR SALUTE, MR. NIGH!

Digressing from sport for the moment we tip the columnar hat to Pete Nigh, of Peterborough who officiated at the Kingston-Belleville game last night. Pete was driving to Kingston and had arrived at Port Hope. A small boy hailed him when he stopped for traffic and told Pete a little girl had fallen in the river. Pete didn't hesitate. He jumped from his car, ran to the river bank, plunged in fully clothed and brought the little girl to safety. Pete didn't stop to ascertain the name of the child. He was late and had a hockey date in Kingston. He did not have a change of dry clothes, naturally and drove to Kingston soaking wet. Arriving there, Kingston rink authorities put Pete's clothes in a drier to remove some of the moisture before he went on the ice. And that, ladies and gentlemen, is why the game was held up. Our salute to a courageous guy.

GLENS-FLYERS TONIGHT

The Belleville Glen Roys face a rather stiff test tonight in Memorial Arena when they meet the Trenton RCAF Flyers in the fourth game of their current Trent Valley Hockey League southern section finals. The Glens at the moment are on the short side of a 2-1 games count and must win tonight in order to remain in the running. The series is a best-of-five and if the Glens cop the victory tonight the fifth and deciding game will likely be scheduled for the Brighton Arena on Friday. Flyers handed the McNevin puckists a 7-1 defeat in their third clash of the series and the Glens will be out to avenge that setback tonight.

A Kingston-Belleville pee wee game will precede the Flyers-Glens tilt starting at seven o'clock. The second game will be played in Kingston Saturday.

TOUGH TEST

Meanwhile on the senior "B" front the Hawks and Peterborough Eagles, two games down in their best-of-seven series clash in the third tilt with the Hawks going to Peterborough and the Eagles meeting the Kingston Sacs on the latter's ice. The upsurging Sacs have handed the Eagles two decisive defeats and bid fair at the moment to take the series. Whatever became of the Eagles' Oshawa reinforcements? The fourth games of the series are tabbed for Friday night, and could mean elimination for somebody's favorite band of puckchasers.

It's an ill wind that doesn't dry somebody's washing. The amazing Kingston Sacs, whose sponsors wept copiously in their suds at the beginning of the season for dearth of players after that certain business, have come up with a squad that seems to be the peer if not better than the ill-fated Nylons. Now they've pulled the OHA strings and got themselves a starry goalie, one Sonny MacDonald said to have played with the St. John Beavers and formerly with the Halifax Santamarians.

FOR THE CRIPPLED KIDDIES!

There is no truth in the rumor that Probert's Probers and McDougall's Mushers of the combined police forces hockey team are in the market for size 16 boots to which they hope to affix skates. The rumor, it is claimed, by undercover men of the PDHT is mere propaganda emanating from the public relations department of Vance's Smoke Eaters.

On the other side of the picture the PDHT are said to be blocking any attempt of the Vance Vunders to sneak in under cover of darkness on the night of the big game, March 18th, any hockey-playing reinforcements said to wear the uniforms of fire departments in other parts of the district.

Meanwhile the teams are practicing but rumors persist that one or both will come up with surprises on the night of the fracas. Shriner Charlie Cawker told this department today that he is in touch with a couple of National Hockey League former greats and hopes to have them here in an officiating role.

Little Sharon Rushlow, whose picture adorned the cover of the Crippled Children Magazine a couple of years ago will face off the puck.

And remember this. Every cent resulting from the sale of tickets (they're only 25 cents each) goes to the Shrine Club Crippled Children's Fund. Police, firemen, Shriners, arena officials and all connected with the venture are donating their services so the fund can benefit with every cent derived from the ticket sale and box office receipts.

The Shrine Club here has been and is doing a splendid job for the crippled children of the city and district, and they thoroughly deserve all the support that can be given them.

MINOR HOCKEY

The juvenile and midget divisions of the Belleville Hockey Association swing into league playoffs at Memorial Arena tomorrow night. Playing their second game of the goals-to-count series in the midget division will be Canadian Tire and the Big "A" teams, and Quinte Battery and Moose Lodge. The first named teams start the fun at 7.00 o'clock.

The juveniles start their goals-to-count series with Glen Roys meeting Belle Cleaners at 8.30 and Police Department clashing with the Belleville Locks immediately following.

Doran, DeGray Pace Pack To Tenth Win in 11 Starts In Rugged, Speedy Encounter

Paced by the fine efforts of "Duke" Doran and Ted DeGray, the Belleville junior Hawks won an 8-5 decision over the Kingston Vics in Kingston last night to sweep the junior B group finals in four straight games.

It was the Hawks tenth win in the last eleven starts and came as the result of a co-ordinated team effort, six men figuring in the goal-getting department. It was the first group championship for the Belleville entry in the past five years.

Doran and DeGray led the scoring parade, the former getting three goals and one assist while DeGray notched one marker and fed the pass for four others. In addition this pair played good two-way hockey and were used extensively in a penalty-killing capacity.

Punch Line Helps

The "punch line" of Lalande, Jacklin and Strahan picked up a goal each, Lalande getting two assists and his linemates one each. Ray Carey sank the other goal while Peter Green and Don Houle assisted on one each.

Maurice Chevrefils, as in every other game during the finals, headed the Kingston scorers with two goals and an assist. Bob Vallier and John Redmond got a goal and an assist each with Montgomery accounting for the odd goal. Wilson Reid, one of the better Kingston performers, picked up a pair of assists.

The score was not a direct indication of the play as the Vics held at least an even margin, In the early stages they threatened to pull away and force a fifth game back in Belleville.

The Vics sprang into the lead three times in the first ten minutes of play only to have the Hawks roar back with the tying marker, and take the lead away from them in the final minute of the period.

In addition, the Hawks scored three goals while playing a man short and another while playing two men shorthanded.

"Duke" Doran, in notching his first hat trick of the year, did it the hard way as his first two markers were made while the other team had the man advantage. His final tally in the late minutes of the game was made while the teams were playing four a side and took the edge off a fierce Kingston attack.

The game threatened to become a real donnybrook in the third as play became rough with high sticks elbowing, roughing and eventually fighting. It all started when Houle and Reynolds tangled in the corner beside the Hawk net.

While the officials were separating this pair, Vallier and Carey started fighting in the opposite corner. When the smoke of battle finally cleared away, all four were handed major penalties. This was at the 12 minute mark of the third period and Hawks leading 7-4.

At 16.05 Pete Green and Pat Hegarty became embroiled in front of the Vic goal and they were eventually chased to the dressing room with major penalties. Other fueds threatened but referee Crombie kept the tilt from getting completely out of hand.

Neither goalkeeper showed to the best advantage during the early stages of the game but Barclay came back in the final period to put on a fine display. Senior on the other hand let in a couple of soft ones that may have swung the tide in the Hawks favor.

Belleville went into this final game without two of their regulars, Johnny Munroe and Ross Mason being unable to be there. DeGray took the heaviest load although Gilmour, Lalande and others were used to stop the gaps.

Hector Lalande turned in another good showing, going well in both directions. George Jacklin gave flashes of earlier season form but was unfortunate around the goalmouth. He hit the goal posts three times in the space of three minutes during the final period. Billy Strahan, the other member of this always dangerous line, also played well.

Chevrefils, Redmond, Reid and Montgomery were the workhorses for the Vics, the latter being the best of the rearguard.

COBL May Be International Loop in 1952

The Central Ontario Baseball League laid some of the groundwork for the 1952 season at a special meeting held in Kingston last night.

Discussion of possible entries formed the main topic of the discussions. No election of officers was held this being laid over to the next meeting scheduled for the Kingston city hall on Sunday, Mar. 23rd.

Clayton, N.Y., and Watertown, N.Y., signified their willingness to enter a team while Ogdensburg indicated a desire to enter.

Picton was represented at the meeting but made no commitments. Batawa is considered an entry. Jack Carson and Ralph McCabe represented the Belleville Redmen. Peterborough was not represented but expressed a desire to enter via letter.

It was the consensus that the loop will 'boil down' to a two-section league. This however will be ironed out at the March 23rd meeting.

Kingston M.P. Wants Review Hockey System

Ottawa, March 12—(CP)—W. J. Henderson, Liberal member of parliament for Kingston City, last night criticized the system under which young Canadian hockey players are signed up and then told that they "shall or shall not play on this team, or that."

Speaking in the throne-speech debate in the commons he referred to "a case which occurred last fall" in which "sentences were handed out by a sub-committee of the Ontario Hockey Association."

It is time, he said, that "our government reviewed the whole situation of our national sport to see that citizens are not denied the right to participate in a game which should be for the good of our youth and our country."

"Such athletic activities should be supervised by a body responsible to the government, which in turn is responsible to the people."

An O. H. A. sub-committee last October slapped life suspensions on the manager and coach of Kingston Nylons, a senior B team. Two players were suspended for two years, 12 for one year and two others were exonerated.

The club was charged with throwing a four-game play-off series to Peterborough last spring.

NAVIGATION OPENS

Detroit, March 12 (AP)—Lake shipping for the 1952 season got under way early Tues when two auto carriers moved out of port for Cleveland loaded with new automobiles.

The ships set sail with the Detroit River half full of broken ice. However, rising temperatures were forecast.

Brantford Redmen Defeat Stratford To Square Series

(By The Canadian Press)

Brantford Redmen kept their chances for a berth in the Ontario Hockey Association senior A finals alive last night when they delighted a home crowd by dumping Stratford Indians 4-1 to deadlock their best-of-seven semi-finals at three games each.

The decisive game is scheduled for Stratford tonight, the winners moving into Owen Sound Friday to open the finals against Mercurys.

In last night's OHA junior A play the host Guelph Biltmores bounced back from an 8-6 Sunday defeat to down Toronto Marlboros 6-2 and even their best-of-seven series 1-1, in games. The third game will be at Guelph Friday night.

With Toronto St. Michael's standing by after ousting Galt Black Hawks in their quarter-final, St. Catharines Teepees took another step forward in their fight for the right to meet the Collegians in semi-final play when they drubbed Kitchener Greenshirts 6-1 at Kitchener. Teepees now hold a 2-1 edge in games in the best-of-five series.

Soo Wins

In the red-hot Northern Ontario Hockey Association senior A finals, Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds drove back from a 5-3 Monday loss to blank North Bay Black Hawks 5-0 last night in North Bay.

The victory moved Greyhounds two points up on a total-points-to-count system. With two victories and a tie to their credit, the Hounds need only a deadlock in tonight's fifth game to clinch the league title. Should they lose, the sixth clash will be the deciding tussle.

At the Lakehead, Port Arthur Bruins, last year's Thunder Bay Junior Hockey League champions, last night came through with their first victory in this year's finals with Fort William Hurricanes. They defeated Hurcs 7-5. Fort William still leads the best of seven series 2-1. The fourth game is scheduled back in Fort William Thursday.

Cards' Rookie Dazzles Fans

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 12—(AP)—Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mizell, hailed as a lefthanded Dizzy Dean, has passed his first test with flying colors.

The highly touted St. Louis Cardinal rookie wowed the folks yesterday with a dazzling three-inning performance in the Red Birds' 3-0 triumph over the Boston Braves.

Mizell faced only nine batters in the first three innings. He sent five of them back to the bench on strikes.

Cardinal fans back in St. Louis may not see Mizell as the rookie is waiting a decision on an appeal from his Mississippi draft board.

Fleming Mackell Gets Winner As Boston Edges Wings 3-2 To Take Over Fourth Place

By CRAIG SWAYZE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

There has been a lot of talk in National Hockey League circles about the January Toronto-Boston trade that sent right-winger Fleming Mackell to Bruins and brought defenceman Jimmy Morrison to Maple Leafs by way of their Pittsburgh Hornet American Hockey League farm club.

Boston sports writers and quite a few neutral observers have ventured the opinion that Bruin coach Lynn Patrick was scalped on the deal. While Morrison turned in outstanding play along the Maple Leaf blue line, Mackell showed rather indifferently as a Bruin forward.

However, last night in Boston, Mackell scored his first goal since donning a black and gold sweater, and it may prove to be his most important yet—the one that moves Bruins into the four-team post-season Stanley Cup playoffs.

Dog Eat Dog

The goal gave Boston a 3-2 victory over the N. H. L. champion Detroit Red Wings and moved them into fourth-place in the six-team standings, two points up on the idle fifth-place New York Rangers. Rangers and Bruins are slated to play six more games each to finish the 70-game schedule and from here on in it's dog-eat-dog for the final playoff position.

Bruins were forced to come from behind twice to gain their win. Metro Prystai gave Wings a 1-0 lead at 6:40 of the first period and Boston's Johnny Peirson deadlocked the count at 18.39.

In an action-packed middle session, Gordie Howe put Detroit out in front once again at 14.32 with a 20-footer, his 42nd goal tied it again for Bruins just 27 seconds later and Mackell's clincher followed at 18.22.

Bruins played it cagily throughout the final period, managing to hold off the power-packed Wings. The only real action in the third session came when veteran Milt Schmidt tangled with Gord Howe during the final minute of play. Schmidt got a major penalty while Howe escaped with a minor.

Only six penalties were handed out, the teams dividing the sentences evenly.

One game is scheduled in N. H. L. play tonight, the tail-end Chicago Black Hawks moving into New York for a clash with the fifth-place Rangers. A win on the Blueshirts' part could move them into a fourth-place deadlock with Boston.

Royals Shut Out Edmonton 1-0

(By The Canadian Press)

New Westminster Royals continued their rule of the Pacific Coast Hockey League last night with a 1-0 shut-out over Edmonton Flyers while Vancouver Canucks were defeating Victoria Cougars 4-2.

Amy Dufault scored the lone Royals goal in Edmonton. Scorers for Canucks in Vancouver were Plumb, with two, Groves and Manson. Frampton and Leger scored for Cougars.

'Yanks a Cheap Outfit' Says Courtney 'Never Paid Me What I Was Worth'

By GAYLE TALBOT

Los Angeles, March 12 (AP)—Young baseball players sometimes form deepseated hatreds for clubs other than their own which they nourish throughout their big league careers and which provide them with a burning incentive to outdo themselves in games against the objects of their anger.

Such a young man is Clint Courtney, a square-jawed catcher of 25 who has come up from Kansas City to fight one and all for a first-string job with the revitalized St. Louis Browns. The ball club he doesn't like even a little bit is New York Yankees.

Clint, who wears glasses both on and off the field, possibly as a come-on, is an unpolished jewel who speaks his mind at all times. We recall that just a year ago he was beginning to burn because he knew that the Yankees, to whom he then belonged, were planning to send him back to the minors.

Back With Hornsby

The previous year he had been with Rogers Hornsby at Beaumont in the Texas League. He had worshipped Hornsby, and still does, and Hornsby said last spring that Clint was ready for the big show. But the Yanks sent him to their Kansas City outfit, anyway. There he hit .294 and, we hear, assaulted an umpire. We ran into him next on the Browns' bus coming back from San Bernardino yesterday. He was back with Hornsby after a year's lapse—one of the four rookies the Rajah insisted president Bill Veeck get for him as the start of a rebuilding program. He hadn't changed any to speak of.

"Them big clubs with their big stars," Clint said in a hard, tight voice. "We're going to show them a few things. They'll know we're around before the season's over. Hornsby knows more about baseball than they can even guess at, and we've got some good players. We won't finish any last, or anywheres near it."

Why, he was asked, did he consider the Yankees his public enemy No. 1?

"They never paid me what I thought I was worth," Courtney said. "They're a cheap outfit. Sure you'll see where George Weiss, when he thinks he's got to have a player to win a pennant, he'll pay $75,000 for him. He's smart that way. But you ought to get hold of that player and find out how much salary he's getting. It won't be much. They talk about Joe DiMaggio getting $90,000 to $100,000. I wouldn't believe it unless I saw the cheque."

Major 'B' Bowling League

Sacos, Inkspots and Opticals came through with 5-2 victories over Champs, Comebacks and Reid's Dairy in the Major "B" Bowling League games at Recreation Alleys last night.

Joe Legault was high triple man with a 744 with D. Batchelor having the high single of 305. Other scores were Batchelor 705; Al Hitchon 696, S. Martin 628, J. Moreau 663; Tom Pappas 679.

Training Camp Briefs

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 12—(AP) — Mickey Mantle is running up quite a record in pinch-hitting roles for the New York Yankees.

Mantle has banged out singles in his last three pinch-hit trips.

Pasadena, Calif., March 12 — (AP) — The Chicago White Sox will send their first stringers against the St. Louis Browns today after using their "B" team to defeat Roger Hornsby's best 7-6 yesterday at Burbank.

Rookie Hector Rodriguez up from Montreal, will make his first start in a Major League uniform, at third base.

Orlando, Fla., March 12 — (AP) — Sid Hudson, the Washington pitcher who switched to side-arm and underhand slants in deference to a sore arm, tries the overhand route against the Boston Red Sox today.

"If he can throw hard without pain, we're a heap better off," said Washington manager Bucky Harris. He considers Bob Porterfield his only Grade-A hurler.

Hudson, counted on heavily last year, won only five games after his arm went bad.

Sport in Brief

Babe Ruth, Joe DiMaggio and Bill Dickey were unanimously voted to the all-time New York Yankee team yesterday in St. Petersburg, Fla., by 48 New York writers who were covering baseball in 1930.

The 1927 club that won the American League pennant by 19 games and annihilated Pittsburgh in four straight World Series, was named the best Yankee team by a lopsided margin with 45 votes. Two went to the 1937 club and one to the 1928 team.

Results of the balloting were announced as the club headed into its 50th season. A dinner tonight at Tampa will commemorate the date the Yanks were voted into the American League, March 12, 1903, at the old Fifth Avenue Hotel in New York.

Regina Pats moved into the Western Canada Junior Hockey League final last night with a 3-1 victory over Calgary Buffaloes. The victory was the third straight for the Pats in the best-of-five semi-final. They now meet either Lethbridge Native Sons or Edmonton Oil Kings in the league final.

In Milan, Italy, Canada's Olympic champion hockey team last night trounced the Italian national sextet 8-0.

Johnny Williams won the British and Empire heavyweight titles last night in London by outpointing Jack Gardner in 15 rounds. Gardner weighed 214¾ to 194⅜ for Williams.

Charlie Dressen, Brooklyn Dodgers manager, yesterday publicly thanked Jackie Robinson for coming to his defence last season when Birdie Tebbetts, Cleveland catcher, said in a speech that "all baseball was rooting for the Dodgers to lose because of Dressen's shabby treatment of Erv Palica." At that time, Robinson said that Tebbetts didn't know what he was talking about and that the Dodgers were behind Dressen in everything, including his handling of Palica.

Plans to televise the 15-round middleweight championship fight between titleholder Sugar Ray Robinson and Carl (Bobo) Olson of Honolulu in San Francisco Thursday night were cancelled yesterday. Joe Phillips, member of the State Athletic Commission, made the announcement after conferring with George Gainford, Robinson's manager.

Governor Tom Dewey of New York yesterday in Albany, N.Y., called on New Yorkers to contribute money to send a strong Olympic team to Finland to meet a Russian squad the Kremlin has predicted will win. The Dewey appeal came simultaneously with his announcement that he accepted the honorary chairmanship of the New York State committee for the Olympic Games.

Russia will send a soccer team to the Olympic Games at Helsinki, a Soviet official said yesterday in Rome. The statement was made by Sergi Savin, Soviet representative and one of the vice-presidents of the International Football Association Federation here for meetings of the executive committee. "We are sure we will make a good showing," Savin said.

Tsk, Tsk, Tovarich Such Remarks

Moscow, March 12—(AP)—The Soviet press charged the United States' Olympic hockey team again today with engaging in free-for-all fights instead of playing hockey.

A telegram from Sweden reported that in last Sunday's game in Sundsvall, Sweden, an American player started a fist fight with a Swedish player. It claimed further that the entire American team joined in the battle, beat up the referee and then started a fight with the crowd.

More has been written about the American hockey team in the Soviet press than about all other Olympic athletes and teams put together and all in the same vein.

The press here continually has depicted the American and Canadian Olympic hockey teams not as hockey players but as "hooligans," who expect to win games, not by playing better hockey, but by crippling all opposing players during the game.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

The remnants of a stripped bridge deal may look like the picked over carcass of a holiday turkey. As you can see from the remainder of a deal in which these cards are left:

♥J 4
♦None
♣A 7

WEST
♠None
♥K Q
♦None
♣J 10 9

EAST
♠Q J 9 7 4
♥None
♦None
♣None

SOUTH
♠None

North was declarer at a contract of six no-trump. He took the first eight tricks and thus left five cards in each hand. The lead is now in the south dummy hand and the remaining diamond is led.

On this trick is thrown the north last spade. But what can the west hand afford to give up? To protect clubs he must hang onto the three he holds. So, he gives up one of his remaining two hearts.

His heart king will still take a trick in that suit and a club trick he expects to get will defeat the contract. But the declarer has already made plans to prevent the loss of a club trick.

The small dummy heart is led and lost to the west king. This leaves three cards in each hand. Of the three that west holds, all of them are clubs, one of which he must lead.

North takes this trick with the club ace and leads his heart jack on which dummy sluffs a club. The last trick is then taken by dummy with the club queen and the six no-trump contract was in.

As mentioned, a squeeze works when an opponent is trying to protect more than one suit. It works only then. And when it is a true squeeze there is no way the opponent can crawl out of it.

The mainspring of a squeeze is the squeeze card. This is a card in some suit of which the opponent has none. In his need for a discard the opponent is forced to give up a protector.

To make the squeeze effective, the squeezer needs some card that acts as a threat in one of the suits the opponent tries to protect. This threat card with the squeeze card make a good team.

You can't have everything. Nor take it with you.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, March 12 (AP) —Lou Costello dropped his usual role of funnyman today and urged his fellow comics to adopt a code for television behavior.

"Television can be a tremendous force for good or for evil," the little comedian said. "Today's kids are influenced greatly by what they see on TV. And some of the comedy material on TV can certainly do them harm.

"The kid audience is the most important factor in TV. Kids can make or break a comedian. And it's important that comics do not use material that will give them wrong ideas."

Among the principal offenders, added Costello, are the comics who use unmanly gestures such as stroking the eyebrow with the little finger or flouncing around with hand on hip.

"The routine of acting like a woman has never seemed funny to me. Think how it would be if young boys started imitating those things.

No Contortions

Costello also criticized comics who go into contortions as though they were victims of a disabling disease. Ed Wynn, also a critic of this brand of humor, calls it "spastic comedy."

"I think it's a mistake to poke fun at any person's infirmity, directly or indirectly," said Costello. "Imagine how the afflicted people must feel! That's why we never use stuttering for comedy."

He added that he was also alarmed by the use of drunkenness in an effort to get laughs.

"How would you like to come home and find your child had found some liquor and drunk it. Because it seemed funny when a comedian did it on TV?" he asked. "It's entirely possible."

Abbott and Costello have another rule concerning their comedy: Don't scare the kids. But they had to learn it the hard way.

Costello told the story of getting a phone call from a mother in Kansas City. At first, he thought it was going to be a touch for money. But the mother explained that she was seeking his help because her eight-year-old daughter had been frightened by the Frankenstein monster who menaced Abbott and Costello in a picture. Medical and psychiatric aid couldn't overcome the girl's bad dreams.

Costello had the mother and daughter fly out and stay at his home for two weeks, during that time, he showed the girl the make-believe of the movies. He took her into the make-up department and stomped on a Frankenstein mask. Still she was frightened. At the end of the stay, he held her hand while she saw the Frankenstein film. He hit at the screen when the monster came on. Finally the girl overcame her fear.

Civil Defence Subject of Talk To Kiwanis Club

"Why We Need Civil Defence" was the subject of an address to the Kiwanis Club on Tuesday by George Whitman, Civil Defence Deputy Co-ordinator for the city of Belleville. Mr. Whitman is also the Welfare Officer and Health Inspector for the city.

"The aims of civil defence are three-fold," said Mr. Whitman, "and that is to reduce casualties to a minimum, restore property damage and restore public services."

He referred to a 44-week period in the United Kingdom following the outbreak of the Second World War and prior to the first bombing raids. pointing this out as an outstanding example of quick organization with efficiency.

Mr. Whitman said there was much to be learned from their actions in fighting the high-explosive and incendiary bombs, both in the fighting of fire and in the evacuation of non-combattants. "Fire causes four-fifths of the damage on the home front during the time of war," he said.

Next Will Differ Claim

The speaker pointed out that should another crisis arise, it will differ greatly from the last conflict in that it will be an ABC or atomic, biological and chemical warfare.

He referred to the atomic blast at Hiroshima which killed 70,000 persons, either by blast, heat flash or radioactivity. "Sixty per cent of the casualties of an atomic explosion are the direct result of the blast," he continued. "Another twenty-five per cent are caused by heat flash and the remainder are from radioactivity." He went on to explain radiation sickness, how it is cause and its effect.

"Give me a trained population and five minutes warning of an impending attack," he said, "and the number of casualties can be reduced by considerable size."

Disease Given as Example

In explaining the biological angle of ABC warfare, Mr. Whitman spoke of the foot-and-mouth disease, currently being dealt with in western Canada, as a possible example. "It is easily spread and can damage the economy of a country very effectively," he said.

Chemical or gas warfare was the other section of ABC warfare dealt with by the speaker. He said that it was always potential and often colorless, odorless and death dealing.

"We are trying on a local level," the speaker said in summing up his address ,"to get civil defence started and people interested. We have been training for the past eight weeks to provide instructors for a supplement to every public service including police, fire, medical, engineering, welfare and rescue squads."

Closes With Code

Mr. Whitman concluded his address with the code of the Civil Defence Organization which reads "If we never use what we've learned, then we have lost nothing but if we never learn what we need to use, we may lose everything."

The speaker was introduced by Kiwanian Angus Duffy with the appreciation of the club being expressed by Bud Punchard.

W. C. Lockyer expressed his appreciation to the club for the kindnesses extended to him during his recent period of hospitalization.

A sing-song was conducted by Taylor Franklin with Phil Huddleston accompanying at the piano. A special dedication, "There is a Tavern in Our Town" was played for Kiwanians Rev. Sidney Larman and Rev. Arthur Smith.

The attendance prize, donated by Edward Logan, was won by Bill Riley.

All wishing to attend the Inter-Club meeting in Madoc on Friday night were advised to meet at 5:45 p.m. at Lattimer's Drug Store. Bill Slade of the Belleville Club will be the guest speaker.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR THURSDAY, MARCH 13, 1952

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Hidden opportunities. Be wide-awake, delve into the secrets of enterprising possibilities. And know when you have found your objective. Make no foolish trys.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Can be productive, fruitful in your especial line of endeavor. Adhere to rules and sensibly use good openings. Art, music, science, professional affairs, manufacturing favored.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Configurations favor the thinker, the person who is trying to put over new ideas. Mercury encourages a sensible chance, plus hard work.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Others can be most helpful if you use common sense and do not over-estimate nor underestimate values. In late p.m., personal affairs, romance have fresh favorable rays.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo)—Mixed reactions to certain business activities; home, social affairs. Hold temper; do not voice every thought without due consideration of results. Diplomacy saves many a rift.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)—Link up details with care; weigh values before decisions. The mental and physical will need thoughtful handling, especially in personal affairs. You need proper recreation always.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Be concerned about your civic and country's affairs, as well as desire to gain personally. Be interested in others' advice, but use your good judgment. Build good lasting friendships.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—That continued urge, that desire to accomplish may have to be tapered off a bit today. Stars suggest a quiet approach, it gives more chance to see clearly.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — May be some economic or business letdown. But things revive again. Watch your affairs, especially property and income. Advantages for alert, smart-thinking ones.

December 23 t o January 21 (Capricorn)—Will have to make many of your own breaks. Get going early, so you won't have to rush. Don't sellcolworkers, or yourself short. And check your general outlook.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—A period to brush up on what's around you. Observe your possibilities, review chances; are you thorough of late? Hustle for thoe gains.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—May be inclined to say, "Wait and see what the other side does!" That may be too late. Get your "trys" in while you can; be fair but firm. Don't ever relax principles.

YOU BORN TODAY: Can make and hold friends easily. You like people and life on the whole; seldom distrust others. Are generous, kindly, like the outdoors, art, music. Are naturally honest, unselfish, and delight in assuming responsibility. Can be depended upon. Pep up, think more highly of your intelligence and talents. Watch tendency to be blown about by others and their ideas. Strive to overcome your weaknesses and aim as high as you can. Birthdate of: Jack Lait, author; Joseph Priestley, Eng. chemist.

SCOTLAND YARD

. . . English police

The London police are no longer located in Scotland Yard. The present location of the London police department is called New Scotland Yard and is along the Thames river. The former site was named Scotland Yard because it was the place where Scottish kings visiting London stayed. The palace was converted into a police station.

Revolutionary Batista May Become P. M.

Havana, Cuba, Mar. 12 (CP)—Veteran revolutionary Fulgencio Batista said Tues., he might become prime minister and head a new regime after a cleanup of "thieving and gansterism in government."

He promised elections for a new government after the cleanup.

With army backing, Batista ousted the government of President Carlos Prio Socarras before dawn yesterday. Two men killed in a brief gun battle at the presidential palace were the only reported casualties.

Batista's forces were reported in command of police, army and navy stations in Cuba's five outlying provinces.

The 51-year-old Batista, who ruled Cuba from 1934 until 1944 — first as a behind-the-scenes dictator and then as president— this time called himself "chief of the revolution." He named a 15-man cabinet of civilians, replaced top military and police officers as well as Havana's mayor.

Batista is barred from the presidency until October, 1950, by a Cuban law requiring a former president ot stay out of office eight years.

Refuge in Embassy

President Prio, who had left the presidential palace yesterday just ahead of Batista-controlled army tanks, took refuge early today in the Mexican embassy. He was expected to ask asylum in Mexico, where he lived in exile from 1935 to -946.

Mexico was expected to grant his request and to start negotiations for his safe conduct there.

The government overthrow came in the midst of the campaign for presidential elections June 1 in which Batista was a candidate. He at once postponed the balloting indefinitely.

Batista said it was necessary to suspend congress, not now in session, and constitutional guarantees for 45 days, but a cabinet decree today promised "full guarantees to call citizens and leaders of political parties."

In the best traditions of Latin American politics, there was a rush by Batista opponents to embassies and foreign shores for asylum.

Three Cuban army generals and eight other Cubans arrived at Miami in two Cuban army planes. Heading them was Gen Otalio Soca Llanes, assistant army chief of staff under Prio.

Former Prime Minister Oscar Gans took refuge in the Argentine embassy.

Gangland Killings Making Canadians Afraid to Help

Montreal, March 12 (CP)—Police said today the gangland slaying in New York of an informant has made Canadians afraid to help police in the search for two desperadoes.

"There is no doubt about it," said Inspector Ernest Francoeur, deputy chief of the Montreal Detective Bureau. "The killing of Arnold Schuster has made our job all the more difficult."

Schuster, 24-year-old New York pants-presser, fingered Willie Sutton, bank robber and the most wanted man in the United States.

That killing came while Montreal and Toronto police are looking for Edwin Alonzo Boyd and Leonard Jackson. The two are pals of Steve Suchan, 29, felled by Montreal police bullets last Friday night. They are wanted in connection with a Toronto bank holdup and the wounding of two Toronto policemen.

Inspector Francoeur said persons with possible information about Boyd and Jackson are afraid to tip police.

'Flying Priest', 3 Missionaries Reported Safe

Edmonton, March 12—(CP) — An aircraft missing in Northern Alberta since Saturday with four missionaries aboard was sighted at 10:45 a.m. EST Tues five miles south of Fort McMurray. The men were believed to be safe.

The single-engine Norseman apparently made a forced landing in an open area.

The pilot, Rev. William Leising, 39-year-old Oblate father formerly of Buffalo, N.Y., was reported to have planned to refuel at Fort McMurray, 240 miles north of Edmonton, after taking off from the Alberta capital Saturday afternoon.

The report of the plane sighting was made by a Fort McMurray resident.

The RCAF launched a search this morning. A Dakota flew north from Edmonton to make a low sweep of the rugged bush and lake area and another plane was called in from Rivers, Man.

No Flight Plan Filed

The transport department reported that Father Leising left Edmonton without filing a flight plan, as required by new government regulations. However, it was reported here by a church source that he planned a 450-mile flight to Fort Smith, N.W.T., just across the Alberta border.

Passengers aboard the plane were tentatively identified as 20-year-old Brother George (or John) Doughterty of Philadelphia, Brother Anthony Petrin, 38, of Timmins, Ont., and Brother Michael Dabrowski, a Polish missionary from Kielce, Poland, with 25 years' service in the north country.

The Norseman is owned by the Apostolic Vicariate of Mackenzie in the Northwest Territories. Planes are used by the Oblate fathers to supply missionary outposts from Fort McMurray north to the Arctic coast.

TO HOLD PRESS BALL

Hamilton, March 12 — (CP)— The mayor of Hamilton, Scotland, will be invited to visit this city April 25 to be the guest of honor at the annual headline ball, sponsored by the Hamilton Men's Press Club. The club will also ask mayors and publishers of papers in North American and West Indian cities bearing the name of Hamilton.

Commander Resigns

Rome, March 12 (AP)—Gen. Maurizio Lazzaro Di Castiglioni of Italy has resigned as commander of land forces in Southern Europe under the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, a high Italian source said Tuesday.

The reason was said to be Greek and Turkish opposition to placing their troops under his leadership.

Gen. Efisio Marras, Italian chief-of-staff, asked Castiglioni to reconsider his resignation, the informant said, but Castiglioni rejected the request.

General Eisenhower, N. A. T. O. military commander, visited Greece and Turkey last week. Leaders in both countries opposed placing their troops under Italian command.

Eisenhower was reported to have worked out plans to put Greeks and Turks under Admiral Robert B. Carney of the United States, allied commander-in-chief for southern Europe.

POWER LINES DOWN

Dothan, Ala., March 12 (AP) — Telephone and power lines were knocked out of commission here last night when winds of 94 miles an hour struck this South Alabama town. Torrential rains accompanied the big show. Gusts up to 105 miles an hour were reported at Montgomery, a record there.

Nobody Loves Forever

By Margaretta Brucker

The drinks came. Cigarets were lighted. He asked "how's Betsy?" which put the conversation on a good firm basis. She talked about Betsy. How old she was and whom she resembled.

"She's like her father." That was a safe subject, too.

He said "my name's David Gregory," and ignored the reference to her husband.

After a bit of hesitation, she said "mine is Jessica Blake."

He laughed. "I remembered that. You knew that I would try to see you again, didn't you, Jessica?"

She thought, this must end right now. Lucy was right, in spite of all her primness, and it is dangerous to trifle with men like David Gregory.

David Gregory. She liked the name and she liked the man who bore it in spite of the fact that she determined to discourage any further meeting.

She pushed aside her glass and declared she must go.

"Without a dance?"

The music encouraged dancing. The soft low beat drummed in her ears. She shook her head and picked up her gloves and purse.

David said "why not? Why won't you dance with me?"

Silly to refuse, of course.

She was in his arms drifting across the floor and aware with a sudden suffocating guilt that she was terribly happy. Light-hearted and free. She smiled up at him and he smiled down at her and his arm tightened slightly.

The dance ended and they returned to their table.

"Now I must go."

He did not try to persuade her to linger, but there was something triumphant in his blue eyes as she met his glance. Something which made her lower her dark eyes quickly.

Later, as they stood together outside the Mayflower, he said "My car's down here." He nodded toward the parking lot a block away. "Of course I'll take you home."

His car was a convertible with red leather upholstery. A magnificent car which carried them smoothly and swiftly through the traffic and out to the Blake house.

He reached across Jessica to unfasten the door and his arm held the door catch and imprisoned her for a moment. "I want to see you again," he said firmly.

Jessica said "I'm sorry."

She pushed through the door and ran up the walk without a backward glance. Without thanking him she remembered later. It was better that way. Better to discourage him. Better to be rude.

Not even to herself would she confess the stab of regret she felt as David Gregory drove away. Probably he will not care to see you again, she thought, and sternly closed her mind to the determined glint in David's blue eyes and the charm of his disturbing smile.

David Gregory telephoned the day following the meeting at the Mayflower. He called several times and always Jessica told him that she was busy, unable to make any engagements. Two weeks passed with no further attempt upon his part to get in touch with her and she felt a certain relief. Mrs. Blake answered the telephone upon two occasions and viewed her afterward with something closely akin to horror. Lucy told her that her mother was completely upset by the idea that Jessica would converse with a strange man. Why had the man called her? Who was he?

The fact that David was the man who spoke to her at the airport only aggravated Lucy's disapproval. She had met him again?

Jessica explained. On a shopping trip downtown she had met David Gregory and he had brought her home in his car. Nothing more.

Lucy persisted. "He stopped you on the street?"

"No." Flatly. "I met him at the Mayflower."

"The Mayflower?"

"What's wrong with that?" Jessica was impatient now and ill at ease remembering how startled she had been when David appeared so unexpectedly, remembering the dance and her own reaction to his touch, but determined to give the meeting no significance whatever.

She picked Betsy up from the floor and started to leave the room, then paused and, over her shoulder, said indifferently, "I'll never see the man again and I've told him so repeatedly."

"Tom will be home soon," said Lucy.

As though that would solve everything thought Jessica as she wearily mounted the long stairs. She could not explain the restlessness which dogged her constantly ever since the day she met David Gregory. It was unwise to have caught a glimpse of a different life, for her own would not be too changed with Tom's return. For a while at least they must remain with his people and she would be one against three, for Tom would agree at all times with his mother and Lucy.

Jessica talked to Doris. It was a relief to pour out her bewilderment to the other girl who listened gravely and then tossed aside her cigaret and said "you've had a tough break but there's no solution that I see but to put it squarely up to Tom. Either that or leave Akron and go back to Kentucky."

"That would be running away, wouldn't it."

"That's up to you," said Doris "My father won't take me back."

"Do you want to go?"

"I haven't the chance," said Jessica evasively.

Doris said "maybe you want to run away from something more than a mother-in-law." Her shrewd hazel eyes fastened upon Jessica's downcast face.

"What do you mean?"

"I saw you come home a week or two ago in that swanky roadster with David Gregory."

"You know him?"

Doris shrugged. "Would he know me? He's a new man at the plant and comes through the factory occasionally. He was an ace pilot in the first years of the war. He's an authority on synthetics now and Hugh Linton's right-hand man. Gets a huge salary and lives at a downtown club. Anything else?"

"I'm not interested in him."

"Then you're the exception, for plenty of girls are."

Jessica explained, "I've met him twice. He talked to me at the airport and I met him again at the Mayflower one afternoon and he insisted upon bringing me home."

Doris sat staring thoughtfully across the street. "The Blakes know about him?"

"There's nothing to know. Lucy was properly shocked, but everything shocks Lucy. She never looks at a man except her employer."

Doris made no comment and shortly afterward Jessica left. She found Lucy just returning from the office looking drawn and haggard. She refused the supper Jessica offered to prepare for her. She said 'where's mother?"

"Gone to a church meeting. Betsy's in bed and asleep and I went across and talked to Doris for a few moments."

"I can't understand your interest in that girl." Lucy took off her plain felt hat and ran her fingers through her blond hair and loosened it.

Jessica stood watching her. How lovely Lucy could be if she'd only try. Something of this colored her tone as she said "you can't understand anything but working like a slave for a man who probably doesn't appreciate what you do."

Lucy whirled. "But he does! Hugh Linton took me in to work for him when I was inexperienced and he held just a minor position at the factory. That was four years ago. He says that he owes much of his present success to my efficiency, and I owe him everything. . ." Her voice broke and she sank into a chair and leaned her head back against it and closed her eyes. Then she sat up and said apologetically "I didn't mean to seem abrupt, but my job means everything to me. Mr. Linton has been liberal, as you must know, for my salary helps to keep this home. Mother had only a tiny income from an insurance policy my father left her."

"What was he like?" asked Jessica curiously.

"My father?" Lucy stared thoughtfully at her clasped hands for a moment. Then she said, "I don't think he was any success. He was lazy. He worked at different jobs, as I remember, and then became a city fireman." She smiled faintly. "As far back as I can remember, mother always listened for the fire siren, and even yet she has a passion for attending fires. It seems silly, doesn't it, when she's so strong minded and emotionless?

"My father was killed in a fire downtown. I was only 12 years old and Tom was 14. Tom worked after school at odd jobs until he was old enough to go into the factories. Mother went to work by the day and I took care of children nights. You wouldn't understand a life like that, would you?"

Jessica shook her head.

Lucy went on "mother and Tom provided the money for my business course because they didn't want me to go into the rubber factories. When Mr. Linton gave me a position as his secretary I was proud."

Work and save. That had been Lucy's life. Jessica rose impulsively and kissed her. She said briskly "nevertheless, there are limits to what any girl should do for her family, Lucy."

She went downtown the next day, leaving Betsy with Doris, and told the jeweller with whom she had left her ring that she had decided to sell it. He smiled, well pleased. He said "Mr. Linton will be delighted. He is quite determined to have the ring."

"Mr. Linton?" she asked.

"Hugh Linton. He's an executive in one of the rubber plants and a very good customer."

School Insurance Will be Increased To $100,000

Bancroft. — Bancroft-Faraday Township School Area Board decided to increase the fire insurance on Bancroft Public School from $40,000 to $100,000, at its March meeting in the school office. They also decided to purchase a number of small fire extinguishers to be placed at key spots in the building.

The matter came upon the agenda as a result of a request from principal J. W. C. Hutton, for adequate fire protection for the school.

During the discussion it was noted that this 10-room brick school, built in 1931 when construction costs were far below those of today, could not be replaced for anything like the present insurance risk of $40,000.

In the spring of 1948 the school had a daytime fire of undetermined origin in the furnace room. Then the blaze was extinguished by senior students manning the canvas hoses that are connected with the private water system of the building. As the pressure is often very low it was felt that if an emergency arose in the future there might be trouble in obtaining water immediately.

Keep Streets Tidier

Bancroft Village council took a step to keep the business streets tidier at the regular March meeting. They decided to place metal waste paper receptacles by the bus terminal and in front of the municipal building. At present the boys who deliver the various daily papers unpack their bundles near the post office or the bus terminal and the outside wrappings often are scattered near the corner of Hastings and Bridge Streets. The location in front of the municipal building was chosen as it is in the centre of the main street.

Armed Squads Tour Montreal Hunting Boyd

Two Companions Have Been Cut Down by Police Bullets

Montreal, March 13 (CP)—The police search for bank robber Edwin Boyd reached out today to Quebec's eastern townships, at the little village of Highwater near the Quebec-Vermont border.

Word came from Granby that a squad of provincial police sped eastward on a trip that a man resembling Boyd was seen in the heavily-wooded area.

Meanwhile, in Montreal, police ran down tips that placed the wanted bandit in many parts of the city at the same time.

"Armed, dangerous and crafty; mustache probably removed and sideburns shortened."

That was the description from police as they pressed their hunt for the last of a gun-packing trio wanted in Toronto for hold-up and shooting.

Three Raids Carried Out

This morning police carried out three more raids. But they donned 35-pound steel vests, capable of turning aside a .45-calibre slug, for nothing.

Police speculated that Boyd, said to be the brains of the trio, may have more than $400,000 in cash as a result of many operations he possibly master-minded. So far, the stolen money has not been recovered.

Assistant police director Wilfrid Bourdon said he is still convinced the sad-eyed mobster is in Montreal.

He said he is just as sure that Boyd won't get out—not alive anyway.

Leonard Jackson was taken Wednesday night following a shooting affray with steel-vested detectives. More than 500 rounds of ammunition were exchanged before he staggered from a basement apartment, wounded in the arms and stomach and half-blinded by tear gas. Jackson's wife surrendered with him.

It was much the same story with Steve Suchan last Friday night, except for the length of the gun battle and the spectacular firing in the street. Suchan, too, collapsed in a police ambush in an apartment only a few blocks from where Jackson was hiding out.

Says Boyd is Brains

Chief of Detectives Wilfrid Bourdon said Boyd is the brains of the trio. He is wanted on bank holdup charges, where he and Jackson escaped from the Don jail last November.

Jackson and Suchan are held on bank-holdup charges and for the attempted murder of two Toronto detectives, shot down when they approached a car last week, two days after a $24,000 downtown bank robbery.

Police believe all three fled to hideouts in Montreal. Suchan rented an expensive apartment on Cote Des Neiges Road last December. Jackson and his wife had lived in their basement apartment on Lincoln Avenue since Feb. 11, a dingy room compared with Suchan's swanky quarters.

Jackson paid a rental of $12 a week; Suchan paid $145 a month.

Police are convinced that Boyd is still in Montreal.

Jackson's Mother Says She Is Sorry for Him

Niagara Falls, March 13—(CP)—The mother of Leonard Jackson sobbed yesterday and said she is sorry for him and the girl he married.

"I haven't any idea what got into him," said Mrs. Lillian Jackson, a few hours after she learned that her son was shot and captured by police in Montreal Tuesday night. He is wanted for bank robbery.

"He was a pretty good boy," the mother said. "Yes, he was a very good boy. He didn't go far in school because he was only 17 when he joined the army. But he wasn't bad."

Mrs. Jackson said she was unaware her son had married an English girl two months ago. She hasn't seen him since last summer when his visit was prompted by an accident. She was injured when a car overturned near Sudbury.

Mrs. Jackson, widow of a stationary engineer, operates a beauty parlor here. Once Leonard joined her in partnership after taking a hair-dressing course with his Veterans Affairs Department credits.

"He was gooa at it too," she said. "But he was restless—he wanted to go to larger places."

Northern and central Ontario however, will escape the main brunt of the storm, and fall in central regions. The far northern section of the province will be mostly sunny.

Clouds are expected to persist over the southern districts Friday and the precipitation will gradually cease in extreme southwestern Ontario early Friday morning, but strong winds will continue to blow for the greater part of the day.

Closer Relations Cause Worst Anti-Protestant Wave in Years

Madrid, March 13 (AP)—Closer relations between the United States and Spain have caused the worst anti-Protestant wave in recent years, one of the highest Spanish Protestants said today.

This source, who asked anonymity, emphasized that the Spanish government is not backing the anti-Protestant movement. On the contrary, he said, it is worried over the possible reaction on forthcoming negotiations for U. S. financial aid in return for U. S. air and naval bases here.

He said the campaign increased sharply following President Truman's statement recently that he is not fond of Franco's regime, and the explanation by former ambassador Stanton Griffis that the president was chiefly concerned at the lack of religious liberty in Spain.

"On learning of the American president's declaration our reaction was 'What chapels will suffer the consequences?'" he said. The answer came on March 5 with the attempt to burn Sevilla's Reformed (Protestant) chapel."

On the heels of that, Pedro Cardinal Segure Y Saenz, Archbishop of Sevilla, issued a pastoral letter warning the government that the "spirit of Catholics is worried over the fear that, under the pretext of politics, concessions gravely prejudicial to the Religion maye be made."

His statement reflected concern that the government, under cover of negotiations with the U. S., might make concessions to Truman's views of religious freedom.

The government's worry was reflected in an editorial yesterday in Arriba, the newspaper of Falange, Spain's only permitted political party. Arriba commented that it could not agree with Cardinal Segura that the government was lax in any way in maintaining the rights of the Roman Catholic Church as the state religion.

But, Arriba continued, "except for this lapse. . . we are in complete agreement with His Eminence and we go even further in appreciating the necessity of being vigilant."

There are about 26,000 Protestants in Spain, a country of 28,000,000.

McCANN DENIES AMERICANS FLOOD TEXTILE MARKET

But Frankly Concedes He Has No Solution

Ottawa, March 13 — (CP) — Revenue Minister McCann denied in the Commons yesterday charges that "legalized dumping" of American goods is causing unemployment in Canada's textile industry.

At the same time, he denied suggestions that there had been political interference with the collection of income tax from farmers in the east as against those in the west.

He said in the throne speech debate that the textile industry is suffering from a combination of factors, including over-stocking in anticipation of a shortage and the loss of a 10-per-cent preference through the rising of the Canadian dollar to parity.

He frankly conceded that he did not know the solution to the industry's problem.

Dr. McCann was one of several members to join in the continuing debate in the short Wednesday sitting.

Wants Taxes Cut

Donald Fleming (PC — Toronto Eglinton) lambasted the government's taxation policies and said it should make its April 8 budget the basis for a cut in taxes and an elimination of waste and extravagance of the government.

It was obvious the government was following a policy of "soaking" the people until an election, when it could adopt a "good fellow" attitude and give them back money owing them.

Through excessive taxation, the government had increased prices while credit restrictions had increased unemployment. It was high time it adopted a policy of taking from the municipalities the burden of caring for unemployed employables.

Coldwell Critical

M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, denied an assertion by External Affairs Minister Pearson Tuesday night that the C. C. F., in criticizing the Atlantic treaty defence program, was moving towards the Communist line.

He accused Mr. Pearson of stooping to "deliberate smears" and "slander" against him and the C.C.F. It was apparent that "constructive criticism" of the military leaders of N.A.T.O. was "invariably criticized as Communist propaganda."

A. Wesley Stuart (L — Charlotte) urged the government to give the fishing industry a break comparable to that of agriculture in the way of subsidies and other payments.

He could not understand why every single branch of the agriculture industry should be given special consideration while the fishermen were ignored. That condition could not continue indefinitely.

U. A. W. International Talks Of Ousting Local 600 Heads For Failing to Eject Reds

By FELIX B. WOLD

Detroit, March 13 — (AP) — Heads of the United Automobile Workers' (C. I. O.) big Ford Local 600 face a threat of ouster today.

The union's international, acting on the heels of the House of Representatives un-American activities inquiry, accused Local 600 of failing to enforce union restrictions against communists.

The charge created a sensation in union circles. It is without precedent in the U. A. W. Apparently it was an outcome at least in part of the committee's inquiry.

Witnesses, including U. A. W. men, had testified that Ford Local 600, world's largest union local with 60,000 members, is under control of communists.

Since its organization in 1941 Local 600 has been one of the U. A. W.'s greatest bulwarks.

Quick Action

The U. A. W. international executive board, headed by President Walter P. Reuther, acted against the Local 600 leadership last night less than four hours after the un-American activities committee adjourned its hearing.

Local 600 officers were accused of causing "irreparable damage" by failing to enforce the U. A. W.'s constitutional restrictions against communists. They also were accused of disobeying union policy.

They were ordered to a hearing before the executive board Friday to show cause why an administrator should not be appointed for the local.

This would mean removal of the officers. It is a disciplinary step which has seldom been taken by the 1,250,00-member auto union.

Takes Full Control

An administrator takes full control of a local. He stays on the job, responsible only to the international union, until the board deems that conditions have been rectified.

Two of Local 600's top officers, Vice-President Pat Rice and Recording Secretary William R. Hood, were unwilling witnesses before the investigating congressmen.

Both refused to answer any questions regarding communism.

None of the officers was named a communist at the hearing. However, "co-operative" witnesses said communists were influential, directly or indirectly, on all of them.

The U. A. W.'s constitution forbids elective or appointive position in the union to anyone who is a "member of or subservient to" a political organization owing allegiance to any government other than the U. S. or Canada. It specifically includes "communist, fascist or Nazi organizations."

Charges UN Forces are Waging Germ Warfare Against Reds In Korea to be Investigated

Geneva, March 13 — (AP) — The International Red Cross Committee said today it has agreed to investigate communist charges that United Nations forces are waging germ warfare against communist troops in Korea.

State Secretary Dean Acheson of the United States asked the investigation. He has denied the red charges.

Paul Ruegger, president of the Red Cross committee, said the Red Cross societies of Hungary, Poland, Romania and Bulgaria also sent protests to the committee against alleged use of bacteriological weapons in Korea.

Ruegger sent identical messages to Acheson, Korean communist Prime Minister Kim Il Sung, and Gen. Peng Te Huaih, commander-in-chief of Chinese communist troops in Korea, saying the committee would investigate the germ war charges if it is "assured of co-operation of authorities on both sides of the front."

Ruegger's message to both sides noted the U.S. has denied using germs to start reported epidemics of bubonic plague and other diseases in North Korea.

The communists have been reported recently taking drastic measures to halt the spread of disease, inoculating all troops and civilians.

The Chinese and Russian press and radio have made detailed charges alleging U.S. planes have dropped bombs containing disease germs which were loosed from hidden compartments when the bombs blew up.

Ruegger advised both parties to the Korean conflict that the international committee was prepared to set up a commission under its direction "composed of persons who will offer every guarantee of moral and scientific independence which could be offered by experts who have highest qualifications, especially in epidemiology."

The International Red Cross Committee has been unsuccessful so far in obtaining communist authorization to work behind the red lines in assisting prisoners of war. The last message asking for such authorization was sent only a week ago.

CONVICTED OF LYING

New York, March 13. (AP)—Joseph F. O'Brien, 41, former policeman and one of a group of officers accused of protecting big-time bookie Harry Gross, was sentenced yesterday to 2 1-2 years in prison after his conviction on a charge of lying to a grand jury about his financial status.

Last Holdouts Against Order Return to Work

Elkhart, Ind., March 13 — (AP)—The last holdouts against court and union orders to end the New York Central Railroad strike went back to work today Elkhart members of the engineers', conductors' and firemens' brotherhoods were the last to give in to the back-to-work orders. Resentful but relieved, they voted last night to return to their jobs. A spokesman said the vote was 136 to 72.

Their fellow rebels in Toledo, O., ended their resistance several hours earlier by a vote of 220 to 214.

The Elkheart strike made idle 1,800 employees and caused the re-routing of main-line traffic Wednesday. However, two trains, the Pacemaker and Twentieth Century Limited, were taken through by supervisory employees.

The Toledo and Elkhart strikers held out for 24 hours against orders from top union officers to go back to work. Before taking their vote they demanded and received assurance that no disciplinary action would be taken against them.

The Toledo men had resigned from their unions and set up a new union, called the Model Railroad Club. However, a spokesman said this action was merely a device to avoid punishment under the court injunction. The unions are expected to take them back.

Operations in Chicago also were affected Wednesday. Fourteen suburban trains were cancelled.

The strike, involving 6,000 engineers, conductors and firemen, was called on N.Y.C. lines west of Buffalo and at the St. Louis terminal Sunday. The order to end it was issued in federal court at Cleveland Tuesday.

Between Feb. 21 and March 6 there was a drop of 2,568 in the province's unemployment ranks. Toronto's jobless increased by 300 in the same period to a total of 31,453. CAREER-SOLDIER, LORD ISMAY NAMED TO NATO

Resigns from Churchill Cabinet to Take Post

London, March 13 (AP)— Lord Ismay, career-soldier and friend of Prime Minister Churchill, took on today the tough job of being the first secretary-general of the North Atlantic Treaty Oroganization.

He accepted the civilian command after a string of other statesmen had turned it down.

The 64-year-old general, quitting as Britain's secretary of state for Commonwealth relations, will start work alongside Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower next month at Paris headquarters.

Eisenhower will retain full control over the military. Ismay will supervise the political-financial workings of the alliance.

His job in Churchill's cabinet paid him £5,000 a year. The salary of the NATO post has not been announced.

Lord Ismay left the government only after prodding from the prime minister and NATO deputies who held a four-hour council session in London Wednesday.

The secretary-generalship was refused by at least three other top diplomats—Sir Oliver Franks, Britain's ambassador to the United States; L. B. Pearson, Canada's External Affairs Minister; and Foreign Minister D. U. Stikker of The of The Netherlands. Several others had been approached but their names were not announced.

Lord Salisbury Succeeds

Churchill's office said Ismay's place will be filled by Lord Salisbury, who already holds the cabinet post of Lord Privy Seal.

Lord Ismay, a bushy-browed, square-jawed military figure of the old school, was with Churchill on the January trip to Washington and at the wartime conferences at Casablanca, Cairo, Moscow, Tehran and Yalta as Churchill's personal chief-of-staff.

A captain in the First World War, he rose to major-general before the Second World War. He became a full general and chief of staff to the defence minister five years later.

When the Labor government took over from the Conservatives in 1945 it kept Lord Ismay on as chief of staff. A year later he retired from service but was recalled after a few weeks to become chief of staff to the Viceroy of India Earl Mountbatten.

Ismay retired again in November 1947, but returned to public life when Churchill's Conservatives won last October's election.

Melbourne, Australia, March 13. (Reuters)—Opera Singer John Brownlee was knocked unconscious tonight by a falling spotlight on the stage of the city theatre. The accident occurred as he was being congratulated by friends for his singing in a performance of Puccini's opera Tosca. He was taken to hospital with a severe gash in his forehead.

Three Months at Earliest Before Quarantine in Sask. is Lifted

Regina, March 13 — (CP) — It will be several months before Saskatchewan's livestock industry gets back to normal from foot-and-mouth disease, even assuming the spread of the outbreak has been halted.

Federal health-of-animals officials think they now have it stopped, but a long series of precautionary measures are to follow to make sure that the disease is stamped out.

It will be perhaps three months at the earliest before the quarantine in the district around here is lifted. After that, there will be another 60-day waiting spell before the United States re-opens its border, which was closed to Canadian livestock and meat when the Canadian government announced the foot-and-mouth diagnosis Feb. 25.

After today's slaughter and burial of the last of the 1,000-odd animals believed to have been infected or in contact with infection, veterinary experts will spend weeks getting the contaminated farms thorouhgly disinfected.

Once a farm is believed to have been thoroughly cleaned up, a few cattle, pigs and sheep bought by the federal government will be turned out to graze on it. If they do not develop symptoms, the farmer will be allowed to start re-stocking.

He will have to do it gradually, a few head at a time, for the officials do not want to take any chances on getting large herds infected. The decontamination process is necessarily slow, because the foot-and-mouth virus is tough and difficult to eradicate.

Officials figure it will be towards the end of June before the area can be pronounced absolutely clear, assuming that no further outbreaks crop up in the meantime. Another month may be added for safety's sake. After that is a statutory 60-day period before which the U. S. border may not be re-opened.

5 Men, 40 Cars Caught in Dragnet; 75 Charges Laid

International Organization Had Wide Ramification

Ottawa, March 13 (CP) — The RCMP announced today the smashing of an international automobile smuggling ring. They arrested five men and seized 40 cars stolen in the United States and smuggled into Canada.

The RCMP said 75 charges were laid.

The arrests and seizures resulted from investigations going on since September, 1950. In simultaneous crackdowns, RCMP recovered 10 of the cars at points in Alberta, five in Manitoba and the others in Ontario.

Those arrested are Peter Bowman, 30, a used car dealer at Freeman, Ont.; Coste (Gus) Karadavis, 31, used car dealer at Hamilton; Joseph Mendiuk, 34, body repair shop man at Hamilton; Ronald H. Stephenson, 33, used car dealer also of Hamilton and Charles N. Elliotson, grocer and former car dealer of St. Catharines, Ont.

Major Figures Collared

R.C.M.P. said investigations were carried out in co-operation with the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

A spokesman said the R. C. M. P. believed it collared the major figures involved.

Seizure of the cars in various parts of the country took place over a period of months, but the arrests were made yesterday.

In Hamilton today, the five men were remanded on $5,000 cash bail to March 27.

Canada's Largest

Inspector J. S. Cruikshanks, officer commanding the R. C. M. P. criminal investigation branch, Toronto, described the alleged ring as the largest of its type ever to operate in Canada and said that the paper work done before the arrests was "tremendous." All transactions involving the cars, sold and re-sold, had to be investigated.

Police said at least 55 automobiles were stolen in Detroit and smuggled into Canada. Later they were re-registered in Quebec with serial numbers taken from wrecked cars in junk yards. Then they were distributed in other provinces, being registered again on the basis of the Quebec registration.

Police recovered one car as far west as Edmonton, another as far east as Quebec City.

Believes Brother in Toronto

Lindsay, Ont., March 13 (CP) — Gordon Boyd today said he believes his brother, Edwin Alonzo Boyd, wanted by police in connection with Toronto bank robberies, still is in Toronto.

"He was born there," Gordon said. "He knows the city inside out. He'd be a fool to go some place like Montreal, a city he does not know like he does Toronto. And Alonzo is no fool. He wouldn't see any sense in going to Montreal."

The brother of the suspected bank robber, now hunted by police of Ontario and Quebec, has a wife and two children in a home south of this town about 60 miles north-east of Toronto.

Tuesday night provincial police raided Gordon's home.

"They grabbed me on the way home from work," he said. "I could hardly get into a cruiser for the rifles in it."

Canadian Seaman Wanted for Probe In Judge's Death

Lyons, France, March 13 — (Reuters)—Police today kept a sharp lookout at all French ports for Canadian seaman Lorne Rutherford, wanted for questioning in connection with the murder of a French judge found beaten to death at his home near here yesterday.

Authorities said that a hitch-hiker answering the description of Rutherford, believed to be from British Columbia, was picked up by Judge Bernard Rosselin Sunday morning. Later a young man was seen entering the judge's home at the village of Chalons-sur-Saone.

Police yesterday broke into the house after friends became worried about Rosselin's disappearance and found the body of the judge bound and gagged, lying at the foot of his bed in a pool of blood. There were signs of a violent struggle.

13 HENS LAY 14 EGGS IN ONE DAY

Kenneth Wodzak, 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Wodzak, 20 Gordon Street, believes that he has a very unusual flock of chickens.

The youth keeps 13 hens as a hobby and each day collects the eggs and registers the amount on a chart. Yesterday he collected 13 eggs at four o'clock, took them into the house and entered the amount on the chart.

At five o'clock, when he returned to close up the henhouse, he found another egg, bringing the total output for the flock of 13 hens to 14 eggs for one day.

Kenneth says that it is not unusual to get a full quota of 13 eggs but that this is the first time he has ever exceeded the amount.

Laminated Wood And Trusses Subject of Talk

Robert F. DeGrace, an engineer with Timber Structures of Canada, Limited, of Peterborough, spoke to the monthly meeting of the Belleville Builders Exchange on Tuesday in Lattimer's Town Room. His talk was entitled "Laminated Wood and Wood Trusses."

Mr. DeGrace's address was of particular interest to contractors of the district in that it illustrated various methods of using wood in place of, or in conjunction with, steel and other construction materials.

"Laminated wood is not new", said the speaker, "but is a permanent substance. It has been found in its original form in the tombs of the pyramids and is still held together as it was originally made."

In referring to the adhesive used in wood laminating, Mr. DeGrace told of casein glue, a satisfactory substance, urea formaldehyde, which has also been found to be good, and phenolic resin which is completely waterproof when properly applied.

Covered Many Phases

The speaker covered the many phases from the beginning to the completion of a structure of which the first is a discussion and drawing of plans. In elaborating on this statement, Mr. DeGrace said that the type of building and plans come first while the engineering and details must be fitted in with the plans.

"Patterns are made and numbered," he said, "and then the work is lagged to the floor where the glue is applied to the various surfaces, clamps are tightened, drawing all the wood into a finished form and allowed to set. Glue will set in from four to 16 hours, after which the wood is unclamped and laid out on the floor, the pattern set upon it and cut by a saw to the exact requirements."

"After the wood is planed smooth", the speaker continued, "if the article is to be prefinished, the finish is then applied and the wood wrapped for shipment. The wrapping is done to protect the wood from weather and accidental happenings, so that the article arrives in perfect condition."

Raised by Crane

In conclusion, the speaker said that small to medium jobs may be erected by efficient workmen whereas larger pieces are assembled and raised into position by a crane. Where some pieces of wood require a covering, aluminum powder mixed with a phenol solution may be used as a sealer.

On completion of his address, Mr. DeGrace illustrated, by means of lantern slides, various buildings already constructed in all parts of the North American continent. He pointed out that the use of this type of construction is not confined to industrial and commercial types of buildings but is also used in the construction of churches, auditoriums, and other public buildings, "Even bridges," he added, "are built of this material, both with and without steel."

Mr. DeGrace was accompanied by G. R. Downer, company representative in Eastern Ontario.

Owner Will Give Paint, Oars To Persons Who Stole Punt

With the boating season due in the not too distant future there is a seasonal demand for boats.

At least that is the opinion of James Matthews, city market clerk who reports a new 16-foot punt, valued at about $75, stolen from the city market building. The punt was taken some time between Tuesday and early today.

Mr. Matthews told police that he had stored the punt in the market building, where he was readying it for painting. Some time within the past two days it disappeared out through the market building window.

Mr. Matthews says he still has the paint and the oars which he will turn over to the party who took the punt—if they will come and get them.

Join Reservists, Captain Ross Urges Citizens

Major J. Lazier and Capt. Ken Ross of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment were the guests of the Canadian Legion Branch 99, Tuesday evening. Capt. Ken Ross, the speaker, made a call to the Legion members and their sons to join the reserve force and be prepared for any eventuality at any time. The mechanized equipment of today takes hours of study and training of which will benefit a man in civil life, too.

The Canadian Legion Branch 99 boys' choir will hold a grand opening April 24 at the Belleville Collegiate auditorium under the direction of Wally Bent.

President L. G. Madden will present the Legion Branch 99 Trophy to the Minor Hockey League champions next Tuesday evening at the arena, previous to the big game, firemen vs policemen.

E. Liddle will attend the poppy fund executive meeting in Toronto this weekend.

Chairman Les Digby of the trades fair to be held in the armories reported a bigger and better show over other years and predicted it will be a big success.

Attention all potential Legion members! The membership drive is on. See any Legion member for an application blank.

Street Electric Light Bulbs Take a Beating

Street electric light bulbs in the West Hill district really took a beating Wednesday night according to complaints received at the city police station.

Employees of the public utilities department reported that no less than 17 street light bulbs in a wide section of the West Hill area were broken by pellets from B.B. guns. The parties responsible for the vandalism apparently took a circuit from Holloway and Hillside Streets, along Howard, Lewis Ponton, Benjamin and Yeomans Streets taking pot shots at the street lamps.

Public utility officials pointed out that parents must assume responsibility for the action of their children and noted they would be billed for the lights, when the responsible persons were located.

"If we cannot collect for the damage, it just adds up to the fact that street lighting is costing the taxpayer more money than is necessary," it was stated.

BUY NEW FIRE ENGINE

Flesherton, March 13. (CP)—Ratepayers of this village 30 miles southeast of Owen Sound voted overwhelmingly yesterday to spend $10,000 for a new fire engine. The ancient machine now in use fell into disrepute last January when fire destroyed Flesherton's only high school.

Guest Speaker Shows Colored Slides at Club

Mr. A. Bunting of the Downham Nursery Company was the guest speaker at the March meeting of the Prince of Wales Home and School Association at which a near record attendance of approximately 200 parents and children attended.

In conjunction with his topic, "Beautifying Canada", the speaker showed many colored slides which were reproduced from actual photos.

Mr. Bunting spoke not only of landscaping homes but also of commercial landscaping and of its value to the appearance of the property.

A great many roses were shown on the slides and Mr. Bunting said that in early French rule there were 267 varieties whereas today there are between 13,000 and 14,000 varieties.

Accompanying the speaker were George Downham, vice-president of the company, and Howard Fox, the local representative.

James Durant, chairman of the evening announced that the next monthly meeting would be changed to April 8th, at which time members of the Belleville Theatre Guild would present a play entitled "Scattered Showers."

A silver collection amounting to $15.95 was collected of which $2.50 was awarded to Mrs. Martin's room for having the most number of parents in attendance.

The meeting closed with refreshments served by Mrs. Grey's committee.

Believe Break-Ins Partially Solved By Youth's Arrest

City police believe the series of break-ins which last week occurred in the city is at least partially solved with the arrest in Toronto of 17-year-old Reginald Bourette of this city. He was returned to Belleville yesterday by Inspector J. C. Hayes and will face four charges of shop breaking.

At the time of the break-ins police suspected Bourette and his description was given to police in other centres with the request, that he be picked up. He will appear in city magistrate's court tomorrow in answer to the charges.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, March 13 — (CP) — Base metals drifted lower today in early afternoon stock market dealings but other sections showed little trend.

Activity was brisk as western oils speculation dominated trading. A few golds and metals also attracted interest but turnovers were moderate. Industrial dealings spread slowly from leading issues. Volume for the first three hours was 2,293,000 shares.

Banks and papers recovered slowly from early industrial losses. Agricultures, foods and miscellaneous issues edged upward but liquors and constructions remained weak.

Western oils posted small advances. Canada Southern Oil, Canadian Collieries, Charter, Federated Petroleum, Sapphire, United Oil and Harman pushed upward. Canadian Atlantic, Central Explorers and Del Rio eased.

Base metal losses ranged from fractions to about 25 cents. Chromium, Consolidated Smelters, Estella, Mindamar, New Calumet and United Keno Hill traded lower.

Senior golds were mixed. Junior producers tended lower but prospects an holding companies showed gains and losses in balance.

MISS SYLVIA MOTLEY GIVEN HIGH PRAISE BY ADJUDICATOR

Miss Sylvia Motley, drum majorette of the Kinsmen Boys' Band and sponsored by the Kinette Club, made a wonderful showing at the Music Festival being held at Ottawa on Wednesday evening. Miss Motley competed in the contralto class under 21 years of age and placed second and then competed in the open class and finished third among sixteen candidates.

The adjudicator complimented Miss Motley very highly on her ability to benefit so readily from his criticism of her first number and spoke of the possible future of an excellent natural voice.

Obituary

CHERYLENE AYLESWORTH

The funeral of Cherylene Aylesworth, six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Garfield Aylesworth, who was killed suddenly by a car was held from her late residence to Bethesda United Church, White Lake on Saturday. Rev. B. J. Beckel conducted the service and brought a very comforting message, choosing as his text the tenth chapter of Mark, the fourteenth verse. "Suffer the little Children to Come Unto Me and Forbid them not for of such is the Kingdom of God."

The hymns were "Safe in the Arms of Jesus", God Sees the Little Sparrow Fall" and "Mothers of Salem." The choir sang "Round the Throne of God in Heaven."

There were many beautiful floral tributes.

The school children of S. S No. 10, Huntingdon, White Lak formed a guard of honor at th church.

Interment was made in Whit Lake cemetery. The bearers wh were all close friends of littl Cherylene were Harold Morga Gerald Morgan, Douglas Woo Jack Douglas, Bernard MacMil lan and James Venn.

She is survived by her fathe mother, the former Jean Mitt and a little brother Harry.

TIME FOR BATTLING BUGS

Here are five questions which were asked in the House of Commons on March 4 by Harry O. White, (Progressive Conservative, Middlesex East):

1. Who was the author of the script "Here's Health—Battle Bugs" used by the Department of National Health and Welfare over the C.B.C. on Sunday afternoon, March 2, 1952?
2. What amount, if any, was paid to the author for this script?
3. Is the author an employee of the Department of National Health and Welfare?
4. If so, what is his salary per annum?
5. What was the total cost of putting this particular script on over the air?

According to the rules under which the House of Commons operates, either the minister of national health and welfare or his deputy must give Mr. White answers to his questions. Let us all unite in hoping that the answers are both complete and specific, because there are many other folk besides Mr. White who are interested.

Meanwhile, it might not be a bad idea if the Department of National Health and Welfare were to act upon the advice which it gives other people and begin its own battle against some of the bugs with which this country is afflicted.

TAKE YOUR CHOICE

During the fiscal year which ended with March, 1951, the consumption of hard liquor in Ontario increased by 3.9 per cent, as compared with the preceding year. Although this increase is not large, when it is taken into consideration that Ontario's population is rising rapidly, both because of natural increase and because of immigration, the figure is sure to be used by opponents of the liquor traffic generally and by those opposed to cocktail bars in particular as proof that things are going to the bow-wows.

But the increase in the consumption of wine rose, during the same period, by only .8 per cent and the consumption of beer declined by .3 per cent. In other words, the consumption of both wine and beer per capita is declining. Total increase in the consumption of all alcoholic beverages was only .09 per cent, or much less than the population increase.

Since the foregoing statistics provide figures which can be quoted by either the wets or the drys to bolster their respective arguments, everyone should be happy and the arguments about John Barleycorn should continue as interminably as ever.

MUST BE GOLD

No eastern Canada football team is going to win the Canadian title next fall if the Calgary Stampeders can help it.

The Stampeders have just signed Johnny Bright, leading ground gainer in U.S. college football last year, for $14,000 for the 1952 season — $12,000 salary and a bonus of $2,000. This figure is said to be a Canadian record.

There must be gold in them thar foothills west of Calgary.

RETALIATION AS BOOMERANG

From Geneva, Switzerland, where nations participating the general agreements on tariffs and trade hold their sessions, come hints of retaliation against our restrictions on cheese imports.

A special meeting has been called for July, at which Canada and The Netherlands, at least, appear ready to propose new restrictions on imports from the United States.

These two countries, although not hurt as much as Denmark, France or Italy, are the only ones which can afford to strike back at this time. There is no reason to hope, however, that the others won't do so whenever the opportunity presents itself.

As long as Congress continues to vote billions for foreign aid, retaliation will cause American farmers no particular discomfort. In this kind of one-way "foreign trade" all taxpayers are assessed to pay for goods exported. In normal times the counter-restrictions now being discussed could mean painful dollar losses.—(Minneapolis Tribune.)

REAL WORTH AT LAST

Some of the most important people have been halting in their speech and most unprepossessing of demeanor. Moses declared that he could never lead the children of Israel because he was "slow of speech and of a slow tongue." But he became about the most influential human being that ever lived. In the latter years of his life, George Washington developed the capacity to compose effective speeches and to read them effectively. But as a boy and young man, he was so halting in his speech that his contemporaries remarked about it.

Who would ever have believed that the rough country boy of Illinois would ever develop into the great world figure which Lincoln became. St. Paul in one of his epistles refers to his inability to speak effectively in public.

Some one was telling me recently about a professor who was usually ill at ease in a classroom and halting in speech. But year after year students, after they were graduated from that college, declared that here was the most influential personality with whom they had ever come in contact.

The big blustering extrovert may seem to be sweeping all before him in his conquest of the world, but usually the world is seeing to it that he is gradually being edged over in the direction of the trash can. Real worth always comes out at last.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

SPACE

That which makes nature so fascinating and limitless in its appeal to the whole man is its vast space. Wherever one goes, whether in the big city or far out in the country, there is space. If things get crowded in the city, the city spreads out into more space.

I have travelled for days on the ocean and viewed great space, almost terrifying space. But all this space, whether upon the land or sea, seems to have been created for a purpose. There was nothing but space around the early settlers on this western continent. Trees were felled about a cabin built from these trees. And new space for the sunlight and a garden was created.

Driving over the desert in the western part of the United States many were the thoughts that came to me as I drove mile after mile without seeing a home or human being. All seemed as nothing but space. Thoughts take on a new significance when you see all about you nothing but space.

I am told that large dining rooms in a hotel do not pay. There is too much space and people feel lonely there. The low ceiling, smaller dining rooms are the ones which pay and in which people feel friendly. It's the same with big rooms in a home. It's in the smaller ones that we like to sit and talk with our friends. All large country estates look uninviting to me. They lack intimacy. Now that the world's pockets are being pinched for great taxes, the great homes and estates are being turned to a more useful purpose. In less space people are going to feel happier!

A friend in a southern state once took me to his ranch a hundred miles from a large city. He had a hundred thousand acres of land. It took a drive of over 15 miles, after entering his property, to reach the ranch house, which was only medium in size, but most attractive and inviting. He had plenty of space, but the space that held his home and his gardens meant more to me—and probably to him—than all the vast acres lying idle.

It you can't plant love and raise vegetables and produce in great space, it would be better to let it remain for God's liberty-loving animals and birds. To be inspired look into the star-studded night sky. There is space to thrill the soul!

CNE Executive Moves Analysts Examine Fair

Toronto, March 13 (CP)—The Canadian National Exhibition executive yesterday unanimously approved a motion that an outside firm of business analysts be retained to examine thoroughly every aspect of the fair's operation.

Both Mayor Allan Lamport, who made the motion, and Robert Saunders, first vice-president, said that unless a survey was made, they would be forced to resign from the C.N.E. executive.

A recommendation that J. D. Woods and Gordon, Toronto, be engaged to make the examination and report back within 30 days after starting the task will be presented to the directors riday.

The examiners will be asked to report on the following:

1. Whether it finds any evidence of improper practice, either on the part of the exhibition employees or others.
2. Whether the accounting system is properly set up in respect to allocations and charges against diffirent departments.
3. An improved system of auditing and accounting.
4. Recommendations to improve the system for fixing prices or calling tenders.

$100,000 Fire Loss at Regina, 27 Homeless

Regina, Mar. 13 (CP)—A $100,000 fire yesterday flashed through a section of the Black Block here leaving 27 persons homeless and destroying two stores and five business offices. No one was injured.

A large crowd filled the streets as stocks of bullets ricochetted through Gray's Hardware Store on the main floor. Paint and other inflammable stores fed the fast spreading flames that combined with dense smoke to defy the efforts of 55 firemen and practically every piece of Regina's firefighting equipment.

The fire was discovered at 11.30 a.m. and was not brought under control until 2.30. By then the interior of the three-storey building was almost gutted.

Thirteen apartments were destroyed in the blaze, burning nearly the entire belongings of 27 persons.

The red brick building had been a Regina landmark for more than 40 years. Pioneer builder Henry Black erected the burned out portion in 1911 as an addition to the other two-thirds of the block which he built in 1906.

Newspaper Guild Loses Appeal

Toronto, March 13—(CP)—Ontario Court of Appeal today dismissed the appeal of the Toronto Newspaper Guild (C. I. O.-C. C. L.) against a court decision decertifying the guild as bargaining agent for circulation department employees of the Toronto Globe and Mail.

During a 3½-day hearing last October, argument centred on two major points: jurisdiction of the Ontario Labor Relations Board and whether labor board decisions are subject to appeal.

Mr. Justice G. A. Gale of the Ontario Supreme Court, in a decision last June 1, upset a provision of the Labor Relations Act which says the board's decisions cannot be appealed. He ruled the newspaper had meen denied "essential justice" when the board refused it the right to cross-examine a guild witness on the question of reported resignations from the guild.

At the time labor unions complained that the court was taking away a function of the board.

WISDOM OF CHOOSING DRAFTY CORNER

Surveys made by medical officers of the U. S. Public Health Service in various urban and rural parts of the country at various times in the year showed that three-fourths of the illness, medical and surgical, attended by physicians, is directly or indirectly due to respiratory infection.

The prevention of respiratory infection therefore is or should be the paramount purpose of all public health administration and personal health care.

It is conceivable that under exceptional conditions certain respiratory infections may be airborne in the sense that the germ or virus floats about or is carried by the air from the first person who develops the disease to other persons in the neighborhood or community — or even to persons miles away. But at the same time it is notable that nearly all the classical examples of such airborne infection are historical, legendary or hypothetical. Yellow fever was in that category prior to the discovery that the infection is conveyed only through the bite of the breed of mosquito known as Aedes aegypti or Stegomyia fasciata. The ordinary everyday mode or way of respiratory infection is droplet or spray infection. The germ or virus of the disease is carried from nose or throat in the droplets of moisture or secretions given off in the spray that shoots forth from nose and/or mouth when one coughs, sneezes, sings, shouts, talks or laughs.

Some of the droplets are visible but most of them are too small to be visible to the naked eye, although not too small to contain virus or germs. Some of the droplets are palpable, unpleasantly so if you have ever been caught in the spray, but most of them are impalpably fine, though still moist enough to keep virus or germs alive until it lands on fertile ground and sets about incubating a new case.

Most people today have heard about the hazard of sneeze and cough spray and some of them even try to mask or cover coughs and sneezes when in the company of other persons. But health authorities and physicians are squeamish about spray infection—or ignorant of both — and therefore they never mention conversation spray when advising people to cover coughs and sneezes. But I hope I may be permitted to tell you poor so-and-so's, particularly you high school and college graduates whose education has been so sadly neglected, that it is by the spray of polite conversation that you catch what ails you — spray not from across a crowded room but from across the counter, desk, dinner table, ticket window, theater seat, bridge table, hair dresser's or manicure's stand. Sneeze or cough spray had a range of ten to twenty feet; conversation spray a range of two to five feet.

Beyond these distances infection is virtually impossible, for the simple reason that virus or germ will not survive either drying or the reduction of temperature if the droplet containing it remains exposed to the air for more than a second. But within range (2 to 5 feet) a suitable mask is as essential for safety in the shoe store or at the cashier's window as it is in the operating room.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The immigrants who swarmed into Canada during the truly pioneer days of the 1820's, 30's and 40's had no expectation of picking gold up on the streets. There were no streets. And it was something better than gold that the newcomers were in search of. They were ,in fact, people very like the so-called D.P.'s of today. They were desperate people escaping from hardship, oppression, starvation and political cruelty of one kind and another in the old lands.

The hardships they faced in coming to a wilderness land was greater than the hardships our present-day immigrants face in an organized and settled nation. But the opportunities and rewards were greater. On a recent visit to England and Scotland, a considerable number of people, most of them young, talked to me about their possibilities in Canada, if they emigrated. And I was baffled to know what to say to husky young men and women who asked:

"What sort of social security have you in Canada?"

I might have mentioned old age pensions, mother's allowances, workmen's compensation and a few other amenities; but they would have sounded rather trivial compared with the wigs, teeth, hearing aids, the elaborate structure, somewhat like a gigantic social notions counter, or bargain basement of social security, that Britain offers her sons and daughters.

There can be little doubt that one reason for the small percentage of immigrants from Britain last year, in proportion to those from Europe, was the feeling of security, however Spartan, which preoccupies the ordinary Britisher's mind these days.

It might be worth reflecting if those immigrants who are driven to our shores are not the most valuable, in the light of tradition.

Lovely Femininity Accents Modern Practicality at Fashion Review

Not only lovely and flatteringly feminine but distinctly modern and practical is the 1952 spring accent as shown at the fashion review yesterday afternoon and evening, held in the Capitol Theatre under the auspices of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary. Spontaneous and deeply appreciative were the applauds that followed the pirouetting models as they displayed the eye-catching coats, dresses, gowns, costume jewellery and furs amid a setting of white calla lilies, fragrant carnations, daffodils, snapdragons, ferns and snow-white garden furniture.

Hospital Aids

Preceding the show, Mrs. John Buchan, 1st vice president of the auxiliary, welcomed the guests and told briefly of the work that had gone into this review and of the aim and scope of the Women's Auxiliary in furthering the care and interests of the patients in the hospital. "Every cent that is made by our projects, the Opportunity shop, the Christmas dance, the fashion show is used for that end. Owing to your splendid support of these projects, said Mrs. Buchan, "we have, during the past year, been able to give to the hospital an oxygen tent worth $840, a resuscitator-inhalator, which is valuable in shock cases, worth $467; a humidicrib for the nursery worth $559, and three student nurses are each being helped to the extent of $120 a year towards their expenses.

Flannelette, wool and diapers are also provided for the "Good Samaritan" cupboard and Christmas presents and Easter baskets are given to the patients. The Junior Auxiliary operates a library for the patients in the hospital and also donated a chair to the pediatric ward.

Hospital Facilities

"In looking to the future, it is obvious that the existing hospital facilities must be improved and enlarged to meet the needs of the growing community. The role we in this organization will play in making this possible, will undoubtedly be a major one. The necessity is obvious and we must be ready for it. It is a challenge which can only be met by all working together," concluded Mrs. Buchan, who then introduced the commentator, Mrs. James H. Forrester.

Mrs. Forrester, who was most attractively attired in navy with touches of white and wearing a stunning white hat with large tailored, white bow, mentioned the regretable absence of the former commentator, Mrs. George Stobie, who had for so many years presided at the spring fashion shows. Mrs. Forrester also told of how she had obtained her own outfit, gown, hat, gloves, shoes, purse and lovely costume jewellery, all within the space of an hour, from the merchants of this city, showing how splendidly supplied they were in matters pertaining to the wardrobe of the discriminating feminine shopper.

As each charming model appeared, they were graciously named by the commentator, as she drew attention to some outstanding feature of the apparel being shown, interspersing from time to time some piquant phrase and by her understanding smile, greatly assisted in the demonstration.

Utility Coats

Among the fine showing of utility or all-purpose coats, which were delightful in their range of colorings of navy, red and black check, tangerine and daffodil yellow, was of pumpkin yellow in suede, suitable for the junior miss. This creation was worn over a Kasha skirt with a sleeveless turtle neck sweater in pale green.

Another eye-catching coat was the navy Bengaline raincoat, with matching peak cap in reversible tones of navy. This coat could be worn for rain or sunshine as could the jaunty cap.

The smart junior coat in pastel yellow, featured the deep cuffs and not too full back, worn over a navy and white gingham pattern dress having leg-o-mutton sleeves, buttoned down the front of the bodice. This was fashioned from the new material, "Whispering taffeta" so much in vogue.

For the smartly dressed woman of pleasing proportions, was a Hurlingham coat of Linton Cumberland homesour. in basket weave design. This was complemented by a dress in medieval scattered print with spaced pattern, always effective on a tall figure. The strictly tailored neckline digressed to a fussy wrap-around skirt with side fullness.

Accent on Sleeves

This spring the accent is on sleeves. Some are in bat-wing style, Dolman cut, with deep cuffs, both in gowns and coats. Coats feature the pyramid trend with dropped shoulders, capturing that slender look so much desired. Pockets also come in for some clever arrangements, being either large or small.

Coat dresses were also shown, as were many other designs with the skirt lengths being around 14 to 15 inches from the ground. Skirts were slim in appearance or full and billowing. Those of slim lines had inverted pleats for ease of movement, at both front and back, or tiny kick pleats at the sides.

Luxurious Furs

The furs were rich and luxurious, and included shortie effects, full length coats with gracefully swaying backs, deep cuffs on shorter sleeves of ample size, in Canadian squirrel, natural grey Russian squirrel, black Russian Persian lamb, Russian broadtail in black, muskrat in the new Alaskan shade, and the split skin Canadian squirrel in the rich autumn brown, and natural raccoon in reddish brown tone.

Lovely as Dreams

Two numbers were especially noted among many lovely evening dresses one in black net with applique of fruit and flowers on bodice and skirt, captivating and sweet, while the other was of summer white or ivory featuring swaths of tulle with tucked bodice and halter collar, accented with golden hued roses across the front. This was worn with matching color top coat, the whole ensemble, "lovely as a dream." Both of these were of street length. Another number was a dignified black gown of French lace with floating pannier muting the floral corsage.

The hats were complements of the gowns with which they were worn and lovely in detail, small in size.

The bridal scene must not be overlooked, for each year it is more and more intriguing. This season showed the various guests arriving in dresses of rose, blue, and apricot; brides's maids in nylon net and Florentine lace in petal pink and mint green, featuring a "photographer's delight" neckline. The skirts were quaint with crinoline hip-line effect.

The bride was lovely as a rose in her bridal gown of Florentine lace redingote over nylon net, with train, and finger-tip veil. One feature of this beautiful gown was its adaptability for evening wear by removal of the redingote.

Prizes Presented

The highlights of the afternoon and evening were the presentation of prizes to those holding the winning number tickets, drawn by Mrs. Fred H. Deacon, convener of the fashion review, with the following the lucky winners: Train case, Mrs. D. Burns, 219 Albert St.; Mrs. W. E. HERO OF HOUR

Pickering, March 13. (CP)—Pete, a white Holland canary, was the hero of the hour after a recent fire in the William King home at Rosebank, four miles west of here. The bird's screeching aroused the three teen-aged King children who escaped from the house and turned in an alarm. The parents were away at the time.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Friends can be found if you look in the right places

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Recently I read in your column a letter written by a young woman in her twenties, who said she didn't seem to be able to meet any young men her own age.

I seem to be in the same boat, so far as girls are concerned. I have just turned 30, and I would like to find some nice young lady with whom I could become friends with the thought of perhaps marrying later, as I am very lonesome and need companionship. Perhaps the young lady who wrote the letter and myself could get together, as it seems we have a lot in common, or maybe you could give me some other advice. —M. P.

Dear M.P.:

You are by no means the first young man who has suggested I might put him in touch with some girl whose letter he has seen in my column. Girls, too, very often write and ask if there is any way they can meet some man whose letter they have read in the same place.

In all such cases, I invariably say that I do not approve of introductions by mail, and never do anything of the sort. I would like to call this to the attention of any young ladies who may be planning to write me, asking that their names and addresses be given you, and to say that I cannot undertake even to answer their letters.

A young man like yourself should have no difficulty finding friends of the opposite sex, if he will look in the right places. You live near a big city, and if there are no organizations or clubs right in your own town where you could make new acquaintances, go to the city and investigate possibilities there. Find out what churches have clubs for young men and women in your age group. Visit the YMCA and make inquiries about activities there. Do a little research in community activities, and think how you can fit into them.

These are ways to enlarge your circle of friends and to meet the kind of people you want to know. Won't you get busy right away and follow my suggestions?

Your boy friend isn't well—have patience with him

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a girl of 16, and my troubles are that I like a boy who is in the service. He is in the Naval Hospital. I tried to show him that I liked him but he seems like he is always in the dumps. He never says anything. We have gone out often but he seems not to enjoy himself, so will you please give me some advice as what to do when I'm out on a date with him?—Betty.

Dear Betty:

If this friend of yours is in the Naval hospital, it must be that he is ill in some way, which might very well make him feel down "in the dumps". Probably he doesn't feel well enough to be very lively, but since you say the two of you have often gone out together, he evidently likes to be with you anyhow. Even though he is so quiet all the time, he must get something out of your companionship that helps him, or else he wouldn't want to go out with you at all.

Why don't you just take him as he is for awhile and see if he doesn't become livelier as he gets healthier? Maybe one of these days, when he feels well again, you will be surprised to find that he is really a lot of fun, and then you will be glad you stuck by him and were a good friend to him when he needed one.

Food for Thought

By Mary Moore

Extend Your Honeymoon

I'm not saying "Life Can Be Beautiful" but I am saying life can be interesting and serene and fun.

I should be down in the dumps because this morning I have the drippin'est code id de head as I tybe dis—but I remembered a plan that worked—a plan to make a honeymoon last forever.

I lost track of Jean and Don because they moved to Montreal but I shall never forget their determination to prevent their marriage from bogging down into monotony.

Jeanie used to believe that when married to Don life would be beautiful forever after.

On the morning of the day they were married I permitted myself to say one word of advice: "With a man like Don you can swing it, Jeanie—life can be beautiful."

I saw them again, two weeks after the wedding, in their own home. Jeanie cornered me after a dinner of roast lamb and a large bowl of fruit and said: "Em tell me what you think of this for an idea. You probably think we are extravagant having roast lamb on a Tuesday night (me— the critical old ogre!) but we have decided to ration our meat money and dessert money. Don loves desserts and I have to learn to make them. (Jeanie was and still is, I think, a commercial artist.) I loathe the idea of eating hash and wieners and codfish night after night. I'd rather have lamb or chicken once per week and after the leftovers are used, a nifty omelette or Italian spaghetti, etc."

So spoke Jeanie—and this plan was worked out: Every other night Jeanie left the office at 4 p.m. and made dessert when she got home. That night they had something like an omelette and quick-cooked vegetables.

On the alternate nights they had a roast which Don started cooking in their automatic oven. He was a professional man whose office was only a few blocks from their house so he had his lunch at home alone and could set the switches on the stove for the evening meal.

On dessert nights Don cleared the table and "redded" up the dishes and washed them, while Jeanie read the paper, and eventually sauntered to the kitchen when it came time to dry them. On roast nights the routine was reversed. This made a lot of fun, for they had to remember the news they had just read to repeat it to each other. This saved the other one's time and kept the reviewer more aware of what he had just read.

Another outcome of this planning was that their friends, when invited to dinner, could decide which they liked most: spectacular desserts or savoury roasts. We can all do these intriguing things. Of course, one essential is a congenial partner, who is not lazy and who is not so firmly cemented in his rut that he growls "women's work".

Fun at home for husbands and fathers is only limited by their unwillingness to help keep the house running happily. Hiding behind a newspaper seems to be a man's prerogative, but who would miss the fun of helping mix the Christmas cakes or loading the car for a picnic or broiling the steaks "because you are the only one who can broil them exactly right Daddy!"

Just when we thought beef prices were going to come back down within our reach, hoof and mouth disease infected our Saskatchewan cattle and now we are back where we were all winter—eating fresh pork and fish.

Okay then, let's learn to cook fresh pork the finest possible ways. Gosh, now that I've gone that far I wonder what they are!

Don't worry kids,—I'm only spoofing. I have two beauties up my sleeve. We start off with

STUFFED PORK SHOULDER

Sounds modest enough doesn't it? Has a proud ending though.

Ask your butcher to remove the bone from a 5 or 6-lb. fresh shoulder of pork. Do not have it tied. When you get it home, wipe it with a damp cloth and make this

FILLING

Wash and core but do not pare 2 red apples; chop 2 medium onions and 2 stalks of celery with leaves on; cube 2 slices of bread. Mix these all together with 1 1-2 teaspoons salt, 1-2 teaspoon pepper and 1-2 teaspoon sage. Fill the cavity in the pork shoulder with this, then tie it firmly with 2 or 3 loops of strong string. Roast in uncovered roaster for 3 1-2 hours at 325 deg. Fahr. or slightly lower temperature. If desired add new unpared potatoes to pan during last 1 1-4 hours, or halved unpared apples during last 1-2 hour.

HABITANT PORK PIE

I'm thinking this is new to you who have not lived in or visited Quebec. Ask the butcher to grind you 1 1-4 lbs of lean pork followed by 3-4 lb. ground lean beef. To these add 2 cups water and simmer for 1-2 hour. Then add 4 medium potatoes cubed, 1 small onion chopped, 2 whole cloves, 3 bay leaves, and about 1-8 teaspoon pepper. Cook 10 minutes, then add 1 or 1 1-2 teaspoons salt and cook 10 minutes longer and taste. It may need more water. Add 1-2 teaspoon allspice and 1-8 teaspoon nutmeg. Remove from heat and strain off most of the liquid. Have ready a deep pastry-lined pie plate. Pour in filling. Seal on top, gashed, crust. The filling makes enough for 3 or 4 pies and since they keep in very cold place this is good. Bake in oven of 425 deg. Fahr. for 35 minutes. Reheat the baked, stored pies as needed.

BEAUTY

HELEN JAMIESON

Teen-agers, please notice!

Socially, the girl who lacks animation is a frozen asset.

High school girls, who put up a scornful protest when mama says that they must get home from parties at a reasonable hour, should know that excitement and late hours are demons that destroy good looks. These little lovelies fancy that their mothers are old fogies. Little do they realize that mama thought herself pretty gay in her young days.

This business of young people running around in motor cars after a hilarious evening, worries grandmothers, who are horrified at youth's swift pace these days. They know too well the effect of hectic living upon the general health and the nervous system.

Deprived of the required hours of sleep, young people are bound to pay a penalty. They are not made of wire and fiddle strings, as they seem to fancy.

Girls who are still growing require more food and more sleep than an adult. They are expending energy and their bodies can't function properly unless nature has a chance to repair them. That is possible only when the required eight or nine hours of sleep are had every night.

A tired child cannot keep up with her studies, so she worries about poor marks. When the body is exhausted, the mental machinery doesn't run normally.

It would seem as if some of our girls who keep late hours are losing their youth before they are out of it. You may see a girl of seventeen with rosy cheeks, but her eyes have lost their sparkle. There are shadows under them. By the time she is in her twenties, her eyes will have tiny crinkles around them. Something to think about—if they can stop their activities long enough to think about anything that is sensible and practical.

If a girl believes that health is a dull, uninteresting subject, she will at least consider her appearance. The girl who lacks animation is a frozen asset, socially. Feeling dragged out, she cannot be a charming companion.

It is said that many mothers are afraid of their daughters, don't dare make suggestions. There is something the matter with these mothers. The bond of love should keep them closely together. A mother should not scold or nag, but should endeavor to be daughter's closest, dearest friend, so that she will have the child's confidence. It can be done, even in this delirious age.

GOOD MANNERS

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Should wear orchid with blossom up, stem down

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am the mother of the prospective groom, and for the first time in my life I am to wear an orchid—to be given to me by my son, to wear at his wedding! Of course I don't know just how the corsage will be made, but should I wear the orchid with the stem up or down?—Mother.

The orchid grows with the blossom up . . . and this is the way it should be worn, blossom up, stem down. (And I hope you'll have great happiness wearing your festive orchid!)

Sunday School class to give bridal shower for their teacher

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My sister and I have for several years belonged to quite a large Sunday School class. The members are all good friends, and we are all devoted to the teacher who has taught our class for the past three years. She is a wonderful person (in her early thirties, I should say), has been a widow since her husband was killed in the last war, and now is soon to marry a local lawyer who was a great friend of her husband. We——that is, all the members of our Sunday School class—would like to give a shower for her. But we are wondering if this would be correct, for a second marriage. What is your advice?—S. H.

Dont' hesitate a minute in this joyous plan to pay loving honor and compliment to your teacher! It would be foolish indeed to draw back from carrying out this plan just because it isn't particularly "customary' to give a shower for a second marriage. She will be so proud and happy that her devoted class-members have this wonderful plan to show that they are wishing her well in this new happiness that is coming to her, that they want to have a part in the furnising of her new home.

Hostess not served first at cocktail party

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I'm a "mere man", a recent bridegroom, trying to be a good host! Betty and I were married last November, have just moved into our new house (small, modest, but very nice), and last Sunday afternoon gave our first cocktail party. We invited six couples, one couple an older man and his wife, friends of Betty's family, who happened to be visiting one of the younger couples we had invited. They all arrived at about the same time, and, as per arrangement, Betty was to pass the cocktail accessories, and I was to make and serve the cocktails. I first served the older woman, then the other women, Betty last of the women, and then the men. Now Betty "has a mad on", insisted I should have served her first. She has written to you for advice on several occasions, so now I said I'd write for your answer to this 'problem.' Was I right or wrong, Mrs. Beeckman?—T. R.

Right, sir. . . . absolutely right! The hostess never should be served first, whether at the dining-room table or at a cocktail party or buffet party. Please tell your Betty that you were particularly gallant, as well as correct, to serve the older visitor first of the women.

While overseas, Miss Redner visited on the continent travelling as far south as Rome and had many beautiful colored pictures of the places visited which she kindly shared with the W. A.

Bill to Permit Investigation Of Windsor Hospital

Toronto, March 13 (CP)—The Ontario legislature today deals with the second stage in the passage of a bill to permit a full-scale investigation of the East Windsor Hospital at Windsor, Ont.

Attorney-General Porter introduced the bill yesterday and said that immediately after its passage it will be used to call an investigation at the hospital where he said there was evidence of "certain possible irregularities which may turn out to be quite extensive."

The bill will give the government general powers of Royal Commission investigation into any hospital, sanatorium, charitable institution or other organization receiving provincial grants.

Premier Frost said he will call the bill for second reading—approval in principle—today together with other bills. The Throne Speech debate will also continue today, and a night sitting is planned to help clear up business before the House before Mr. Frost brings down his budget expected next Thursday.

Four members spoke in yesterday's Throne Speech debate: S. F. Leavine (PC-Waterloo North), G. T. Gordon (L—Brantford), W. K. Warrender (PC—Hamilton Centre) and T. D. Thomas (CCF—Ontario).

Mr. Leavine proposed a rebate on part of the federal income tax to the municipality where it is collected as a means of assisting municipal financing. Expansion of municipal income sources was necessary, and without past provincial aid "the municipal situation would be intolerable."

Wants Low-Rental Houses

Mr. Gordon urged the government to transfer some of its attention from home purchasing to low-rental housing.

Ontario should start a low-rental housing plan "for the thousands of people, who will never be able to buy a house."

Mr. Thomas said the people of the province lost out by Ontario's refusal in 1945 to enter a tax-rental agreement with Ottawa to exchange certain provincial tax fields for federal subsidies.

The federal government at that time also offered Ontario a complete health program and a universal pensions plan similar to that begun only this year, he said.

Premier Frost strongly denied that such offers were included in the federal tax-rental offer. Ontario would have had to pay its share of such welfare plans in the form of a poll tax of "perhaps $30 a year."

Mr. Warrender said that communists used any public office they were elected to as a "sounding board for their propaganda." Communist party supporters should be deprived of their right to vote, and thus be disqualified from holding public office.

Hospital Head Has No Intention Of Leaving Post

Windsor, Ont., March 13 — (CP) — Dr. P. J. G. Morgan, superintendent of East Windsor Hospital, said today he has "no intention" of relinquishing his position.

He made the statement in a telephone interview in connection with newspaper reports yesterday which stated that Health Minister Phillips telephoned him from Toronto ordering him to vacate his post.

The superintendent said that M. Frank Brobst, chairman of the hospital board, had made a statement concerning an alleged Phillips telephone call to a newspaper publisher.

"In any event," said the doctor, "the Ontario government has no more authority to ask me to resign than it has to ask Mr. Rhys Sale, president of Ford of Canada, to resign. Like the Ford Company, the East Windsor Hospital is incorporated under the requisite provincial government act."

Dr. Morgan said that at a meeting of the hospital board last night he asked for the unanimous passing of a resolution "welcoming" any investigation of the hospital which the Ontario government cares to make.

"I wrote it myself," he said, "and the board passed it unanimously. I told the members that if acceptance was not unanimous I would resign."

He said that until Mayor Arthur Reaume stepped into the picture late yesterday by telephoning James S. Lockie, hospital business administrator, and telling him to disregard Mr. Brobst's orders, considerable confusion existed at the hospital.

"Mr. Lockie," he said, "took it upon himself to tell several hospital staff members that I was no longer in charge. Mr. Reaume's action solved the question of authority — but with the situation as it is I would welcome an investigation."

Thrown from Car Girl Suffers Head Lacerations

Thrown out of the car when the vehicle in which she was riding went out of control and turned on its side on the boulevard, Miss Mary Nickle, 15, Bleecker Ave., suffered head lacerations early Wednesday afternoon and was treated at Belleville General Hospital. She was later allowed to return to her home.

The accident occurred on the four-lane highway east of the city when a car driven by Bruce Nickle, brother of the injured girl, went out of control as it was about to pass another vehicle proceeding in the same direction. Police said a car driven by Richard Powell, Pine Street, veered to the left just as the Nickle car was about to pass.

Provincial Constable Howard Tasker investigated.

Fire Destroys Home, Contents Of C. Rushnell

West Huntingdon (Special) — The frame farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Rushnell, 2nd concession of Huntingdon township, was destroyed by fire Wednesday morning with practically all household contents also being lost.

The fire started when no one was in the house. Mrs. Rushnell was away from home, while Mr. Rushnell was at the barn when he happened to go to the house to find the inside ablaze. Neighbors quickly gathered but could do nothing to save the house. Fortunately the wind was blowing away from the barns and no other buildings were endangered by the fire.

Refreshments were served by several of the grandchildren and another birthday cake made by the youngest daughter, Mrs. Theodore Cooney, Lila, was cut by Mrs. Ray after she extinguished the candles.

Pictures were taken of the group by Mr. Ronnie Woodbeck.

Mr. Percy Ray extended thanks on behalf of his mother, to all those who had assisted in any way to make his mother's 80th birthday party such a happy occasion and especially to Mr. and Mrs. Norman Ray, who opened their home for this memorable event.

MARMORA

Motorist Spots Herd of Deer

Marmora—Ray Williams, who conducts the weekly cattle auction at Hoard's Station, had an experience about a week ago which he will always remember. He was returning from Marmora in the evening on No. 14 highway when he spotted eight animals, good for meat, but not permissible to be ever auctioned.

It was a herd of eight deer which were on an old runway between the C.N.R. spur which crosses the highway about two miles south of the village and the C.N.R. main line from Trenton to Bancroft which intercepts the highway a further half mile south. It was a real eye-opener for this motorist.

LEARNS SOMETHING NEW

"Something old, something new, something borrowed, something blue"

"Whoever wrote this rhyme must have realized how important blue is to happy home-making. For instance, to get the whitest wash—the kind that makes a bride proud—I've found one must use Reckitt's Blue. Just a swish or two in the rinse prevents any yellow tinge in my beautiful trousseau, and Reckitt's Blue costs less than two cents a washing."

Brazilian Traction is Romance Of Canadian Enterprise Writer Says After Visit to Country

By FORBES RHUDE

(Canadian Press Business Editor)

There's a lot of Canada in Brazil.

There are a lot of Canadians, too—people from the Maritimes to British Columbia, who have made their homes there.

And, to date, both Canada and Canadians in that immense and friendly country, may be described for the greater part in the long name and huge operations of Brazilian Traction, Light and Power Co., Ltd.

For Brazilian Traction is a romance of Canadian enterprise, started some 50 years ago, which has given Canada a tremendous entry into Brazil.

It is Canada's largest industrial company, next to her railroads. It is her greatest private investment abroad. And, at the same time, it is Brazil's largest industrial operation.

The company's head office is in Toronto, with a strong Maritime accent in its top ranks, and its shares are held largely by Canadians; in operation, it is an example, and aims at becoming an increasing example, of co-operation between Brazilians and Canadians.

Its rather misleading name stems from the fact that it had its origin in a street railway; but today its main job is to supply 65 percent of all the electric power, generated in Brazil, and 80 percent of Brazil's telephone services.

That is a big opportunity, compounded with headaches—for Brazil, embarked upon a seemingly endless expansion, has an insatiable appetite for electric power and telephones.

These things and many others were observed in a recent trip to Brazil by a group of Canadians and Americans, of whom this writer was one; and this column, for a few days, will tell something of what we saw.

We saw, it is true, a lot of dams, power stations, reservoirs, and we were guests at many luncheons and dinners.

But we also saw and met many people—Brazilians and Canadians. We saw something of "carnival", that great four-day out-pouring of gaiety which precedes Lent. We saw what is described as the most beautiful city in the world, Rio de Janeiro, and we saw the surf of its shining beaches. And we saw the fastest growing city in the world, Sao Paulo.

Brazil is a country roughly the size of Canada or the United States which covers half of South America. It has a population of more than 52,000,000 people, nearly four times that of Canada, or as many people as are in all other countries of South America put together.

It extends from 300 miles north of the equator to 2,300 miles south of it. Its north embraces the equatorial Amazon basin. Its southern cattle lands, at the same latitude in the south as the Carolinas of the United States in the north, see a bit of snow in winter. It borders every South American country except Chile and Ecuador.

Its form of government is patterned on that of the United States of America, with a president, a congress elected by universal suffrage, and a judiciary. It has 20 states, four territories, and the federal district of Rio de Janeiro. Its language is Portuguese.

It has mineral riches, but what has been found must be very small compared to what must lie untapped underground.

In brief, it is a great land of today which must, inevitably, be a greater land of tomorrow, which we should know much better than we do.

Large-scale irrigation in western Canada started with the passage of the North West Irrigation Act of 1894.

South Dakota Faces Major Flood Threat

Washington, March 13 — (AP)—The United States geological survey says South Dakota faces a "major flood threat" when spring thaws cause a break-up in river ice.

Snow-cover in New England ranges from near normal to record amounts in the Pemigewasset River basin, it added in its February water-resources review.

Excessive run-off of water prevailed over much of Canada and the northern United States east of the great plains. Ground-water levels were also seasonally high.

Run-off in South Dakota rivers was excessive in early February and ice went out at most points on major rivers, but by the end of the month they were all frozen over again with a fairly heavy cover of slushy ice and snow.

"The presence of this ice in the river channels," it said, "together with a very heavy snow cover over most of the eastern two-thirds of the state, presents a major flood threat for the break-up period in South Dakota."

'Jolly Roger' Flown

London, March 13. (Reuters)—The "Jolly Roger" flew above the parliament buildings for several hours last night.

The pirate flag was not noticed until this morning when it was hauled down by a works ministry official.

Officials said it was believed to be a college-boy prank.

Whoever raised it on the Victoria Tower mounted several precarious ladders to reach the 336-foot peak, at present enmeshed in scaffolding. The flag was made of a large sheet with the skull and crossed bones painted on it.

Subsidies Given Biggest Trimming In Many Years

London, March 13 (AP) —Prime Minister Churchill's Conservative government appears determined to cut to the near-vanishing point food subsidies which have cost Britain more than £2,500,000,000 since Second World War.

In the government's budget this week Richard Butler, Chancellor of the Exchequer, gave the subsidies the biggest trimming since they started. Later in a BBC broadcast he criticized the system under which citizens pay taxes so that the government can sell food below cost price.

Butler told Britons he was handing back some of their tax money. Bluntly he said they ought to pay the real cost of the food they eat. But even after the cuts —which slash subsidies from more than £340,000,000 a year to £250,000,000—housewives still won't be paying the full cost of basic foods when they go marketing.

That's one reason many observers think Butler may plan further cuts in later budgets. Such action probably is opposed by Butler's fellow cabinet minister, Lord Woolton, who developed subsidies as Britain's wartime food minister.

The Food Ministry never says how subsidies are distributed. But Woolton used taxpayers' money to keep down prices of bread, flour, meat, bacon, ham, fats, cheese, eggs, milk, sugar and tea.

As a result, Britain came through the lean war years fit and well fed.

Subsidized foods are bought in bulk by the Food Ministry, which uses the subsidy money to resell them at below cost to traders.

In post-war years, rising prices gradually inflated the subbsidies to a high of £500,000,000 in 1949.

Bread and milk are two of the most heavily subsidized foods.

The Conservatives have never had a strict party line about subsidies. Many Conservative members of parliament argue that they are wasteful, expensive and unnecessary. But no politician—Conservative or Laborite—would dare come out for doing away with them entirely.

Boy Found Alive

Toronto, March 13. — (CP)—Michael Saunders, 5, today was found alive, wedged in a 100-foot gully two miles from his North Toronto home. He had been missing 17 hours.

A human chain freed the boy, who was suffering from exposure.

Earlier, police with powerful searchlights hunted through a ravine and searched a public school, garages and a housing development in the area.

ALL-NIGHT TO SHOW

Pittsburgh, Pa., March 13. —(AP)—The world's first all-night regularly-scheduled commercial television broadcasts, aimed at an audience of defence plant and other night workers, will start Tuesday morning. Dumont Station WDTV in Pittsburgh announced it planned the service to meet "thousands of requests" from people whose relaxation comes in the early morning hours.

Canada Seeking Clarification Of United States Embargo On Canadian Livestock, Meat

(By The Canadian Press)

Canada sought clarification in Washington Thursday of the United States embargo on Canadian livestock and meats, imposed as a result of the outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease in southern Saskatchewan.

Meanwhile, discussion continued over interprovincial embargoes on livestock movement.

Three Canadian agricultural officials were in Washington trying to find out what processed meats the United States will allow on its markets and whether Canadian livestock can move through the U. S. for shipment if it goes in bond.

But the Canadians may also take up with the U. S. agricultural officials the question of whether Canada's embargo on import of U. S. livestock is legal.

The Canadian embargo was imposed to keep the Canadian market for Canadian produce but some Americans think it may violate a trade agreement between the two countries. This pact—the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade provides that the signatories will not impose import restrictions which would reduce the effect of negotiated tariff reductions.

Meanwhile, speculation continued about interprovincial embargoes on livestock movement.

British Columbia which bans livestock and meat from the prairies may ease its ban. Agriculture Minister Harry Bowman said in Victoria Wednesday some cattle from Alberta may be allowed to enter B.C. on a permit basis, a similar arrangement to that in effect in Quebec.

Prices of meats were rising in the west coast cities and a possibility of shortages appeared. Vancouver packers said 400 head of cattle were on the way from the B.C. hinterland but it will last only about two days.

The housewife was paying more for meat too. There were indications she will find further price increases. Retail prices were up about six cents over the previous week.

Cattle buyers also were paying more—nearly four cents more for top grade beef at the Kamloops bull sale and fat stock show.

However, Dr. W. R. Gunn, provincial livestock commissioner said the packers were talking "scare stuff." In his opinion, more cattle will be available in B.C. and by June there will be "lots of cattle."

Manitoba's ban on Saskatchewan and Alberta cattle likely will remain for a while. Agriculture Minister F. C. Bell said in Winnipeg Wednesday that Manitoba won't consider lifting it for at least "seven to 10 days."

Names Conditions

He told the legislature about his talks with Federal Agriculture Minister Gardiner on the embargo. The conditions under which Manitoba would lift its ban were:

1. No further outbreaks of the disease in the Saskatchewan quarantine area or the buffer zone around it.
2. Consideration by the federal government of a floor price for livestock.
3. Assurance that Manitoba cattle could move east.

In Saskatoon, W. H. Horner, Saskatchewan's deputy minister of agriculture, had a word to say on embargoes.

When federal veterinarians complete inspections in the quarantine and buffer zones, they will be able to guarantee all meats or livestock from the remainder of Saskatchewan are safe.

Once this is done, the provincial embargoes should be lifted, Mr. Horner told the annual convention of the Saskatchewan Association of Rural Municipalities.

In Regina, federal veterinarians said they believe they now have defined the extent of the foot-and-mouth outbreak.

As a result, they relaxed regulations on slaughtering of animals to allow for issue of permits for slaughter of livestock to be consumed within the quarantined areas around Regina. Restrictions on movement of livestock or meat in and out of the district remained in force.

15 Crew Members Die

San Antonio, Tex., March 13.—(AP)—Two B-29 Superfortresses whose pilots were flying on instruments collided and carried 15 crew members to their deaths yesterday.

One bomber plunged to earth and shattered, scattering fragments and bodies over a five-mile area in south-central Texas. The other glided down several miles away, exploded and burned.

The planes were on training flights from Randolph Air Force base here. They were being flown mechanically and the pilot's cabins were blacked out. One plane carried seven men and the other eight, the air force said.

Jack Nolen, who lives nearby, reported finding a paper-back book near the wreckage with most of its pages burned away but the title intact.

It read: "I Want a Big Funeral."

PICTON

Street Lights Will be Placed On Artillery Hill

Picton—The Royal Canadian School of Artillery is a great benefit to the town, Mayor H. J. McFarland told town council at its March session Monday night. He was urging installation of street lights, costing $790, on the hill leading to the station. Council decided to act on the mayor's recommendation.

It was stated that annual disbursements at the artillery station included $12,092 for water, $32,134 for light, $88,800 for day labor, $92,400 for civilian personnel, $462,000 for military personnel, at total of $667,426.

The mayor referred also to large expenditures in prospect for enlargement of the station.

Council rescinded a resolution calling for installation of parking meters on Bowery, Elizabeth and Ross Streets, and to eliminate parking there instead.

Accepts Offer

Council decided to accept the offer of a firm to supply rubbish receptacles to be placed on the streets. These will be provided free, the promoter benefiting from advertising on the cans. It looks like something new in advertising rackets, commented Editor-Councillor L. B. Calnan.

Police report for February showed 7 charges under LCA, 14 under criminal code and 52 meter violations.

The Chamber of Commerce wrote suggesting a zoning by-law to control erection of certain types of builing. No action was taken.

There was a lengthy discussion concerning the installation of water mains to serve the School of Artillery. Tenders are being reviewed by the town engineer.

Grant Made to Fair

A grant of $200 was made toward the Centennial Fair in Picton in August and $100 to the Salvation Army. The Red Cross was given permission to hold a tag day on Saturday.

Herds Inspected For Dread Disease Around Picton

Picton—Acting for the Dominion Department of Agriculture, Dr. C. E. Goodwin is inspecting farms and herds in this district. So far, there has been no trace of the dread foot and mouth disease here, Dr. Goodwin said today. His inspections are a precautionary measure.

Outbreak of the disease in Saskatchewan is reflected in lower prices for cattle at auction sales being held here. Prices are down as much as $100 a head.

At the mayor's Far Land Farm, with a large herd of valuable Holsteins, visitors must pass through a hall and walk through a disinfectant before entering the stables.

Want to Lease Lands

Picton.—The possibility that deposits of iron ore exist in Prince Edward County is being explored by a United States company. Several farm owners in the Bethel district of Sophiasburg township have been approached concerning possible leases on land, after tests showed the presence of such ore. They were told that the ore is deep in the earth, according to their tests. So far, no options have been taken, and it is understood that further tests will be made.

Eisenhower, Kefauver Lead in Primary

Though trailing Senator Kefauver in the New Hampshire primaries in U.S. voting, President Truman shows no concern. He has not signified his intention to run again for office, and believes he could quickly obtain the nomination for the Democratic party if he chose to run.—Central Press Canadian.

In Istanbul, Turkey, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower is all smiles as he tours the city with a camera. He visited Turkey to inspect Turkish forces which he commands as NATO chief. Perhaps his smiles are, in part, due to the fact that he is leading Senator Taft in the primary polls for leadership of the Republican party. — Central Press Canadian.

Senator Kefauver's popularity has surprised political observers in the U.S. Virtually unknown before the crime investigations in New York, he polled more votes in the New Hampshire primary than President Truman. — Central Press Canadian.

Tired after a vigorous campaign, Senator Robert Taft covers his eyes from camera flashbulbs at Manchester, New Hampshire, where primary voting revealed Eisenhower to be leading for the Republican party nomination. — Central Press Canadian.

Services were held at White's Church on Sunday afternoon with the junior choir singing "Hear the Pennies Dropping" for an anthem. For the church service which followed, the Rev. A. C. McCallum chose as his text Mathew 5:48 "Be ye therefore perfect even as your Father in Heaven is perfect." He said, "This is a challenge. When Colonel Lindbergh and Mrs. Lindbergh flew over Europe they ran into a thick fog and had to climb higher and higher. As they climbed they thought of their son in England." He closed with "They climbed the steep ascent of Heaven. Through peril, toil and pain. O God, to us may grace be given, To follow in their train." Mrs. W. A. Jeffery was pianist for both services.

MARMORA

ST. JAMES Y.P.U. PRESENTS

Marmora—A good sized audience greeted the presentation of the three-act comedy "Have a Heart," by a cast of the Y.P.U. of St. James' United Church, Peterborough, in the town hall, on Monday evening. The play was under auspices of Circle 1 of St. Andrew's Women's Association.

The embarrassing situations of the characters in what was a series of domestic entanglements, made it as entertaining a comedy as ever seen locally.

Bob Pullyblank as Ted Watson the husband, very much in love and facing odd situations, executed the leading part with ability. Dorothy Falconer as Lou Mansfield, his charming and helpful neighbor, sustained her part with fine realism. The roles of Fritzi Vining and Bob Larson, the substitute wife and butler, taken by Rayma Brown and Bob Tamblin provided the hilarious comedy which sent the audience into convulsions of laughter.

Completing the excellent cast were Wilma Hubbeard as Peggy Watson, Ted's real wife, and Ron Davis, as Ted's prospective boss, Mark Andrews.

Bill Piercy directed the play assisted by Marion Davis, who was also business manager.

Wilbert Cunninyham was stage manager while Art Dexon was in charge of makeup.

Between the first and second acts members of Circle 1 sold candy and pop corn.

Preceding the rise of the curtain, the Rev. G. D. Young welcomed the cast and took the opportunity to announce the start of the Red Cross drive on Tuesday for which the objective is $1000.

Petes Defeat Senior Hawks 7-4 To Take Three-Game Lead In Semi-Finals

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

ANYTHING CAN HAPPEN!

The senior Hawks dropped a close game, their third in a row to the Peterborough Petes in Peterborough last night losing the verdict by a 7-4 score. The fourth game of the best-of-seven series is scheduled for Memorial Arena Friday night providing the bubbling pot has simmered down to something or other. The latest rumers in connection with the sudden default of the series by the Eagles is that the three remaining teams will play a round robin series. This, we imagine, is contingent upon the result of the Hawks protest of the Petes games for using alleged ineligible junior players. Apparently the protests did not scare the Petes to any extent, or they feel they are on safe ground by using the Links, for they played two juniors again in last night's game.

Here is what the Peterborough scribe has to say about the Eagles protest of MacDonald, Maritime goalie who was secured as a "replacement" for the injured Dougall, said by the Sacs to be their regular goalie:—"Eagles have sent a protest to the OHA over Goalie MacDonald, who came up from the Maritimes for this series. Kingston claim him as a replacement for Dougall, who was injured about the middle of January. But Anderson played goal for them since, right up to the end of the schedule. And the deadline for signing OHA players is Feb. 10. So how come MacDonald can come in as a replacement at this late date? The K's were tied for last place when Dougall was hurt, yet with Anderson in goal they finished the schedule in second place. They are not entitled to any further breaks. No other club can get replacements for injured players in playoffs."

A FINE KETTLE OF FISH!

"Double, double, Toil and Trouble Fire, Burn — Cauldron, Bubble".

This senior "B" group at the end of the trail has the ole pot a'boiling and a'bubbling.

The Peterborough Eagles have defaulted their semi-finals series with the Kingston Sacs after playing two losing games. The Sacs were officially notified to this effect by OHA executive member Lorne Cook yesterday afternoon, but a few scant hours off the scheduled third game between the squads.

The Sacs, naturally, are seething over this "unsportsmanlike gesture." It is reported the Eagles defaulted the series because the Sacs played a new goalie, one Sonny MacDonald, said to have come from the St. John Beavers, and signed after the Feb. 10 deadline. In fact Eagles, prior to their withdrawal from the group had registered a protest with the OHA on this player.

The Sacs it appeared had sold plenty of tickets for last night's game besides advertising etc. 'Tis rumered that some action may be taken against Eagles by the management of the Kingston Community Centre.

But — don't go away yet. Here's more fat in the fire. The Belleville Hockey Association has filed official protest with the OHA against the Peterborough Petes using junior players in both games in the Hawks-Petes semi-finals series, both won by the Petes.

It appears junior players cannot play with an upper bracket team unless it is affiliated with it, as is the case of the junior Hawks here being under the aegis, with the seniors, of the BGH.

Well, it's a fine way to end up what was one of the best senior "B" groups to tussle in this neck of the woods. It seems to us that the Eagles excuse for default is a pretty slim one. They could have filed a protest over MacDonald. Besides everyone is wondering why the Oshawa line did not appear with the Eagles in the playoffs and they too used juniors exposing themselves to a protest from the Kingston club.

FOR THE CRIPPLED KIDDIES

It seems as though the third annual "titanic struggle of the icelanes" between the Police and Firemen of this village has resolved itself into a battle of the Smoke-Eaters and MacDougall's Menaces. The city department, we are told have no hockey luminaries available and while they are bending a helping hand otherwise cannot furnish any puck-chasing manpower.

In any event from reports from the various camps, this year's tussle between the boys in blue should be a classic. They are taking it as serious as a Scotsman does his wee drapple, and there'll be fun, fury and fireworks come Tuesday night next when the big game is being played.

All of which leads up to the point that the entire proceeds go to the Crippled Children's Fund of the Belleville Shrine Club. Shriners, policemen, firemen and all connected with the venture are working hard to "put it across" and raise some much-needed funds to help the less fortunate kiddies of the city and district. Tickets are only "two-bits". Get yours now and not only have a lot of hockey fun, but help some kiddie back to health.

GLENS BOW OUT!

Glen Roys bowed out of the Trent Valley Hockey League last night going down to a 7-4 defeat before the Trenton Flyers in the fourth game of their best-of-five southern section finals. Flyers now meet the winners of the Marmora-Havelock series for the league title.

The game was one of the best if not the best Trent Valley game seen in the Arena this winter. It was a hard-checking heavy-bumping affair with the Glens spoiling their chances with too many sentences in the third period when they came within a goal of the score.

However the Glens were not disgraced and Manager Don McNevin deserves a lot of credit for entering the squad and seeing it through personally to the finals. The Glens played good hockey all through the schedule eliminating the strong Trenton Jewellers in the section semi-finals. The Flyers deserved their win on the night's play showing more punch and effectiveness around the opposing nets. Both Plumley and Scott, opposing goalies, turning in outstanding performances.

DROWNED IN DITCH

oronto, March 12. (CP)—Da l Friest, 6, was drowned last ght in a water-filled ditch at arby Mount Albert. A Children's Aid ward who lived with Mr. and Mrs. Michael Mellon, he left the house at 5 p.m., to fetch the evening newspaper from the highway 200 yards away.

Homesters Led in All Periods In Somewhat Listless Game; Junior Players Star for Petes

Peterborough—Pulling out a 7-4 victory over Belleville Hawks here last night before a thousand fans, the Petes went ahead three games to nothing. In their O. H. A. best-of-seven senior B group semi-finals. The fourth fray will be on Belleville ice this Friday. Eagles failed to make the trip to play in Kingston in the other semi-final bracket, protesting Kingston's use of goalie Sammy MacDonald. Belleville also has protested the Petes for using players in this series from the junior Oddfellows.

Petes led 1-0 in the first frame and had a 3-1 bulge going into the third, the only exciting period of the game. While play generally was fast and clean, it did not produce good or exciting hockey till the last session. The Petes had a little edge throughout to earn the duke.

Junior Gets Two

Don Floyd notched two of the Petes tallies, the others going to Curly Mason, Junior West, Gus Leonard, Dugan and Ted Collins. West aided on a pair, with single assists marked to Collins, Peters, Dugan, Bill Stewart, Mason, Gus Leonard and Red Robinson. Quinte counters were by Huck Reeves, Red Doran, Keith MacDonald and Peter Jones.

Play was speedy but ragged in the initial inning with the Petes having more shots on net. Mason was banged up early but didn't stay out long. The Petes used their bodies effectively and each goalie in turn kicked out some hot thrusts. Reeves came close just before Floyd backhanded home a hot angle drive partly screened from defence.

Better hockey was seen in a fairly close middle chukker. A drive by Gus Leonard and Stewart saw Leforte pull a fine save, though he was shaken up plenty for a space. Floyd got in shortly to bat home his own rebound with Maurice sprawling after a neat in-close pass from Collins to make it 2-0. Semark went over for tripping and Reeves, trying to clear the puck down the ice, hoisted a high one that bounced through Harding's pads into the net. The fluke shot was from Reeves own side of the red line.

Mason smacked the disc into the mesh in a close-in scramble with West and Peters to make it 3-1. Stewart just missed on a breakaway as Hawks flew up.

Early in the third, Doran cuffed home a nice one on swell combination inside with Jones and Bastedo. Hawks kept pouring in and MacDonald tied it up on good passing from Moher and Wardhaugh right through. It was hot and even for a space till West scored from the side at the crease edge on Dugan pass. Gus Leonard added one with a backhander at point-blank range with Stewart's passout. Jones tallied then from Goyer and Doran on a marker that the Petes vainly argued came in the crease.

Dugan got it back as the Petes pressed on a swell finish inside, shooting as he fell. Collins counted the last one in close on dandy work with Robinson and Earl Leonard.

Belleville—goal, Lefort; defence, Reeves and Bastedo; centre, Doran; wings, Wardhaugh and Jones; alternates, Goyer, MacDonald, Moher, Barrett, Day, Desjardines and Semark.

Petes—goal, Harding; defence, Wade and Peters; centre, West; wings, Dugan and Mason; alternates, Stewart, G. Leonard, Steele, Collins, Robinson, Floyd, E. Leonard and Jopling.

Referees—J. Crombie and A. Calhoun.

Sport in Brief

(By The Canadian Press)

New York's ancient, conflicting "blue laws" were scrapped today by the legislature in Albany yesterday—clearing the way for locally, approved Sunday stock car races and other sports and recreational events.

The senate passed the repealer bill without debate and sent it to Governor Thomas E. Dewey.

The measure would remove the Sunday ban against participation sports such as golf, tennis, fishing and hunting.

It would also give communities the power to permit spectator sports such as auto races and recreational events such as circuses.

The measure would not affect the provisions in the Sunday laws that permit baseball, football, hockey, bowling, basketball and movies after 2 p. m.

Edmonton Oil Kings last night entered the Western Canada junior hockey league final by walloping Lethbridge Native Sons 7-1 before 3,300 fans in Edmonton to take the best-of-five semi-final series three games to one. They now meet Regina Pats for the league title.

Jimmy Carter, world's lightweight champion knocked some of the steam out of Luther Rawling's championship aspirations last night by winning a split 10-round decision in a non-title bout in Chicago.

In Milan, Italy, Edmonton Mercurys, Canadian Olympic hockey champions, defeated the Milan Red-Black Devils 11-1 last night.

Wilmer Fields, who hits, fields and pitches a baseball with equal skill, will return to the Intercounty Baseball League this summer. Brantford Red Sox have announced that their star performer in the league last year has been signed and will report here about April 20.

Fields was reported a few weeks ago to have signed with Toronto Maple Leafs of the International League, but he said he had decided that by playing with Brantford, he would be a free agents. He plans to play ball in South America next winter again.

The New York state legislature voted yesterday in Albany to levy a 15-per-cent state tax on admission to the state's six harness tracks. The admissions levy now is collected only at flat tracks. Extension of the tax law to cover harness tracks is expected to net about $600,000 annually in extra state revenue. A total of 4,217, 450 persons attended harness tracks last year.

McGill University's top sports award, the Major Stuart Forbes Trophy, last night was awarded to starry football and basketball player Dave Caldwell of Manchester, Conn., Caldwell, fourth holder of the award, given to the player who best combines athletic ability and sportsmanship, is a member of the graduating class in medicine.

Cards' Chambers Thinks He'll Be Big Winner

By JOE REICHLER

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 13. (AP)—Cliff Chambers, the tall, talented lefthander of St. Louis Cardinals, thinks he will be a big winner this year because he finally has landed with a winning club.

Chambers, 30, has est a goal of 18 to 20 victories for himself, provided the club goes well.

The most he's won in one season up to now is the 14 he captured last year. Eleven of these came after the Cardinals obtained him from Pittsburgh last June.

"I won 42 games in two years on the coast," said Chambers. "And I see no reason why I can't win here. . . .I'm more experienced, more mature. I have a better curve ball, thanks to the teachings of Harry (The Cat) Brecheen."

"Brecheen gave me some sound philosophy on pitching. He said if you're not winning 20 games, you're just an ordinary run-of-the-mill pitcher. And if you've got any pride and ambition, you should do something different. I subscribe to that wholeheartedly."

Chambers regards his trade to the Cards as the biggest break he ever got.

"You know I had a little difficulty with Mr. Rickey (General Manager Branch Rickey) in Pittsburgh. But I'm very happy here. I'm satisfied with my contract. I told Mr. Saigh (Fred Saigh, St. Louis President) I was out to earn the money first before I asked for a better contract."

Chambers is one of the few active pitchers who has hurled a no-hitter in the majors. That was achieved last May 6 for Pittsburgh against Boston.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

Los Angeles, March 13 (AP)—There is restrained rejoicing in the camp of St. Louis Browns that Marty Martion, who was the "Mr. Shortstop" of great Cardinal teams, is getting around nimbly on his 34-year-old legs and meeting the ball hard in intra-squad games.

It isn't possible, of course, that one of the biggest favorites the Mound City ever saw can come back with the "new" Brownies and play with his old skill and pull a lot of customers through the gate. Such luck as that even Bill Veeck doesn't have. Or does he?

There mere thought of it is so entrancing that Marian's campmates are almost afraid to talk about it.

Not so with Marty, himself. He gives you the old Marion smile and tells you he's going to play 125 games. Before he's through you find it difficult to doubt him, though you know that he sat on the bench all last season with a ravaged knee as he tried his hand at managing the cards.

"The knee feels great," he says. "They cut it open and took pieces of cartilege. . .so far as I can tell it's as good as ever."

How about the old batting eye? He held up three long fingers and really grinned.

"That's all I got—two long singles and a triple against the boards. Maybe I can't keep up quite that pace but I'll be willing to settle for a good, sound .300. Slugger Marion, they call me."

Sugar Robinson Puts Title on Line Tonight Against Bobo Olson for $1.

San Francisco, March 13. (AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson puts his middleweight title on the line tonight against Carl (Bobo) Olson for $1.

It will be Robinson's first title defence and first fight since he regained his crown from Randy Turpin six months ago.

Both he and promoter William Kyne donated their shares, less $1 each, to the Damon Runyon Cancer Fund. However Sugar Ray drew $7,500 expenses.

Olson will get $9,000—$1,500 of it for the non-existent television rights. He was promised that sum before Kyne learned there would be no TV and no radio broadcast.

Though Robinson has boxed only 15 rounds in training for the three-times postponed contest, he will be a prohibitive favorite when the two step into the ring at 8:30 p.m. (11:30 E.S.T.)

Two years ago the two met in Philadelphia. Olson, 23, was flattened in the 12th round. This time the Honolulu slugger says it will be different. He contends he's been gaining experience while the 31-year-old champ is slipping.

Some 8,000 fans are expected to jam Civic auditorium, paying around $75,000.

Robinson is expected to weigh in at 157; Olson at 160.

Bruins, Rangers Tied Again; Blueshirts Drub Hawks 10-2 As Hergesheimer Scores Three

(By The Canadian Press)

Toronto Maple Leafs and Montreal Canadiens can knock each other's brains out to decide which is to meet—or avoid—Detroit Red Wings in the National Hockey League playoffs. But of topical interest is that last-stretch drive for fourth place, and a chunk of the playoff money.

It's a private duel between New York Rangers and Boston Bruins. The Blueshirts knocked Chicago Black Hawks silly last night to point-tie with the Bruins. The game, at Madison Square Garden, put Rangers one game up in games over the Beantowners but the games-played column will be squared tonight when Bruins take a crack at the hapless Hawks.

Chicago has won only 15 of its 63 games to date and the team, which held Canadiens to a 4-4 draw last Saturday, is about due to snap out of it and show hometown fans that, after all, it still is in the league. It has some dillies coming up, a weekend double-header again Detroit.

Close For Two

It was fairly-close game at New York last night for two periods with Rangers leading 3-1. Chicago got its second goal early in the third session but the New Yorkers roared back for seven more.

It was the highest goal output by one team in the N. H. L. this season and Rangers broke their own league record for the fastest four goals in one game—two minutes and 10 seconds. The old record was two minutes, 33 seconds, accomplished twice by Rangers in the 1941-42 season.

Wally Hergesheimer scored three goals—all in the big third period—to lead the scoring parade. Ed Slowinski netted twice and singles went to Herb Dickenson, Edgar Laprade, Don Raleigh, Reg Sinclair and Ed Kullman.

Bill Mosienko scored his 26th goal of the season for the Hawks late in the second period and Jimmy Peters beat Emile (The Cat) Francis on a passing play with Bill Gadsby and Jim McFadden in the third.

Flyers, Warriors Mohawks Win

(By The Canadian Press)

The top teams in the American Hockey League saw little action Wednesday night and there was no change in the standings of the leaders.

St. Louis Flyers downed Providence Reds 7-4, Syracuse Warriors outscored Pittsburgh Hornets 8-3 and Cincinnati Mohawks shaded Buffalo Bisons 8-7 in overtime.

Trenton Flyers Oust Glen Roys 7-4 Qualify for Trent Valley Finals

In one of the best Trent Valley Hockey League games played here this season, the Glen Roys bowed out of the loop picture last night when they went down to a 7-4 defeat before the Trenton RCAF Flyers. Some 700 fans, mostly Trenton, saw the tilt.

The victory was the third out of four starts for the Flyers in the best-of-five series. They now meet the winners of the northern and central sections of the loop. Marmora or Havelock, for the league championship.

The game was a rugged heavy-checking affair with both teams using the body with good effect. It was fairly clean with ten penalties being handed out by the officials, eight of them going to the Glens.

Penalties Costly

Actually penalties cost the Glens any chances they had of snatching victory out of defeat in the third period. They had reached to within one goal of the Flyers' score when Bone drew a minor and a misconduct followed closely with minors to Hurst and Mulvihill. The Glens played nearly four minutes in this heat minus two men, but hard checking held the Flyers to a single goal.

Flyers drew the scoring blood after seven minutes of play in the first period and Scott, their goal stood out with some sensational stops of Glen drives. With less than two minutes to go Pumple drew a Flyer penalty and the Glens swarmed in scoring two goals from Cousins and Williams in 50 seconds to take a 2-1 period lead.

Flyers took over in the second period scoring four goals from Beatch with two, Roberge and Parnall before Loveless cut the lead to 5-3 with five minutes to go.

Glens whittled the margin to a single goal early in the third period with Williams taking Mulvihill's pass and then came the penalties. Flyers slung home two goals from MacDonald and Pumple and held the desperate Glens off the scoresheet the rest of the game.

Mulvihill with a bandaged head and helmet played good hockey with Cousins and Williams also turning in good efforts. Plumley was outstanding. Williams scored two goals with an assist. Cousins got one and Loveless the other. Mulvihill was credited with two helpers.

Beatch was the big trigger-man for the Flyers with three goals and an assist. Parnall was very effective getting one and one Roberge, Pumple and MacDonald got the rest. Scott in goal turned in a fine performance thwarting Glen attacks consistently.

Teams:

Glen Roy—Goal, Plumley; defence, Yorke, Hurst; centre, Cousins; wings, B. Mulvihill, Williams. Subs—Goyer, Loveless, Hatfield, Jones, Bone, F. Mulvihill, DeRushie, Adams, Maracle.

O.H.A. Prexy Backs Kingston

A story from Peterborough tosses new light on the Eagles-Kingston Sacs senior 'B' hassle. The story speaks for itself. Here it is:

"Eagles are protesting the use of goalie Sammy MacDonald, who arrived from the Maritimes to play for Kingston in this series. The local club points out that Feb. 10 is the deadline for signing O.H.A. players, while the Kingston club claim is that MacDonald is a replacement for goalie Don Dougal, who was injured about the middle of January.

His place was taken from then on by goalie Anderson, who is still available to mind the Kingston net. However, MacDonald took over the job at the start of this series.

D. A. McGillis, president and sponsor of the Eagles club in the central Ontario grouping, talked by phone twice last night and once this morning with President Jack Roxborough of the OHA. Roxborough said he granted Kingston permission to use MacDonald as a goalie replacement and he would stand by his decision He admitted that he did not know exactly where MacDonald had played senior 'A', but insisted that he would be in goal for Kingston now and that Eagles must continue the series."

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Knowledge of rules helps you use better judgment. But it is not wise to guess what your partner has. Nor is it a good policy to let your partner guess what you have. Tell each other.

Suppose an opponent opens with a bid of one. If he has the honest requirements for such a bid, it is likely that he can take three tricks against you in that deal. It is generally so.

Thus, if a defender does not know his partner is strong, he must assume his pair lacks enough to make a game in a minor suit. And he may assume a game in a major is unlikely, too.

This is why it is so necessary for a defensive player to announce if he has a strong hand. He does so with a signal. Double is such a signal. It shows a hand as good as an opening one bid.

In answer thereto, if no bid intervenes, partner of doubler is forced to bid. And if such partner does not jump his reply, he does not promise strength. He says he is strong if he jumps.

If a bid intervenes how does he show strength? By any bid; and it is not necessary to jump. Because if he lacked strength he could have passed when opponent intervened with a bid.

Put these ideas together in answer to a takeout double. If no bid intervenes, replies without a jump promise no strength; with a jump show strength. If a bid intervenes, pass promises no strength; any bid shows strength.

South starts with an opening bid of one heart. West doubles for takeout. If north now passes, east bids one spade with this hand:

♠Q J 6 2
♥7 3
♦Q 6 2
♣9 5 4 2

Does east show strength? No. With no intervening bid he was forced to bid; even with nothing. So, he may have anything from nothing to a hand that is not really strong. With strength he would have jumped.

Partner is always saying: Give me strength.

Sheet Metals, Areas Qualify for Finals

Sheet Metals and Area G will meet in the finals for the championship of the Northern Electric Hockey League.

Area G. defeated Water Street 3-2 last night to win their semi-finals series two games to one while Sheet Metal took two straight from the Office team defeating them 7-3 in the second tussle.

Office held a three-two edge going into the third period but Sheet Metal rallied strongly in the third to score five goals and the series.

The Area G. Water Street game was a closer, affair. The Area scored the only goal in the first period from Jones but E. Barrett tied it up with the second period's lone marker.

Both sides scored in the third heat with Bradden and Locke turning the tricks, but Jones broke the deadlock and won the game for Areas with a goal at the 18-minute mark.

AT THE BELLE — William Holden is reunited with Nancy Olson in this tender scene from "Force of Arms," Warner Bros. dramatic woman's picture that every man will want to see, showing for the last times tonight with a Joe McDoakes comedy and cartoon.

"The Cimarron Kid" starts today at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, March 13—(AP)—Diana Lynn comes up with the unique notion that a girl doesn't have to bare her gams to get ahead in the movie-acting business. In fact, she argues that it's better not to.

This might throw the studio publicity minds into a turmoil. For years thy've been working on the theory that a starlet must do cheese-cake photos to make a name for herself.

'Nonsense," exploded Diana. "The facts prove othewise. A good number of the most successful dramatic actresses on the screen have never gone in for leg art. Take Marlene Deitrich. She has appeared in most of her screen roles well covered. And no one has been able to exude more sex on the screen than Deitrich."

No Cheese-Cake

She observed that most of the successful dramatic actresses on the screen get that way without aid of cheese-cake. The current academy award nomination appears to bear out her contention.

"Vivien Leigh, who was nominated for 'A Streetcar Named Desire,' has never fit the usual starlet pattern," she said. "But her role in 'Gone With the Wind' was one of the sexiest ever put on the screen.

"Katharine Hepburn played an old maid in 'The African Queen' and Jane Wyman became an old woman in 'The Blue Veil.' Neither has gone in for cheese-cake, nor has Eleanor Parker, who is up for 'Detective Story.'

Diana admitted that there is a place in the entertainment picture for the Esther Williamses and Betty Grables, whose physical attributes are a main attraction. She added that when servicemen request stars' pictures, it is wise to send something a little less than fully clothed.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars,

FOR FRIDAY, MARCH 14, 1952

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) —Be especially careful, patient in matters that ordinarily require forcefulness. Calm reasoning, understanding of others' problems will make this a good day.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) —If changes in plans or in the actual doing of tasks are necessary, be mindful not to go too far or wide. In expenditures, promises, commitments, take extra care. Push familiar routine.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Venturing in new fields, adding fresh responsibilities should be given very thoughtful consideration, and with a keen eye to future possibilities. Day asks intelligent management.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Take things with patience, good humor, you will need them in full measure this none-too-easy year, and especially so today. If you can, finish incompleted matters, let new tasks wait their turn.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo)—May not be able to go as far as you like in undertakings now, but if you hold to good counsel and accuracy you will reap more than you anticipate. Steady, conscientious effort urged.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)—Don't worry about being too sharp mentally, and take same precautions in unfamiliar ventures. Particularly a day for retrospect, rechecking to ascertain where, how much to improve.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—May not be easy day for many interests but how much you accomplish will greatly be up to you and how you manage. Take things quietly, without anxiety and you will do better than good.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Most matters familiar to you or for which you have training will probably move quicker, more efficiently than will other matters. But don't fear to try, ever. And have tact!

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Neither too helpful nor restricting influences; in your sector it will be wise to do everything most carefully, patiently, so as not to make needless errors. Be serene within.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Better not make unnecessary changes unless they will surely improve what you are doing, increase quality of output. Do complete unfinished tasks and ready things for next week.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Benefits for judicious effort, by you. Daily routine, occupational duties, household matters, children's activities most favored. Don't forget anything of importance.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Mild tendencies today going to very favorable rays tomorrow. Work. think with this in mind and prepare to achieve what you may not have thought you could.

YOU BORN TODAY are more talented than you realize. Artistic, capable of attaining the peak in your profession, trade, career. But perhaps you are too self-effacing at times and don't give your assets the promotion they deserve. Speak out, albeit modestly: let others know you are in the running. Keep studying, improving: success is not confined to youth alone. Many people have reached greatest achievement past middle age. Go forward always. Nobody Loves Forever

By Margaretta Brucker

Jessica didn't want that thin-lipped arrogant man with the cold light eyes to possess her mother's ring. She concealed her astonishment that he and Lucy's employer were the same. She debated whether to tell Lucy that she had seen Hugh Linton. But then if she discussed Hugh Linton with Lucy, she would have to divulge the possession of the money brought from the ring's sale; and for the present she determined to keep that money a secret.

Jessica debated ways and means of using the money from the sale of her ring to further her plan to take a business training.

But Lucy discouraged the job idea. "It will place an added burden upon mother," she hinted, "and she has quite enough to do already."

This was the Lucy Jessica disliked. The martyred Lucy who refused to have fun like other girls and constantly flaunted her rigid adherence to home obligations. Duty — Lucy was a slave to duty, her home and her work. The latter claimed more and more of her time and energy, until one evening in late September, when she dragged about the house completely exhausted, Jessica asked her "why are you such a complete idiot, Lucy? A man like Hugh Linton doesn't appreciate all this self-sacrifice in the line of duty."

"What do you know about Hugh Linton?"

Jessica wasn't too sure just how to explain. She said lamely "Doris works at the same plant. She's told me about him."

"Mr. Linton doesn't know that Doris exhists."

"Probably not, but that doesn't alter the fact that she has seen him and hears—"

"What does she hear?" demanded Lucy, her eyes flashing.

"How should I know, but I judge he might be the type—"

"What do you mean?"

Lucy's thin cheeks were flaming red with anger. She tossed aside the evening paper she had been reading and left the room.

What did I mean? puzzled Jessica. Exactly nothing. In fact she had fibbed when she mentioned Doris, for Doris had never spoken to her about Hugh Linton.

Now her curiosity was aroused, and the next time she saw Doris Jessica asked her. "Tell me something about Hugh Linton. What is he like?"

"Why do you want to know?" Doris stooped to stuff leaves deeper into the bushel basket she was filling. The scent of burning leaves was in the air.

"Because I'm curious." Jessica moved a swirl of leaves closer to Doris' basket with her shoe. "Because Lucy goes into hysterics whenever his name is mentioned. He must be a saint."

"Quite the contrary." said Doris dryly. She paused to dump the leaves from her basket on the heap outside the curb. When she returned she and Jessica sat on the steps and watched the pile of leaves go up in flames.

Jessica said "he has my ring — at least I'm quite certain Mr. Linton bought my mother's ring."

"Your mother's ring?"

Jessica explained. Doris shrugged. "Probably a present for some sweetie," she said briefly. "Let's go in, it's getting cold."

Jessica refused and went back across the street remembering that Lucy was alone working on a piece of needlepoint.

But Lucy left the house as she came in, explaining that she was worried about her mother. The bonfires might easily start a fire and her mother worried about fires.

Lucy stood shrugging into her coat. "No," she said "not if you understand mother. She always went to fires as far back as I can remember."

Jessica said "I can understand your mother's anxiety when your father was a fireman but why should she worry now?"

"You can't change mother," Lucy stated flatly as she left Jessica and hurried off down the smoke-fogged street.

It rained that night and the fallen leaves lay damp and sodden on the walks the next morning. Betsy escaped from the house and played outside for a half hour before Jessica discovered her absence. She caught a dreadful cold. Several terrifying days and nights followed for Jessica until the baby's fever broke and she was out of danger.

Then Betsy was up again and able to be bundled up in her new coat, and in spite of Mrs. Blake's dark forebodings that fresh air would bring a return of her illness, Jessica took her out one bright, unusually warm October afternoon and went to the park half way across the city.

The afternoon sun was as hot as August and Betsy ran up and down on the grass and squealed and laughed and looked more like herself than at any time since her illness.

Jessick whipped off her hat and felt the sun warm and welcome on her own face after the long weary days in a sickroom. There was a tang in the air, the stir of drifting leaves overhead. She watched the cars circle past in a constant stream. Then suddenly she straightened up and called sharply to Betsy who ran about a little distance away "come Betsy, we must go."

She was too late. The driver of the big red car moving along the drive slowed and halted; the car swung open and David Gregory leaped down and strode toward her.

"Jessica!" He seized her hands and held them tightly in his own firm hands. Betsy raced toward them, stopped, smiled, and said, "mans." David dropped Jessica's hands and lifted the baby and sat down beside Jessica with Betsy on his knees.

Jessica's heart raced. She had almost forgotten him—No, that was not true, she had kept the thought of David hidden, only to revive it now as her thoughts whirled and she felt tongue-tied and self conscious.

David's eyes studied Jessica over the baby's golden head. "Do you realize that it has been three months since I saw you? I called repeatedly. Don't you think you acted rather silly, Jessica?"

"No."

He persisted. "You wanted to see me, didn't you?"

She tried to deny that and could not. David set Betsy down and said "run along baby." His eyes were grave and for a little while he said nothing. They sat and watched Betsy dart about in the patches of sunlight.

Then he said thoughtfully, "It's the very devil to meet the one girl you've wanted to meet all your life and to find that she's married. I've tried to fool myself into believing that I'd forget you." He turned and smiled at her. "That didn't work. "Now I'm not letting you slip away again without telling you that I love you.".

Jessica spoke sharply. "Don't."

"Why not? Why not be honest about it?".

"You don't know me."

"I know enough to love you. I know that you're married to some guy overseas and you probably think me a heel to try to cut in."

"You couldn't."

"No," he said thoughtfully, "probably I couldn't."

He stood up and called to Betsy. He said "look, why can't we be friends, you and I and Betsy? This is a perfect day for a ride. I've got a thermos and we'll pick up coffee and sandwiches and drive out to the lakes. Ever been there?"

It was absurd to deny that she wanted to accept. The ride would be wonderful for Betsy. Maybe she would have a chance to set David right about Tom. Probably David spoke lightly of love and meant nothing more than a pretty compliment by his insistence that he had fallen in love with her. Tay was like that, she remembered. Tay loved lots of girls lightly, and quickly forgot them.

"You'll go, won't you?" asked David.

She nodded and picked up her hat from the bench beside her. David swung Betsy up to his shoulder and they went down a little slope to where the car stood on the drive.

I'll have one day she told herself rebelliously, as, remembering all the dreary days, she settled back against the soft red leather cushions with a sigh. One day away from Mrs. Blake and that dismal house. I'll have something bright and happy to remember later.

One day, with blue sky, with white, billowy, drifting clouds overhead, the trees scarlet and gold, and the distant hills deep purple. Betsy happy, snuggled down between them. David with his bright warm eyes and quick affectionate glance making her feel that she should have refused his invitation. Hills and lakes, stretches of cottages, and the car turning off and stopping suddenly. David lifting Betsy down, and then catching Jessica by her arms and holding her just an instant before releasing her.

Her heart racing now as she pretended a great interest in spreading out the robe and opening sandwiches and pouring coffee. Tying David's big white handkerchief under Betsy's dimpled chin for a bib.

Later, happy, sitting with the baby's heavy head on her lap as Betsy slept and David sat with his hands linked about his knees, looking off into the distance.

Peaceful, and yet not peaceful. Aware of a rising excitement in her breast as David got to his feet and stooped and lifted Betsy, settled her on the rug and drew the rug up over her. He turned and grasped Jessica's hand and pulled her to her feet. "Let's walk about a bit," he said. "Betsy will be all right, we can watch her."

This was wrong, all wrong, for David did not release her hand as they walked along to where they could look down and far away to the violet hills in the distance. To where a little lake shone like a chip from a mirror. To cattle grazing quietly in close cropped fields. Everything beautiful and still, so still. Only her heart beating wildly at David's nearness. Only her effort to remember Tom, failing. She wanted to cry, to laugh. She was happy.

For a little while David said nothing. Then he turned and spoke quite calmly. "Darling, I love you."

The hand which held hers tightened. One glimpse of his blue eyes and Jessica jerked her hand away and stood quivering all over, unable to speak. Finally she said "please don't say that again, David. There's another word much more important than love—loyalty. Then, suddenly she was telling him all about her meeting with Tom and their rash and hasty marriage, her bewilderment when Tom went away and she was left alone with strangers.

David moved impatiently. He picked up a stone at his feet and flung it down the little hill on which they stood.

"You made a mistake, Jessica. You took a silly schoolgirl infatuation for love. Love is something quite different. I want to teach you how different. I want—" He ended abruptly. He caught her by the arms and drew her toward him, closer and closer, with bright blue eyes intense and dark, probing her own.

"I want to kiss you, Jessica," said David softly. "Will you let me kiss you, darling?"

Gas, Heartburn, Headache ... So Bad Couldn't Sleep

"Had Stomach Trouble For Years," Says This Woman — Sour Acidity, Bloating, Nerves on Edge. Tells of Relief She Got by Taking Syntona.

So many people suffering from common disorders of the stomach, kidneys, liver and bowels have found relief by taking Syntona Herbal Compound that every person who is troubled similarly should try Syntona without delay. Results such as reported by Mrs. Eva Derbyshire, 35 Cooper Street, Hespeler, Ontario, are experienced by many who use this medicine.

have gas, awful heartburn,-and sour acidity after my meals. Gradually this kept getting worse until often at night the gas, stomach distress and heartburn were so bad I couldn't sleep. I felt sick and nauseated and became very nervous. I would get bad headaches, backache, pains in my joints and muscles and felt weak and worn out.

"I tried many different things without relief, but from the first bottle Syntona helped me. As I kept on taking this medicine the gas, heartburn and sour acidity cleared up, headaches went away and the pains in my back, limbs and joints disappeared. Now my nerves are calmed down, I sleep well and feel better than I did in many years. I give Syntona full credit for this and want to urge others who suffer this way to give this medicine a trial."

Syntona is sold and recommended in Belleville at DOLAN THE DRUGGIST. Find out how it can help you too.

THE ALL PURPOSE FLOUR
FIVE ROSES FLOUR

"Orchids to your wonderful Five Roses Flour and sour apples to myself for not having used it before — I probably wouldn't even be using it now if it wasn't due to the fact that my grocer, who incidentally calls here at the house, was out of the brand of pastry flour I always used.

"I was absent at the time, so he left the Five Roses with the stipulation I could change it on his next trip around. When I returned home I was quite provoked because I wanted to bake some individual meat pies for supper — I said, 'Oh, well, I'll have to use the flour but it won't be any good', but please accept my humblest apologies; my pastry was the nicest I have ever made, tender, flaky, beautifully brown. Everyone just simply drooled over the looks of it.

"Now, I can't understand why so many women are under the impression that Five Roses Flour is strictly a bread flour. For four years I worked in a grocery store and women just wouldn't purchase Five Roses for anything but bread making — could it be you don't stress the fact enough that it makes superior pastry to any so-called pastry flour. I love its fineness and another thing I noticed was how clean it leaves the baking board and rolling pin. No chunks of fatty dough to scrape off.

"Thanking you again for a wonderful product, I'll certainly recommend it to all my friends.

Yours truly,
(Signed) Della Knowles

Five Ships Blown off Course In Suez Canal by Desert Wind, Shipping Completely Paralysed

Ismailia, Egypt, March 14 — (Reuters) — Five ships ran aground in the Suez Canal this morning and shipping was completely paralyzed by a 50-mile-an-hour "khamseen"—hot desert wind—which blew ships off course and reduced visibility to a few yards.

Two tankers, the 17,000-ton Olympic Flame of Honduras registry and the 15,000-ton French Kirkou, were blown aground north of Ismailia. They blocked the channel. Canal company tugs were sent to pull off both vessels from sandbars.

Three other vessels were also reported to have been blown aground near Port Said.

Eight ships were anchored off Port Said at the Mediterranean end of the canal and Suez harbor, at the Red Sea end, was closed to shipping this morning.

All roads to the canal area were either completely or partially blocked by sand blown into mounds by the terrific winds.

Detective Given Bullet Removed From Man's Arm

Montreal, March 14. (CP)—The first bullet fired by police in the shooting of gunman Leonard Jackson Tuesday night—which was removed from Jackson's right arm yesterday—will be presented today to the detective who fired it.

Jackson was the second gunman cut down by police bullets in Montreal within a week. He and Steve Suchan, 24, were wanted in connection with the shooting of two Toronto policemen almost two weeks ago.

Toronto detective John Gillespie will receive the bullet from Capt. Romeo Lompre, second-in-command of the special squad now searching for the third member of the trio, Edwin Alonzo Boyd.

"It is only fair that the man who fired the first shot—and hit the target—gets the bullet," said Lompre. "He will have something to show his grandchildren."

Senator Forced Out

Ottawa, March 14 (CP) — A two-alarm fire raced through a rooming house in downtown Ottawa today, sending 20 persons to the street in near-zero temperature.

The blaze was extinguished after an hour-long fight, and there were no injuries. Damage is estimated at about $20,000.

Among those driven from the building were Senator Thomas Farguhar of Ontario. The 77-year-old senator, asleep in his second-floor apartment when the fire broke out, made his way to safety down a fire escape.

NAMED PRINCIPAL

Peterborough, March 14 (CP) — Dr. Eldon Ray, head of the history department of the Peterborough Collegiate and Vocational School, Thursday night was appointed principal of the new Kinner Collegiate to be opened in September.

The new collegiate, built at a cost of $650,000, is named after the late Dr. H. R. H. Kenner, principal of Peterborough Collegiate for 45 years.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, March 14 (CP) —Synopsis: Today dawned sunny throughout the entire province and present indications point to a bright and cheerful day for all forecast regions. Temperatures during the night dropped to below zero in many northern places, but remained close to 20 in southern sections.

Another storm is brewing in northern Texas, and will move rapidly east-northeastward bringing increasing cloudiness to southern Ontario and occasional light snowflurries to the Lake Erie region Saturday. As in the case of the last storm, the northern regions will again escape the main force of the storm. Temperatures throughout the province on Saturday are not expected to show much change.

Public Inquiry Is Requested By Commission

Peterborough, March 14. (CP) —Peterborough Police Commission has requested a public inquiry into the case of Fred Brant, 24, of Lindsay, who six weeks ago had part of both feet amputated because of frostbite.

Following a close meeting yesterday the commission asked council for an investigation.

Evidence disclosed that Brant was sentenced in January to 10 days in jail for vagrancy. While he was in jail, one of his toes was treated for frostbite.

Five days later he again appeared in town, was charged with vagrancy, and sentenced to five days in jail.

At that time it was found both his feet had been severely frozen. He was taken to hospital and since then all his toes and one inch of each foot beyond the toes had been amputated.

PEARSON'S FEUD WITH CCF MOVES INTO LIMELIGHT

Minister Denies NATO Dominated by Military

Ottawa, March 14 (CP) —A vigorous, developing feud between External Affairs Minister Pearson and the CCF party moved through another instalment in the Commons yesterday.

Mr. Pearson stepped into the Throne-Speech debate to deny CCF assertions that the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, of which he is chairman, is dominated by the military and is embarking on a defence program which will wreck the economies of western Europe.

His speech, with its complex background, took the spotlight from other addresses in the debate.

It was another chapter in a battle that harks back to a CCF council statement issued nearly two weeks ago which described military goals adopted at the recent NATO meeting in Lisbon as "irresponsible" and "disastrous" — irresponsible because they were impossible to achieve and disastrous because they could break the economies of free Europe.

This sequence of events developed from that statement:

Tuesday night, Mr. Pearson criticized the CCF statement in a political broadcast, carried over the CBC, accusing the CCF of giving comfort to Russia by "irresponsibly" advocating cut-backs in the rearmament targets.

It was "sad" the minister said in the broadcast, to see that the CCF seemed to be moving towards the communist view that the Atlantic alliance is an agressive coalition.

Canadian Real Estate Heiress Said Missing

New York, March 14 — (CP)—Mrs. Mavis Chaffey Ramus, described as a "Canadian real estate heiress," disappeared from her Greenwich Village apartment Monday night, police reported today.

A police search has been instituted for the woman at the request of her mother, Mrs. George Chaffey, of (26 Lake Shore Road) Montreal.

Mrs. Ramus, 32, was described as an heiress by Cholly Knickerbocker in a front-page story in the New York Journal-American.

Mrs. Ramus was said to have left her apartment Monday night for a dinner party and did not return.

Knickerbocker writes that Mrs. Chaffey, who came here to visit her daughter, is near collapse over the disappearance and is under a doctor's care.

He also quotes Mrs. Frank Patrick of Montreal, a close friend of the family, as saying:

"We're very fearful. Mavis was happy and gay when she left the apartment. She had no reason to disappear. She didn't even have a comb or a compact with her."

Mrs. Ramus is the former wife of a Montreal art dealer, Raymond Ramus. Her four-year-old son, Greg, is said to be with his father in Montreal.

REVUE BEING SUED

Baltimore, Md., March 14 (AP)—The Sonja Henie Ice Revue and others are being sued for a total of $4,218,000 as a result of a bleacher collapse at a show last Thursday.

Approximately 155 of the 275 persons reported injured have filed claims against the show.

Spokesman for the ice show said it carried $800,000 worth of insurance covering such mishaps.

Researcher Names Nationalities That Can Carry Their Liquor Well

London, March 14 — (AP) — A British researcher announced today Russians, Italians and Jews carry their liquor better than anybody else in the world — and the people who carry it worst are Americans, Swedes, Irishmen, Norwegians and Finns.

The findings were reported in the Lancet, a British medical magazine, by H. Puller Strecker, superintendent of a mental hospital at Isleworth.

"Not only individuals but whole nations or races have better heads for alcohol than others," he said. "At the top of the scale come the Irish . . . at the bottom comes the Jewish race, in which alcoholism is remarkably low.

"Next to the Jewish race come the Italians, who, despite a high national consumption of alcohol, have a low alcoholism rate."

Right next to the Italians he rated the Russians.

Strecker based his article on figures he said he obtained from the United States, showing the rate of pathological alcoholism among people of foreign extraction.

He placed Frenchmen and Englishmen in a middle group of people who have "a normal head for alcohol."

Rumor Says West Preparing To Serve Final Ultimatum On Communists in Korea

By ROBERT EUNSON

Tokyo, March 14. (AP)—Rumors are cropping up again that the Allies are getting ready to give the communists an "ultimatum".

"Bunk—completely ridiculous," says Brig.-Gen. William P. Nuckols, spokesman for the United Nations truce delegation.

Since the talks began last July, there have been half-a-dozen stalemates — hopeless-appearing deadlocks where neither side seemed able to take a backward step.

The current head-on collision at Panmunjom is over two major issues:

1. The reds want the Russians named as neutral observers to administer details of the armistice. The U.N. command delegates say no.

2. The U.N. command wants voluntary repatriation for all prisoners; that is don't send anyone back unless he wants to go. The reds want them all.

Meanwhile, 500,000 men on each side squat in foxholes along a restless front.

Even if the Allies were considering an ultimatum, what good would it do?

Need More Troops

The unqualified opinion of an officer in this command who knows as much about what is going on in Korea as anyone else, is that four more devisions are needed to drive the communists back to the Yalu River.

"The advantage we held in July is lost now, unless we build up our strength," he said.

The Allies still hold the upper hand in the air. But the Second Word War model B-29s making the run up to MIG alley every night aren't getting any younger.

Meanwhile, communist supplies in Korea are mounting. This week Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's headquarters announced it was certain most of these supplies were Soviet-made.

The reds have taken time to dig in so deeply and so well, there is no hope of smoking them out now without heavy casualties.

Military pressure, meaning more casualties, has to be applied before the communists will talk.

At least, this is the opinion of Vice-Admiral C. Turner Joy, chief U.N. delegate.

Possible Threats

But suppose the U.N. command gives the reds an ultimatum:

"Talk or else."

"Or else what?"

"Or else we'll bring over our B-36 Atom bombers and pulverize the cities in Manchuria and China."

"Or else we'll bring over our five divisions from Europe and throw them into the Korea battle line.

"Or else we'll blockade China with the Seventh Fleet.

"Or else we'll open up on U.S. production and mold every car, washing machine and plowshare in sight into a tank or a steel nosed shell."

That, in the opinion of men out here who should know, is the only kind of ultimatum that would do any good.

Excluding that, the only thing is patience.

Spy from Germany Loose In Ottawa During War Years

By DOUGLAS HOW
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, March 14 — (CP) — A playboy German spy lived among Canadians for half of the Second World War — mainly in this capital — and didn't come close to getting caught or even suspected despite numerous clues.

The R.C.M.P. say his bizarre story, which started one night in May, 1942, after a submarine landed him on a wild and desolate New Brunswick shoreline, is an example of what could happen if war came again.

He didn't get caught. He surrendered after his money ran out.

One reason he didn't get caught may be that he decided he wouldn't spy after all; that he would live on the $7,000 the Germans gave him, have a good time until it was exhausted and then give up. The money was spent Nov. 1, 1944. He surrendered to police the same day.

Name Withheld

Most but not all the details of his story were given for the first time yesterday by the R.C.M.P.'s anti-espionage special branch. Reporters queried them after a brief reference to the incident by Dan Riley (L--St. John-Albert) in a Commons speech.

The story still has its mysteries. Only a few Mounties know it all. They refuse to make the spy's real name public or to say why they won't. They also refuse to give such facts as the name of the Ottawa hotel and rooming house where he lived for more than two years. They do say he's now back in Germany.

To this day people who knew him in Ottawa under the fake name of Alfred Haskins probably have no idea who or what he really was because the Mounties have never talked to them.

He made friends here, went to night clubs, to restaurants and bars spent money freely and showed a personality which people quickly liked. He spoke fairly good English from having worked in Canada from 1928 to 1932.

Soon after he surrendered he led Mounties to the lonely N.B. shoreline near the village of St. Martin's where he had buried a two-way portable radio, capable of reaching Germany, after landing there in a rubber boat with three sailors from a U-boat.

Never Used Radio

The radio had never been used. It was in a suitcase wrapped in layer after waterproof layer and was in good shape.

In his 30 months in Canada, there were numerous reasons why some Canadian might have caught him. They never did. These are some of the clues they missed:

Twice, once in St. Martin's, once in Saint John, he passed large, old fashioned $2 bills of a type no longer used.

He was picked up by Montreal police one night in 1942 when they raided a brothel. He got away without any questions by paying a $50 deposit.

Had Plenty of Money

He was loaded with $7,000 in U.S. funds, mostly $50 bills, at a time when they should have excited some interest. He got them changed into Canadian currency by going to places such as brothels where no questions were asked.

He spoke broken English. He had no job but spent lots of money.

He had no credentials other than a fake national registration card made in Berlin from a card taken from an RCAF prisoner-of-war. It said his address was Yonge St., Toronto, and it wrongly spelled it Younge. He moved out of Ottawa Hotel when the owner began asking for his sugar-ration coupons.

Wife Denies Man Had Induced Her To Leave Husband

Toronto, March 14 (CP) —George Corscadden's estranged wife, Lillian, said in court yesterday that the pigeon-fancier had never kissed her on the mouth in nearly 30 years of married life because "he considered it unsanitary."

"My husband never had any affection for me. He never put his arms around me nor hugged me. When I asked him why he didn't he just passed it off as a joke," she told Mr. Justice Wilson and an assize court jury.

Mrs. Corscadden, mother of two grown children, denied that dairy president William Rice had induced her to leave her husband. She claimed her husband threw her out but that she would have left anyway, even if she had not known Mr. Rice.

Mr. Corscadden, a printer, has brought an alienation of affections suit against Mr. Rice. He charges the 63-year-old dairyman won his 50-year-old wife with presents.

Mrs. Corscadden also testified that her husband had been running around with two other women—one married with two children—prior to their first separation, Feb. 15, 1950. She said she returned May 28 of that year, but left him again in the middle of August.

The Corscadden's 24-year-old son Gordon, testified he was offered $5,000 if he would help persuade his mother to take a world cruise with Mr. Rice.

JUST PILL-SWALLOWERS

London, March 14 (Reuters) — Britain is a country of pill-swallowers, Dr. Mungo Hay said today in the British Medical Journal. He suggested that physicians should use dummy pills to satisfy the pill mania.

URGENT APPEALS MADE TO BOYD TO GIVE SELF UP

Fail to Bring Gunman from Hiding

Montreal, March 14. (CP)—Edwin Alonzo Boyd, the third man of a trio sought by police for the armed robbery of a Toronto bank, was still in hiding today despite two dramatic appeals last night asking him to surrender.

Ann Roberts Jackson, wife of Leonard Jackson, cut down by police bullets and captured Tuesday night, and Police Director J. Albert Langlois, both told Boyd to give himself up.

Boyd is believed by police to be the ringleader of the trio which staged a $24,000 armed robbery of a Toronto bank.

Steve Suchan and Leonard Jackson, the other two members of the trinity, are both in separate hospitals here, recovering from wounds after gun battle with police, in which they were captured. Suchan was taken following a police ambush in his plush Cote Des Neiges apartment last Friday, and Jackson was overcome by bullets and tear gas in a dingy basement apartment just five blocks from Suchan's hideout. Both are reported in "fair" condition.

Suchan and Jackson were sought by police in the attempted murders of two Toronto detectives, Sergeant of Detectives Edmund Tong and Det. Sgt. Roy Perry.

The appeals came after police spent the whole day and night tracking down rumors from citizenry who thought they saw the much-sought Boyd in one place or another.

Jackson's wife, who surrendered with him, sobbed throughout her message to Boyd.

"I don't want any more bloodshed," she said. "There may even be death this time."

Then choking back sobs she went on:

"The other two—both of them are, oh so badly shot up.

WANT WOMEN APPOINTED

Port Arthur, March 14 (CP)—The Lakehead Branch of the Canadian Association of Consumers wants at least one woman appointed to the next grand jury.

It approved a resolution introduced by Alderman Eunice Wishart of Port Arthur that "we as women request the sheriff or whoever else may be key man or men to see to it, that women, or at least a woman, be appointed a member of the new grand jury."

The resolution added: "As women are now entitled to sit on juries, they be not only permitted but expected to assume that added responsibility in 1952—not in 1962."

Canadian Scientists Try to Learn Cause of Hardening of Arteries

Ottawa, March 14 — (CP) — A team of Canadian scientists scattered across the Dominion is trying to find out the cause and treatment of hardening of the arteries.

The National Research Council's division of medical research reported today on the results of some of this work which was supported last year by 11 grants from the council.

The report said it is recognized that hardening of the arteries, known as arteriosclerosis in medical parlance, may be accompanied by a deposit of a substance called cholesterol on the walls of blood vessels.

Cholesterol is a fat-like, pearly substance found in all animal fats and oils, milk, yolk of eggs and many tissues. This substance can get into the walls of arteries through the blood stream or from the surrounding tissues. When it does, the coat of the artery is thickened which can be extremely painful.

Dr. John Hamilton, formerly of Queen's University and now professor of pathology at the University of Toronto, received a grant for his work on the effects of feeding cholesterol to animals whose blood vessels have been damaged previously.

Dr. Hamilton hopes to find out whether cholesterol is more likely to be deposited on healed persons than on the undamaged artery.

Another important piece of knowledge being sought is the effect of diet on cholesterol deposits. In this field, Dean Lyman Duff at McGill University showed that under-nourished rabbits don't resist the deposit of cholesterol in the arteries any more easily than the well-fed rabbit.

Dr. K. A. Evelyn, also of McGill, is doing work on the distribution of cholesterol in the normal and hardened arteries. Dr. C. McArthur of the University of Saskatchewan is studying the enzyme system which determines in what form cholesterol is laid down in the blood vessels.

The report said Dr. A. C. Burton of the University of Western Ontario at London, Ont., "has evidence that the blood of persons arteriosclerotic age group contains a substance like cholesterol which is thrown out of solution by contact of the blood plasma with water."

The synthesis and metabolism of cholesterol in the animal-body is being studied by Dr. E. W. McHenry at Toronto. The report said this "may throw great light on the problem of arteriosclerosis."

Surplus of Milk New Possibility Due to Disease

Last of Herds Known To Be Infected are Slaughtered

(By The Canadian Press)

New disruption of Canada's agriculture loomed with the announcement Thursday that 500,000,000 pounds of milk will be thrown on the Canadian market partly as a result of the outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease in southern Saskatchewan.

The National Dairy Council estimated that much milk would "back up" because of the United States embargoes on imports of livestock and dairy products. The livestock ban was put on as protection against spread of foot-and-mouth disease. Imports of dairy products are restricted under U.S. defence productions regulations.

The council said a contributing factor in the back-up would be the dairy cattle which normally would be sold in the U.S. They would remain in Canada and be milked.

Meanwhile, in Saskatchewan the last of the herds known to be infected with foot-and-mouth disease were slaughtered.

That left the long job, expected to take months, of ensuring that farms in the contaminated area were free of every trace of the virus of the disease.

Federal agricultural officials called for more veterinarians to help them in the task of cleaning out the farms. A squad of 43 are at work and 10 more will join them.

Embargoes Remain

The final slaughter of 39 cattle and some assorted farm stock took place on the farm of Leonard Waas of McLean, 30 miles from Regina. The Waas farm was where the disease first was suspected and his cattle were held until the final killings for special tests.

Less Milk Used

Toronto, March 14 — (CP) — Less whole milk was used for the production of creamery butter last year than in 1950, the Ontario Agriculture Department said today.

Altogether there was a decrease of 1.1 per cent in the amount used for butter, cheddar cheese, ice cream, concentrated whole milk products, and for fluid milk and cream sales, it said in its monthly dairy report.

However, the department said there was an increase of one half per cent during last December as compared with the same month in 1950.

Hamilton Board Is Blacklisted By Federation

Hamilton, March 14 (CP) —Dr. Harry Paikin, chairman of the Hamilton Board of Education, said last night the board has been blacklisted by the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation over a salary category dispute.

It is believed to be the first blacklisting of its kind in Ontario.

Dr. Paikin said schools would not be affected and there would be no walkout. The federation had banned high school teachers from applying for Hamilton jobs. The only effect, Dr. Paikin said, would be on applications for vacancies here.

The controversial category, said Dr. Paikin, is no. 4, in which elementary teachers with a Bachelor of Arts degree are considered for salary purposes as being identical with secondary school teachers with a B.A. degree who are not specialists. The salary schedule, after negotiation, was accepted by the elementary teachers, but not by the secondary teachers.

The board has not acceded to a demand by secondary teachers that they be not included with elementary teachers in negotiations, he said.

As a result negotiations have been discontinued and the matter turned over to their provincial organization, he said.

Douglas Reavley, treasurer of the Hamilton district of the federation declined to comment.

Riders Fall Off

Kitchener, March 14 — (CP)—How to win friends department:

The Kitchener bus system found it was going to have a deficit because the number of riders had fallen off.

So last night it decided to raise the fare from four tickets for 30 cents to three for 25 cents, effective March 31.

However, the system will reduce children's and students' fares to eight for 25 cents from eight for 30 cents.

It also plans to try to improve service by asking for a ban on rush hour parking on Main Street and by re-routing intercity buses off that busy thoroughfare.

A comparatively newcomer to Belleville and the Y's Men's Club the president-elect has taken an active interest in all of the club's activities and during the past year was an executive member and chairman of the social committee. A native of Toronto he received much of his early education in Montreal and later attended the University of Toronto, where he graduated from the School of Science as Chemical Engineer.

Joining the Bakelite Company, he was transferred to Belleville where he heads the moulding materials department. He has been active on the executive of the Sales and Advertising Club, as a member of the executive of the Belleville section of the Chemical Engineering Institute of Canada and the Engineering Institute of Canada. Y'sman Littlejohn is one of the recent benedicts of the club, being married last year.

Another new-comer to the club, Harold Bankier, was elected vice-president, Linton D. Read transfers from vice-president to secretary, and Robson F. Clarke was re-elected treasurer. Committee chairmen were elected as follows: Boys' work, A. Ross Booth; Projects, Archie E. Boyd; World Outlook, Ronald W. Cass; Program, Howard Coles; and Social, Willis G. Hutchinson. In the meantime the club is completing the project of renovation of the Y.M.C.A. auditorium and in the course of a few weeks the kitchen which is being completely renovated by the Ladies' Auxiliary, will be in service.

Future plans of the club include the annual Father and Son banquet for members of the Boys' Department will take place in April.

Curling Club To Request Dates At Memorial Arena

An enthusiastic number of curlers and prospective curlers gathered at the City Hall on Thursday evening to discuss the future of this popular pastime in the city. It was unanimously agreed that Belleville lagged far behind other centres of comparable size with respect to curling and that something should be done about it and that the objective should be a new curling rink in this city.

With that objective in mind, those present went on record as favoring a short period of curling at the end of the hockey season at the Memorial Arena in order that older curlers could again get their hand in at the game and prospective curlers could be introduced to this popular pastime. It was announced at the meeting that stones could be supplied and that help could be obtained in marking out the ice and start the club on its way. It was suggested that not more than three weeks would be required but that two weeks would do if no other arrangements could be made. Five sheets of ice can be placed on the arena ice surface.

With this in mind W. C. Gault was elected chairman of the club for the time being and Don McKinnon as secretary. It was decided to write the Arena Commission asking for dates and rental for the arena and if a satisfactory answer was received to proceed immediately with the plans. In the meantime an ad will be inserted requesting all prospective curlers to fill out a coupon as to their intentions of curling in the short season proposed. It was thought that a short season would create sufficient enthusiasm for the club to prepare plans, seek a site and proceed to construct a curling club in the city.

The next meeting will be held on Tuesday night and everyone, who has curled or would like to curl is asked to be present at the City Hall chambers, when a complete report will be presented as to the advancement of date and what further action will be taken.

Members of Energetic Club Guests of F.S. Follwell, M.P. In Tour of Ottawa, House

Guests of Frank Follwell, M.P., Hastings South, twenty-five members of the Energetic Club of Holloway Street Church ,enjoyed a tour of Ottawa, on Wednesday.

Travelling by automobile the party arrived at Ottawa at 9.30 where it was met by Mr. Follwell.

Following the morning tours of the National Museum and the mint, the party was entertained at a turkey dinner as the guests of the Member of Parliament.

They heard an address by Minister of Reconstruction the Hon. R. H. Winters, who spoke on the development of the Yukon. Introduced by Dr. F. Robertson, M.P., Northumberland, the minister heard Energetic Club appreciation voiced by the Rev. Oscar Wagar. The minister paid tribute to Mr. Follwell for his gesture in bringing the club to Ottawa.

Appreciation of the club for the excellent dinner was paid to Mr. Follwell by George Greatrix.

The afternoon program included a tour of the Parliament Buildings. The guests saw and heard the House of Commons in session with Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent presiding.

Visited Senate Chamber

Following a visit to the Peace Tower, the party visited the senate chamber where they saw the unveiling of a portrait of former Governor-General Viscount Alexander.

They listened to senate debates then visited Mr. Follwell's office, where they were presented with souvenirs of their visit. All members of the party expressed their appreciation of Mr. Follwell's hospitality.

Organization of the trip was under the jurisdiction of Mr. and Mrs. Archie McMillan. Energetic Club president, Carson Stratton was unable to go with the club.

Members who went on the trip included, Mrs. A. C. Stratton, Mrs. L. Forward, R. A. Wyatt, Mrs. T. Poste, Mr. and Mrs. A. McMillan, Mr. and Mrs. G. Stickle, Mr. and Mrs. G. Greatrix, Mr. and Mrs. J. Pearson, Mr. and Mrs. H. Regensburg, Mr. and Mrs. D. Bush, Mr. and Mrs. D. White, Mr. and Mrs. H. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. R. Dryden and Rev. and Mrs. Oscar Wagar.

P. W. Committee Recommends Enforcement of City By-Law

With the view of enforcing the city by-law calling for disconnection of all roof water drains going into sanitary sewers, city council will have an inspection made of all buildings in the city in the near future.

This was decided at Thursday's meeting of the public works committee when a recommendation was passed to have the city plumbing inspector make the check of all buildings.

Where the roof water is going into the sanitary sewer the owner is to be notified that unless the condition is remedied within 30 days action will be taken. The inspection will be done under the direction of the comptroller and the city engineer.

Council made its first move to have roof water eliminated from the sanitary sewer four years ago when a by-law was passed to this effect. At that time many householders took action to have roof drains disconnected and turned in to storm sewers, but it is felt there are still a considerable number buildings where this has not been done.

Committee members recommended the acceptance of a number of tenders for the supply of materials needed during the year.

To Report on Condition

At a fire committee meeting held Wednesday it was decided that a committee consisting of Alderman Duffy and Countryman with the city engineer be appointed to investigate and report on the general condition of No. 1 fire hall on Front Street. The committee decided against construction of a new fire hall this year and also turned down the northeast corner of MacDonald Avenue and Victoria Avenue, as a site for the fire hall.

The committee also turned down an amendment that if the fire hall was constructed it be built on the northeast corner of the Cochrane property with Newberry St., to be widened accordingly.

The finance committee meeting on Wednesday, recommended that council give consideration to setting the 1953 tax rate before the end of 1952 with budget approval by October 31st. A change from the current four installments of taxes to six installments was also recommended. The city solicitor will check the provincial statues as to the proper procedure to follow.

Fathers Model Latest Fashions At H. & S. Meeting

The big model agencies need look no further for this year's crop of "models." They can find them right in Belleville!

That this city had top-notch "models" was demonstrated at the Queen Mary-Prince Charles Home and School Club "Fathers' Night" Thursday night when ten fathers of the association membership staged a fashion show that, to say the least was a knockout.

All sorts of styles, both old and new, were "modelled" in a manner that smacked of professionalism and even added something to the style of the big town artists. Willis Jackson excelled himself as commentator, while Miss Helen Sulman was in charge of make-up and assisted with costumes.

The "models" included Fred Beeby, Wilfred Mills, Graydon Colwill, Harold Regensburg, Dr. Harold Craig, Douglas Flindall, Ray Post, C. I. Frederick and Bill Bateman.

In keeping with Educational Week, colored slides of Albert College, illustrating academic work, sports and athletics and social activities, architecture and landscaping about the college, were shown by Taylor Franklin. The purpose was to give club members an idea of the work inside one of Belleville's educational institutions.

The business session in charge of President Mrs. William Follwell was brief. Approval was given for the purchase of two silver cups for presentation following the next Prince Charles School field day. Instead of sending one delegate to attend the Ontario Federation of Home and School Clubs annual convention, five or six members will attend for a one-day session. In this way it was felt more of the club membership would be acquainted with the work of the federation.

Legion Notes From Stirling

The regular monthly meeting of the Stirling Branch of the Canadian Legion was held on Tuesday night with F. Houchin presiding.

The treasurer's report showed the finances in good condition. The following donations were authorized $5 to the Legion Scholarship Fund; $10 to the local Boy Scout troop and $10 to the Stirling Red Cross organization.

A report on the zone meeting, held in Wellington on Feb. 17th., was presented and accepted.

The activities of the Bantam Hockey Club sponsored by the Legion were heard and manager X. P. Mayhew was authorized to arrange some suitable recognition for the players during the past season.

A membership drive, currently being promoted by the Provincial Command, was discussed. It was decided to place the facilities of the Stirling branch at the disposal of all the veterans of the district with regard to service and comradeship together with an invitation to become a member. Initiation of new applicants will be held on Tuesday, April 8th.

Arrangements were made for the branch to play host to Tweed Legion on Tuesday, March 18th, and invitations have been sent to all branches in the zone. A big night and an excellent program with a large number in attendance is expected.

The high spot of the evening was the unanimous approval of the creating of two life memberships in the branch. Major S. Fraser and Charles W. Barnard were thusly recognized for their long and faithful service. Stirling branch is happy to honor them in this way.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, March 14 (CP) —Western oils climbed sharply to a record high on the exchange's index today in early afternoon stock market dealings. Other sections made little headway.

In western oils West Ashley was a standout as it added pennies in a turnover of more than 190,000 shares.

Gains ranged from pennies to the $1.50 jump of Federated Petroleum. Canadian Atlantic, Central-Leduc, General Petroleum A, National Petroleum, Security Free, United Oil and Western Leaseholds climbed strongly.

Miscellaneous issues posted a scattered list of fractional advances to form industrials' strongest sections. Banks edged upward but steels, papers, utilities, and retail stores eased.

Base metals were mixed as Barvue, Consolidated Smelters, Falconbridge, Opemiska, Quebec Copper and Yukeno strengthened while Chromium, Fenimore Iron, Golden Manitou and Sherritt-Gordon weakened.

Senior golds slipped. Hollinger, Teck Hughes and Wright-Hargreaves edged lower. Secondary issues showed a majority of moderate gains.

Cost of Cigarets To Servicemen $2.25 for 400

Ottawa, March 14 — (CP) Cost of Canadian cigarets to Canadian servicemen stationed in Europe is $2.25 for a carton of 400 and $4.50 for a carton of 800, when ordered through unit paymasters, the army announced today. Earlier this week army headquarters erroneously listed the price for 800 cigarets at $4.

Servicemen in Europe may order either amount through their paymaster and the cost is automatically deducted from their pay accounts. Parcels ordered shortly after the troops reached Europe started arriving last month, and plans are also being made for sale of Canadian cigarets in Navy, Army and Air Force canteens.

Soldiers in Korea may order cartons of 400 through unit paymasters at $2, and the same price applies to gift parcels of 400 ordered through the tobacco companies for servicemen in the far east. Cartons of 800 are not sent to Korea.

The difference in price between the two theatres is due to freight charges.

Mr. Carson M. Elliott, former fashion buyer for the Murphy Gamble Stores Ltd., Ottawa, has purchased the ladies ready-to-wear and accessories business formerly owned by the late Russ Wotten at 296 Front Street.

Mr. Elliott, 26, and unmarried comes to Belleville well equipped with experience for his first venture into business. For the past five years he was associated with the Murphy-Gamble Company, being in charge of the ladies ready-to-wear department.

He has had considerable experience in buying and is well acquainted with the New York, Montreal and Toronto markets.

Born in Berwick, Ont., Mr. Elliott is a former student of Albert College, having studied there for two years. He is interested in skiing, hockey and baseball.

Dr. R. T. Potter Talks On 'Civil Defence'

In his talk before the members of Christ Church AYPA, Dr. R. T. Potter, Civil Defence Coordinator, answered two questions: "What is Civil Defence?" and "Is there any need for Civil Defence in Canada?"

"Civil defence, as we know it," said Dr. Potter, is an organization of, by and for the people. The need for a Civil Defence organization in this country has been caused by the tremendous aeronautical advances that have been made. It is obvious that when a potential enemy is capable of bombing any portion of Canada or the U.S. and returning to home soil, there is a need for preparedness.

"Civil Defence is, actually, a way of making John Q Public less liable to a surprise attack and the resultant muddle, confusion and discomfort that was experienced by the people of the United Kingdom at the beginnnig of World War II."

To build an effective Civil Defence organization will mean, as the speaker phrased it, "elimination of that second night of bridge." It will require both the time and the efforts of each and every one of us. But out of this will come a better understanding of true democracy "which is the keenest weapon we can forge against the dragon in our back yard."

Phases of Attack

Dealing in specific detail with the six phases of the air attack on the U.K. the speaker showed where, at various times during the period 1935 to 1945, there were breathing spells during which the Civil Defence organization could be revised and strengthened. Since it is doubtful if simialr lulls would occur a second time, particularly a period such as the first 44 weeks after the outbreak of the war it is necessary to prepare now for the eventuality we hope will never come."

Recalling the "smozzle" last fall when Hydro facilities were temporarily disrupted, Dr. Potter brought home vividly the holocaust that results when vital public utilities are damaged. And, since much of the damage created by an air attack is of an incendiary nature, the most effective way of keeping damage to a minimum is by the training of Mr. and Mrs. John Q. Public and Junior, in the use of stirrup pumps. All the firemen and equipment in the world aren't sufficient to handle the blazes that spring up after an incendiary raid.

Can Happen Here

The most important fact from the point of view of people in this area, that Dr. Potter brought out was, that it can happen here. In April of 194? ten or 12 undefended cities, none of which could properly have been considered target areas, received the brunt of a concentrated air attack. "No one can actually foretell where raids will occur, pointing to the vital need for all around and nation wide preparedness."

As the speaker pointed out, this Civil defence organization with its trained wardens, canteen services, rehabilitation of people, housing and public services, quickly and under a planned system, would be of invaluable service in any emergency whether created by man or nature.

The remainder of the program was devoted to a preliminary rehearsal of the Minstrel Show slated for production late in April..

Refreshments were served.

A NOTABLE ACHIEVEMENT

Members of the Belleville Theatre Guild deserve to be ngratulated for winning the Fulford Shield, awarded r the best one-act play entered in the Eastern Ontario ama League festival at Peterborough a short time ago.

The triumph of the Belleville thespians is especially teworthy when it is taken into consideration that their oup was formed less than a year ago. The adjudicator, erre LeFevre, described their presentation of "The ice of the People," by Robertson Davies, as "a near pert presentation." There were five other entries in the mpetition. The Belleville troupe even won praise from author of the play, who attended the festival.

The members of the cast were Ted Schwab, Betty rrie, Miriam Bishop and Horace Ward-Whate. Syd se was director, assisted by Beryl Linnen. Joe Mackay s stage manager.

After having made so auspicious a beginning, the lleville Theatre Guild is likely to go on to new and eater triumphs.

HE SHOULD BE CURBED

Last week, Hon. Lester B. Pearson, Canada's minister external affairs, made a speech to the Canadian Society New York City. Mr. Pearson said: (1) Canada would ht Communist aggression not only in Korea but anyere else in Asia; (2) the Canadian government would prepared to consider the surrender of Formosa to the inese Communists once the war in Korea was dependy settled; (3) the Canadian government would not pport any move to overthrow the present Peiping regime China; (4) the Canadian government would not coner the admission of the Chinese Communist government into the United Nations so long as the war in Korea tinues.

It is conceded that the government, of which Mr. arson is a member, has the right to decide in what wars nada is going to participate, what regimes Canada is ng to recognize, and so on, but there is a proper place making such decisions. That proper place is the use of Commons, where not only the supporters of the vernment, but the members of the several opposition ups, would have an opportunity of having a word or to say. Certainly, announcements about what Canada going to do in this, that or the other contingency should first be made known in New York, or elsewhere abroad. es President Truman make important pronouncements United States foreign policy when he is perambulating ut in some foreign country? Do any of Mr. Truman's es make important committments involving the Amerigovernment in Canada before the American people w anything about what is coming? We do not think

Not long ago, while he was on one of his jaunts to rope, Mr. Pearson announced to the world how many dreds of millions Canada was going to spend on buildairfields and maintaining troops in Europe to defend ple in western Europe from people in eastern Europe. en questions were asked in the House of Commons ut Mr. Pearson's announcements and pronouncements, one there seemed to know much about who had authed him to commit Canada to the ambitious program had outlined.

Many people are beginning to believe that Mr. Pear talks too much, and that he does too much of his king when he is on his numerous excursions to foreign ntries. Prime Minister St. Laurent might be well ised to limit Mr. Pearson's trips abroad, as well as to some way to curb his tendency toward making sensaal declarations about what Canada is going to do t. Canada is not big enough to save the world from munism alone, even with the guidance of Mr. Pear; but Mr. Pearson, as a cabinet minister, is big enough get Canada into all kinds of difficulties with his illised utterances.

FOOD PRODUCTION

Production of food in Canada has actually been on decrease. For instance, in 1950 only 367,000 hogs a th moved through Canadian abattoirs, as compared h 731,000 a month in 1944. In 1945 cattle slaughters were 152,000 a month; in 1950 they were 107,000 a nth. Butter production showed a similar dismal record a seven-year period from 1943 to 1950, falling from ,000,000 pounds to 262,000,000 pounds. In 1947 Canada orted more than 50,000,000 dozen eggs in the shell and ther 12,000,000 dozen in powder. Last year Canada to import eggs from the United States and Holland to t domestic requirements. — (Moncton Transcript.)

20 YEARS AGO

March 14th., 1932

Mrs. S. C. Balis, who for many years was a teacher at the O. S. D. here, and who for the past four years has been residing in Hollywood, was able to render a great service to the famous actor George Arliss in the making of the greatest sound picture of the year, "The Man Who Played God". In this play Mr. Arliss takes the part of a great concert pianist who suddenly becomes deaf. In order to make the scenes in which he has to carry on conversation as a deaf man using the sign language and with the ability to read lips, Mr. Arliss had to secure a teacher and was fortunate to secure one of the most expert lip readers of the day in Mrs. Balis. With her assistance Mr. Arliss was able to make this odd role very realistic.

30 YEARS AGO

March 14th., 1922

A large get-together meeting of the girls of Belleville was held in the lecture room at the Y. M. C. A. Mrs. W. C. Mikel was in charge of the meeting and explained that the purpose of the meeting was to consider the forming of a corps of Girl Guides in Belleville. Mrs. M. E. Branscombe, former president of the Picton Girl Guides, gave an interesting outline of Girl Guide work. Those present were enthusiastic and it is certain that a Girl Guide Troop will be organized at the adjourned meeting which will be held on March 19th.

Roy Storey of Highland Grove, North Hastings, had the exciting experience of running down a fox and catching it with his hands as it was about to make a get-away through a fence. He exterminated the fox, the pelt of which is valued at about $30.

RELIGION AS AN EXTRA

The Bible constantly speaks of Christian teaching as the bread of life. What is your religion—bread or cake?

Because some people's religion very certainly is cake. It is an embellishment of life, something which enhances reputation, a luxury which could easily be dispensed with if the going got really hard. Cake is very sweet and pleasant to the taste, but even the most meager knowledge of dietary matters leads us to see that cake is not to be compared with bread as a staple food. We eat cake because we like it; we eat bread, along with meat and vegetables, as a part of the meal's main course.

Let us get out of our minds any notion that God sent his only begotten Son into the world to establish an exclusive society or to set up fashionable clubs in certain cities and communities. The coming of Jesus into the world was the result of the Divine determination to give men a chance to live better while here on earth and to attain to an eternal destiny after death. Religion is the bread of life because it builds up life, making it strong, healthy, and significant.

Churches are for the most part made up of pleasant, congenial folks, but the church very decidedly is not a club but a fellowship of persons bound together by a common belief and devotion.

THE DESTROYERS

"You Canadian women are suckers!"

So goes the trenchant opening line of an article in the current issue of Chatelaine magazine written by two anonymous American wives "who have lived in Canada long enough to know you, like you, and pity you." (Ooo, what long claws you have, my dears.)

Here, in words of one syllable, is the Great American Myth that the way to happiness for the female is in "equality" and that equality means getting Daddy to change the diapers while Mama takes a night school course in Diesel engineering.

Canadian women, the girls write, are "suckers" because they allow men to live in a masculine world, because they let their husbands feel that they have no responsibility for tending children, because they let men put them on a low rung of the intellectual and business ladders." (No mention of the high rung of romance.)

"We pity you," they write, "because you haven't decided whether you want to live in the atmosphere of Victorian England or America, 1952."

And since I hear no screams of protest from Canadian wives, herewith a scream from a Canadian husband.

Let us examine, first, the evidence of American wives en masses and see what we can find in the way of happiness.

We know, to begin with, that there's a mass frustration revealed in the popularity of soap operas, sappy love stories in women's magazines and what the trade sardonically calls "women's movies".

Romantically, then, Mrs. America gets her kicks on the open market and not in the home.

We know that America's divorce rate climbs each year on a staggering grade and that the marriage counsellor and slick psychiatrist are as much a part of the American scene as the drive-in restaurant.

Apart from the statistics of divorce we have the sordid statistics of Mr. Kinsey whose relevation of extra-marital activity by the American male hardly indicates that Mr. America is altogether blissful switching baby's nappies.

We have, too, the unhappy picture of the American husband whose wife denies him the right to be masculine and who consequently becomes the well-known American boy-man. Witness any Shriner's convention where poor Mr. America, so glad to be out of the reins, acts like a baboon released from its cage.

We have, too, a new peak (or a new low) in women's efforts to look feminine, in some instances to the point of a pathetic eroticism, as American women try to repair with foam rubber and latex what they are so quickly destroying by a state of mind.

We see American women becoming more mannish in thought and attitude and American men, by submitting, becoming more feminine, and the day is here when it is considered matrimonially desirable to be "good pals".

And in New York City a suave Italian refugee, obviously a man who never changed a diaper in his life, appears nightly on television pretending to make love to those matrons who have their "equality" and are starved for emotions.

The two American gals who write this article have given themselves away completely—and, in my opinion, unwittingly put their finger on the whole mess of American women today.

It is simply this: Things that women can do well—proudly and with deep satisfaction if they would—are no longer considered anything but boring or even degrading.

The most monumental and rewarding task in the world today, the running of a happy home, is nothing to these brash shrews. They call it with a sneer, being "a combination cook, maid and valet to a husband."

The classic and demanding job of being wife, mother and woman they pass off as "routine drudgeries."

Indeed it astonishes me that with this attitude there's been no mass report of glandular changes in the 48 states. For in renouncing the things they do well and striving for some nebulous state of equal rights, women become neuters in mentality.

They are, they cry piteously, "dominated by men," and so, in silly protest, they demand to be taken along on Mr. America's hunting trip or try to crash his stag night (where they will promptly introduce poker with the eights, nines and one-eyed jacks wild.)

It's no wonder that the American husband is a figure of fun on the outside and, on the inside, a furtive man trying to break away from his pal-wife. He doesn't want a pal, dear girls, he wants a woman.

The gals write proudly of American husbands who attend evening classes on the care and feeding of small children (not a bad idea considering how busy Mama is going to be trying to prove she's a better man than he.) In my opinion every graduate is a foolish poop who would be better off leading a Scout troop than going into matrimony.

A good man nowadays is hard to find, which accounts for our Italian friend's success, and I suggest that these American girls, for all their smug self-satisfaction in having created a Dagwood out of some poor sap, are wondering secretly if it isn't a hollow victory.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE POWER OF AN EDUCATED MIND

It is a mistaken idea that you have to go to college in order to be educated. You may become acquainted with a few rules there, and your mind may become stimulated to delve into ideas yet unborn, but people who never step into the halls of a school, or college, gain the same opportunity, and often in a much more valuable fashion.

I have a friend who is one of the vice-presidents of one of the most famous banks in the world. He has a fine literary mind, is a splendid writer, a fine conversationist, and one of the most interesting men to listen to I have among my friends. I was always curious about where he had been educated and one day asked him, "I never went to college," he said.

As a boy I worked for a farmer who was one of the best educated men I have ever known. He, too, never entered the front door of a college, and I doubt he ever had much experience in the smaller schools. But he had a wonderful mind, though clearly, wrote intelligently, contributing to the local press, time and again, and had published at least one book of good poetry that I have in my library and greatly prize, for it is full of beauty, understanding, and solid common sense of expression.

Life and Nature are the great Teachers. Thoreau was a graduate of Harvard University, but he rarely referred to it, and even tried to hide the fact! He observed, read the facts and truths in Nature and in people's faces, and left a diary that filled 14 volumes of his daily thoughts that covered scarcely more than twenty years, for he died at the early age of but forty-five. It's the college folks, as well as the common man, who read his Journals today. And he left a world of classic in his "Walden."

Education is a process and if it is rightly learned, it is as free to babes as stalwarts! At my summer island retreat in Nova Scotia, I once had a helper and caretaker, for whom I had great affection. He chewed tobacco and didn't have too many teeth left, but his mind was as fertile an an expert's garden. To this day I recall much of the wisdom that he left to me. The educated mind is the practical mind.

Personal Health Talks

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Signed Letters, Not More Than One Page, or 100 Words Long, Pertaining to Personal Health and Hygiene, Not to Disease, Diagnosis or Treatment, Will be Answered by Dr. Brady if a Stamped, Self-Addressed Envelope is Enclosed, Etc.

FOR ACHE, PAIN, CRAMP OR NEURALGIA

At the P-T meeting one evening the druggist held a kind of clinic—advising the ladies who flocked around him what remedies were best for this and that complaint.

The druggist was sincere in his assurance that the nostrums he sold were "harmless," for the poor man came to a premature end from acetanilid poisoning when he himself took repeated doses of one of the "harmless" nostrums he had so often sold his credulous customers, for headache and upset stomach which came on about supper time—before midnight the man was very purple (cyanotic) and dead. Next morning an old medical friend who had not seen the man for months or years saved the family embarrassment by certifying that death was due to heart failure—which was true enough, for the heart always fails in acetanilid poisoning.

More about acute and chronic acetanilid poisoning (habit) in booklet C V D (heart and artery troubles), for which send 25c and stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Except to dull sensation of ache or pain which one can't endure without the dope, acetanilid, the main ingredient of most nostrums which purport to be good for "colds," grip, neuralgia, headache, fatigue or what have you, has no emedial value and is more dangerous than aspirin as a pain-killer.

Some readers may recall my advice about the use of the least dangerous (it is never quite safe) pain-killer, aspirin: If you must take a dose of it you should lie down or sit at rest for not less than an hour afterward. If it is impossible to do so, you had better not take the dope at all. This applies only to the use of aspirin. As for acetanilid, under its proper name or disguised in any of the score of nostrums ignorant people swallow without even noticing the admission on the label that it contains acetanilid, my advice is: Never take it at all, unless under your physician's observation.

A medicinal dose of calcium injected into a vein relieves pain in inoperable cancer, and a medicinal dose injected into a vein is probably the best emergency relief for the excruciating pain of (1) black widow bite, (2) lead colic, (3) kidney stone colic, (4) gallstone colic.

In the pamphlet Why Have Headache?, available on written request properly signed (not a clipping) if you provide stamped, self-addressed envelope) I recommend high calcium diet and a daily ration of Ca and D to supplement the diet in both periodic sick headache (migraine) and recurring "nervous" or "neuralgia" headache.

Impressed by the prompt relief of various bellyaches, whether associated with stomach acidity or digestive disturbance or not, by chalk (calcium carbonate) discs, which are not unpleasant to chew or swallow, I have experimented on a good many curbstone clients—you know, the cadgers who try to save the price of a consultation by intercepting a doctor anywhere they can catch him and asking casually what he would suggest for this and that. Instead of suggesting that they consult a physician — which makes the beggars furious — I frown thoughtfully for a moment and come up with an excellent remedy—a calcium and D preparation of one kind or another.

So, in my capacity as bumbling old one-horse-and-buggy doctor turned quack in order to make an honest living, I conclude that calcium should be used for the relief of ache, pain, cramp or neuralgia in preference to aspirin, acetanilid or any of the numerous nostrums containing these drugs.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Blackheads and Pimples

I have taken shots, light treatments and surface medications for acne for years, but my skin still break out. . . (R. A.)

Answer—Send stamped, self-addressed envelope and ask for pamphlet on Acne. Do not use a clipping.

Dangerous Self-Treatment

How can we get penicillin tablets without going to a doctor? (F. A.)

Answer—I advise you not to use penicillin or sulfa drugs without your physician's supervision.

A Spote in Paradise

We live in a damp, cold valley in the Great Lakes basin and doctors advise us to move to California for my wife's health. She has a partial paralysis from polio, and a slight bronchial cough . . . (N. W.)

Answer—Change of climate is seldom as helpful as it is cracked up to be. Trouble is that most old fogies take along all their old obsessions against cold and damp—and in California most nights are cool or cold and damp. The main advantage is that you can spend more time out of doors.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

On the farm, when a few shingles blow off the roof, you do not telephone for a roofer to come and repair it. You climb up on the roof and put the shingles on yourself. When a pig is going to farrow, you do not call the vet. You go out and sit with the old lady and help her out. The tradition of the farm is self-contained. You do everything yourself. The whole economy of the farm is based upon the principle of allowing as few outsiders to lend you a hand as is possible. That is why our food is as cheap as it is. If farmers hollered for help, as city people do, whenever a tap needs fixing or a light socket comes loose, food would be as expensive as those luxuries which most city people are engaged in producing.

In feeling grateful to farmers for feeding us as generously and cheaply as they do, we must remember that in recent years farmers have had to become motor mechanics, electricians, accountants and many other things in addition to their former job of merely knowing about farming. The mechanization of farms, with tractors and other gas driven machinery, added just another burden on the farmer, who, in traditional fashion, cheerfully agreed to do all but the most complicated of his machinery maintenance and repair. When electricity was extended to the farm, bringing with it jobs he formerly had not contemplated, including, of course, keeping his new electric gadgets in repair.

And just about the time these new-fangled machines were being foisted on the farmers, the government decided that every farmer should be a book-keeper who had to do something more than keep his money under the mattress. He had to keep records.

In the cities and towns which the farmers keep alive with food, industry has adopted the five day week. Labor unions have established the security, safety and comfort of the workers. But out on the farm, when shingles blow off the roof, the farmer climbs up and fixes it himself. And when the pig farrows, the farmer can switch on an electric light in the barn. But he still has to go out and sit with her.

180 Service Clubs in Ontario Unite in Support of Crippled Children Work in Province

Miss Mildred Burnardo, staff nurse of the Ontario Society for Crippled Children, left, makes a home visit accompanied by a local public health nurse. A check is being made on the fitting of the patient's leg brace.

More than 180 service clubs in Ontario, united as supporters of the Ontario Society for Crippled Children, have 4,800 handicapped patients undergoing treatment, care or training at the present time, according to Reg Hopper, executive director of the society.

With the objective, if possible, of establishing victims of paralysis or congenital conditions such as harelip as self-supporting citizens, the society acts as an agency which brings together patients not receiving attention and business and professional men willing to help them. Through the service clubs, whose annual sale of Easter Seals contributes to the funds needed, hundreds of patients have been aided. This year's Easter Seal Campaign, with a $400,000 objective, opens today and continues until April 13.

With 16 nurses in districts throughout the province, co-operating with public health officials, teachers and physicians, serious cases are assembled at clinics to which prominent specialists volunteer their time. If hospitalization is recommended, the society arranges it. In less serious cases, the travelling nurses provide treatment or train mothers to administer it. All the nurses are graduates in public health and special orthopedic training, and are recognized as orthopedic consultants by the Ontario Department of Health.

At all-year schools and specially-staffed and equipped summer camps, children able to learn trades and crafts or physically able to enjoy vacations are taught how to make the best of their conditions and still enjoy life.

In addition nursing centres are operated as permanent establishments, three—at Kingston, Sault Ste. Marie and Kitchener—having been added to the services during 1951.

During the past year there has been a considerable extension of the society's work in the field of cerebral palsy. In addition to the direct aid it has furnished, it has co-operated with other organizations and co-ordinated their efforts. A new enterprise was a mobile clinic which visited many Ontario cities and towns last summer demonstrating improved methods of coping with the problems furnished by cerebral palsy.

Another activity of the society is Variety Village, Toronto, which it operates for the Variety Club. Variety Village provides vocational training for handicapped youths and helps them take a self-sustaining place in industry.

Resorts Report Heavy Bookings For Summertime

By E. S. JOHNSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, March 14. (CP)—British summer resorts, hard hit in recent years, are preparing for one of their busiest and most profitable seasons, following the government's imposition of a £25 maximum allowance restriction on tourists planning holidays abroad.

Since R. A. Butler, chancellor of the Exchequer, announced the cut as a major currency-saver, thousands of inquiries have poured into domestic booking agencies about accommodation prospects at seaside and inland pleasure resorts. Surveys show that people are giving consideration to their vacations much earlier than usual and with greater care and determination.

The restriction means that plans for extended, currency-consuming tours will have to be revised. Less time will be available to those who had been counting on a holiday "blowout" on the continent.

S. B. Till, president of the Brighton and Hove Hotel and Restaurant Association, said the reduction in foreign travel allowance came like the declaration of a dividend to Britain's many holiday centres.

There are also indications that London is in for a record influx of country visitors, bent on rediscovering the attractions of their own capital. Through the daily press they are being told to reflect on the diverse pleasures nearer home.

Representatives of the principal travel agencies say there has been no abnormal run of cancellations of continental bookings. Most of the seven and 10-day holiday tours, they report, will not be affected by the allowance cut. And many hotels in continental tourist centres have already announced their intention to cancel or reduce their peak-season supplementary charges.

D. MacKinnon Speaks On 'Delinquency'

At the regular meeting of Queen Alexandra Home and School Association held on Monday evening Mr. Don MacKinnon, probation officer of the Juvenile and Family Court, was the guest speaker.

Mr. MacKinnon who was introduced by Mr. William Hurst, outlined the manner in which a juvenile court is set up, and the manner of dealing with juvenile offenders.

Causes of Delinquency

He pointed out that the main causes of delinquency were lack of parental control, influence or interest, broken homes, lack of outside interests, poor reading habits and poor movies. The court also deals with domestic relations and family problems, and through this tries to prevent broken homes for the sake of the children.

Mr. MacKinnon also indicated that the court hopes to embark on a program to prevent delinquency, and asked for the co-operation of principals and teachers in this work.

The president, Mrs. Wallbridge expressed the thanks of the association to Mr. MacKinnon.

Members of the public school boys' band rendered three numbers, "Anchors Away," "A Song of Old Hawaii" and "Activity."

The room count was won by Miss Pitchford's class.

Announcement was made of the date of the annual convention being held in Toronto in April. Mrs. R. D. Boyce was nominated to convene the nominating committee.

Following the meeting refreshments were served by the mothers of Miss Pitchford's class, grade 1.

Mrs. J. McCluskie Gives 'First Aid' Talk

On Monday, the Women's Progressive Conservative Club met at the Kiwanis Centre with an unusually large attendance. The president, Mrs. M. Tugnett, presided and read a poem in tribute to the late King George VI.

Following the usual opening, business was discussed and letters of appreciation were read from Mrs. H. Rollins and Mrs. Kinnear, while a number of others present expressed their thanks for fruit and flowers received during illness.

The treasurer reported that all accounts had been paid. Mrs. Lee distributed membership cards, and several donations were received, thanks extended and current topics from Parliament Hill discussed.

Miss H. Sulman presided for Ketcheson ward, and an Irish reading and paper on St. Patrick were enjoyed.

First Aid

The speaker, Mrs. J. McCluskie, of St. John Ambulance Corps, was introduced to her audience, and gave a demonstration of the contents and use of her first aid kit, at the same time stressing the importance of cleaning and replenishing medicine cabinets; giving the proper use of antiseptics, bandages used in emergencies.

"Accidents," said the speaker, "often occur in crowds, but often in the quiet of our own homes," and because of the latter, these remedies should be of ready access.

Mrs. McCluskie's work is to train others in efficiency in this department of public service.

Mrs. Lee tendered thanks to Mrs. McCluskie for her interesting and helpful talk.

Two contests, thought-provoking, and the draw on the kitchen cannister set, donated by Mrs. Wills, were held, also the auction of a layer cake donated by Mrs. Denyes.

Appreciative thanks were extended to Ketcheson ward for the fine program presented, as well as for the beautifully served refreshments.

The ministry of teaching, preaching, and pastoral care is carried on in at least, 19 languages among these none-Anglo-Saxon people.

After the meeting was closed tea and sandwiches were served.

The Experts Say—

Thrift Campaign Can be Overdone Says Head Women's Institutes

By KAY REX
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

A Thrift Campaign says Mrs. Hugh Summers of Fonthill, Ont., is a "valuable instrument" to cut down the cost of living. But like all good things "it can be overdone."

Mrs. Summers is president of the 55-year-old Women's Institutes of Canada which speak for women in farming communities from coast to coast.

"Where consumers refuse to buy goods on the market, stocks pile up so that the manufacturing plants are forced to cut their staffs," Mrs. Summers told the Canadian Press. "Almost before we know it we are in a depression."

Careful buying and a home freezer are Mrs. Summers' weapons against high food costs. She finds a freezer particularly valuable on a farm.

"To me this means the ideal method for farm folk to provide their families with a fine variety of fresh food,' she said.

On the Summers farm the freezer is filled with pork, beef, lamb and chickens. Fruit is bought when it was plentiful and at its best. Both time and sugar are saved by freezing fruit instead of canning it.

Near Fishing Ports

Fonthill is a farming community in the Niagara Peninsula, not more than 30 miles from some of the chief fishing centres of Lake Erie. Mrs Summers has taken full advantage of this location. She recalled a day last fall when the family drove to the lake and bought 25 pounds of fresh pickerel. This immediately was cached in the freezer.

"We calculated our fish dinners cost us just one half what they would cost if we bought the fish in a store," she said.

A farm is one place where it's absolutely necessary to serve substantial, nutritious food. On the Summers farm everyone has meat at least twice daily—a practice which nowadays would be decidedly expensive except that the family has "followed the old ways of farm folk who raise and prepare meat on their own farms."

Farming families have an advantage over city persons in that they usually can get all the milk they want. Mrs. Summers uses a lot of milk in soups and puddings, particularly during the winter months.

Milk soups favored by the Summers family probably are similar to this Vegetable Chowder as recommended by the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

Ingredients: two cups scalded milk; two cups corn, canned or fresh; two cups diced celery; three-quarters cup sliced onion; three teaspoons salt; one-eighth teaspoon pepper; 2½ cups cold water; one-half diced green pepper; one cup tomatoes (canned or fresh); three tablespoons flour; one-quarter cup fat; one-half cup grated cheese; one- quarter teaspoon paprika.

For a pert and pretty costume we refer you to this redingote job in peppermint striped cotton. The red and white stripes are used horizontally on the bodice. The bloused top redingote has a slim midriff and is finished with red buttons and red button-like fringe edging the collar and cuffs. A red leather belt cinches the waist. A good resort number, perfect for town or country later, since these bright cottons are top favorites.

Mrs. R. W. Gage Gives Talk on 'Guests'

Favored with a bright March day, the Prince Edward-Belleville Club met on Wednesday at the Y.M.C.A. The president, Mrs. Lent, presided and extended a cordial welcome to the members and guests, numbering 32.

Thanks were expressed for cards received, after which Mrs. Osborne introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. R. W. Gage of the Salvation Army, who chose as the subject of her discourse, "Guests."

"We often entertain those of high office or those of lowly living," said Mrs. Gage, "we have the expected and the unexpected, the sad and despondent, the happy and contented; some are popular and most likeable, others unpopular and disliked by all. We should cultivate manners and deportment to please our host or hostess and be earnest in our 'thanks'. to them. Christ, we trust, is our ever-present and ever-welcome guest in our homes, in our places of entertainment, and in our very lives."

Thanks Tendered

Mrs. Lent on behalf of the club, thanked the speaker for her fine talk.

A reading, "Be a Willing Worker" was given by Mrs. Wannamaker, and a fine paper by Mrs. Thomas. Mrs. T. A. Tucker, also gave two excellent readings, all of which was greatly enjoyed, also an outstanding contest by Mrs. L. Burley with Mrs. Gage emerging as the winner.

An invitation to visit the Hastings County Home on the April meeting day was accepted and it was decided to charter a bus.

Two new members, Mrs. Armstrong and Mrs. Williams were received into the club.

Under the convenership of Mrs. Gorslire and Mrs. Robbins, refreshments were served by Mesdames R. Fox, F. Bedell, T. Sharp and H. Parks.

Fashion Flashes

APPEARING everywhere at resorts is the one-piece dress done on princess lines. It's slim of bodice, moderately full as to skirt, and has a scoop neck, short sleeves and all-over embroidery of braid. In some instances, there is extra embroidery and jeweled touches at the neckline and sleeves. A favorite fabric is linen, in beautiful colors.

NO MATTER whether the skirt be slim or full, the popular suit jacket is around 23 inches in length. Usually the jackets are nicely fitted to the natural body contours, but with the hips lightly padded for a rounded effect.

TABERNACLE W.M.S.

The March meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Tabernacle United Church was held in the church parlor on Tuesday with the president, Mrs. A. D. Archibald in the chair.

She spoke of the great loss the society has sustained in the tragic death of Mrs. W. Harrison and paid tribute to her faithful services as president and secretary through the years and the efficient manner in which she had carried out her duties. A prayer of thankfulness for her life and all she had meant to the society followed. As a further tribute, Mrs. F. Houston sang "Crossing the Bar" accompanied at the piano by Mrs. M. P. Duff.

The worship service and study book were in charge of Mrs. F. Lent. Mrs. Fisher read verses 14 to 21 from third chapter of ephesians.

The study book this year is based on the missionary work of the United Church in Canada and the chapter taken this month dealt with French Canadian evangelism. Mrs. Lent was assisted by Miss M. Johns, Mrs. Wm. Baird and Mrs. Fraser Paul in presenting the subject, emphasizing the larger part which the United Church is called upon to play through the medium of bilingual ministers and the radio.

A short business period followed in which Mrs. W. A. Campbell was appointed to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Mrs. Harrison which she has graciously accepted.

Mrs. Lent reported that over 30 calls had been made and Mrs. Fisher stressed the importance of stewardship of one's time, abilities and money in the work of the Master.

Meeting was closed by the president.

CANNIFTON W. M. S.

The Woman's Missionary Society held their March meeting in the Sunday School room with the president, Mrs. J. Williams in charge. Mrs. H. Empson presided at the piano.

During the business period, arrangements were made for the open meeting to be held on April 4th in the church, when Miss Louella Rorke, missionary from Japan, will be the guest speaker. All who are interested are cordially invited to attend.

The supply secretary, Mrs. W. Brenton, read an important article entitled "A Great Achievement", pointing out the initial cost of sending supplies overseas is 10 cents per pound.

Readings in regards Christian citizenship were given by Mrs. H. Farnham, bringing out the thought, "Love one another as I have loved you", for love will work more miracles than hate or enmity.

Temperance Paper

An instructive temperance paper "Industry and Liquor" was given by Mrs. C. Mills, assisted by a number of the women.

Two quotations were given — Right Honorable Winston Churchill said, years ago, "If you can succeed in reducing the enormous expenditure on strong drink, every trade in the country will benefit, more food will be bought and better kinds of food, more clothing will be bought, more education and better kind of education will be given the children.

The Right Honorable Philip Snowden, M.P., said: "The liquor traffic does not produce wealth, the more people there are employed in that trade the greater is the drain upon the national resources and the greater the drain upon every productive industry in the country."

The worship service followed, and the meeting closed.

SOCIAL SUPPER

Following games and music, the guests departed wishing Reta good luck i nher chosen profession. Reta has left to enter as a nurse-in-training at Prince Edward County Hospital, Picton.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

She'll be sorry if she marries a drinking man

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 20 years old and have been going with a man of 24. I love him very much and I know he loves me, but all he wants to do is drink, and he won't work. He says we'll be married as soon as he finds a job, but he always complains he can't find the right one. He will stop drinking for a week or so and then the following week, he starts all over again. I have left him a few times, but he comes back and tells me he will get a job and quit drinking, so I take him back because I am miserable without him, but it's always the same thing all over again.

Please tell me what to do.—R. I.

Dear R.I.:

I can tell you what to do, but I am by no means certain that you will do it.

Unless you don't care what kind of married life you let yourself in for, you had better drop this man immediately and for good. Until he shows some indication of realizing his own condition, and makes a real decision and determined effort to do something about it, it is highly unlikely that he will ever be any different. Do you want a lifetime of living with a man who comes home drunk more often than he arrives sober? And who has constant trouble about jobs?

I can't advise you too strongly to break this very unfortunate romance off as quickly as possible. I'm quite sure you will be a disillusioned and heartbroken girl if you don't.

They meant to get married, but boy friend's had a change of heart

Dear Miss Fairfax:

For nine months I have been going with a boy a year older than myself, and he has just told me that he has decided he doesn't want to go steady any more and wants to break up. I am 18.

We had planned to get married, but had intended to wait until he got out of service, because we thought that would give us time to find out if we really loved each other or not. Now he says he wants to go out with other girls to see if he really does love me, or if it is just an infatuation, even though he says at the same time he loves me very much.

What I would like to know is, would I be foolish to go back with him if he makes up his mind that he does want to marry me? My friends say I would be a fool to take him back after the way he has treated me, and that I should forget him. But he has had a lot of worries on his mind, and I think that a little time to himself would straighten him out on what he wants to do.—M. R.

Dear M.R.:

If you are really fond of this boy, pay no attention to what your friends say. Be independent enough to make your own decisions.

Personally, I think it would be very wise for both of you to go out with others for awhile, and not try to tie each other up until you are clearer in your own minds about your feelings. The point is, that I don't think you should just sit around and wait for your friend to make up his own mind. That would be a little silly. Just tell him you agree that it would be a good idea for him to take anyone out he likes, and for you also to have any friends you choose. If you accept this arrangement cheerfully and casually it should work out in a way that will be right for both of you in the end.

Readers' Friday Column

QUESTION:

. . . in the recipe for unbaked Fruit Cake several of us would like to try it using dates instead of figs. Would that be all right?

I have a recipe for Date Squares that I wondered if your readers might have wanted recently.

DATE SQUARES

(Contributed by Chris.)

One and three-quarters cups rolled oats, 1 1-2 cups flour, 1 cup brown sugar, 1 teaspoon each baking soda and salt, 3-4 cup melled butter or shortening. Mix in order given.

Boil together 3-4 lb. dates, 1 cup water, 1-2 cup granulated sugar. Spread half of the first mixture in greased pan. Cover with dates. Then cover with rest of flour mixture. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 20 minutes. This is also excellent made with rendered chicken fat.—Chris.

ANSWER:

Thank you Chris for Date Squares—also for the very acceptable idea of using chicken fat in them. Yes you may use dates instead of figs in the Unbaked Fruit Cake.

QUESTION:

Thank you very much for answering my letter in your column. I'm the gal who had been having all the cookie trouble. I have had grand success with the two recipes you printed and would appreciate having more . . . How do you keep cookies . . . They get eaten so quickly they hardly have time to cool—Alma Y.

ANSWER:

See recipe above for Date Squares Alma. Did you see the March 7th column which had a recipe for Champion Drop Cookies in it? If you are serious about storing them, pack them between layers of wax paper in air-tight tin box, after they are cold.

QUESTION:

About eighteen months ago you had a recipe for making Brandy Snaps, I cut out same and have made it several times. It is a real recipe and if instructions are followed make a perfect product. I have misplaced my copy and ask you to repeat.—G. H. B.

ANSWER:

George H. B.? I always get a special thrill when a man writes to me for a recipe. Glad you liked the

BRANDY SNAPS

I hope this is the same recipe you had. I have several of them.

One-half cup molasses, 1-2 cup butter, 1 cup flour (scant), 2-3 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon ginger. Heat molasses to boiling, add butter, then slowly stirring constantly, flour mixed and sifted with the sugar and ginger. Drop small portions from tip of spoon on buttered cookie sheet 2 inches apart. Bake at 300 deg. Fahr. Remove pan from oven and immediately roll each wafer over handle of wooden spoon. If wafers become too brittle to roll before you are finished slip them back in the oven to soften for a moment.

Another list of ingredients for them is: 1-4 cup butter, 1-2 cup powdered sugar, 1-4 cup milk, 7-8 cup bread flour, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla.

Or you may add 1 1-2 cups rolled oats to the first recipe.

QUESTION:

Will you please tell me why a dream cake will drop in the centre after taken out of the oven a short time.—A Steady Reader.

ANSWER:

The most obvious reason is that the cake is underbaked. But, Steady Reader, would you be kind enough to send me your recipe for Dream Cake and your oven time and temperature? Please send me the exact recipe, the kind of flour and baking powder used and if you sift the flour first. Then I can be of specific help to you.

Fashion Flashes

A CARRY-OVER into spring is the fabric stole, done, of course in lighter, airier fabrics and weaves. Shirred chiffon — shot with gold thread, and lined with chiffon in a contrasting color—makes a beautiful evening stole.

TO FINISH OFF the nicest dresses this season, one sees tiny spencer jackets or capelets. When worn, they make the dress still look like a dress, rather than a jacket and dress. Sheer navy wool is used for a princess dress with a striped taffeta bow at the neckline. With it is a little bosom-length spencer, lined and cuffed with striped taffeta.

SMART SEPARATES add to their versatility with a new group fashioned of supple capeskin and tweed. One suit has a jacket of pink capeskin, with insets of the pink-gray-navy tweed that is used for the skirt.

HERE TO STAY for a while is texture-surfaced cloth, well demonstrated in the fabric known as poodle cloth. It is dyed in lovely pastels or vibrant tones for spring, and, come next Autumn, the stores will be showing fur-trimmed poodle cloth coats.

GOOD MANNERS

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

What form of name is correct in return address on envelope?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please settle this question for my mother and me? Mother says that in the return address she writes on the back of an envelope, it is correct for her to "sign" her name as "Jane Smith Carroll" (as she would "sign" a letter), and then the address. I believe that she should write her name as "Mrs. John Carroll". About my name, too, we differ—she insisting that I should write it "Alice Carroll" in the return address on the envelope, while I think it should be "Miss Alice Carroll". Will you please tell us which is correct, and why?—Mother and Daughter.

You are right about the correct form for the name in a return address . . . the formal name should be used. That is, for your mother: Mrs. John Carroll; and for you, Miss Alice Carroll. And the why? . . . because this form of name is correct for "public information," as is the essential idea of the name in a return address. In other words, the name you write in a return address on an envelope is not a signature, but is the form of name that would be used in addressing a letter to you: the name prefixed with the title.

Address thank-you note to wife

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When I write my thank-you notes for wedding presents from a married couple, should I address the note to "Mr. and Mrs. ——", or to "Mrs."? —Bride-to-be

The best form is to address the envelope to "Mrs."—— and begin the note "Dear Mrs. Smith" or "Dear Dorothy". Then, in the first sentence, "How very kind of you and Mr. Smith (or 'your husband' or 'Bill') to send us such a beautiful wedding present."

The salt-and-pepper shakers mystery!

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Why is it, when one asks "Will you please pass the salt?" almost invariably the person asked also passes the pepper shaker?—Bob

I've wondered about the 'why' of this, too. And I realize that I do just this same thing. I suppose the reason really is that we think, sub-consciously perhaps, that if the person wants one of the pair passed, he or she probably wants the other passed, too, and so we pass it to save our neighbor the bother of asking for the pepper shaker. Perhaps it's the courteous inclination of pre-thinking a need!

Bride chooses flowers. . . groom pays for them

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

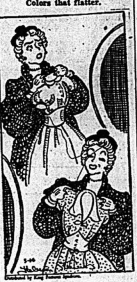
If, as you say, it is the groom-to-be who buys the bride's bouquet and the corsages for "the mothers", how is this done? That is, does he go to the florist and order these flowers—how would be know what to order?—"Hine".

It is the groom-to-be who pays for these flowers. . . but generally the bride and her mother go together to the florist to order the flowers. They are the ones who must plan what to order—that is, what flowers the bride wants to carry or wear, and what flowers and colors would be most suitable for the dresses that the mothers are to wear. But the flowers are "charged" to the groom, the bill sent to him by the florist!

BEAUTY

HELEN JAMIESON

Colors that flatter.



One should know which colors to avoid.

To be a well-dressed woman, it is important that one should know which colors to avoid and which ones are becoming. The effect of color on the complexion, the eyes, the hair and the figure should be noted. One should not be content merely to believe that blue is her beauty dish; she should know which shade of blue to select—true blue, green-blue, or smoky blue. There is a great difference among them. Some tones accent figure defects— like expanded waist lines and over-developed hips—while others shadow them. Something to think about. An interesting subject, too!

At the beginning of every season we hear that certain colors are fashionable. Forget them. Every autumn, the yodel goes forth that black will be popular. It will always be a favorite of the woman with flair and an air of distinction, and it is especially effective on the lovely young blond. But it makes the faded woman look years older, greying the complexion that has been touched by Time's meddlesome fingers. Many women find black so depressing that they never wear it. Trust your feelings. Colors have a psychological effect. A red hat or a pair of red shoes will boost morale every time.

Rich wine shades are flattering to women with clear skins and white hair. They impart life to the complexion that has lost bloom. If rouge is used, it must be faint and must harmonize with the color of the frock. The lipstick should match exactly. Considering the varied shades of lip coloring to be found, that will be easy.

Soft greens are lovely on redheads, who also can get away with jade. Steel greys are cold and forbidding; one wonders why any woman ever wears them. Some browns are without character, yet a deep, rich seal brown can be worn by any type —brunette, blond, redhead, or the lady whose hair has become frosted.

Dark blue is the safest of all colors, and it is going strong this season. No raiment is more satisfactory than a well-cut, tailored suit of navy. With it you can wear a blouse of any light shade. There will be little difficulty in choosing a friendly hat.

Charming printed fabrics are coming back again—mixtures of gay colors that harmonize. They have spirit and character when wisely chosen. In them a woman feels young and chipper.

When buying items for your wardrobe, be color-wise. Avoid frocks of drab tones. They'll be the orphans in your clothes closet—unworn, unloved, forgotten.

Women's Activities

ST. ANDREW'S W.M.S.

St. Andrew's W.M.S. met on Tuesday afternoon, with Mrs. Mantle in the chair. All are happy to announce quite a few new members and hope for more during the year.

Reports were given of a most successful tea held at the home of Mrs. J. Taylor, Charles Street, last Wednesday.

Miss McArthur is to speak here in April. Fifteen visits were reported and the missionary for whom prayer is made this month, is Miss Margaret McKenzie.

Mrs. Parsons took the chair for the devotional period and gave a fine poem, after which Mrs. Mantle read the Scripture.

Land of Beauty

The part chosen by Mrs. Parsons from the study book on South America was most interesting. Fancy a country of seven million square miles! A land of mountains and fertile valleys, and of great beauty. It has the largest rivers of any country. Before the white conquerors came it is thought the South American Indians were there possessing the land.

Many tribes were there speaking over 80 different languages, the most famous being the "Incas" who were the ruling class. They were unable to write but had a strange arrangement of knotted strings called "Ki-poo".

Thus a new country was begun. The countries of South America are now giving much to the world politically and culturally. Argentina, with only sixteen million inhabitants, is large enough to hold Greece, France, Germany, Austria and Hungary, Norway and Sweden, Italy, Turkey and Portugal. May each one be ready when the call comes to go out and help these neighbors.

A friendly half-hour was enjoyed over the cup of tea.

HOLD MENTAL CLINIC

Cobourg, March 14. (CP)—A monthly mental health clinic will be established by the Northumberland and Durham Counties' Health Unit. Psychiatrist will be Dr. S. G. Chalk, superintendent of the Ontario Hospital here.

Sunday School Lesson of the Week

Getting Life Into Focus

By ROY L. SMITH

The psychologists are familiar with that persons who has never been able to make a go of life for the simple reason that they have never been able to get life into focus.

They speak of "the integrated personality," by which they mean one which has assembled all his powers and abilities and dedicated them to one over-all purpose or objective.

Paul described his own success in this regard—at least he revealed its secret—when he said, "This one thing I do."

Disquieting Religion

John Wesley once said that some people have just enough religion to make them uncomfortable. They know the difference between right and wrong—they know the right, at least—but they do not have the moral fortitude to do the right.

Good religion has the effect of making a man uncomfortable about the evil in his life. After that he has to do something about it on his own behalf.

Any religion which does not make us uncomfortable about our faults and evil doing is not good religion.

Life Must Be Unified

Jesus once said that no man could serve two masters. The psychologists say that one cannot have two major desires conflicting with one another and have any peace of mind.

The beginning of inner peace and power is to be found in the unified life. Let any man's mind become divided into warring factions and the mental hospital is only a little farther down the road.

It is not just a question of theology. It is a question of life and living. A divided, segmented, disordered life is torture and torment.

There were those in the early Christian Church who believed that one had to conform to all the old liturgical and ceremonial laws of the Jews, if they were to find favor with God.

Paul's converts among the Gentiles were living magnificently, yet these legalists and ritualists were demanding that they conform to a certain legal pattern if they were to claim the name of Christ.

Paul undertook to put the whole case on the base of loyalty to Jesus, not conformity to ritual.

Just One Question

There is a disposition on the part of many today to insist that we must all pass a certain theological examination if we are to be accepted as fellow Christians. They go about demanding to know "Do you believe in this," or "Do you believe in that?".

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for March 9: "Paul, a Prisoner for Christ," Acts 20:-17-27; 22-39; II Corinthians 11:24-33; Philippians 3:4b-17.

They seldom ask, "What happened when you believed? Has any new and wonderful spirit been born in you? Are you easier to live with than you were before? Are you kinder, gentler, more considerate, and more forgiving?"

Jesus said, "By their fruits ye shall know them," but these people insist that one must be known by his opinions.

The early Christian Church asked just one question of those who came seeking membership, "Have ye received the Holy Spirit?" If they declared they had, then the church began examining to discover, if possible, the reasonable fruits.

Ask that question of yourself and you will soon bring your religious life into focus.

Goalie in Maiden Speech Says Young Players Being Exploited By Monied Interests in Sport

Toronto, March 14. (CP)—A well-known former goalie yesterday urged the Ontario Legislature to pass a law to protect amateur athletes from exploitation.

Art Child (PC—Wentworth), who has played on several Canadian championship teams, attacked hockey's C form and negotiation list. "Through the intricacies" of these devices, he said, once a player is involved, "he is in it as long as he can play hockey."

In his maiden speech, Mr. Child said young hockey players are being "exploited by the monied interests in sport."

He said some players were taken up by professional hockey clubs without their knowledge. A players' name would be listed by scouts of the National Hockey League and other league clubs agreed not to approach the player for a year, during which the scout could put "pressure" on the player to sign over his services to a pro team.

Nine members spoke in the Throne-Speech debate—five of them at a night sitting. Those speaking in the afternoon were G. C. Wardrope (PC—Port Arthur), Norris Whitney (PC—Prince Edward-Lennox), W. N. Nickle (PC—Kingston) and R. M. Myers (PC—Waterloo-South). E. L. Weaver (PC—Toronto St. David), P. T. Kelly (PC—Cochrane North), W. G. Beech (PC—York South) R. E. Elliott (PC—Hamilton East) and C. G. MacOdrum (PC—Leeds) spoke at night.

Mr. MacOdrum said he hoped Brockville Council and Chamber of Commerce would call a meeting of federal and provincial members in ridings between Kingston and Cornwall to discuss the proposed St. Lawrence Seaway.

Urges Broad Program

Mr. Wardrope, in his maiden speech, urged a broad program of government aid in developing the north.

Mr. Myers, noting a 20-per-cent increase in the peak of floods in recent years, asked provincial aid in flood-control dams in the lower valley of the Grand River.

Mr. Nickle drew applause when he urged that 1953 licence plates for automobiles, if issued, should have a crown on them. "Everything that is worthwhile is being cut down. Let every tourist know we stand by the Crown," he said.

He also criticized what he called an advertising campaign by trust companies to take over the drawing of wills and the administration of estates. Trust companies were sending out solicitors who were not members of the Law Society of Upper Canada.

A bill, introduced Wednesday, was approved in principle. It would permit an investigation into any hospital or other institution or organization receiving provincial grants. It is intended to pave the way for an immediate investigation of the East Windsor hospital at Windsor.

Government Bills introduced one to broaden the coverage of Workmen's Compensation benefits to citizens commandeered by police, to volunteer municipal firemen and to "learners" and apprentices.

Says He Hasn't Missing Millions

Andrew Robert Young, 46-year-old ex-convict, was arrested in Milwaukee in connection with a $1,500,000 burglary of a Reno, Nev., millionaire last month. The FBI gave out few details concerning the arrest. Young made no statement other than to deny that he had been in Reno at the time of the burglary, believed to be the biggest in history.—Central Press Canadian.

URGENT APPEALS

"I just wouldn't want any more more of that. Go to any police station and give yourself up."

Then, after a long pause, she said slowly:

"I've been treated well. These men (police) have been good to me. I'll be without Leonard for a long time. (Here she cried openly).

"Don't make it any worse for you and yours."

In his appeal, Director Langlois told Boyd to "surrender now!"

"This is a life-or-death message directed to Edwin Alonzo Boyd," said the director, who left a sick bed to make his appeal.

Director Langlois said that 2,000 men, all heavily-armed, are determined to bring Boyd to bay and let it be known there will be no quarter if he resists.

Langlois said:

"In the past two weeks, two policemen have been shot and seriously wounded in Toronto. One may never walk again.

"Friday night, one of your buddies, Steve Suchan, was shot down by my men. Tuesday night another of your pals, Leonard Jackson, was cut down after a half-hour gun-fight.

Only Matter of Time

"It is only a matter of time before you, too, are captured. It may be hours, it might be days, it may be months, but you will be brought in dead or alive.

"There has been too much blood shed already. Man to man I want to tell you: stop now, give yourself up before it's too late.

"Edwin Boyd, this is of the utmost importance to you. Listen carefully.

"At this point the only charges against you are armed robbery and jailbreak. You have everything to gain and nothing to lose by giving yourself up now.

"We don't want to kill or hurt you. But we are determined to bring you in.

"Surrender now."

FREE LODGINGS INCREASED

Sarnia, March 14. (CP)—"Free lodgings" at the expense of police were increased in 1951. Chief of Police S. C. Pratt in his report to the Sarnia Police Commission, said 490 persons were "overnight guests" in 1951 compared with 349 in 1950.

HAD TO SAW CUFFS

Timmins, March 14. (CP)— A red-faced lumber baron presented himself at the Timmins police station recently, helplessly bound in a set of old-fashioned handcuffs. To his distress he was informed the police keys would not free him. A locksmith had to be summoned to release him.

SURPLUS OF MILK

Meanwhile, the various international and interprovincial embargoes against livestock movement remained. British Columbia retained its ban on western movement of livestock and meat.

In Vancouver, Agriculture Minister Harry Bowman of B.C. said his province's ban will be kept at least until he gets back from a visit to Regina.

"I am making no prediction whatever until I get back from Regina," he said. "But I will say that I am not optimistic."

Manitoba still bans movement of livestock through that province except in sealed cars. Quebec has a permit system which keeps out meat and livestock until inspected by the provincial veterinarians.

However, in Ottawa there was indication that Canada may lift her ban on immigrants from countries known to have foot-and-mouth disease.

The Netherlands completed arrangements with Canada to ensure Dutch emigrants to Canada do not carry the disease. Immigration Minister Harris said Thursday discussions are under way with other countries to provide similar precautions.

Report to Metropolitan Policyholders for 1951

The importance of Life insurance and its relationship to the lives of the people of the United States and Canada cannot effectively be portrayed by figures in a balance sheet. Cold figures can never adequately show human needs and their fulfillment. It is important, therefore, to try to interpret these figures in terms of the millions of people they represent and the millions who benefit by the use of the services rendered by the Company and its Agents. The Metropolitan was serving 33,373,000 Life insurance policyholders at the close of the year.

The personal phases of Life insurance — for it is a highly personal business — are highlighted daily by dramatic instances. Sometimes they are so unusual as to give special emphasis to the part our business plays in the life of the United States and Canada. The following quotation from a letter from the son of a deceased policyholder, requesting the return of a policy on which claim had been paid, tells with simple sincerity a moving story of a Life insurance policy, of the son's relationship with his father, and of a sound process of economic and social education:

"This policy . . . has for me possibly a greater sentimental value than it would have cash value . . . For you to understand this, you would have to know the years of close relationship and confidence that existed between my father and me. When I was a small boy, he would take me with him to his safety deposit vault . . . Always he stressed to me the importance of his insurance policy, how this piece of paper would some day have a cash value that might tide the family over in an emergency . . . Time has passed . . . but the sentimental worth of this piece of paper is constant in my thinking . . . I have always been told that business, especially Big Business, is hard and cold and rigid, but I know that this is not so, because business is made up of people. People with hearts and souls and loved ones, and people who have lost loved ones, and some who possibly think and feel the same way that I do."

We were, of course, pleased to grant this unusual request.

The record sum of $924,000,000 was paid in benefits to policyholders and beneficiaries during 1951. This included payments of $141,000,000 on more than 1,250,000 claims (five times ten years ago) for Accident and Health and Disability benefits. A new high was also reached in Life insurance in force — $48,512,000,000, a gain of more than $3,000,000,000 over 1950.

More people than ever were protected last year by Metropolitan Accident and Health insurance. As the year closed, the Company had in force 3,270,000 policies or certificates providing weekly indemnity for disability of $86,000,000 per week. Hospital, Surgical or Medical Expense benefits were provided by 2,744,000 policies or certificates.

Another significant development during the year was the introduction of Extended Medical Coverage through Group insurance to protect people against abnormal hospital, surgical, and medical expense that might exhaust a family's entire savings.

METROPOLITAN OPERATIONS IN CANADA

These high lights of the Company's business in Canada during 1951, our 79th year in this country, will be of particular interest to Metropolitan's Canadian policyholders and their beneficiaries.

Payments to Policyholders and Beneficiaries

Metropolitan paid in 1951 to its Canadian policyholders and their beneficiaries $47,042,393 in death claims — matured policies — accident and health and disability benefits — dividends and other payments. Of this amount, 70% was paid to living policyholders.

The total amount the Metropolitan has paid to Canadians since it entered Canada in 1872, plus the amount now invested in Canada, exceeds the total premiums received from Canadians by more than $424,000,000.

Life Insurance in Force

In 1951, Canadians bought $233,659,426 of new Life insurance protection in the Metropolitan, and at the year's end the Company was serving 2,500,000 Life insurance policyholders in Canada insured for $2,658,301,557. Of this amount, 56% was Ordinary business, 28% was Industrial and 16% was Group.

Total Investments in Canada

Metropolitan investments in Canada amounted to $632,999,420 at the end of 1951. These investments are playing an important part in the economy of Canada with substantial totals of Federal, Provincial, and Municipal bonds and with sizeable totals in the obligations of steel and paper companies, the oil industry, railroads, electric light and power companies, and others.

Health and Welfare Work

Since 1909 Metropolitan has conducted a continuous health education campaign in Canada and during 1951 participated in numerous activities. More than 2,100,000 pamphlets on a variety of health and safety topics were distributed — monthly health advertisements appeared in national publications — "Good Hints for Good Health" was a daily feature on many radio stations.

Their Orders: "Shoot to Kill"

Little Benny's Note Book

We were eating supper, being breaded veel cutlets and stuff, and ma said, Oh deer, there's simply nuthing in the werld I injoy more than I do my own veel cutlets, and I must confess I never made them lighter or more delicious, oh dear.

The werds sound gay, but the melody seems a bit sad, pop said, and ma said, I shouldn't be eating anything breaded of any nature, that's what I meen. There's just litterly no use of my dieting if I'm going to make exceptions for myself as if I was a privilidged caracter. And I shouldn't of put any butter on my baked potato. I knew that before I put it on, but still I did it, she said.

Nuthing looks more pathetic and neglected than a baked potato without a little butter, pop said, and ma said, Even a little butter has at least 50 callories. And another thing, I should of made the salad dressing without mayonnaise, there's no use pretending I didn't know that a tablespoon full of mayonnaise contains 92 callories. And here I am eating a half a slice of bread, which is still another 32 callories. There's simply no excuse for me, she said.

Sure there is, I'll excuse you, pop said. Yee gods, if you're going to punish your conscience worrying over every bite you eat, you'd have a better time starving, he said, and ma said, Oh no, William, that's just where you're wrong. Worry causes more loss of weight than starvation, according to absilute statistics, so I just eat and worry and play one agenst the other, that's my sistem and I find it werks as well as any other, she said.

And she kept on eating and worrying, and me and pop just kept on eating.

'Climate' Magnet That Attracts Industry--Jackson

Toronto, March 14 (CP) —George J. Jackson, vice-president of sales and advertising, Ford of Canada, said last night that "climate" is the magnet that attracted industry.

"No matter what else you may have to offer . . . you cannot attract and hold that elusive thing called 'capital' unless you can provide it with a healthy climate in which to live," he said in an address prepared for delivery at the closing dinner of the third Ontario industrial promotion conference. His audience included mayors and reeves, industrial committees of municipal councils, and representatives of planning boards.

"Climate," Mr. Jackson said, includes several things:

A citizenry with respect for law, efficient and sincere civic administration; a co-operative attitude towards industry; municipal and provincial laws not 'loaded' against industry and a high degree of responsibility on the part of organized labor that disdains a reckless show of power, that is determined to live up to bargain made with employers.

"Buildings and facilities may serve as temporary restraints, but never as permanent bonds," he said. "If the climate in one place gets too unhealthy, capital may move to a more attractive place."

He told his audience that if they were endeavoring to attract new industries or to hold those they already have, they should test their climates.

NO CAUSE FOR ALARM

Sudbury, March 14. (CP)—Nearly 100 more wolves have been killed this winter in the Sudbury Forestry district. However, Charles Bibby, chief wildlife overseer, said yesterday there is no cause for alarm concerning their attacks on the deer in the area. He said 210 wolves have been trapped or shot since Sept. 1 compared with 112 animals during the same period last year. Two-thirds of those killed this year were small bush wolves, which do not attack deer.

PEARSON'S FEUD

Wednesday, M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, rose in the Commons to say that he "deeply" resented Mr. Pearson's "deliberate smears" and "slanders" against him and his party. As a life-long opponent of the red doctrine, he did not need to "defend myself against the charge of communism."

But it has become apparent, he said, "on this continent that constructive criticism demanded by the military leaders of NATO is invariably criticized as communist propaganda."

Even the Times of London and other responsible British journals had voiced editorial criticism of the NATO program.

Then, pointing to a NATO statement that Europe's defensive power is being "increased," he challenged Mr. Pearson's statement that the NATO goal — 50 divisions in being by the end of this year and 90 to 100 by the end of 1953 — represents a decrease, not an increase.

Makes Reply

Yesterday, Mr. Pearson replied. He denied that the military dominates NATO and said that Canada would not be among the 14-country membership, if that was so.

He denied, too, that he had accused either Mr. Coldwell or the C.C.F. of being communist or was attempting to prevent anyone from expressing an honest opinion. That assertion merely "throws a smoke screen around the real issue."

The "real danger," he suggested, is that the C.C.F. statement will play into the hands of communist propaganda.

NATO had known all along that a stage would come in its defence build-up when the danger from the Soviet "might appear to be slackening," when there would be a "very real temptation to let down our efforts." That temptation now might be "difficult to let down our efforts." That temptation now might be "difficult to resist" in this country as a result of the C.C.F. statement.

Defends Accuracy

As for the C.C.F.'s assertion that the N.A.T.O. targets are impossible, the governments represented at Lisbon did not agree that they were incapable of being reached, though they admitted it might be difficult to reach them and felt every effort should be made.

Mr. Pearson defended the accuracy of his statement that the targets were a decrease. They were down from the goals of last year, but he could not name the 1951 totals because they were still secret.

The military forces were being increased "but that is something very different from increasing our program."

Mr. Pearson warned that, though international tension has eased, N.A.T.O. will face "difficult" days ahead. If the defensive effort was slackened, "then indeed we will have something to worry about and this whole inspiring concept of a coalition for peace may come tumbling to the ground."

"If that happens, then very shortly we certainly will have gained the atmosphere of crisis and fear, almost of agony, from which I think we are slowly but steadily emerging."

The last word came from Alistair Stewart (CCF—Winnipeg North), who followed Mr. Pearson.

He suggested the western nations could not defend themselves by "smashing" the economies of Europe. The most important help that could be given to Europe was economic aid.

He said the C.C.F. was not withdrawing support of N.A.T.O., but did not want to see the alliance imperilled by policies which it believed to be wrong. It did not think western Europe could support a defence program of the size contemplated.

Many Take Part

A dozen speakers took part in the debate, which roamed over immigration, natural resources, redistribution of parliamentary seats and other topics.

Howard Green (PC-Vancouver-Quadra) and Trade Minister Howe clashed over a charge by Mr. Green that the minister favored sending Alberta oil and gas to the United States rather than to British Columbia.

Mr. Howe challenged him to prove the statement and termed it a "deliberate misstatement."

The clash came as Mr. Green called for a "Canada-first" policy in the development of natural resources and urged that secondary industries, with their managements, be brought from Britain and established near the sources of raw materials and food.

Hon. C. G. Power (L-Quebec South) urged the government to undertake a study immediately of new methods to redistribute parliamentary representation. Under a bill now before the House, Commons representation will be redistributed on the basis of the 1951 census.

Dr. Pierre F. Gauthier (L-Portneuf) said Quebec does not oppose immigration but, rather, favors selective immigration. He suggested Quebec set up immigration offices abroad to see that it gets the people it wants.

Model Shows How Atomic Machine Would Work

This model atomic energy machine, now touring Canada and the U.S., shows graphically how an atomic engine would work. Power for the operation is generated in the pile at the left. Heat flows from the power source to a transfer tank where steam is generated and then carried through steam lines to the turbines in the centre. Spent steam is condensed beneath the turbine on the right and returned to the original tank via the condensate pump. — Central Press Canadian.

Peterborough Eagles Suspended Following Default Of Game To Kingston

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

PETES HERE TONIGHT!

Protest or no protest, Peterborough will be here tonight to joust in the fourth game of the senior "B" semi-finals with the senior Hawks. Contrary to street rumors which had it the official protest lodged by the Hawks against Petes for the playing of alleged ineligible juniors had caused postponement, the game has been ordered played pending the outcome of investigation of the protests.

From the Peterborough line-up of Wednesday night's game, it would appear the Petes are talking the Hawks protest lightly. They again used Robinson, Stewart and Floyd, three members of the now defunct Peterborough Triple Links junior squad. Another strange name, Peters, also appeared on the roster as a defenceman.

The Hawks have their backs against the wall and will have to give out with all they've got if they are to pull this one out of the fire and extend the series.

THIS JUNIOR QUESTION!

By the time this is being read there may have been some order emerged from the present chaotic condition that exists at the moment in the junior "B" picture.

At the time of writing the managements of the junior Hawks and the Barrie team are at verbal loggerheads regarding the question of the next-round series between the clubs. It appears the Barrie master-minds insist on a home-and-home series while the Hawks mentors are holding out for a best three-of-five series. At time of writing there is the possibility of the question being tossed in the lap of the Ontario Hockey Association for a decision.

Even important questions of this nature are not without a touch of humor. The Barrie spokesman, via telephone, the large lump in his cheek not being tobacco, told the Hawks representative, "You have a strong team down there. You should beat us by 25 goals."

In the same breath, so to speak, the Barrie rep. stated they would not listen to anything but a home-and-home series, goals to count.

Meanwhile ten teams are left in the junior "B" struggle for the provincial title. In the Big Six St. Michael's Buzzers and the Weston Dukes square off tonight for the seventh and deciding game of their torrid series.

Up in western Ontario, Dundas and London start a four-of-seven series tomorrow night. Hamilton Aerovox and Niagara Falls played the sixth game of their best-of-seven series last night. We'll have that result later. Prior to the game Hamilton led Niagara 3-2.

Kitchener and Waterloo are in the throes of a series with Kitchener holding a 2-1 games lead. The fourth game is being played tonight.

Add Belleville Hawks and the Barrie team and that's it.

FOR THE CRIPPLED KIDDIES

The police and firemen with Shriner representatives have outlined a splendid program of entertainment as a dessert to the main dish of hockey between the teams of the blue and brass next Tuesday night.

As an appetizer to the police-firemen hockey game will be the peewee hockey match for the championship of the Peewee Division of the Belleville Hockey Association. The participating teams will be decided at the league playoffs being held tomorrow morning.

Following the game the Canadian Legion Trophy emblematic of city peewee supremacy will be presented to the winners by Legion president LeRoy Madden.

Then there will be the clever ice artistry of the stars of the Quinte Skating Club. These brilliant entertainers will appear between periods. Clowns in grotesque costume will cavort over the ice creating merriment for everybody.

Last but not least will be the fine drum and trumpet band of the RCAF, Trenton Station. The band is appearing through the kind permission of the commanding officer Group Captain G. P. Dunlop, AFC., C.D.

It is going to be an evening of fine entertainment with the piece de resistance the annual battle between the cops and the smoke-eaters.

Remember, your ticket purchase price will bring much-needed assistance to a crippled kiddie besides furnishing you with an evening's outstanding fun.

PEEWEES TOMORROW!

Tomorrow morning at Memorial Arena the peewees of the minor hockey division of the Belleville Hockey Association play their final games of the season. At 7.30 o'clock the Leafs meet the Red Wings and thirty minutes later the Bruins tangle with Canadiens. Hawks and Rangers will play the final game at 8.30.

The Ranger-Hawks game will decide a finalist to meet the Bruins in the sudden-death championship game being played on Tuesday night as a prelude to the Police-Fireman game. Rangers and Hawks are tied on the goals-to-count semi-finals so tomorrow's tilt between these teams should be a thriller.

DOTS 'N' FLASHES . . .

Hamilton ousted Niagara Falls 9-4 in that junior "B" tilt winning the series 4-2 . . . Tomorrow morning the Bruins and Rangers meet for the city bantam championship. It will be the only bantam game and will go three full periods starting at nine o'clock . . . No word at time of writing (early a.m.) regarding junior "B" Hawks playoff situation . . . Nor anything regarding the hearing of the senior Hawks protest over the Petes playing juniors . . . Seems to us something will have to be done about it pronto following tonight's game especially if the Petes win . . .

OHA President Awards Series To Sacs But Eagles Protest On Goalie To Be Heard Later

Peterborough Eagles have been automatically suspended by the Ontario Hockey Association, the result of failing to turn up in Kingston Wednesday night for the third games of their Senior B best-of-five semi-final series against Kingston Sacs.

OHA president, Jack Roxburgh declared last night from his Simcoe home that the series had been awarded to Kingston, with the matter to come up before the next OHA meeting early in April.

The Eagles were trailing the series 2-0, when their president and sponsor, D. A. McGillis, gave Roxburgh the ultimatum that his team would refuse to continue while the Sacs were using Sonny MacDonald in goal. The Kingston team obtained MacDonald from St. John, N. B., as a replacement for Don Dougall, injured early in the season.

Storm All Season

McGillis claimed last night that the storm had been brewing all season and mentioned a few other incidents which had fathered the explosion over the question of MacDonald's eligibility.

"We feel that Roxburgh should not have approved MacDonald until he heard all the details," McGillis declared. "We don't believe MacDonald is eligible, so we feel justified in refusing to continue the series."

McGillis added that when Dougall was injured, the Kingston team replaced him with Anderson and proceeded to move from fourth to second place.

"That apparently wasn't good enough for them so they went out and got MacDonald," he continued.

Of his approving MacDonald, Roxburgh said he had instructed OHA secretary Bill Hanley to query the Maritime Association for the classification of MacDonald and the St. John club for which he had been playing. Anderson, he was told, was the Kingston club's alternate netminder.

The reply was from Charles Campbell, Maritime Association secretary that MacDonald was a Senior B player and that his transfer was being approved.

"That ended it as far as I was concerned," said Roxburgh. "MacDonald was a legitimate replacement, since we had a doctor's certificate for Dougall."

McGillis hasn't made any friends in Kingston, but that fact isn't worrying him too much. "We feel we've been getting raw deals right along and we could only stand so much. The Kingston team offered us $300 when I phoned Wednesday morning, but it's the principle rather than the money that interests me," he said.

Protest to be Heard

Kingston, meanwhile, is seething. Mostly the annoyance is caused by the "last minute" call that the Eagles wouldn't be coming for the game that night. This was resented by the Community Memorial Centre management as well as the hockey club and Jim McCormick, arena manager, is considering appeal for redress of the financial loss.

The Sac management also feels that the Eagles weakened their case against MacDonald by failing to take action until after they had lost the first two games of the series.

In any event, whether or not the Eagle protest is acknowledged to be justified, there is nothing that can get them back into the series now.

"They settled it themselves when they didn't show up for that game in Kingston," Roxburgh commented. "Right or wrong, they're out now."

Hot Heavyweight Contender

Another top athlete who attended the charity dinner was Rocky Marciano, number 1 contender for the world heavyweight title. The 22-year-old boxer, who started out as a baseball catcher, is eager to chalk up knockout wins over Henry and Walcott. He already boasts an impressive record of 35 knockout wins in 39 pro fights, with no defeats. — Central Press Canadian.

Quakers Win Over Royals 3-1

(By The Canadian Press)

Saskatoon Quakers last night retained what slim hope they have of finishing first in the Pacific Coast Hockey League when they defeated the leading New Westminster Royals 3-1.

The win at home moved the second-place Quakers within eight points of New Westminster and put the Saskatoon club 11 points ahead of third-place Tacoma Rockets.

Playing coach Doug Bentley, Bob Manson and Carl Kaiser scored the Saskatoon goals while Amy Dufault counted the lone New Westminster marker.

Bears, Bisons Win in A. L.

(By The Canadian Press)

Hershey Bears, newly-crowned champions of the eastern division of the American Hockey League defeated St. Louis Flyers 7-5 last night.

The Bears scored four goals in the third period for the victory.

Norm Corcoran led the Hershey outburst with two goals. Frank Mario, Obie O'Brien, Sam Bettio, Andy Branigan and Joe Schertzel got the other Hershey goals.

Pat Lundy got a pair for St. Louis and Glen Sonmor, Don Morrison and Roy Kelly one each. For Kelly it was his 200th goal in the AHL.

At Buffalo, defenceman Stan Long scored the winning goal after 1:52 of overtime to give Buffalo Bisons a 4-3 victory over Indianapolis Capitals.

Robinson Wins Decision Over 'Bobo' Olson

San Francisco, March 14 (AP) — Middleweight champion Ray Robinson successfully started his series of monthly title fights by decisively defeating Carl (Bobo) Olson of Honolulu last night.

The tap-dancing master of the 160-pound division had to travel at top speed to score a 15-round decision over his younger rival.

He next defends against Rocky Graziano in Chicago April 16 and against Paddy Young in New York May 16 "if I still have the title."

Robinson, obviously tired after exchanging punches with the rugged 23-year-old Honolulu-born fighter, said he finished in good condition.

Proceeds went to the Damon Runyon Cancer Fund. Robinson contributed his purse, except $1.

He said it was "as tough a battle as I ever had."

Robinson weighed 157 1-2 pounds; Olson 159 1-2.

The champion was a prohibitive favorite, with odds of 1 to 10 quoted and apparently no takers.

But Olson exchanged punches willingly and forced the going from the seventh through the 10th rounds.

It was the 135th fight in Robinson's great ring career. He knocked out Olson in October, 1950, in 12 rounds at Philadelphia.

Robinson slipped and fell to one knee at the close of the 10th. It was not scored as a knockdown. Olson hit the champ with a low blow in the seventh but it was unintentional.

Robinson's fast finish, when he belted Olson with some stiff head punches, appeared to have Bobo slightly wobbly at the final bell.

Famous Sports Figures Reminisce At Sportswriters Celebrity Dinner

Toronto, March 14 (CP)—Little Timmy said thanks.

In a shaky but sincere small voice he expressed the gratitude of Ontario's crippled children to the sports world.

Some 3,000 of Ontario's crippled kids may be visited by a nurse once a week for a year, or as an alternative 225 of them may spend a week in a summer camp.

That is the result of the first annual Ontario Sportswriters and Sportscasters Association's celebrity dinner held last night. The $10,000 realized by the $25-a-plate affair was a salute from sports greats of North America to the youngsters who cannot help themselves.

The dinner—which featured beaver and venison—was the first gun in the Easter seals campaign of the Ontario Society for Crippled Children.

Little Timmy is a symbol of the society's unflagging fight to rehabilitate handicapped youngsters. This year he is 12-year-old Fred Atkinson of Woodstock, Ont.

Presented with Plaque

Marlene Stewart, the 18-year-old from Fonthill, Ont., was presented with a plaque as the unanimous choice of the Association as Ontario's outstanding athlete in 1951. The Canadian Women's Open Golf champion blushed her thanks.

Marlene and Bobbie Rosenfeld, voted Canada's outstanding woman athlete of the half century in a Canadian Press poll, were the only women at the predominantly stag affair which brought out 460 sports personalities.

Jim Thorpe, the Fox Indian who was voted the outstanding all-round athlete of the half century in the United States was at the head table along with Jack Dempsey of boxing fame and Lionel Conacher, Canada's outstanding athlete of the half century.

Three members of the National Hockey League all-star team—Bill Cook, King Clancw and Aurel Joliat—represented hockey along with Conn Smythe, Joe Malone and Newsy Lalonde, also noted in lacrosse circles.

Other world-famed sports figures attending the four-hour dinner were: Rocky Marciano, leading heavyweight boxing contender; Francis Ouimet, former American golf champion; Sandy Sommerville only Canadian ever to win both the United States amateur crown and six times Canadian golf champion; Pat Remillard and Clint Hodgins, representing the running and harness horse world and Bruce Cummings, of Ottawa Rough Riders, the Big Four's most valuable player award winner. All spoke briefly.

Two others—Frank Leahy, Notre Dame football coach, and Eddie Shore, coach of Springfield Indians of the American Hockey League and one-time bruising defenceman—sent their regrets. They were grounded by bad flying weather.

A veteran big-time baseball player and coach—George (Specs) Toporcer—told the dinner: "Don't feel sorry for me. I've had a wonderful life." Six months ago Specs, lost his sight.

Smythe, chairman of the finance committee of the Ontario Society for Crippled Children, expressed the thanks of his society for those who made the dinner a success.

Canadiens Trim Toronto 3-1, Get Firmer Grip on Second; Bruins Take Over Fourth Slot

(By The Canadian Press)

With all six National Hockey League clubs scheduled to make five more appearances before the season closes March 23, last night's two games failed to clear up the issue of just which four are going to get into the post-season Stanley Cup playoffs

Montreal Canadiens took a firmer grip on second place with a hard-fought 3-1 victory over the third-place Toronto Maple Leafs. The win at home moved the Habs five points out in front of the Leafs while Boston Bruins gained a 3-3 tie with the tail-end Chicago Black Hawks and took over fourth place from New York Rangers by a single point.

The Canadiens have yet to clinch the second spot. The desperate Leafs—trying to escape the fate of meeting the powerful N. H. L. champion Detroit Red Wings in the first round of cup play—could close the gap in a double weekend date against Rangers. In just the same way, Rangers could pass Boston who meet Canadiens twice.

Rollins Fanned

Montreal led Leafs 1-0 at the end of the first period and stretched it to 2-0 by the finish of the middle session. Two goals — one for each club—produced the 3-1 final.

Dick Gamble, Doug Harvey and Bernie Geoffrion were the Hab scorers while Sid Smith came through for the losers.

The surprise goal of the lot was a looping 95-footer by Harvey near the end of the second period. Harvey let fly from his own side of the red line, the puck landing about 10 feet in front of the Leaf goal, taking an upward bounce and looping in. Goalie Al Rollins, playing the shot casually, fanned on the final hop.

Both teams earned the half of the 18 penalties, but there was only one fight, George Armstrong and Paul Meger tangling in the first period. Meger ended up with a shiner from one of Armstrong's lefts while both players earned a major and a minor for their troubles.

At Chicago, it was Ed Sandford who saved the day for the Bruins, banging in the typing marker early in the final period after the Black Hawks had swept into a 3-2 lead in the middle heat.

Boston took an early 2-0 lead on goals by Dave Creighton. Gus Bodnar knotted the count with two tallies for the Hawks and Jim McFadden gave the home club their brief lead late in the second session.

City, District Basketball Teams In Tournament

By DON DOLAN

Early Saturday morning, three teams wearing the colors of the Belleville Collegiate Institute and Vocational School will journey to Toronto to compete in the 1952 Central Ontario Secondary Schools Association basketball playdowns. Representing B. C. I. this year are the senior girls team and the junior and senior boys teams.

The local entries will play the winners of the Lakeshore District in the tournament. Action will take place on two fronts, namely the Ontario College of Education for the girls, and Hart House gymnasium for the boys. First game for the girls will be at 4 p. m. and if they win, they will play in the finals at 8 p. m. Over at the Hart House the B. C. I. junior and senior boys are scheduled to play at one and three p. m. respectively with the finals being held at seven and eight p. m.

Prior to every big sporting event, people usually make predictions; so, here are our predictions about the local teams and our reasons for predicting in such a manner.

First of all let us look at the junior boys. This team won six straight victories and hung up an impressive scoring record this year in a league in which the opposition was quite poor. They have only three players, Gerald Goyer, Jack Mathews and Wayne Bovay who can be depended on to play well on the big floor in Toronto. The rest of the team are too young and inexperienced. If they have an "on" day, they could be troublesome.

Now the senior boys. This team had a tough time ending up in first place in their own league this year and so cannot be rated as strong contenders for the C. O. S. S. A. title. Lack of first class guards plus weak reserve strength is the reason for their mediocre record.

If anyone from BCI wins the championship this year, we think that it will be the girls team. In 10 games played they are undefeated and they have scored 427 points while holding the opposition to a mere 110. Also they claim a 34-20 decision over Kingston Collegiate in an exhibition game. They are very strong in all departments and they have depth. At the time of this writing, it is reported Diane Gourley one of the scoring aces, who hooped 114 points during regular play, has been stricken with pneumonia. If she is not in the lineup, the BCI squad will lose much of its scoring punch. However, we predict that even without Miss Gourley the senior girls will get by the first round and will be in action in the eight o'clock game.

(Ed. Note: Also playing in the tournament will be the Albert College senior boys who play Port Hope in the "B" tournament and Trenton H. S. junior boys who clash with Port Perry. Trenton junior girls meet Lindsay while the BCI senior lassies tangle with Port Perry in the opener. Beamsville meets Newmarket in the other senior game while Niagara Falls and Midland tangle in the other junior girls tilt. BCI senior boys meet Peterborough with Niagara Falls taking on Orillia. In the junior boys tourney BCI meets Peterborough and Trenton takes on Lindsay.)

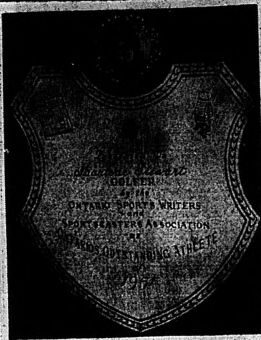
Pontiacs Tie Trenton Flyers

Bancroft, Ont. — Yanking the goal tender and playing six men forward for the final minute gave Trenton Flyers a six-six tie with Bancroft Pontiacs in an exhibition hockey game here on Wednesday night at 59.23 Turner scored to tie the contest after Cook, the RCAF net minder was retired.

During the game a flying puck struck Mrs. Lila Severin, wife of Ireton Severin former manager of the Bancroft team in the face. It momentarily stunned her and made a gash that required immediate medical attention. Luckily her glasses were not broken.

Bancroft goals were from N. Brough 3, E. Brough, Delyea and Green while Zinck with 3, Grant Cully and Turner scored for the Flyers.



Shield presented to Marlene Stewart, first winner of the Ontario Sports Writers and Sports Casters Association's athlete of the year award. The Fonthill golfer, holder of the Ontario Open and Canadian Open and Close championships, received the award at the Sports Celebrity Dinner at the Royal York Hotel Thursday which launched the Easter Seals campaign of the Ontario Society for Crippled Children.

Queen's Plate Rules Unchanged

Toronto, March 14 (CP)—Col. K. R. Marshall, president of the Ontario Jockey Club, yesterday announced that the Queen's Plate will be run at Woodbine race track this spring under O.J.C. conditions.

Word was received yesterday from the Keeper of the Privy Purse at Buckingham Palace that the Queen will be pleased to continue the donation of 50 guineas to the winner. The royal donation was first given by Queen Victoria in 1859.

The Queen's Plate, believed to be the oldest continuously run horse race on the continent, was run at Carlton for the first four years. The event was subsequently run at London, Hamilton, Guelph, St. Catharines, Whitby, Kingston, Ottawa, Barrie, Woodstock, Picton and Prescott.

Jap Woman Meets Hoppe

San Fransisco, March 14 —(AP)—Little Miss Masako Katsura, first woman ever admitted to a world three-cushion billiard championship tourney, meets Willie Hoppe, the perennial champ himself, tonight.

Miss Katsura tuned up for the biggest match of her life by upsetting Joe Procita of Los Angeles 50-43 in 63 innings last night.

Sport in Brief

(By The Canadian Press)

Sherry Koehnke, 17-year-old American junior table tennis champion was told yesterday in London she may play in frilly panties anytime she wants providing she shows up for the English Open championship in "regulation uniform."

Miss Koehnke, who has been waging a one-girl campaign to add glamor to table tennis, specializes in scanty, off-the-shoulder rhinestone-studded costumes.

Western University Mustangs eked out a 69-65 victory over McMaster University Marauders in Hamilton last night to clinch the Intercollegiate Senior Basketball League title for the seventh consecutive season.

Niilo Nitkonen, 33-year-old garage mechanic from Burns Lake, B.C., captured cross-country honors in the Canadian skiing championships on North Vancouver's Grouse Mountain yesterday. The Finnish skiing ace beat a highly favored countryman Olavi Haukioja from Sudbury with a time of 59.27 over the 11-mile course.

Haukioja, 26-year-old three-time Finnish junior cross-country skiing champ, tied with Clarence Servold of Camrose, Ala., in 62.13.

The New York State Assembly voted yesterday in Albany to give chairman Bob Christenberry unprecedented control over fighters and managers and power to purge boxing of racketeers and shady characters. The legislation was requested by Christenberry, chairman of the State Athletic Commission, who has vowed to drive the "criminal scum" from boxing or ask that the sport be outlawed.

Weston's Victors Over Trudeau's

Weston's Bread won the first game of the best-of-three finals series of the Owl League last night defeating Trudeau's by a 6-1 score. Date of the second game will be announced later.

Jackson again led Weston's to victory scoring five of the teams six counters. Fitzgibbon notched the other.

Bovay scored Trudeau's lone goal in the last period.

Weston's led at the end of the first heat by a 3-0 score and added a trio in the second.

Bovay, Cameron, Duesberry and Garvin were the best for the garagemen with Jackson, Fitzgibbon, Foster and Hamilton standing out for Weston's.

Finalists Named In Juvenile Midget Leagues

Canadian Tire defeated the Big "A" 5-2 and Quinte Battery edged Moose Lodge 3-1 in the midget semis.

Bovay Gets Four

It was all Bovay and Goyer in the Glens victory, the former scorin gfour goals with two assists and Goyer scoring one and getting five helpers. Williams scored a pair and Bellinger added the other.

Canning got a goal and an assist as did Stolliker for the Cleaners with Spencer getting the odd goal.

Brant with three goals paced the Belleville Lock to their overtime victory over the Police Department, scoring the winner-time after the "coplets" had tied the score to force the game into extra time. Hughes and Fox got the others with Athens, Kvarda and Barber getting assists.

Calbury came up with a fine performance for Canadian Tire in their 4-2 win over Big "A" firing home four goals with Kelly getting the other. McKay, Grant, Day, Cole and Thomas drew assists. Buskard and Vesterfelt with the latter getting an assist were the scorers for the losers.

Black, Yull and White scored for Quinte Battery in their 3-1 defeat of Moose with Parks taking Nobes' assist to score the lodge boys' lone marker.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Whenever bridge is not so hot and bids are very slack, you always find a stewing pot who calls the kettle black.

There is a tendency to pin all the blame on partner. Usually the trouble is much deeper than the one deal involved. It comes from a lack of good bidding and playing foundations.

The north player sent me the deal you see here:

NORTH
♠K 9 6
♥9 6 3 2
♦A J 9
♣7 5 3

WEST
♠10 8 4 3
♦Q 10 7 4 2
♣A K 6

EAST
♠A Q J 2
♥Q 10 8 7 4
♦8 5

SOUTH
♠7 5
♥A K J
♦K 6 3
♣Q J 10 9 4

He tells me the bidding went like this:

South	West	North	East
1 C	1 D	1 H	1 S
2 H	2 S	3 C	3 S
Pass	Pass	Dbl

Against the doubled three spade bid, south led heart ace and then switched to club nine. The contract was made with overtricks. And north is very peeved about it.

North says he has strength in both suits bid by opponents. His partner showed strength in the other two suits, he claims. This was his excuse for the penalty double. He wants my approval.

It is always easier to believe the other fellow is wrong. So, north takes it for granted that the fault lies with someone else; not him. Whereas, it was he who did most of the wrong.

The second round bids by south and west and north were wrong. South did not have enough tricks for a raise, even though he had heart support. West did not have enough tricks for a raise, even though he had spade support. North was far over his head.

Before discussion of this deal ends I will give you the dope on why these bids were wrong. But the first bids by south and west were sound. Can the same be said of the north response of one heart? Not by anybody who can prove it.

Business Girls, Nurses Win Y. Basketball

The luckless Northern Electric teams suffered double defeat in the Y. M. C. A. Ladies Basketball League on Wednesday night. The "Y" Business Girls won over the Northern A. team, by a score of 33 to 7, while Nurses took the Northern B team to the tune of 37 to 16.

Marie Marinoff was the high scorer for Business Girls with 13 points, followed by Margaret Cousins with 9 points, Shirley Culkin, Dorothy McLean and Shirley McLeod with 3 points each and Betty Gibson with 2 points. Barbara Young scored 3 points for the losers while Shirley Alcorn and Dorothy Taylor scored 2 points each.

Lorna Fraser scored 22 of the Nurses 37 points in the second tilt. Iona Goodman scored 11 points while Vivian Williams and Helen Aston scored 2 points each.

For the Northern B's Betty McGowan scored 8 points and Joan Ball and Marilyn Lloyd scored two points each.

Officials for the first game were Don Dolan and Doug Soule while George Garrow replaced Soule in the second game. Ted Batchelor acted as timekeeper.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, March 14 — (AP) — Imagine coming home from work and finding the little woman vacuuming the parlor in a sarong!

Designed Edith Head is launching a campaign to make the home more glamorous.

"Glamor has gone out of the home," sighed the pert brunette who designs clothes for Betty Hutton, Bette Davis and other film queens.

"When a wife gets up in the morning, she throws a robe around herself, whips up a quick breakfast, dresses the kids and spoons some food down the baby. When her husband last views her before going to work, her hair is still up in curlers and she is a mess.

"When he returns home at night she is too busy making dinner to change the old clothes she has been cleaning the house in."

What to do

But what can be done about this situation, aside from going into hock and hiring a maid?

"The wife should steal a few minutes to beautify herself," said Miss Head. "And if she doesn't have the time to change her clothes, then she should wear a uniform that would be neat and attractive at times.

"I don't mean that they have to invest in fancy wardrobes. I think one uniform for the housewife could be the housecoat, which can be neat, attractive and inexpensive. She can perform her home duties in it, and still look glamorous when her husband comes home at night."

The housewife could also adopt other eye-appealing outfits, she added, even suggesting a sarong.

Miss Head's criticism of the loss of glamor wasn't only directed at the fair sex. She also rapped the husbands.

"The average man in business dresses up in the morning so he can look his best throughout the day," she cited. "But when he gets home . . . he wears something old and worn out — like a sweat shirt, jeans and sneakers."

"So what is the solution"? I asked. Should we wear sarongs, too?"

AT THE CAPITOL — Charles Starrett and Smiley Burnett in their latest hit, "Ridin' the Outlaw Trail," and showing today and Saturday at the Capitol. The added adventure hit, "Captain Blood," stars Errol Flynn and Olivia de Havilland. Continuous show Saturday from 1.00.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars,

FOR SATURDAY, MARCH 15, 1952.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—You ruled by Mars had better count ten today before acting. Take yourselves in hand, hold back desires to rush forward. And don't allow little matters to upset you.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Let imagination have some sway today, opportunity is knocking at your door but it needs lots of help. Favorable rays for finer things, well planned ideas. Be hopeful always.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Uncertain in places, this day. Other than routine calls for extra checking, caution. Risky undertakings may be costly; indulge warily. News in p.m. can brighten.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Hesitate before brushing aside suggestions; seek help from others, it may be just the tonic. Congenial, co-operative manner will get more. Avoid legal and other disputes if possible.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo)—Perhaps only slight encouragement for regular occurances, daily tasks. Suggest you check overspending, loans, obligations. Outside influences may tend to sway better judgment.

August 23 to September 23—(Virgo)—Dip into your reserves cautiously, in moneys with special reluctance. Some sacrifice always wise. Employ your experience and intuition.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Little to be excited about today. Be ready to think up your own leads, advantages. Hustle without straining. Avoid outbursts if tempted. Smile is Libra's best, it should bring happiness.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—You active natives of Mars should Stop, Look and Listen now. Play a waiting game in some instances. Be ready for the unexpected, but don't take foolish chances.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Stimulating rays for business, heart affairs, home pleasures. New adventures open to you, but study carefully. Don't fear to try, especially where your talents fit.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — Not everything favorable but enough to make you happily busy if you try. Mind commercial matters, loans, investments. Trim spending; have some saved for emergency use.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Fine configurations for your chart. Even many difficult problems can be solved through sound efforts. Forget little differences, you really can make dandy progress.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Aside from certain irritating matters that may tend to bear you off course, you should creditably advance. After 1 p.m., worked-for gains should come quicker.

YOU BORN TODAY: are idealistic, philosophical. You enjoy good fun, music, travel, should be able at research scientific, mechanical work. May have to be prodded at times as you are likely to lack confidence, causing you to retire when a little aggression could help. Are sympathetic, affectionate; yet can seem indifferent, exacting occasionally. Birthdate of: Andrew Jackson, 7th U.S. Pres.; Harold L. Ickes, New Deal philosopher; Geo. Brent, actor.

Biggest A-Plant Transmutes Weapons for War and Peace

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

(Associated Press Science Editor)

Augusta, Ga., March 14 (AP) — The greatest transmutation plant in the world is going up near here with 250 permanent buildings and secret atomic factories.

The public knows it as the Savannah River H-bomb project.

But it is far more than that.

Both plutonium for A-bombs and special hydrogen for H-bombs are made by transmutation. This place will be equipped for many other kinds of transmutation. Some of these may produce new kinds of atomic weapons.

Savannah will be able to produce for peace any or all of many hundred chemical elements which do not exist, except when made by transmutation.

It also will furnish raw materials for atomic power, and it may furnish the hydrogen stuff for a new form of atomic power that is at present only a scientific hope.

At least $1,250,000,000 will be spent for the project. Its size may be double or even triple that of other atomic plants. Its productive capacity will far outdo anything else.

Canadians Ahead

An example of the principles which assure great returns comes from a medical report about making radio-active cobalt, the metal hoped to improve on radium for cancer. This report says that Canada, in her Chalk River (Ont.) atom splitting plant, makes the cobalt much faster than the United States. Canada does this, not in the U.S. type of atomic furnace, but in a small tank of heavy water, only 10 by 12 feet.

This tank produces the trasmutation rays (neutrons) in 40 times the density of U.S. processes. It makes plutonium faster, too.

The heavier water process is not the only method of producing more. It may be one of those the U.S. is installing in the Savannah works, because the Atomic Energy Commission has announced a new, heavy-water manufacturing plant at Dana, Ind., "of critical importance and urgency," that "vitally affects production schedules established by the president."

This anouncement came jointly from Savannah and the Dana works.

New Horizons

Heavy water will furnish one form of heavy hydrogen—deuterium—which is likely to be the bulk of the H-bomb explosive. The other form of heavy hydrogen—tritium, key explosive—will be made here.

How tritium will be produced is not announced but there are seven processes which have been reported by chemists as possibilities.

There are reports that Savannah also will make some new stuff that may outdo other atomic weapons.

Scientists are confident that more resources are going to be tapped to get at the energy and power inside atoms—and that these discoveries will be of peacetime value regardless of military uses. Transmutation is the foundation for these expectations.

A few of the miracles already in sight from transmutation are summarized by the A.E.C.'s latest report.

They include static electricity control, easier working of fluorescent lights, new type photography known as radiography, sterilization of food and drugs. Also little power plants which you can carry about, new species of plants and great gains in industrial chemistry and in knowledge of biology. Lastly, there is radio-active water. It is a new form of heavy water, even heavier than the water to be made at Dana.

VITAL WATERWAY

Including its approach channels, the Suez Canal between the Mediterranean and Red Sea is 103 miles long.

Nobody Loves Forever

By Margaretta Brucker

Later you could puzzle over the impulse which made you allow a man to whom you had met just twice to take you in his arms and kiss you. Later you might suffer shame and humiliation at your own weakness and hate yourself for disloyalty to your husband.

Not now. At the moment nothing mattered, for you were unable to think clearly and stilled the voice of conscience by giving as excuse the bitter loneliness which you had known for three long years.

Afterward, when Jessica tried to analyze that moment, she could remember best the sun, warm on her cheeks, the endless stretch of blue sky overhead, the wind tangling her hair, and then David's eyes, so blue and intense, holding her own. She remembered the comfort of David's arms around her and her sudden wild desire to have his lips upon her own.

Then the picture became confused. David had told her that he loved her. Did she love him? How could you be certain about love? It was so easy to be mistaken. Hadn't she been mistaken in the past about her love for Tom?

She must not think of the past. David had said "later we'll make plans, Jessica, not now. Don't spoil this moment. Just let's be happy."

She had had so little happiness, nothing but rebuffs and disapproval. She had wanted to laugh and cry and had clung to David while the tears blinded her eyes.

They were quiet during the return trip. The sun was sinking low as they approached the city. From time to time David bent across Betsy to meet Jessica's glance. "Sorry?" he asked.

She shook her head. No, she was not sorry. Her heart still held a touch of the heady happiness which had warmed her under David's kiss.

She let her fingers cling to his as they drove slowly through the gathering dusk. It was wonderful to be happy, to be loved and cherished, to forget a future which before had loomed threatening and dark with apprehension.

But the carefree mood had lasted only under the spell of David's smile. When he had driven away and Jessica turned to walk with Betsy up the steps of the old gray house where she had lived since Tom went away and left her, the afternoon seemed like a dream.

As the door closed behind her and she stood in the cold dark hallway she felt imprisoned again, beset by doubts and low-spirited.

Betsy said practically, "I want my supper."

"You've had your supper, baby."

Lucy opened the kitchen door and said, "where were you? I was worried."

Jessica removed Betsy's bonnet and coat. She followed Lucy through the kitchen door.

Lucy bustled about making hot tea, saying that her mother had gone to church and that she had stayed at home believing they might return chilled and hungry.

Lucy will be hurt when I tell her I plan to leave Tom, thought Jessica with a touch of irritation at her own sense of guilt. Why should I bother about what Lucy thinks? I'm young. I've a right to happiness.

Lucy said "drink your tea."

Jessica pushed the cup away. "I've had my lunch." She hurried on to explain, "we met David Gregory in the park and he insisted that we take a ride. Betsy loved it."

Lucy said nothing. She sat down drank her tea and made no comment, but later as they sat together in the living, she said "please don't hurt Tom, Jessica."

Jessica dropped the book she had been pretending to read. "Why should you say that?"

"I know about David Gregory."

"What about David Gregory?"

"He works in the same office—not that I really know him."

"Gossip!" said Jessica.

"Not exactly. He's handsome and successful and has had advantages Tom never had. A fine education at an eastern college. Wealthy parents. Tom had to work to help support us."

Jessica said impatiently, "why must you compare Tom and David Gregory? Why is it wrong for me to want to do the things other girls do who are young?" She rose and tossed her book down on the table. "I owe something to myself" she said hotly. "I was young and silly, I grant, but Tom used every argument to persuade me to marry him. Then he brushed aside any obligation to consider my happiness when he left me. Now, whatever I felt for Tom Blake is dead."

She flung herself out of the room. But later, in the dark listening to Betsy's soft, regular breathing, she remembered Tom more clearly than at any time since their marriage.

She remembered how he had let her alone when she had told him it was useless for him to love her. She remembered the day she had taken her car and gone in search of him, and how even then he had been reluctant to get in the car until she insisted he come with her.

Tom loved her then.

She sat up in bed, her fingers linked about her knees, and stared off into the darkness which shrouded the crib where Betsy slept. She had loved Tom once. Had she forgotten?"

No, she thought stubbornly, I haven't forgotten. But love like that doesn't last. It's youthful infatuation and indifference to the future. David's love is quite different.

It rained the following day. A dreary, blue Monday with the sky overcast and heavy with threatening clouds. Lucy went off bundled in a raincoat and carrying her umbrella. Jessica watched her from the upper window as she dressed hastily, dreading the meeting with Mrs. Blake.

Betsy still slept. Jessica left the room, closing the door softly behind her, and went downstairs.

The kitchen was warm and smelled of pickles. Mrs. Blake sat slicing cucumbers, a half-bushel basket of them beside her. She looked up sharply but made no comment about Jessica's tardy appearance. Instead she observed, "Genevieve has promised to come over this evening and help me make some relish."

Genevieve Miles was a tall, angular girl who worked in the same office with Lucy. She fawned upon Mrs. Blake and always appeared unexpectedly, bringing some gift of her own making, tea towels initialed and hemstitched, or fanciful pot holders; and once or twice she came for the day to help with jam and jelly making. She was quick and deft about kitchen tasks.

The mention of Genevieve usually irritated Jessica. This morning she felt no interest. Let Genevieve come whenever she would, and in the end she might achieve her desire and marry Tom. She would make him a good wife and satisfy his mother.

Jessica drank her coffee and glanced through the morning paper. There was one caption on the society page which interested her.

Sara Linton's Debuntane Ball
Coming Social Event

Sara Linton would be the daughter of Lucy's employer. There was her picture. A thin, homely girl with a low mane of pale hair.

Lucy would receive no invitation to that party, thought Jessica, and then another thought followed. David would. David lived a life apart from the life Jessica spent with the Blake family. She was quite outside Hugh Linton's circle.

She dropped the paper, amazed at her own reaction. David knew Hugh Linton well. How silly to feel a stab of jealousy. Back home in Kentucky she had an assured social position.

Not here in Akron. The thought stung her.

If she had never married Tom Blake—then she would never have met David, she reminded herself.

Life was so complicated. She looked up and caught her mother-in-law's glance fixed upon her and rose hastily to collect the breakfast dishes. Mrs. Blake said nothing. She worked steadily through the basket of pickles, slicing, chopping, mixing.

The day fell into its usual dull routine.

Jessica tried to fasten her thoughts to the bright high hopes of yesterday but was unsuccessful. A letter came from Tom announcing that he was at a point of embarkation.

That meant that in the immediate future she would face Tom with the news of her desire for a separation.

Mrs. Blake thought of nothing but her son's return. She canned the things Tom liked best. She cleaned his clothes and hung them on a line in the back yard. Jessica wondered if there was an object in this program of preparation. She and Betsy were moved to the small back room which had been Tom's and the front room was scoured and scrubbed and repapered.

David called. Jessica had a bad moment as she rushed to answer and then insisted that David time his calls when she was certain that both Lucy and her mother-in-law would be absent. She hated the stealth and secrecy, the subterfuges by which they arranged meetings.

Doris kept Betsy whenever Jessica went downtown to meet David, and asked no questions, but even Doris hinted, if only by her manner that she disapproved and worried.

Sometimes they met in the afternoon over a table at the Mayflower and danced, and Jessica forced herself to forget everything but the spell of the music and David's arm about her. Sometimes they drove far out into the country and sat and talked about their future.

Sometimes her desire to be with David frightened her, and she longed for the time when Tom would come and she could confess that she planned to leave him. Sometimes she was terrified at the thought of Tom's return. She was Tom's wife—suppose he refused to release her?

When she told this to David he laughed at her. "Divorce is a common thing, Jessica," he said. "Lots of couples make mistakes."

"I told Tom that I loved him," she said slowly.

"Nobody loves forever." He stopped to kiss her upturned face.

She drew away. "You can't mean that?"

"But I do," he said lightly. "I'm not talking about our love. That's quite different. You've learned by experience that infatuation cannot last."

He went on to talk about the plans he had for their future. The home they would have and the trips they would make together.

It's all settled, she thought with a touch of amazement. David talks as though it would be quite simple. Why do I worry about the unpleasantness ahead?

Groundwork Laid By Conservative Prime Minister

Ottawa, March 14 (CP)—Senator Norman Lambert (L-Ontario) yesterday lauded appointment of a Canadian as governor-general and termed it a constitutional development whose groundwork was laid by a Conservative prime minister and then carried out by a Liberal.

He told the Senate that Canada's First World War Conservative prime minister, Sir Robert Borden, was the man who did the spade work. The present Liberal Prime Minister, Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent, was the man who carried it out with the appointment of Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, on Feb. 28.

The Ontario senator read extracts from Sir Robert Borden's memoirs, recounting an interview Sir Robert had with the then British Prime Minister, Lloyd George. At this meeting, on the request of General Botha, then Prime Minister of South Africa, and Gen. Smuts, his Aide, Sir Robert suggested selection of governors-general should not be confined to residents of Great Britain.

Trade With British Likely to Rise, Howe Predicts

Fears Serious Consequences From U.S. Cattle Embargo

Ottawa, March 15 (CP)—Trade Minister Howe believes that the value of Canada's trade with the United Kingdom will increase this year despite restrictions imposed on dollar purchases by the recent British budget.

In an 8,000-word review of his trade and defence-production departments, Mr. Howe told the Commons yesterday that only some Canadian manufacturers and producers will feel the pinch of the latest restrictions.

"I have heard the suggestion made in this House that Canada is losing the British market," said Mr. Howe, "Of course, that is not true.

"The fact is that Canadian exports to the United Kingdom increased from $470,000,000 in 1950 to $631,000,000 in 1951 and I would not be surprised if, in spite of the British financial crisis, our exports to that market were to rise by another $75,000,000 to $100,000,000 during 1952.

"Although the British may forego certain marginal items from Canada they are very much interested in items such as our wheat, our flour, our lumber and our metals."

Embargo Serious

The embargo imposed by the United States on Canadian livestock and meat as a result of the outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease in Saskatchewan could have "most serious consequences." He was hopeful the disease would be brought under control and the embargo removed with the least possible delay.

Looking back over the last year, Mr. Howe said it had been a remarkable one.

"Twelve months ago the world was in the midst of an inflationary upsurge of prices from which Canada could not and did not escape . . . Then came the reaction.

'Many of the shortages that had been anticipated did not materialize and where shortages did appear, they were a good deal less serious than had been feared."

Panic buying now has ended and everyone is more cautious about the future, he said. Real trouble came when too many people were convinced either that there was going to be inflation or that there is going to be a depression.

"I see no reason to anticipate either inflation or depression."

"The supply situation for 1952 should not be as "tight" as it was last year.

Expanses were under way in the Canadian steel, iron ore, aluminum, copper, nickel, lead and zinc industries.

Reviewing the defence-production program, Mr. Howe repeated Prime Minister St. Laurent's statement that expenditures are expected to fall short by $200,000,000 of the $1,100,000,000 goal set at the beginning of the year.

One factor in the reduction in spending was a shortage in equipment Canada needed, including a shortage of machine tools.

Body of News Vendor Found At Stoney Creek

Hamilton, March 15 — (CP) The body of news vendor James (Scotty) McLeod, the skull crushed in and a scarf knotted around the throat, was found last night near Stoney Creek, a few miles from Hamilton's city limits.

The 62-year-old man disappeared Jan. 29. A large-scale search turned up no clues to his whereabouts.

McLeod was regarded by acquaintances as an eccentric because of his habit of carrying large amounts of money. When last seen by friends, he was believed to have several hundred dollars on his person.

Only a few coins were in his pockets when two schoolboys came upon his decomposed body about 100 feet below Ridge Road, which runs along the brow of Hamilton Mountain. There were deep cuts on his face.

12 North Korean War Prisoners Killed in Riot

Tokyo, March 15. (AP)—A second bloody riot in less than a month at the United Nations Command's crowded Koje Island prison camp last Thursday brought death to 12 North Korean war prisoners and left 26 other prisoners wounded, the army announced today.

One American officer and a South Korean civilian were injured.

The army did not say whether the wounded prisoners were North Koreans or Chinese.

The riot broke out when die-hard communist prisoners in a separate compound began stoning a work party of co-operative prisoners and a detachment of South Korean troops, the announcement said.

The South Korean guards opened fire.

The army said the riot was broken up and "all prisoners are complying fully with the orders of the authorities."

The International Red Cross has been asked to investigate the incident and the U.N. Command is making its own inquiry.

Seventy-five Korean civilian internees and a soldier of the U.S. 27th Infantry Regiment died in a communist-led riot at Koje Feb. 18. Twenty-two U.S. soldiers and 129 internees were wounded.

Red truce negotiators at Panmunjom have made propaganda capital of the first Koje riot and Allied spokesmen predict bitter attacks from the communists as the result of Thursday's outbreak.

Koje Island lies about 27 miles off Korea's southeast coast. It is 25 miles long and 15 miles wide. On the island the Allies have constructed 29 wire-enclosed compounds in which approximately 132,000 military prisoners and 54,000 civilian internees are imprisoned.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, March 15 (CP) —Synopsis: Fifty-mile-an-hour winds accompanied by snow and freezing rain are lashing the Maritime coast this morning, as another severe Atlantic storm moves through that region. However, all through the central portion of the continent skies are predominantly clear, with only scattered snowflurries falling from partly cloudy skies in the area in lee of the Great Lakes and James Bay.

Another sunny day is in store for Ontario Sunday but temperatures will continue to be on the chilly side, averaging around the freezing point for southern Ontario and about 25 in northern regions.

FORMER MINER TAKES ON WHEAT, FARMER, LAWYER

Clarie Gillis Defends Stand of CCF Party

Ottawa, March 15. (CP)—A one-time Nova Scotia coal miner tussled with an Alberta lawyer and a Saskatchewan wheat farmer in the Commons last night.

The former miner was Clarie Gillis, the 56-year-old C.C.F. parliamentary veteran from Nova Scotia's Cape Breton South and an early hand in both trade unionism and the socialist movement in Canada.

Charging them with "complete political immaturity," he tackled John Decore (L—Vegreville), Alberta barrister, and Joseph Hetland (L—Humboldt), the wheat farmer, for speeches criticizing the C.C.F. and Labor unions.

The soft-spoken veteran— he was elected in 1940; they in 1949 —belabored the two members and blocked the taking of a final vote in an otherwise dull Throne-Speech debate.

He had no wish to delay the debate, said Mr. Gillis, but:

"When someone gets up, takes a straight kick at you right in the mouth, and then sticks his chin out and asks for it, there is nothing to do but give it to him."

Then he proceeded to thump Mr. Decore for quoting a statement by Tim Buck, Canada's communist leader, which endorsed a C.C.F. council handout criticizing the military program adopted by the North Atlantic Alliance. That, said Mr. Gillis, was an attempt to link the C.C.F. with the communists.

CCF Motion Defeated

He walloped Mr. Hetland for a speech charging that the ranks of labor included "hoodlums" and "irresponsible leaders."

Between times, the chamber voted 102 to 20 against a C. C. F. non-confidence motion calling for the establishment of a board with control over the prices of livestock and dairy products. Still before the House is a Social Credit motion charging the government with "failure" to stimulate food production.

Earlier, production Minister Howe reported the federal government has spent $900,000,000 for defence production during the current fiscal year, $200,000,000 less than the $1,100,000,000 allocated for such expenditure.

In other phases of the debate, Rodney Adamson (PC — York West) urged the government to help home owners by exempting municipal taxes and mortgage-interest payments from federal income tax. He also wanted a federal-provincial conference to discuss direct federal aid to education.

R. R. Knight (CCF—Saskatoon) suggested the government place the forthcoming redistribution of parliamentary seats in the hands of an independent committee. The work should be removed from all possibility of "political influence."

Robert Fair (SC—Battle River) appealed to the Federal Agriculture Department to enforce the floor price of 26 cents a pound placed under pork last month. Some packing houses had been underpaying farmers.

British to Lift Military Cordon In Egyptian Town of Ismailia

Ismailia, Egypt, March 15 — (Reuters) — Gen. Sir George Erskine, commander of the British troops in Egypt, has agreed to lift the British military cordon in Ismailia on the north side of the Sweet Water Canal, his headquarters announced today.

Barbed-wire barricades and troops will be withdrawn from the Guay Mohammed Ali, and Egyptians evicted from houses in the cordoned area — about two blocks deep — will be allowed to return, a spokesman said.

British troops will keep military posts in the area and will also continue to patrol the town.

A battalion of troops will remain in the town to ensure law and order.

[illegible] ordered the cordoning of the north side of the Sweet Water Canal and the occupation of the area last January after the killing of an American nun, Sister Anthony, in the grounds of the Convent of St. Vincent de Paul, during gun fighting between British troops and Egyptian terrorists.

British authorities have decided to allow passenger trains to run between Cairo and Suez. The first will leave this weekend.

Port Said is almost back to normal with Egyptian labor working all ships.

Egyptian police have re-occupied police posts and stations at Tel El Kebir and the village of El Hammada, which have been empty since British troops raided both villages last January after a terrorist attack.

Egyptian workers have begun to return to work for the British army, but the numbers are still small, the spokesman said.

Autoworkers' Union Sets Up Administration Board Over Leftist Local in Michigan

Detroit, March 15. (AP)—The international executive board of the United Auto Workers (C.I.O.) today set up a board of administration for its giant Ford Local 600 and directed it to fire any officers found to be "members of, or subservient to" the communist party.

The unprecedented action followed an all-day session, which broke up shortly after midnight, at which Carl Stellato, president of the Local, and his staff had been ordered to show cause why they should not be ousted.

U.A.W. President Walter P. Reuther, chairman of the new six-man board of administration, had charged Stellato, vice-president Patrick F. Rice, recording secretary William R. Hood and treasurer W. G. Grant of Local 600 of failing to abide by the U.A.W. constitution, which prohibits communists from holding office within the union.

In its statement the U.A.W. executive board said that, in its opinion:

"The difficulties in Local 600 arise from the manipulations of a small but well-disciplined communist group which exerts influence far beyond its actual members."

The statement added:

"The evidence presented to the international executive board proves beyond any doubt that this disciplined communist minority was able to subvert the policies, programs and publications of Local 600 to their own ends and against the best interests of the union membership."

The executive board action came after witnesses at recent hearings of the House of Representatives un-American activities committee here named several Local 600 officials as communists.

Prior to yesterday's hearing, Stellato announced, "we will fight any attempt by Reuther to take over the Local," and accused the U.A.W. president of trying to purge his political opposition.

Local 600, with nearly 50,000 dues-paying members, claims to be the world's largest local union.

Ouster of the Local's officers would have to be followed by an election within 60 days. It would be theoretically possible for Stellato and his officers to run in this election and be restored to office by the Local members.

Revenue Collector Found Guilty Of Misconduct

St. Louis, Mo., March 15 —(AP) — A federal court jury early today convicted former internal revenue collector James P. Finnegan on two misconduct-in-office charges.

The 11 men and one woman freed him of three other counts—including two of bribery.

Finnegan, 51, personal friend of President Truman, took the decision quietly. The verdict came at 1.18 a.m. EST after nine hours of deliberation.

Judge Rubey M. Hulen will pronounce sentence March 24. Maximum penalty under the conviction is four years in prison and $20,000 in fines.

The counts under which Finnegan was found guilty involved acceptance of $5,000 from the War Hotel Corporation for helping the firm in a claim against the Coast Guard for damage during the Second World War occupancy, and for taking $3,000 from the American Lithofold Corporation to represent the St. Louis printing firm in connection with a Reconstruction Finance Corporation loan.

The jurors found that Finnegan, by accepting these sums, violated a federal law prohibiting officers and employees from taking compensation from outside parties to represent them before government agencies.

Appeal Filed

Toronto, March 15 — (CP)—An appeal has been filed against an award of $55,000 to three Detroit girls who sued an Ontario construction company in an automobile accident case.

Toronto lawyers A. J. Sneath and George T. Wash said yesterday they have launched the appeal on behalf of Shaw Construction Company of Sarnia. It will be heard in the Ontario Court of Appeal at a date not yet fixed.

Mary Kraljevich, 20, was awarded general damages of $36,020 for injuries she suffered in the October, 1950, accident.

Her sister, Florence, 19, was awarded $9,840 and Mitzie Frye, 19, a friend, $4,788. They were represented at an Ontario Supreme Court hearing in Windsor earlier this month by Isadore Levinter, Toronto lawyer.

Previously The Canadian Press reported erroneously that Mr. Levinter was counsel for the company in the case.

MAY BE CLOSED

Sarnia, March 15 — (CP) — The provincial government fish hatchery at nearby Point Edward may be closed soon because of the breakdown of its filtration plant. Officials said it might prove less costly to ship the spawn from Kingsville than to repair the plant.

Air-Chief Marshal L.S. Breadner, Dies in Boston

Ottawa, March 15 (CP)— Air-Chief Marshal L. S. Breadner, former chief of air staff and commander of the RCAF overseas during the latter part of the Second World War, died last night in a Boston hospital.

The veteran airman, who achieved the highest rank ever awarded in the RCAF, was in ill-health for some time. He was 58.

The air chief marshal took over as chief of the air staff in 1941. In 1943 he relinquished this title and went overseas as commander of the RCAF forces in Britain.

He was promoted air chief marshal shortly before his retirement in 1945.

Air force headquarters learned of his death this morning.

It was the second death of an RCAF senior veteran in three weeks. On Feb. 22, Air Marshal Harold (Gus) Edwards died in Arizona at the age of 59. He built up the RCAF overseas and Breadner took over in 1943.

Heiress 'Listed' As Missing Returns Home

New York, March 15—(CP)—Mavis Chaffey Ramus returned to her home last night unaware that she had been listed as "missing" by police and friends. Police said she was reticent about her absence.

Police, checking leads in the search for the attractive 32-year-old divorcee, visited her apartment before midnight.

All Mrs. Ramus would say to police was that she had been visiting friends. With her in the apartment was her mother, Mrs. George E. Chaffey of Montreal.

Earlier Mrs. Chaffey told police she came here a week ago to help her daughter close her small apartment and sell the furniture. Mrs. Ramus, a student artist, planned to return to Montreal.

Mrs. Ramus was described to police as a Canadian real estate heiress.

ON STANDARD TIME

Tilbury, March 15 — (CP) — The high school board of this community 17 miles southwest of Chatham decided that students will go to school an hour later than their city cousins. Because of the large number of rural students attending the school, it will remain on standard time when most centres turn to daylight saving.

COST-OF-LIVING INDEX GETTING NEW OUTFIT

New Name Will Be Consumer Price Index

Ottawa, March 15—(CP) — Like many housewives, the cost-of-living index is going to get a new outfit this summer and, again like housewives, that won't make the bills any smaller.

The Bureau of Satistics is going to scrap its present system of computing the cost of living. Instead of basing prices on 1935-39 equalling 100, the bureau will take 1949 prices as the base.

The new price barometer isn't going to be called cost-of-living index either. The new name is "consumer price index."

The bureau said the decision to change the index's name was made because the old title is confusing. The index is meant to measure the price changes of certain consumer goods bought by the average family.

The bureau also found from a country-wide sampling in 1948 and 1949 that Canadians have changed their buying habits. Fewer pay rent and more own their own homes; more use fuel oil and, on the average, spend more for food.

Thus food costs will make up 32 per cent of the index, up one per cent from the old one. Home furnishings and fuel and light will be combined into one sub-index called household operation, instead of the two previous ones. This group will make up 17 per cent of the new index instead of the 15 per cent of the two groups made in the old index.

Clothing will make up 12 per cent instead of 11 and the rent sub-group will become "shelter" with 15 per cent of the new index instead of 19 as in the old one.

Fresh fruits and vegetables will be surveyed under foods and children's wear will be added to the clothing sub-group. Fuel oil will be surveyed and the list of household equipment items expanded.

The survey of transportation and recreation costs will be widened and life-insurance premium costs will be dropped.

All this will bring the index down to around 110.0 or 120.0 instead of its present figure around 200.0.

HOME IS ROBBED

Butler, Pa., March 15—(AP)—Three gunmen robbed a wealthy coal operator's home of an estimated $131,000 yesterday and beat up his 40-year-old wife.

The trio gained entrance to the plush home of Craig Saul, coal company operator, by posing as delivery men.

Three young children of the couple stood by helplessly as the gunmen clubbed their mother with pistol butts.

Two of the robbers kept watch over Mrs. Saul and the children while a third pried open the safe with a sledge hammer and a crowbar.

Asleep in Bed When Policemen Storm Apartment

Brief Case Found Contains $25,000 and a Revolver

Toronto, March 15 — (CP) — Edwin Alonzo Boyd was captured in bed today by heavily-armed police who watched all night and then stormed his apartment in north-central Toronto in a sunrise raid.

As detectives with drawn guns crashed through his bedroom door, the startled Boyd sat up in the bed and quipped:

"Well, this is one way to meet you."

He surrendered to Sergeant of Detectives Adolphus Payne and Detective Ken Craven without offering any resistance.

His wife, whom he married overseas during the Second World War during his service as a commando, and his brother, Norman, were taken into custody in the apartment as material witnesses.

The capture of the 37-year-old Boyd ended a hunt for three men wanted for a series of holdups and linked with the March 6 shooting and wounding of two Toronto detectives. This week the search for him has been concentrated on Montreal, where the two other men sought by police were arrested after gun battles.

Sixty Toronto officers moved in on the Heath Street East apartment, off Yonge Street just north of St. Clair Avenue, after sitting out an eerie all-night watch. They were loaded down with bullet-proof vests, tear gas, machine-guns and high-powered rifles.

Boyd, who broke jail last November while facing trial on a bank robbery charge, came out smiling from the apartment on Heath Street West where he had been visiting his wife. Police found a new briefcase in the apartment, containing $25,000 and a revolver.

The quietness of Boyd's capture was in sharp contrast to the violent shooting affrays that accompanied the arrest of Boyd's alleged accomplices, Steve Suchan and Leonard Jackson, both in hospital, in Montreal.

Believe Suchan Fired Shot

Suchan, charged with firing the shot that seriously wounded Sergeant of Detectives Edmund Tong in West Toronto March 6, was felled by police bullets in his swank Montreal apartment the following day.

Jackson, who broke jail with Boyd in Toronto last November and is charged jointly with Suchan in the shooting affray in which Tong and Detective-Sergeant Roy Perry were wounded, was shot down and captured after a furious gun-battle in his dingy basement apartment three blocks from the scene of Suchan's arrest.

Mayor Allan Lamport accompanied the police squad today as the scene shifted suddenly back to Toronto.

The police moved fast. Boyd had rented the Heath Street apartment only yesterday when the previous owners moved to Mexico.

While Montreal officers still combed the city and suburbs tracking down a flood of rumors that the missing bank robber had been sighted, Toronto police moved in on Boyd's hideout and nabbed their man.

Ends Series of Events

Boyd's arrest at 6:15 a.m. ended a series of events that began with a $24,000 bank holdup in a west-end branch of the Bank of Toronto here March 4 and grew into one of the most intensive police searches in Eastern Canada.

It was while they were investigating the holdup that Tong and Perry halted an automobile two days later a few blocks away from the bank and were met by a hail of bullets. Tong, shot through the lungs, remains in serious condition. Perry, less seriously wounded, is recovering.

It was Tong's memory for names and faces that put police on the trail of Jackson and Suchan and linked them with Boyd. Boyd and Jackson had been suspected of several earlier bank robberies in the Toronto area in the weeks following their jail-break.

The search quickly spread to Montreal when the men eluded police in the immediate area of the shooting. Montreal officers, aided by detectives sent from Toronto, quickly flushed Suchan at his apartment, shooting him down as he reached for a gun.

Sons of The Ould Sod Prepare To Celebrate St. Patrick's Day

(By The Canadian Press)

Out come the green ties and shamrocks again as the sons of the Ould Sod prepare to celebrate St. Patrick's Day on Monday.

One of the biggest celebrations in Canada, that of Montreal Irishmen, will be held Sunday afternoon when the united Irish societies hold their annual parade. Impressive floats will be dotted among the long line of marchers from parish groups, military units and many Irish organizations of the city and surrounding municipalities.

Smaller celebrations will be held in cities and towns across Canada Monday when Canadian Irish and Sons of Erin the world over commemorate the death of the Saint who brought Christianity to Ireland.

Among special events this year is a British Broadcasting Corporation program direct from the ancient St. Patrick's Memorial Church at Saul in County Down. The church stands on the spot where St. Patrick preached his first sermon after landing in Ireland in A.D. 432.

After being a prisoner of a marauding chieftain in Antrim for six years he went to the continent, where he established his religious reputation and was commissioned by the Pope to work in Ireland.

Great Missionary

He preached and taught, organized parishes and built churches —he founded probably 365 churches and baptized 12,000 persons. Among his converts was his captor of earlier years.

He banished the snakes and he made the shamrock the immortal emblem of Ireland, using the tiny plant as a representation of the Holy Trinity.

St. Patrick's Day was decided on only after a lengthy Irish argument which according to legend ended in a truly Irish compromise.

It is said that one faction in Ireland claimed the Saint died on March 8, while an opposing party held that March 9 was correct. A Solomon-like Irish priest, Father Mulcahey, is said to have settled the argument by the addition of eight and nine and March 17 has stood to this day.

Leslie Bell Singers Greeted By Large Church Audience

By EUGENE LANG

For the fourth time in as many years the renowned Leslie Bell Singers appeared last night in Bridge Street United Church before a large audience of devotees to the art of a Cappella singing for which these singers are justly famous throughout Canada and the U.S.A. The Bell Singers are considered among the finest unaccompanied choirs on the entire North American Continent and are steadily gaining new laurels after each concert and radio appearance, leaving in their wake hundreds and hundreds of idolizers and fans, that never tire of hearing them over and over. Consisting of Toronto business girls these singers have attained a high degree of vocal co-ordination and musical knowledge under the direction of their founder and instructor, Dr. Leslie Bell, one of Canada's leading choral leaders, musical lecturers, and writer of topics relating to music.

The first portion of the program was devoted to numbers taken from the vast musical archives of the Christian church. In each offering the Bell Singers imbued a feeling of deep religious fervor, that was enhanced by the impeccable styling and smooth phrasing of this highly polished female choir. Whether it was the unison tones of a Gregorian Chant or the soil rooted incantations of a Negro Spiritual the effect was the same—that of beauty and sincerity from each of the thirty-five throats of the young singers.

The Tschaikowsky setting of The Lord's Prayer, though new to this writer, was a decided musical joy that was welcome, since one hears the Malotte version of this done to death by so many singers. As for the Mozart "Allelula" (from the Motet for soprano and orchestra "Exultate Jubilate") this arrangement was not in keeping with the other religious selections and did not lend itself to the choir's rendition. Dr. Bell would be well advised to omit this from his repertoire and use something more appropriate from Mozart's prolific pen in the choral line. And there are so many works that would suffice. Being written for soprano solo it does not gain at all in any other arrangement.

Songs of National Character

Part two consisted of songs of national character from Ireland, Scotland, Latin America and French Canada, most of the numbers being well known and presented in such pleasing form that description of the various numbers is unnecessary. One just had to be present to hear what came forth from the choir in these diversified types of folk songs and their splendid arrangements. The shading of each voice in sympathy with its neighbor and then multiplied thirty-five times can produce effects and sonorities that one would think impossible—yet under the directing hands of Dr. Bell—very possible and arrived at in an effortless way.

For the final group the Bell Singers chose pieces that they often present over the air. Every subtlety of projection, nuance of tone, and rhythmic inflection possible was expertly infused into the various items sung. We heard the "Syncopated Clock" tick tock its way into our ears, listened to the "Shrimp Boats a'comin in" followed the antics of the "Little White Duck," tagged along the village band in the marching lilts of the N.A.M.-S.S.C.B. and wound up in the "Roaring Twenties" as many favorites of three decades ago brought memories back of those hectic times. And to top it all—the female counterpart of the Barber Shop Quartet complete with the turn-of-the-century melodrama—a new innovation of the Bell Singers filled with satirical humor mixed with cajolery that added spice to the concert.

Encores were given unsparingly. Solo numbers were sung by Miss Joyce Sullivan, a very gifted contralto, in a most pleasing maner. As usual, Dr. Bell added immeasurably to the enjoyment of the music by his prefacing remarks combined with his fertile wit and humor. All in all, a very enjoyable evening was had by both singers and audience in that the participation was in a way equal—each enjoyed each other like two old friends who meet once each year—and this is Belleville's fourth meeting with Dr. Bell and Company. There will be a fifth—surely.

The concert was sponsored by Bridge Street Church School.

Bible Yearly Need Twenty-Five Million

Madoc.—At the annual meeting of the Madoc Branch of the Upper Canada Bible Society at St. Peter's Presbyterian Church, the Rev. Egerton Young, district secretary, emphasized the immediate need of the world for Bibles.

War is responsible for part of this need, but the greatest reason is progress in the East and Middle East, where untold numbers are learning to read. Communism is outstripping the Christian church in propaganda. "One billion illiterates are learning to read", stated Mr. Young, "What are they going to read?"

"In Canada, foreigners, on their arrival are given copies of the Bible in their own language with the English translation on the same page. Just as the Bible was the backbone of Canada in the early days, we again have a chance to make it a real influence."

A colored sound film showing the work of a Bible Society colporteur by car and jeep in Western Canada and by boat up the Pacific Coast completed the program.

During the business meeting which followed, officers were elected for 1952—president, Rev. T. H. Good; vice-president, Mr. James Keene; secretary-treasurer Mrs. Earl Armstrong.

Lands Minister Scott Warns Trespassing Always Illegal, Farmers Need Not Allow It

Toronto March 15 (CP) — The Ontario Department of Lands and Forests is worried about "a very awkward situation" developing between farmers and sportsmen, Lands Minister Harold Scott said last night.

"It is something which is in your hands," he told the annual meeting of the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters. "I can't legislate against it."

Hunting licences didn't provide authority for trespassing on private property. Huntsmen were largely dependent upon the goodwill of the farmer for their sport.

"It should never be forgotten," said Mr. Scott, "that access to private lands is a privilege, not a right., and this privilege should never be abused. An epidemic of 'no trespassing' signs could quite readily curb the hunting and fishing possibilities in any area"

He said his department is planning to cross experiments this spring using female muskie and male pike to try to produce a 'muskie-pike', a fish as prolific as pike and with the fighting heart of the muskellunge.

Earlier the federation re-relected its officers, including President Kenneth Clark of Kingston. Mr. Clark said that weak laws and politics were the main allies of pollution in provincial lakes and streams.

He also criticized the use of airplanes for hunting and fishing expeditions and said representations have been made to the Ontario government to end such use of planes.

Large Number Will Attend City Convention

The largest Christian Youth convention in Canada is being convened this weekend in Belleville, when Christ's Ambassadors of the Pentecostal Assemblies of Canada for the district of Eastern Ontario and Quebec gather for three mass meetings on Saturday and Sunday at the Collegiate Auditorium.

Last spring the convention was held in the new collegiate auditorium in Oshawa, with over 1,300 registrations and this year there is every indication that the attendance will equal, if not exceed, last year's record. Hotels are booked practically solid and hundreds of delegates and Bible College students are being billeted in private homes in the city and surrounding towns. There will also be representatives from points in Western Ontario as well as several districts in the U.S.A.

President of the convention is the Reverend Laurie Price of Calvary Temple in Belleville. The main speaker is Reverend D. LeRoy Sanders of Terre Haute, Indiana and song leader is Rev. Ralph Petersen of Burlington, Vt. On Saturday evening, evangelist Fern Huffstutter of Oklahoma will be preaching.

The musical talent includes the Evangel Temple band of Toronto, the Revivalaires Quartet and King's Trumpeters of the Peterborough Bible Class, Norma Cooper, outstanding soloist of South Africa, Canada's own gospel singer Irene McMillan whose golden contralto voice of tremendous power has thrilled many large audiences, also singer-evangelist Kay Kingdon, who will be heard in duets with Miss McMillan.

All this week the national conference of Christ's Ambassadors presidents has been in session at Calvary Temple under the chairmanship of Rev. James Montgomery of Toronto, national Sunday School and C. A. director for the Pentecostal Assemblies of Canada. Each evening one of the provincial presidents has addressed a public gathering in Calvary Temple, giving inspiring accounts of Christian work both at home and abroad. Special music has been supplied by Kay Kingdon and Irene McMillan of Ontario and Don Cantelon of British Columbia.

First Offering Of Maple Syrup Made on Market

Maple syrup made its initial appearance of the season on the local produce market today as one Prince Edward county farmer offered a few gallons of the spring table delicacy.

Mrs. Harold Foster, R.R. 10, Picton, said that the sap had run only two days so far this season. There was a fairly good run Monday and Tuesday but since then the sap in the buckets had frozen. Price asked for the season's first offering of syrup was $1.25 per quart or $5 per gallon.

Egg prices remained firm with firsts selling at 42c; mediums at 40c and pullets at 35c per dozen. Broilers three months old sold at 60c per lb. with mature fowl bringing from 50c to 55c per lb.

On the outside market pork by the quarter was offered at 30c for fronts and 35c for hinds. Whitefish was 40c and pike 35c per lb.

McIntosh apples increased 50c per hamper to $2.85; Russets were $2.75; Spys $2.50 to $2.85 and Greenings and Talman Sweets $2 per hamper. Basket lots ranged from 50c to 60c.

Potatoes held at $4.50 per bag with peck lots at 95c. Winter vegetables sold at 30c per half peck. Sauerkraut was 25c qt.

A few young pigs were offered at $7.50 each with few takers.

Says Members 'Unwise'

Mr. Gillis said Mr. Decore had been "very unwise" to read the statement, which said the C. C. F. criticism of N. A. T. O. provides the basis for a "united front" by supporters of his Labor - Progressive party and the C.C.F.

Mr. Decore himself, said the Nova Scotian, was particulalry vulnerable on that score because the results of his own election in 1949 showed that 10 polls which previously had returned 3,000 communist votes had gone in his favor. Someone might suggest that meant he was a communist.

"I would not be dragging out ghosts and skeletons if I were a member of this House on the Liberal side — not that kind of skeleton anyway," said Mr. Gillis.

As for Mr. Hetland, Mr. Gillis said he felt "sorry for him." He had said he agreed with unions, but "the fastest way to kill anything you want to kill is to accept it in principle and then proceed to knife it in the back — the oblique attack, kill it with kindness and it will die of its own volition."

The interests of the farmers and the unions were identical.

The "hoodlums" who Mr. Hetland had suggested were in unions actually were "just average, ordinary working plugs who are eking out an existence without very much of a future to look forward to." They were being "taken for a ride."

As for the "radical element" that Mr. Hetland suggested there was in unions, Mr. Gillis said he had seen "much more radicalism right in the House here and lack of decorum."

Owner of Missing Punt Suspicious

Just as mysteriously as it disappeared, the new punt owned by James Matthews, which was taken from the city hall market room, was returned last night. The punt disappeared earlier in the week and Mr. Matthews had offered a reward for its recovery. Now he has a strong suspicion the boat was not actually stolen but that he was made the target of a practical joke.

TIBERIUS

Jerusalem, Israel — (Special to the Ontario Intelligencer) — Overlooking the Sea of Galilee stands one of the most beautiful cities of this ancient land. A city with an outstanding history and the assurance of a promising future — Tiberius.

During the Roman period in Palestine the city was founded by the Roman Governor Herod Antipater and was named by him in honor of the Roman Emperor Tiberius.

This city, which for many years was the capital of Galilee, is mentioned in the Mishnah (a written interpretation of the laws of the Bible) in the New Testament in the writings of the historian Josephus.

During the Roman period Greeks and Romans inhabited the city. They were attracted to Tiberius because the city is blessed with a number of hot springs and the warm baths were at one time considered one of the great wonders of the world.

Formerly Important

In the time of the Second Temple (538 B.C.-200 A.D.), Tiberius was an important centre in the wars between the Jews and the Romans. After the fall of Jerusalem it became the seat of government for the Jewish lawmakers, called the Sanhedrin. Here schools of Jewish learning flourished for several centuries and because of this was regarded for 19 centuries as one of the four holy cities; Jerusalem, Safad and Hebrun are the other three holy cities.

Tiberius changed hands many times during the wars of the Crusaders. After that it was held by Persians, Arabs, Turks and the British mandatory regime, It was given to Israel by the United Nations partition plan in 1947 and was held during the war of liberation.

In 1837 Tiberius suffered a severe earthquake and as a result many of the ancient sites of the city were destroyed. In the early part of the 20th century a flood destroyed that part of the city along the sea coast. Despite these occurrences, many ancient landmarks may still be seen in the vicinity of the city.

Tiberius was an important centre for tourist trade from ancient times until about 1939. From then until the declaration of the state of Israel in 1948 the tourist trade declined rapidly because of the constant disorder and fighting in the country. The inhabitants of the city began to leave and when Tiberius was liberated in 1948 there were only 4,000 inhabitants left.

Population Tripled

Since 1948 the city has begun to be built up again and in the last three years the population has tripled. Houses are being built rapidly to accommodate some 2,000 additional people who are presently living in the close vicinity of the city. The population is made up mostly of artisans who are using their skills to build a modern city.

The hot springs of Tiberius once again draw thousands of tourists to the city during the winter season and its modern hotels are not yet sufficient to accommodate all of the tourists who wish to visit the city. The warm baths are being enlarged and new modern buildings are being erected in order to provide the best treatment in the field of therapy.

Industry too is becoming active in this once almost stagnant Tiberius. Fishing in the Sea of Galilee provides work for many inhabitants of the city and canning factories are being opened to process the fruits and vegetables produced by the settlements. Tiberius is also a buying centre and provides a market for agricultural produce. A new business section is being built in the heart of the city.

It is truly a city of beauty with its modern hotels, many parks and long, wide streets on whose borders are long rows of palm trees. Tourists are captivated by the splendor of the lake district, the wonders of Capernaum, the fishermen with their nets, and also the famous hot springs. The old-timers of the city also attract attention with their quaint costumes.

This happy city on the banks of the Sea of Galilee presents an excellent resort centre, one of the finest to be found in the Middle East.

LET'S CONTINUE THIS INQUIRY

Willi Bruntjen, the immigrant who was suspected of bringing the foot and mouth disease virus into this country, has been exonerated by the authorities and sent on his way. Willi, it will be recalled, came under suspicion because, shortly after his arrival in this country, he worked for a time on the southern Saskatchewan farm where the disease first appeared. No one accused Willi of deliberately bringing the virus to Canada — it was thought that his clothing and effects had become impregnated with the virus, without his knowledge, while he was working among cattle suffering from the disease in his native Germany.

But exonerating Willi of responsibility for bringing the virus into Canada was not, we hope, the chief object of the widespread and much-publicized inquiry. Its real object was, and still should be, to find out by whose agency the virus did get into this country.

The epidemic has still not been wiped out. The United States still maintains its embargo against Canadian cattle, hogs, sheep and goats, as well as on the meat from these animals. The embargo further includes straw, hay and certain other agricultural products. The embargo may remain in effect for months, possibly for years. A similar embargo which the Americans placed on Mexican cattle five or six years ago remains. So serious is the view that the Americans take of the existence of the disease in Mexico that the United States government has contributed $123,000,000 toward helping Mexico eradicate it.

During last year, Canada shipped cattle and beef valued at about $120,000,000 to the United States. If there had been no ban on such exports during the current year, probably a similar or greater volume of Canadian cattle and beef would have been absorbed by the American market. Since a good deal more is involved in the embargo than cattle and beef, it can be seen that the loss to Canadian agriculture is going to be enormous, even if the embargo remains in effect for only a few months. Furthermore, the national treasury is going to be forced to compensate the Saskatchewan farmers for the large numbers of cattle and other livestock that have been destroyed by government order.

It is fortunate that no outbreaks of the disease have occurred outside the original quarantine area, which lies in the Regina plains and includes the city of Regina. But the epidemic has only been halted; it has not been eradicated.

The federal department of agriculture has in its employ large numbers of veterinary surgeons, bacteriologists and other such folk. It has also the services of the R.C.M.P., as well as the co-operation of the provincial departments of agriculture. It should not be too difficult for all these people, with ample funds and scientific resources at their disposal, to ascertain by whose agency the foot and mouth disease virus was turned loose in this country.

REMEDY REQUIRED

Too many youngsters are permitted to handle weapons with only a minimum knowledge of ballistics. They know that a .22 bullet will put a hole through a tin can but they don't know that a bullet will ricochet off such targets and perhaps fatally wound an innocent spectator.

Too many young people are being killed by .22 rifles and the lackadaisical attitude being shown by law-making officials doesn't seem to indicate that the need for control has registered an impression on legal minds.

Whether by prohibition or instruction, steps must be taken to curb the slaughter. — (Sudbury Star.)

CRADLE TO COMBINE

During the past 50 years we have seen some of the most important inventions in the history of the world put into daily use, many of which will form the basis for a still greater evolution in industry, science and every form of endeavor. In agriculture alone there nas been a host of inventions. The thresher, the combine — a whole list of farm implements have advanced from sickles, flails and cradles to modern power machinery, which has increased production, lowered farming costs and saved incalculable labor and time. — (Kitchener-Waterloo Record.)

OLD MAN WINTER

Old Man Winter's back is aching;
Signs are plain it's almost breaking.
Whimpers now instead of chuckles.
There are swellings on his knuckles;
Cheeks are furrowed; eyes are baggy;
Footsteps just a little draggy,
But with pitiful endeavor
Tries to prove he's young as ever.

Winter at the crabby age is.
Now and then he storms and rages.
Pained by all old folks are hurt with,
Still Miss Spring he stays to flirt with.
Fancying that she will take him,
Though she does her best to shake him.
Grumpy, grouchy, almost ghoulish,
Old Man Winter's getting foolish.

Let him linger! Loiter let him!
Nothing will his nonsense get him.
From her door Miss Spring will shoo him.
She will grant no favors to him.
To his feeble style of wooing
She will answer: "Nothing doing!"
Soon his waning strength will play out.
Old Man Winter's on his way out.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

SEEDS AND THEIR PLANTERS

If you would get a glimpse of the wonder and mystery of the Creator, take a small seed, place it in your hand—and look at it. How insignificant it looks, but what possibilities it contains in its small heart!

Plant that seed and it may become a colorful fragrant flower, a shrub of beautiful form, or a great tree. A multitude of these seeds may become a field of grain to nourish the bodies of millions of people. Seeds are a farmer's delight. Behind them he plants his hopes and his dreams of security.

Many years ago, in the early history of America, a man went, often barefoot, through the undeveloped middle west and planted seeds wherever he went. So famous did he become that they called him "Johnny Appleseed," for he went about planting apple seeds. So great was he considered as a benefactor that when he died the Congress of the United States paused to pay him tribute.

Soon now in the early springtime there will be millions of people planting seeds in fields and gardens. You have to have faith to perform this task, for in its last analysis the planting of seeds performs a miracle! As the poet has written, "only God can make a tree." Seeds are nature's thoughts to be converted into deeds.

How very wonderful, but how few of us will think about it all. We just go to the market, buy our seeds, plant them, and await results. God does the rest, but he expects us to put these seeds in good soil, and keep them watered and nourished. In most cases He furnishes the water and the sunshine, which are essential for the right results.

Seeds never change their characteristics, no matter where planted anywhere in the world, but the soil conditions must be similar. And a little love, used as mixture, is never out of the way especially after the seed sprouts, reaches the air and sunlight and looks around to spy its friends!

I am reminded of the Princeton University professor who used to take off his hat before he performed an experiment, saying: "I am about to ask God a question!" God always gives an answer to the planter of seeds.

OUR TOWN

BY JACK SCOTT

GRIM MESSRS GRIMM

On his last weekend visit old Uncle Eric gave the kids a handsome volume of Grimms' Fairy Tales and that may explain these great pig blue circles under Daddy's eyes.

"There's nothing like a pleasant bed-time story for children," Uncle Eric simpered with the ready wisdom of all bachelors, and, fool that I am, I was delighted.

It wasn't until that first night when I settled down with the book in my lap and a small expectant child on either side that it all came back to me.

Next to a personal visit on a stormy night from Boris Karloff and Bela Lugosi in full make-up, nothing is as calculated to induce terror as the horror tales of the brothers Grimm.

It wasn't until that first night about Jenny. Jenny would be happy if someone read her the Moose Jaw telephone directory. But Jill, who is rushing up on four, has the completely literal approach to everything. The sad story of the late Cock Robin, for example, left her as depressed as if she'd read a Dreiser novel.

It was Jill, too, who looked up from her prayers one night and questioned me narrowly about the line that goes, "If I should die before I wake." It had never occurred to me before, but it is a pretty gloomy thought to take to bed.

I had merely dipped into Messrs. Grimm, then, when I realized that it was all a horrible mistake .

There was, to begin with, the charming story of "The Twelve Brothers" and as I read the title my cerubs snuggled down for a happy little nightcap.

"Once upon a time there lived a king and queen very peacefully together," I read. "They have twelve children, all boys: Now the king said to the queen one day, "If our thirteenth child should be a girl the twelve boys shall die, so that her riches may be greater and the kingdom fall to her alone. Then he caused twelve coffins to be made, and they were filled with shavings and a little pillow laid in each....."

Oooops! That would never do. I made a great show of switching to a "better story" and hurriedly flipped the pages.

Ah, "Sweetheart Roland"! That should surely be a nice one.

"Once upon a time there was a woman who was a real witch....." I began. My eyes skipped ahead a couple of paragraphs to the point where the witch, in the middle of the night, cut off her child's head with an enormous axe.

"No," I said, "That's not a good one either."

"Daddy," said Jill, "why did they put shavings in the little coffins?"

"Here's one!" I croaked and began desperately to read about Jorinda and Joringel.

Jorinda and Joringel, as I was soon reminded, is the story of one of the more macabre witches who changes into a cat and screech owl by day and makes a hobby of transforming nice little girls into birds and shutting them up in cages in dark rooms. Ha ha ha! Just the thing for bedtime.

I did a quick reek into "The Goose Girl" in which one nice old lady is put—and I quote—"stark naked into a barrel struck with nails and dragged along by two white horses from street to street until she is dead."

At this point, to my astonishment, both members of my audience were heavy-eyed, nodding their heads and clearly ready to be put away for the night. I had expected them to be plucking frantically at the counterpane and perhaps screaming in terror, but they slipped away as if they'd had a dose of Mother Goose instead of Dracula.

I scurried back to my chair, arranged nine packs of cigarettes within reach, and lowered myself into the black pit of the brothers Grimm with a shudder that had my vertebrae cracking like castanets.

Death and sadism peek from every shrouded page in this book for the tiny tots.

Heigh ho, here we are into "The Golden Bird" in which the two brothers, having been rescued from hanging by the Prince, promptly throw him into a deep well.

And here—a chuckle a minute—is one of the typical Grimms' bedtime sedatives for the children, a witch who is "a crooked old woman, skinny and yellow, with big red eyes and a crooked nose whose tip reached her chin." Look, kiddies! She is setting fire to that nice old man.

Onward then, to the saga of the magic dance where we observe this good lady forced to dance faster and faster with the thorns tearing at her clothes, her feet bleeding, until she falls down dead! Happy dreams little children. . .

Exhausted and starting nervously at every sound, I made for my own pillow and spent the night up on one elbow, listening for the clatter of tiny, cloven feet.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

There is a sort of eager obedience in nature. Everything in nature, save man, toes the mark. Very shortly we will be able to walk in the woods and see the performance of the first act of spring. In eastern and central Canada, it is the flowering of the trilliums and dog-tooth violets—or fawn lilies, as they the better called. In the west, closely-related species serve to raise the curtain.

The carpet of the woods consists of aparently little else than these two or three plants. They possess the soil. You walk ankle deep through the fresh, rich foliage of trillium and fawn lily, countless thousands of them, all burdened with their flowers.

A few weeks later, when June comes, you walk in the same woods, and have to search and peer to see even a few of the now-flowerless, retired trilliums and fawn lilies. They have had their turn. They are obedient. They have withdrawn from the scene, under new and abundant species that were not to be seen at all while the first-comers had the stage. Their leaves seem to have shrunk in size, and are ever so much fewer in number.

Some of the philosophers of nature stress the struggle of nature offering us the picture of a pitiless struggle between species that smother one another, eat one another, in an endless war of survival. If some species do, they are merely obeying laws. But in nature also is this synthesis or processional ritual, in which one creature, plant or animal, follows another, with time allowed for all, a perfect program. If they eat one another, it is for the common good. If they wantonly destroy one another, it is for the common good. Man, of course, is different. He plans to let nothing eat except those things he proposes to eat himself.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THE IDES OF MARCH

More than twenty-three hundred years ago, a man living on the outskirts of Athens wrote, "When there is an income tax, the just man will pay more and the unjust less on the same amount of income." Like so many other statements made by the greatest philosopher of the western world, Plato, the remark is truer than ever today.

At a time of year when so many thousands of Americans—people who consider themselves just rather than unjust, too—are wondering whether or not to declare those extra few dollars of income that no one would ever find out about, we may well recall Plato's statement and ask ourselves why the just man will pay in full.

There have been periods in history when taxation was simply a form of extortion whereby rulers lived in luxury. But times have changed. In Canada, our taxes are the evidence of our participation in the greatest common enterprise on earth — a free democracy. They are the membership dues of a club in which we lucky members enjoy privileges daily which are envied by the rest of the world with a more burning desire than any poor man ever entertained as he looked at an exclusive country-club.

Remember that when you make out your income tax return.

Personal Health Talks

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Signed Letters, Not More Than One Page, or 100 Words Long, Pertaining to Personal Health and Hygiene, Not to Disease, Diagnosis or Treatment, Will be Answered by Dr. Brady if a Stamped, Self-Addressed Envelope is Enclosed, Etc.

COMPROMISE WITH PHYSIC

In the booklet The Constipation Habit and Colon Hygiene, available on written request if you inclose 25c and stamped, self-addressed envelope, I say: Constipation is merely a habit. Anyone can break the habit who has the mind and will to do so.

Ah, but there is the rub. Many victims of the habit are weak-minded and weak-willed.

Well, what can you expect. From early infancy, when the neighborhood Saireygamp harried the uneducated mother into plying the infant with castor oil, the poor geeks have been taught that a "good" physic in indispensable in the prevention or treatment of any ailment. For a doctor to question or ridicule this traditional idea is equivalent to butting one's head against a stone wall—but from long practice my head is hardened to it, so I say anyone can break the constipation habit who has the mind and the will to do so.

I call it constipation habit only to get the attention of you so-and-so's who have it. It should be called interference habit, for mischievous interference with the natural or physiological autonomic or automatic regulation or control of the function of the digestive tract is the cause of the trouble in nearly every instance. The castor oil given the young infant by ignorant or irresponsible persons is particularly objectionable because the catharsis produced by castor oil is followed by a day or two of constipation—that's why castor oil is prescribed for acute diarrhea.

Not that the castor oil itself does the infant so much harm, but imagine what will happen to the unhappy baby in the twenty-four to forty-eight hours the bowel remains locked after such catharsis! And from there on.

Well do I know that few physic addict will make the five-day test described in the booklet. And only in deference to the prevailing medical practice do I offer victims of the habit a compromise.

It seems to be the consensus of physicians that a tapering off plan of treatment is the solution in many cases of chronic constipation.

In the first places, very small doses of cascara sagrada, taken two or three times a day, give better results than much larger doses taken once a day. It appears that small enough doses of this laxative have a tonic action on the bowel, while large doses irritate, cause spasmodic contractions and griping. With cascara used as a tonic rather than as a cathartic, according to Bastedo (Materia Medica, Pharmacology and Therapeutics) the improved bowel function may continue after the cascara has been progressively reduced till finally it is dispensed with altogether.

I can go along with this on one condition: Provided each small dose of cascara is combined with a small dose of vitamin B1, thiamine. Thiamine is the best tonic I know for smooth or involuntary muscle in any part of the body—the alimentary tract wall, the heart muscle—and the ultra-refined food in our modern diet is generally deficient in thiamine content.

Any Commandeered Citizens Will be Protected by Act

Toronto, March 15 CP—Citizens who are commandeered by police in the arrest of criminals or the maintenance of order will be protected in future by the Workmen's Compensation Act if they are injured while following police orders.

Labor Minister Daley introduced a bill in the Ontario legislature yesterday amending the Workmen's Compensation Act to cover such cases.

He said that such protection should be extended, since citizens are required by law to assist police.

Other extensions of the act will cover volunteer firemen injured in fighting fires, and "learners" and apprentices on a job. Mr. Daley also said regulations will be changed, effective next January 1, to wipe out existing rules that a certain number of persons must be engaged in a business before they are covered by the act.

An amendment to the Pharmacy Act, introduced by Health Minister Phillips, will permit all registered pharmacists to sit as members of the pharmacy council. At present members are limited to owners and managers of drug stores.

A bill introduced by Attorney General Porter will permit fraternal societies to issue annuities, or endowment or term insurance, limited to a sum of $10,000 payable on death.

An amendment to the Provincial Parks Act introduced by Lands Minister Scott will extend the government's control in parks to all boats. The present act permits control only over motor boats.

Mr. Scott said the wider control is needed to meet the problem of aircraft landing boats in wilderness areas. He said that planes can build up a large fleet of fishing boats in this manner.

Mines Minister Gemmell introduced a bill which will make legal all oaths taken before mines department officers between 1920 and 1948. In that period the officers had been permitted to take oaths in connection with mining claims but a recent court decision threw doubt on their legality.

Europe as I See It

By Raymond R. Canon

(Article 60)

GERMAN REARMAMENT

About the hottest subject of discussion in Germany for some time has been the role that the country is going to play in the proposed European army. Ever since the government made public the plans for this contribution, arguments, debates and discussions have been going on up and down the country, signatures have been sought, and in fact just about everyone has had his or her say in the matter.

As the plan stands now, the German government is willing to contribute twelve divisions, six of which will be armored, and three of the others will be half armored. In addition there will be a tactical air force to support. The men for this proposed army are to be taken from those born in 1931-33 inclusive and are to be treated much as citizens in uniform, since they would not spend all their time in barracks, nor would they lose their civil rights. At the same time they would be highly trained and ready to take to the field immediately. The main thing is that there will be no more of the Prussian way of training, nor will there be the military castes that were so characteristic of previous German armies.

Much Excitement

Since there are a great number of students here at the university who are in the proposed age groups, there was a great deal of excitement as soon as the plan was announced. The boys gathered in groups to express their feelings, and it was not long before one group, who were against the proposal, received some pamphlets and circulated them around the school, at the same time requesting as many signatures as possible. Those who came from eastern Germany were admittedly afraid to sign anything for fear the signatures would fall into the wrong hands, with disagreeable results to their families still living in the Soviet zone. The next thing the students did was to organize a debate which was well attended and which lasted until late in the evening. When the important debate took place in the German Bundestag, it was broadcast over the radio and during the two days that it laster attendance at lectures reached an all-time low. We all sat for hours listening to first one speaker extol the plan and then another denouncing it. Of course the two communists could not get through their speeches without referring about a dozen times to the American imperialists, and other similar phases which have become quite well worn by now. The result saw the government carry the motion with a majority of about fifty votes, but even with this there is still much spade work to be done before the formation of any German division is realized.

Big Question

Although the motion was carried the big question is, what do the German people themselves think about it? Certainly they have not held back their feelings to any degree whatsoever so that it is a relatively easy task to list their opinions — whether for or against.

Most of them realize that Germany is caught in the middle and will have to play some part whether she wants to or not. Since she is destined to be no-man's land, how can she make the best of a bad situation? There are those who feel that only by throwing in her lot with the western powers can Germany hope to regain her rightful place among European nations. A neutral Germany overrun by Russia would feel the effects as much. But a German army, ready to take the field as part of an European army would perhaps prevent this occupation or at least shorten it. On the other hand, many feel that no matter which way Germany looks at the problem, she is bound to lose, more so if she chooses sides and so they oppose vehemently any rearmament plan. Although the communists oppose it with just as much fervor it would be a mistake to assume that all those who oppose it are either communists or their sympathizers. Most Germans hate and mistrust the communists as much as we do. It is just that they do not want a war in any form whatsoever. Most of those who took part in the last one are extremely unwilling to take part in another one and are rather pessimistic about the whole matter. Some of them say that if Germany can remain neutral, perhaps a deal can be made with the Russians whereby the country would be able to avoid any war which might follow.

Wishful Thinking

Whether this is wishful thinking or not remains to be seen but it brings us to another important point. Germans still have the tendency to be too nationalistic or even chauvinistic at times. This prevents them from taking a broad enough view of the situation and too many of them are ready to see only their side of the picture, sometimes a distorted one at that. If they would only realize that the day of such extreme nationalism is over, then perhaps their thinking would not be influenced as much as it has. What adds fuel to the fire is the fact that France, the Benelux and even Great Britain, although they issue joint statements of a lofty nature from time to time, stating that they will act only in the interests of western Europe, still continue to behave much the same way as Germany.

What caused the fire of nationalism to burn so brightly in Germany as of late is the fact that the German people have just come to realize that, far from being a defeated and despised nation, they are considered as being an important cog in the NATO machine, for General Eisenhower, no less, states that a German contribution is essential to the success of the project. How often have I heard people, who just a little while ago were anything but definite in their opinions, state quite flatly that only by Germany becoming a full member of NATO should she contribute anything. This cry comes particularly from the socialists. They agree rather grudgingly that something should be done but make full acceptance their price.

Germans' Question

Another reason why many Germans hesitate is that they ask "If it comes to a shooting war, will we be obliged to take up arms against our relatives in Eastern Germany?" It is not a secret that the Russians have been taking many east Germans into a police force which could be turned into an army at a moment's notice. If the country were united this would not happen and the people feel that this can be best brought about by non-participation.

In spite of these objections it seemed a foregone conclusion that work would be started soon on the formation of this army when France decided to appoint an ambassador to the Saar, the industrial region at present controlled by France, but which every German feels should belong to Germany. This was done without consulting the German parliament and Dr. Adenauer, who usually is quite mild in his statements, had some rather harsh remarks for the reporters when they questioned him. Right now it looks that little can be done until both the problem of the Saar and the acceptance of Germany into NATO is cleared up, which will certainly take some time. At least Dr. Adenauer has the backing of the majority of the German people when he begins negotiations on these matters. The United States is anxious to get them solved as soon as possible, and arrival at this solution may well be accelerated by their insistence.

Only when this is reached will the German Wehrmacht march once more. Whether they will continue on a purely defensive basis only the future can tell. If public opinion in Germany is to be believed, I rather think it will.

Three crippled kiddies of the district enjoy an outing at Belleville Fair with their "Shriner daddies". Funds from Shriner ventures such as the Police-Firemen hockey game being played here on Tuesday night will help restore these handicapped youngsters to health in a lot of cases. In nearly all cases they will be helped by medical treatment, appliances and hospitalization thanks to the Shriners. Police, firemen, arena officials, in fact everybody, is doing his best to make Tuesday night's entertainment one that will bring much-needed funds to the Shriners' Crippled Children Fund coffers. You can get your ticket (25c) from any fireman, policeman or Shriner. Help a handicapped child, and enjoy yourself at the same time by attending the "big game" Tuesday night.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By

WINIFRED E. WILSON

UNINTENTIONAL KINDNESS

Like ourselves, the inhabitants of birdland are sometimes unintentionally kind to others, the chief benefactors being woodpeckers. Houses of all sizes are carved by the various types of woodpeckers for their own families, and these are afterwards used by birds that are unable to fashion their own homes. They range from the huge hole, three or more feet deep, excavated by the pileated woodpecker in the trunk of a large tree, to the downy's little apartment with a round entrance only about 1¼ inches in diameter. The doorway of the pileated is oblong almost square, measuring 3½ x 3¼ inches, giving plenty of room for the new tenants, which may be screech owls, sparrow hawks, or wood ducks, to pass in and out.

But the best carpenter is the flicker. This woodpecker and his wife work together, chiselling out their home in some tall, dead tree. It may be only a few feet above the ground, or as much as 90 feet up, with an opening about 2¾ to 3 inches in diameter. Thus a great choice is given. Screech owls occasionally take the very high sites, bluebirds the low, tree swallows medium, and saw-whet owls are not particular.

The tufted titmouse and the great crested flycatcher also depend on woodpeckers for their nests, while chicadees and house wrens rent cavities of some sort, which may very well be abandoned woodpecker homes. As wrens prefer small doorways, and love orchards, they often move into a downy's vacant house.

But several other species, unwittingly, do good deeds. The merlin is a hawk unable to make its own dwelling, so besides woodpeckers' wooden houses also uses the stick nests of crows or magpies. The long-eared owl also likes these. Purple grackles have been known to bring up families in crevices around the edge of big, untidy nests of ospreys when those birds were actually in residence.

Big birds that are not builders find themselves restricted in choice. The 20 inch high barred owl requires either a large hollow in a tree or a large stick nest. The still bigger great horned owl takes over neglected homes of bald eagles, red-tailed hawks, or even herons.

Strange to say, some kinds of ducks now and again lay in the nests of other ducks. The canvas-back is most frequently imposed on, especially by the red-head and ruddy, and these two play the same trick on each other.

Vilhjalmur Stefansson, Explorer, Author, Tells of Life in Arctic

"To colonize the north," said Vilhjalmur Stefansson, B. A., M.A., Ph.D, LL.D. greatest living authority on the Arctic and its people, noted explorer, author, anthropologist and archelogist, as he addressed the packed auditorium of Queen Alexandra School last evening at the open meeting of the Women's Canadian Club, "it is necessary to get an understanding of the economic problems involved by first dismissing problems which are wholly mental."

Dr. Stefansson began by describing the Eskimo who already live there, his manner of life, his clothing, his food, his home and the climate of the country. "Some people think that the north of Canada cannot be colonized," continued the speaker, "but the Eskimos who live there are human beings, and are a happy people."

Necessities of Happiness

Happiness depends upon health and food, housing and proper clothing. This is as true in the tropics as it is in the Arctic, and it is not as excruciatingly cold in the north as some might think. In North Dakota the temperature often falls to 60 degrees below, which is 92 below freezing, and no Arctic blizzard was ever worse than the blizzards which sweep Regina, though the winters are longer and the average cold greater.

In speaking of the clothing worn, Dr. Stefansson compared the clothing he had worn in North Dakota, a frontier garb consisting of heavy woollen underwear, another layer, over that a suit of clothes, over that a light coat and topped by a buffalo coat, the whole averaging between 35 and 40 pounds, and even then one had to run to keep warm, covering a distance of about 36 miles in 24 hours, but shivering was mostly the order of the day, with what he had worn upon his arrival in 1906 at the MacKenzie River, which was a suit comparable to that which he now wore. As he progressed further into the north, he exchanged his clothing for that of the Eskimo.

Clothing Seven Pounds

This consisted of two pieces of caribou hide bonnet and coat, and the lower portion, made by the Eskimo women as air-tight as it was possible to make them, fitting loosely; the bonnet or hood of three to four pounds, rested lightly upon the shoulders and back. The loose coat had long, bat-wing sleeves, tight at the wrist and voluminous toward the body which enabled the wearer to withdraw the hand which might be placed upon the chest for warmth. The whole garment was in reality an air pocket. At 50 degrees below, walking was too warm and to cool off, one removed the mittens, and if that was insufficient, one inserted the finger at the neck and pulled garment out, allowing the warm air to escape. As the caribou skin is somewhat porous, the cold air rises, thus lowering the body temperature. The entire weight of the clothing is but seven pounds.

He was always dry and comfortable. Often he had sat hour after hour upon a block of snow in his seven-pound clothing in the same temperature as when dressed in the 40-pound clothing and shivering. The feet are also warm; a caribou sock and a caribou boot is all that is necessary. One can sleep, walk or stand and always be warm and comfortable and never perspire.

A Healthy People

The Eskimo, as he found them, were a healthy people whose main diet was fish and fresh water, without variation, which provided all the vitamins and minerals needed. There were very little vegetables eaten; only the children ate berries in the summer, but as they grew older this was given up as being childish — like chewing gum. Dr. Stefansson humorously added that some people are healthy with meat without vegetables; some with vegetables without meat, while others seem to be healthy on vegetables and meat.

It is a mistaken idea that the Eskimo lives in ice igloos, for most of the Eskimo houses are made from wood and earth, whalebone and walrus ribs for frame work, with porous snow blocks. The walls lean gradually inward ending in a peak roof. At the base they are six feet thick with earth and snow against the wooden frame, and at the eave ease off to 18 inches; are air tight with an open doorway, and at the top a ventilator about eight inches in diameter; heated with oil lamps which at 9.30 p.m. are turned out else the room would become too warm. There are three degrees of heat in the house—cold, near the floor; cool, upon a seat, and hot, upon a platform. When all candles are out the heat averages between 50 and 60 degrees.

Two Difficulties

There are two difficulties about the north, the real and the imaginary, the latter seeming more real than the real. The imaginary one is exampled by the idea that one must never eat snow to quench one's thirst. This Dr. Stefansson proved to be a false idea as the only difference he could see between eating snow and sherbets was that the sherbets were flavored. However, it were better to lick the snow than to wedge it into the mouth, as there was the danger of freezing the tongue and mouth, since the snow there was much like liquid air, only it acted slower.

The Eskimo language is the most difficult language in the world to learn. It took Dr. Stefansson four years to learn it. There is however, a kind of jargon which is used consisting of about 700 words; but this jargon is not the true Eskimo which is spoken from the Pacific to the Atlantic.

Changes Raiment

On entering the Eskimo house, continued Dr. Stefansson, one stops below the door, removes the outer garments, and puts on a thin knee breech, worn by men and women, and on leaving the house, as one does, often dripping with perspiration, he rubs his body at the front with excelsior from a basket placed there for the purpose, while one of the children rub him down at the back. Then the fur outer garments are put on, the fur inside next the skin which acts as an air space between his skin and the skin of the caribou.

When travelling, the young children are carried in a sort of strap sling, on the back, underneath the mother's garment, naked, and not as erroneously stated under the hood. If the child becomes uneasy, it is lifted out and placed upon a rug upon the snow for 20 seconds and then replaced in the carrying arrangement. Should a wind be blowing, a barrier is erected, and if no place is suitable for a windbreak, a tent is put up. The children never catch cold in this procedure.

The Eskimo population in Canada 150 years ago was one-half million, and now is about 40,000; 1,200 in Siberia; 23,000 in Alaska, in Canada, 8,000, Greenland between 21-22,000. The measles epidemic was the cause of the lessening numbers, but today there is an increase in Alaska and in Greenland, as those who survived the disease are assuming immunity.

Souvenir maps showing his travels in the Arctic were distributed, some of which Dr. Stefansson kindly autographed upon request.

Dr. Stefansson was introduced to his audience by the president of the Club, Mrs. E. Hickey, and appreciative thanks tendered for a most delightful talk by Dr. Bruce Cronk, on behalf of the Club.

Women's Institute

MARMORA W.I.

The regular meeting of the Marmora Women's Institute was held on Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Garth Sabine with a fair attendance of members. Mrs. H. P. Naylor was in the chair and the meeting opened in the customary manner.

After correspondence had been dealt with, Mrs. F. Sweet, gave a paper on "Public Relations and Community Activities". This was followed by a paper on the month's motto, "Those that bring sunshine into the lives of others, cannot keep it from themselves,". by Mrs. M. Kouri.

A humorous reading "The New Church Organ", was read by Mrs. I. B. Nichol, followed by a solo by Mrs. E. Belanger to her own accompaniment.

A scrambled seed contest resulted in honors being divided between Mrs. H. P. Nayler and Mrs. F. Sweet.

Refreshments were served at the close.

GILEAD W.M.S.

The March meeting of Gilead W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. A. Gowthorpe. The president presided and gave the call to worship.

Mrs. Guy Leavens had charge of the worship service, with Mrs. Walter Treverton reading the scripture lesson, and Mrs. Guy Leavens and Mrs. O. Rollins taking the study book.

During the business period, Mrs. C. Martin gave the financial report for the first quarter of the year.

Mrs. John Ross was in charge of the program, which included a hymn, readings by Miss Livingston, Mrs. W. Treverton and Mrs. Earl Ross, a solo by Mrs. Bertrand, and a solo, "Jesus Loves Me," by little Linda Ross.

Following the close of the meeting by Mr. Merrick, refreshments were served by the hostess.

SMOKER'S COUGH?

BUCKLEY'S MIXTURE

SISTERS ALL

By Jean Love Galloway

Our piece on the new coffee bags last week prompted a housewife to draw our attention to another kind of bag which saves work. A food manufacturer now puts up porridge in little sacks - - - You simply drop the required number of individual bags into boiling water. When the cereal inside the sack is cooked enough, you place the sack in the cereal bowl and break it open for eating. This means no goo-ey porridge pan to wash with the breakfast dishes.

Meat

Whether the sign bears any relationship to the national meat upheaval, or whether it was just another misprint is anybody's guess — but we did see in a butcher's window a sign which reads: "Mice Steaks for Sale."

Fashion

The millinery shops are gay with little flower hats for spring. Women's clothes are more feminine and lovely this season than they've been since the turn of the century. The pinched-in waists above skirts pushed out by full, full petticoats, the new coat dresses with their wing sleeves and the crunch-crunch of their metallic materials — these are the fashion changes in 1952 clothes.

The tiny feminine hats are designed for wear over the new "poodle dog" haircuts which saw the hair off to a bare two inches in length all over the nead. They say these soft, short "poodle" curls are most becoming to women with grey hair.

Oooo!

Have you got P.O.? For years we've had to put up with radio commercials and street car advertising about B.O. Then came the D.O. (dog odor) advertisers. Latest now is P.O. This stands for "paupers' odor." If your clothes are a bit shabby and you feel your general appearance is run down at the heel, you are said to be suffering from P.O.

Readers' Saturday Column

QUESTION:

. . . finally I am going to ask you to help me out your recipes are so delicious. . . that fruit cake you gave us in the paper uncooked—well it is certainly something special. . has a nice glaze on it. Could you give me some recipes for Danish pastry. Have you any Swedish recipes for bread or buns. A German lady used to mix up a big batch with yeast and it looked so yellow. . . but she couldn't tell me how because she couldn't speak English.

Would you have any casserole dishes for a hungry gang . . . yeast doughnuts too. . .—Viola.

ANSWER:

I have shortened your letter Viola because I want to save space for my answer. These Danish pastry instructions are long. I would like to ask readers who are interested in Danish pastries to clip this now.

DANISH PASTRY DOUGH

One-quarter cup sugar, 2 tablespoons butter, 1-2 cup scalded milk, 2 well-beaten eggs, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla, rind of 1-2 medium lemon, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1 ounce compressed yeast, 1 tablespoon sugar, 1 cup sifted cake flour, 2 1-4 cups sifted bread flour, 1-2 cup cold butter or butter and margarine. Mix together scalded milk, 2 tablespoons butter and 1-4 cup sugar. Stir in beaten eggs, vanilla, salt and rind. When lukewarm add yeast which has been mixed with the 1 tablespoon sugar. Sift together the sifted flours and gradually add them to form a soft dough. Knead gently on lightly floured board for 5 minutes. Place in greased bowl, brush top with melted shortening, cover and let rise until doubled. Knead again for 1-2 minute. Let rise again until doubled.

The 1-2 cup butter must be washed unless it is unsalted. Squeeze it between the hands under running ice cold water until it is waxy. Divide in 2 portions—keep 1 portion cold while working with the other. Roll twice-risen dough to a 6x12-inch rectangle. Dot two-third of it with pieces of the half portion of butter. Fold unbuttered portion toward you over buttered part, then fold remaining third over the first two-thirds. Press edges together. Cover, on platter, and chill 30 minutes. Roll out to rectangle 8x14 inches and distribute second portion of butter over it the same way. This makes 2 rollings—for after second folding dough is rolled out, then chilled 1 hour. Cut into desired shapes (see below).

DANISH ALLIGATORS

(I think these are close to what you describe Viola.)

Use one-third of dough to make 16 "alligators". Roll dough to rectangle 8x16, brush with melted butter. Filling goes along strip in centre of dough, one-third of the width of the dough:

FILLING

One-quarter cup stewed dates (or strained prunes or apricots or raspberry jam), 1-4 cup (or more) chopped nuts, 1-2 teaspoon lemon juice, 1 tablespoon icing sugar. Fold over uncovered sections to make long strip of dough in 3 layers. Cut into 4 pieces. Cut each piece at wide end to form 4 or 5 sections or slices. Brush with melted butter, place on unbuttered baking sheet, let rise 2 hours, bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for about 15 to 18 minutes. When cool frost with Quick Icing of 2 tablespoons hot milk, 1 1-2 cups sifted icing sugar and 1-2 teaspoon vanilla.

Add a few drop of yellow coloring if this is not yellow enough.

SWEDISH BUNS

(Often used for hamburgers.)

Two cups scalded milk, 1-2 cup soft butter (or other shortening), 1 tablespoon salt, 2 ounces yeast mixed with 2 tablespoons sugar, 2 beaten eggs, about 8 cups sifted bread flour. Pour scalded milk over butter and salt, beat in beaten eggs, and when lukewarm add the yeast and sugar mixture. Sift in the sifted bread flour and beat well. When too heavy to mix with spoon turn out on well-floured board and knead gently for about 5 minutes. Place in gresaed bowl, brush top with butter, cover and let rise in warm place until doubled. Roll out to 1-2-inch thickness. Cut into buns with floured cutter. Place on greased sheet 2 inches apart, cover and let rise until very light and puffy—at least 1 hour. Bake at 425 15 mins.

YEAST DOUGHNUTS

One-half cup soft butter or shortening, 1-4 cup sugar, 1 cup scalded milk, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla, 3-4 teaspoon salt, about 4 cups sifted bread flour, 1 ounce compressed yeast, 2 tablespoons sugar, 2 well-beaten eggs. Pour scalded milk over butter and sugar; add salt. Let stand 2 minutes then beat in eggs and vanilla. When lukewarm add yeast mixed with the 2 tablespoons sugar, then sift in sifted bread flour to form a soft dough. Turn out on floured board to knead for 5 minutes, but do not add enough flour to make dough stiff—it must be soft. Place in greased bowl, grease top, cover, let rise until doubled. Knead 5 minutes. Let rise again. Then pat out, cut out in doughnut shapes. Fry in deep fat at 350 deg. Fahr—starting at 360 as doughnuts chill fat. Turn over once when bottom is golden. Drain on unglazed paper. Sugar when cold.

Doubtless you saw the column on casseroles earlier in the week.

GOOD MANNERS

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Inviting tea guests for definite hour

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My college roommate has become quite a famous professional singer. She is coming to visit me soon, and I am going to give a tea for her, inviting many friends to come. I wrote asking her if she would be willing to sing at this party, begging her to be honest about whether or not she wished to. She wrote back at once saying she would be "delighted, and feel highly honored." But now I can't quite see how I can plan her singing when guests will be coming in and going out during the four-to-seven hours of the tea-party. Any suggestion?—S. R.

Yes. . .you (with her co-operation too, if possible) should decide on a definite hour for her singing, and in your invitation ask the guests to arrive at that hour, not mentioning the usual tea hours, and explaining that the guest of honor is to sing at this hour. Example, either on invitation cards or notes: "Please do come at four-thirty. . .the guest of honor is to sing at five o'clock!"

Special problems of maid of honor when bride lives at great distance

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. My cousin has asked me to be maid of honor at her wedding in May. Since she lives a great distance away, I am confronted with several problems. Since I will arrive at her home only two days before the wedding, and since I hardly know any of her friends, just what will my obligation be as to the giving of a shower, and so forth?

2. What sort of gift can I give them? Would it be proper to give them money?

3. The gowns are being made, and will be paid for before I arrive. Should I ask the price in a letter to my cousin, or ask her when I arrive?—W. N.

1. There is no rule whatever that the maid of honor give a shower for the bride-to-be. . . she may or may not, as she wishes. Certainly under the circumstances, you could not plan to give a shower. If you yourself (or you and your family, if any members of your family are going with you) particularly wish to give a party, you might ask your cousin if she would like to have you give the dinner before, or the supper after, the rehearsal. This party is very often given by a relative; the guests are the parents of the bride, the parents of the groom, the wedding attendants.

2. It would be best taste for you not to give money as a wedding present, but, instead, a present traditionally wedding-type, something you think they will welcome for the new home.

3. Just as soon as possible, you should write to your cousin and ask her the amounts she has paid for your dress and any accessory. Then send her this amount at once. . . don't wait until you arrive, when she will be particularly busy.

Who Buys the Flowers?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Please tell us who buys the bride's bouquet? And who buys the bouquets for the bride's attendants, maid of honor and bridesmaid?—L. B.

The groom always buys the flowers that his bride wears at their wedding. . .certainly he should be the one who buys this most romantic of bouquets! And he buys the corsage that she will wear with her going-away costume. (Also he buys the corsages for the bride's mother and for his own mother; and the boutonnieres for the best man, ushers, the bride's father and his own father.)

But it is the bride's family who plans and pays for the flowers for the bride's attendants, maid of honor and bridesmaids (flower girl or girls, too.)

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Study long, study wrong?

Is there such a thing as spending too much time deciding whether or not to take the decisive step that leads into marriage?

One girl who is hesitating over taking this step has been thrown into a dither because someone has told her delay is sometimes fatal. Yet she is not at all sure that to act more impulsively might not be equally fatal.

She is only in her second year at college, and her boy friend wants to get married immediately. She has many good reasons, however, for preferring to wait awhile.

Several years ago, while they were in prep school, he also wanted to get married immediately. Her mother, quite right wouldn't permit it, so the two young people had a quarrel and broke up. "Out of spite", says girl, the boy at once began to go around with another girl, who presently forced him into marriage by telling him that she was to have his child. Whether or not this was actually true, the girl doesn't say. but she adds that the two of them hadn't been married more than a few weeks when the girl began to "run around" with other boys.

This soon led to an attempt on the boy's part to resume his friendship with his first girl friend, and when, eventually, he divorced his wife he wanted her to marry him at once. "The problem is," the girl writes, "that while I'm sure I love this boy, and want to marry him, I don't think I want to do it as quickly as he wants me to. For one thing, I have college to finish. For another a relative of his told me that all this boy is interested in is having a good time, which makes me wonder.

"Do you think we should get married now? Do you think he's ready for a second marriage? He tells me he wants to settle down and build a home and raise a family but I don't know what to think. Recently this relative of his said to me, 'Study long, study wrong,' meaning that I might lose him if I don't get married now. Will you help me decide?"

Long Enough

How long is long enough for a girl to "study" the matter of whether or not she will marry a certain man?

I would say it was long enough when a girl has carefully weighed what she has learned about a man's character, as shown by his actions over a reasonably long period of time, against the kind of character she really wants in a husband. If this girl does that with this particular man, what do his past action show her about his character?

To translate what she says in her letter into these terms, she is shown a selfish hot-headedness that made him take off and leave her because of her mother's attitude, instead of sticking by her and working the problem out together. She finds a spiteful and revengeful spirit which made him take up immediately with another girl and apparently have an affair with her, since she was able to force him into marriage with a tale of prospective motherhood. She finds a lack of judgment and disregard of possible consequences which impelled him to try and get her to pick up their romance where they left it off, even while he was still married to another woman. She finds no disposition in him to learn from experience that one does not snatch at what one wants and make off with it precipitately, but instead a continuing immaturity which leads him to urge her to marry him at a date set by himself, whether she feels ready to do so or not. And she finds a reputation he has won among his own relatives as a lad whose primary aim in life is to have a good time.

When she puts these things on one side of the scale, and, on the other side, the qualities she would like to see in the man with whom she planned to spend the rest of her life, does the scale balance? If not, which way does it tip?

My own opinion is that no more than one quick look should give her the answer.

BEAUTY

HELEN JAMIESON

Necks can age overnight

It is strange about some good-looks defects. Suddenly they are there, as if they had come but a moment ago. It is unfair business. They should give an advance warning. A fair complexion goes dingy. You discover that the tresses at your temples have thinned, or a few silver threads have appeared. Hands that have been white and normal begin to look id. All these matters should be foreseen. Beauty ills must be fought before you get them. One subject that requires attention, and plenty of it, is the pillar that holds up your head. It can look older than any thing if neglected.

Many a young-looking face tops an old-looking neck. Many a wrinkled throat emerges from the draperies that adorn a slender, youthful figure. Necks are unreliable. A woman is crazy if she puts any confidence in hers. Unless she keeps a careful watch it will go back on her. Mustn't wait for signs of wear and tear. Take out insurance.

Women are fussy enough about their complexions. Most of them obey the rule: wash your face at bedtime with warm water and a bland soap, rinse, dry, and on with the good old massage cream. This five-minute ritual can keep the flesh firm, the skin soft and white. By forcing nourishing oils into the tissues it gives a hands-off sign to old Meanie Time, whose stock in trade consists of frowns, turkey tracks and squint lines. Why not be just as kind to the neck? Iit hasn't done anything. Why should it sit by during the cosmetic party? It does not make sense.

When you do your bedtime beautifying, anoint your fingertips generously with cream and smooth upward over your chest and collar bones, doing wide circles. Start in the centre of your chest and rotate from side to side. Keep moving higher until you are making sweeping circles over the area between the collar bones and jawline.

Keep your head on the level, neck muscles relaxed. Massage manipulations don't benefit tense muscles.

Do up and down strokes with flattened fingers. Include the back and sides of your neck. Put a few dabs of cream on your earlobes. While the cream remains on, give yourself an ice friction to make the blood streams gallop. Then, to further strengthen the fibres of the throat, clasp your hands tightly at the back of your neck and turn the head from side to side.

Licence Granted To Two Former Hockey Players

Toronto, March 15 (CP) — Church and municipal representatives today criticized the Ontario Liquor Control Board for granting a licence for the sale of liquor in the dining-room of a new 25-room hotel in northwest Toronto. The licence was granted to former National Hockey League stars Charles Conacher and Roy Worters.

The latter once played goal for New York Americans. Conacher is a former Maple Leaf player.

Reeve Nelson Boylen of North York township said residents will be "shocked" to learn a hotel is to be located at one of the busiest intersections in the greater Toronto area.

"It would have been only common courtesy for the government to have informed the municipality that a licence was being considered," he said. "This is the first I or any member of the council have heard about the proposal."

Rev. W. D. Stenlake, United Church minister, said it "wasn't a very democratic way of doing things."

Richard Butler Being Discussed As Future P.M.

London, March 15 (Reuters)—Richard Butler is being discussed in parliamentary quarters as a probable future Conservative prime minister when and if Winston Churchill retires.

His success as chancellor of the Exchequer in the new government and his performance in presenting its first budget last Tuesday made a great impression upon the Conservative Party as a whole.

Butler, 49, has Liberal tendencies that sometimes get him in dutch with the more right-wing elements among the Tories.

But his realism, and his sharp, analytical approach to present-day problems have been reflected more and more in his party's recent main policy statements—of which he has been a principal architect.

It seems to be widely accepted that if Churchill—now 77—were to retire, and there have been unconfirmed rumors he might do so soon, the choice of a Conservative prime minister would probably lie between Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and Butler.

"Rab", as Butler is known to friends and headline writers, has little of the platform appeal of 54-year-old Eden. His cool, unemotional personality is in sharp contrast to that of the platform-wise Eden.

But many parliamentary circles consider him potentially the strongest figure in his party—after Churchill, still the undisputed boss—and believe that he might reach the top.

U.S. Probably Already Designing Guided Missiles

Huntsville, Ala., March 15 — (AP) — The United States is planning and probably already designing guided missiles for carrying A-bombs.

How soon is a secret. But Redstone Arsenal here, the army ordnance rocket and guided-missile centre, is one of the designers.

The fact that A-bomb carriers are planned was stated at a public meeting at the arsenal recently by Col. H. N. Toftoy, chief of the rocket branch, Washington. That is all he said.

Guided missiles are rockets, which may or may not have wings, but are able to change their direction in flight.

A guided missile goes faster than sound, and those the U.S. already has, including Germany's V-2 rocket, travel several hundred miles. There is no reported way of intercepting them.

Redstone Arsenal is possibly the chief scientific centre anywhere for guided missiles and rockets. Its staff includes nearly 00 Germans, among them builders of the German wartime V-2, which was a guided missile during part of its flight.

IVANHOE

Mrs. R. Beatty Visits Women's Institute

Ivanhoe.—The March meeting of Ivanhoe W.I. held on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Earl McMaster was well attended. The president, Mrs. William French, presided, Mrs. George Wood recorded the minutes in the absence of Mrs. John Wright. The minutes were read and business arising from them was dealt with.

Brings Greetings

District president, Mrs. R. Beatty, of Madoc, was present and brought greetings from the District, and congratulated the Ivanhoe branch on their activities, mentioning their ability to raise funds, but cautioned the over emphasizing of this phase of the work, and losing sight of friendship and sociability which is after all the chief aim.

Institute members were asked to wear purple ribbon under their pin one inch wide, one inch in length, a symbol of remembrance to the late Sovereign. This was to be worn until May 31st.

Mrs. Beatty concluded her interesting address with a quote from F.W.I.C. president, Mrs. Summers:

"'We build', the motto of Kiwanis International has always appealed to me," said Mrs. Beatty.

"If Women's Institutes across Canada could incorporate the spirit of this motto—with our own —and so build a better, happier home life in each of our homes and as well build better soil on our farms, better communities, better citizens, and stronger national and international links,—we cannot do this through W.I. meetings that have been reduced to little more than a meeting for chit-chat and tea—our meetings must have the vitality of study, discussion and planned action—above all, do not hesitate to make your voice heard on behalf of those things that are right and just.

"A year of responsibilities lies before the W. Institutes of Canada. For our house must be put in order to receive our guests from many countries who will be coming to the triennial conference of the Associated County Women of the World in 1953, to be held in the Royal York Hotel, Toronto August 12 to 23, 1953."

The president on behalf of the Institute members, thanked Mrs. McMaster for opening her home, and Mrs. Beatty for her surprise visit to Ivanhoe branch. Mrs. C. Moon of Madoc, spoke briefly.

A piano selection "Home Sweet Home" with variations was given by Mrs. Keith Bray. All joined in singing "My Wild Irish Rose".

Mrs. Earl McMaster conducted a contest and Mrs. Bray a musical contest.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants.

Senior Hawks Lose 4th Straight To Peterborough Petes By 5-3 Score

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

? ? ? ? ?

Ordinarily that would be that, last night the Petes won their fourth straight victory over the Hawks to take the senior "B" group semi-finals. But the Hawks' protest on the games played thus far seems to have a dulling effect on what may be a cheap Petes victory.

Opportunists that they are, the Petes won the game strictly by taking advantage of opportunities thrown their way and they were not few. After all, six or seven men battling and skating their hearts out cannot expect to win over a team that has plenty of the old spirit and is clicking like a well-oiled piece of machinery.

At that, the Hawks, three goals down going into the third period perhaps in a spirit born of desperation, showed flashes of their former potent scoring power. They outscored the Petes 3-2 and should have had more. But "Red" Doran's lines and power attack did not produce the synchronized offensive that swept the Hawks to the group leadership early in the schedule. The old scoring punch was missing. Then Wardhaugh was taken out of the game late in the first period and did not return.

If we had three stars to dish out we would not hesitate in giving two of them to Don Barrett. "Junior" turned in one of the best efforts of his hockey career scoring two goals and being robbed on two occasions when he outfooted the Petes only to be thwarted by Harding on that worthy's doorstep. Keith MacDonald, Doran and Peter Jones worked their hearts out. Lefort held the fort on numerous occasions, turning back Petes threats and stopping individual attackers on his crease-line. Trumble, Bastedo, Semark, Doug. Day, Desjardins, Huck Reeves battled hard in a lost cause.

HEAR PROTEST TODAY!

While you are reading this, the Ontario Hockey Association sub-committee will be in special session in Toronto hearing the Belleville senior Hawks' protest of the use of junior players by the Peterborough Petes in the current senior "B" semi-finals playoffs.

The Hawks protested the use of three or more Peterborough Links junior "B" squad on the grounds that they are not affiliated with the Petes. The Peterborough Eagles used five Links juniors in their first game against the Kingston Sacs.

The protest seems to hinge on a point of affiliation. And the OHA regulations demand that notice of affiliation must be filed with the OHA secretary prior to the opening of the season. In any event how could the Links be affiliated with both Peterborough senior squads? There's an aroma somewhere, one that is mixing with that of the Eagles-Kingston hassle.

A GOOD JOB!

Looking over provincial reports of minor hockey games it appears the Ontario Minor Hockey Association is again turning in an excellent job of administration. One or two people have fallen out of line and the OMHA has dealt promptly and firmly with the situations. There has been, we believe, less rough play and incidents arising from rough play this season than any in the past. All of which is another feather in the collective hats of Prexy Herb Parker, Secretary Jack Christie and their OMHA cohorts.

This department went out of line at one time to slap the collective wrist of these worthy gentlemen and again the OMHA acted promptly. We received a mild kick in the reportorial pants, with no damage done.

At the moment the score is no runs, two hits, one error and one left on base.

MADE A FAST BUCK!

And we're going to tell this story regardless of what those unbelieving cynics Chick (Stratford Beacon) Appel or Jack (OMHA) Christie think.

Up around Bracebridge way a farmer's cow, tired of the home pastures, had a yen to see the other side of the world and wandered into the bush. There she met up with a travelling deer, and the two enjoyed life for the summer.

Later when little Ferdinand arrived, he was the cynosure of the eyes of the district. He had a bovine face, slim body, and a tail which comes to a point at the end without the "fly-swatter". The legs from the knees down are characteristic of deer with definite pointed cloven hoofs. Also it has the thick neck of a male calf.

But they don't call him "Ferdinand". He now answers to the name of "Half-a-Buck".

COSSA BASKETBALL!

City and district basketball teams left this morning for Toronto where they will take part in the annual COSSA basketball tournament. BCI sent two boys teams and a girls team, Albert College is represented by a senior boys' squad with Trenton High School sending a junior boys' and a junior girls' team to represent the school.

BCI seniors take on the powerful Peterborough CI quintet at Hart House gymnasium at three o'clock with Niagara Falls tangling with Orillia CI an hour later. Starting at one o'clock BCI juniors also play Peterborough with Niagara Falls taking on the Barrie kids an hour later. Junior finals are being played at seven o'clock with the senior title game played at eight.

Belleville CI senior girls take on Port Perry High School at the Ontario College of Education at four o'clock. This game is preceded by that between Newmarket HS and Beamsville HS Trenton HS plays Lindsay CI at 2 p.m. with Midland playing Niagara Falls.

The junior finals get under way at seven o'clock with the senior titlists taking the floor at eight.

Albert College seniors see action against Port Hope High School at Danforth Tech's gymnasium at three o'clock with the Trenton juniors playing Port Perry at one o'clock. Finals in these series will also be played at seven and eight o'clock.

Rally to Score 3 in Third, Survival Hinges on Protest Being Heard by OHA Today

By G. H. CARVER
(Sports Editor)

Barring the ghost of a protest that has hovered over the series since the first two games the Peterborough Petes won the senior 'B' group semi-finals here last night with a 5-3 defeat of the senior Hawks.

Again excluding that phantom, the Petes took the series in four straight games. The Hawks have protested the use by the Petes club of the junior players which they claim are the property of the Peterborough Triple-Links, a junior 'B' club, which was not affiliated with the Petes, conformant to OHA regulations.

Game last night while productive of splashes of good hockey, was not the type that is usually dished up in senior B playoff circles. Perhaps the protest business which will be dealt with by the OHA this afternoon had something to do with it.

Suffice to say that at the end of the game there was no fraternization of players; none of the usual handshakes except in a couple of isolated instances. The players of both squads skated to their dressing rooms as though it were the second game of the scheduled season.

Petes Opportunists

The Petes on the night's play was the better team. They matched canny opportunism with smart passing plays. They had a double check defence in two-way forward lines with a hard-hitting behind-the-blueline solution to Hawks offensives. And the best of them all was Harding in the Pete's cage.

The best hockey of the night came in the third period when the Hawks came up with some of their old dash and fire and outscored the Petes three goals to two. They were down 1-0 at the end of the first period and were three goals behind going into the third.

It was clean hockey with Referees Maurice Walsh and Jim Crombie having little trouble with the boys. They handed out but four minor sentences, three of them going to the Petes.

Don "Junior" Barrett was the best man on the ice for the Hawks' Barrett was flying all night, scored two goals and was robbed of as many more. Keith MacDonald, Peter Jones, "Red" Doran battled their heads off in a lost cause. MacDonald scored the Hawks' other goal and got an assist on one of the Barrett scores. Maurice Lefort turned in another fine performance especially when the Petes sailed in on solos. Harding at the other end was nothing short of sensational as he turned back the Hawks bids time and again. He robbed Barrett twice. Huck Reeves, Bastedo and Semark with Trumble turned in good efforts as did Doug Day.

Gus Leonard stood out for the Petes with a pair of goals. West, Peters and Robinson got the others.

West struck for Petes midway through the first heat. Wade drove the puck down ice to relieve Hawk pressure and West racing down-ice retrieved it and drove it past Lefort for the only tally.

Wardhaugh Hurt

Jack Wardhaugh received a stick in the eye at the 14-minute mark and was carried off the ice. He was sent to hospital where it took twelve stitches to close the wound.

Gus Leonard put the Petes two up in the second period when he broke away from a Hawks' power play to slip Steele's pass into the hemp. Hawks ganged but missed several times with poor shooting and fine work by Harding. Petes rushed back and Peters' blueline shot slithered along the ice to beat Lefort by an inch.

Hawks flashed their old fire in the third heat. Barrett fired home the first Hawk goal on a neat passing play but Gus Leonard got that one back a minute lated. MacDonald with Jones and Doran gave the Hawks their second counter, but with four minutes to go Robinson, ex-Link, fired home a powerplay shot. The Hawks tore into the attack and Barrett on a pretty play with Moher and MacDonald scored the Hawks third counter with seconds to go.

Belleville — Goal, Lefort; defence, Reeves, Semark; centre, Doran; wings, Goyer, Jones; subs, MacDonald, Desjardens, Barrett, Day Wardhaugh, Moher, Bastedo, Trumble.

Wings Acquire Western Stars

Vancouver, March 15 — (CP) — Owner Kenny MacKenzie of New Westminster Royals last night confirmed that forwards Guyle Fielder and Gord Fashoway have been sold to Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League.

Fashoway, top goal producer in the Pacific Coast Hockey League, and rookie Fielder, will report to Detroit next season.

In return, New Westminster will get cash and players.

The deal was believed the biggest ever engineered between the two leagues.

MacKenzie bought both Fashoway and Fielder from Chicago Black Hawks, paying $2,500 for Fielder and $6,500 for Fashoway.

MacKenzie said he expects his goalie, Lucien Dechene, to move to the National League next season. To replace him, MacKenzie has put Roy McMeekin of Kelowna Packers on his negotiation list.

Japs Welcome Hockey Players

Tokyo, March 15 — (Reuters) —Japanese hockey fans yesterday welcomed the news that a team from the 25th Canadian Infantry Brigade is planning a series of games in Japan.

(It was erroneously reported from Korea Thursday that the Brigade team would play against industrial teams in Canada.)

Reports from Korea said 28 Canadian hockey players, fresh from their "seasons" on the frozen Imjin River, will arrive in Japan March 17.

A Japanese hockey fan said yesterday lovers of the sport in Japan look to Canada as leaders of the hockey world.

North Bay Bows To Soo 6-1; Stratford Wins

(By The Canadian Press)

It took Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds six games to repeat their 1951 capture of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association senior A title, but when they did come through in that game that counted, Don Grosso's boys made no mistake about it.

Defeating North Bay Black Hawks 6-1 last night before a record 6,212 fans at Sault Memorial Gardens, Greyhounds earned the right to meet Noranda Copper Kings, winners of the Porcupine Senior Hockey League, in a best-of-seven series for the all-northern Ontario title.

Sault Ste. Marie split four games with Black Hawks and tied a fifth before winning last night's deciding tussle.

In Ontario Hockey Association senior A play, Stratford Indians made it look as though they had regained all their mid-season vim and vigor last night when they downed Owen Sound Mercurys 5-1 in the first game of their best-of-seven league finals.

Indians — who barely scraped through in their semi-finals against Brantford Redmen, winning that series 4-3—made a heavy impression on the Mercurys, last year's Allan Cup champions. The series resumes at Owen Sound tonight.

Guelph Biltmores delighted a home-town crowd last night when they managed to edge Toronto Marboros 3-2 to take a 2-1 lead in their best-of-seven OHA junior A semi-finals. Milts carried the play throughout and outshot the Marlies 35-14 over the route. The teams play back in Toronto Sunday afternoon.

At the Lakehead, Fort William Beavers took a 3-0 lead last night in their best of seven Thunder Bay senior finals when they dropped Fort Frances Canadiens — last year's Allen Cup finalists 5-4. The fourth game is scheduled Sunday afternoon.

167 Hopefuls Nominated For Kentucky Derby

Louisville, Ky., March 15 — (AP) — The lure of the Kentucky Derby's gold and glory resulted today in the nomination of 167 three-year-old for the 1952 renewal.

Only once before in 78 years of competition for the United States' most coveted racing cup have more horses been nominated. The record 196 were named 24 years ago for the 1928 running.

The big pot of names stirred speculation that the biggest of all Derby fields will line up for the 1952 race. The most to answer the starter was 22 in 1928 but purse and prestige considerations are different now, making the challenge more inviting. Last year's Derby attracted 20 starters and there were 45 fewer nominations than this year.

Derby officials indicated they would prefer to "wait and see" before answering the question: "suppose there are more starters than space in the starting gate?"

The nominations include the top three-year-olds developed in juvenile racing last year and early tests for three-year-olds this year.

But on that score, too, the standouts are many, giving added rise to the outlook for a crowded field.

Tom Fool, Hill Gail and Windy City II are best liked at present, but no less than 15 horses have shown enough promise to be pointed for the test of tests.

They All Figure to Win Pennants So Why Not White Sox--Richards

By GAYLE TALBOT

Pasadena, March 15 (AP)—Outside of being pestered by Latin ball players who failed to report to training camp on time, Paul Richards appears to be moderately happy man as he begins his second season at the helm of Chicago White Sox.

The thin man never looks entirely happy and he probably doesn't want his players to either. Baseball to Paul is an extremely serious, 24-hour-a day business. He drives his men with a sort of studied brutality in the spring, harder than any other manager except, possibly, Rogers Hornsby, though fellows who played with him at Detroit and elsewhere declare he was the laziest catcher who ever drew on a uniform.

In his first try as a big-league pilot, Richards yanked the Sox up and deposited them in fourth place in the American League. This was one of the year's outstanding feats.

This time Richards thinks he has a chance to take it all. A year ago when he talked that way he drew some tolerent smiles. But there aren't any smiles this spring. The man has proved he is loaded.

Just Need Help

"I can't see where any club in the league is superior to the White Sox," he says. "All we need is comparable performances from our best men of last year, plus help from several players acquired during the off season."

Paul says his club is going to run again—go for that extra base every time there is the remotest chance of success. This brand of game took the league somewhat by surprise last season and was instrumental in the team's lengthy tenure at the top. The Sox pilot scoffs at a suggestion that Nelson Fox, his great, little second-baseman who walloped the ball for .313 last year, was playing over his head. The boy is only 24, he points out—just finding himself.

Scouts who watched Hector Rodriguez, a Cuban dish perform for Montreal last year, say the Sox have landed the finest rookie coming into the league this spring. He's a third-baseman and they say he can do a little of everything better than most. Richards has seen little of him up to this point, because he reported late.

The most intriguing possibility in the Sox camp is that Richards will carry his young catching phenom, Jay Porter, well into the season. Porter, a strapping kid, played for an Oakland high school only two seasons ago and was handed a $65,000 bonus to sign.

Two-Pound Horse Steak, Mushrooms Daily Diet of Hockey 'Pony Express'

By ALAN HARVEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, March 15 — (CP) — Railbirds would call Les Anning of Rimouski, Que., the "Pony Express"—and when they say pony they mean just that.

Anning, one of the swiftest skaters in British hockey, is also a horse-steak addict. Horse, pony —get the connection?

Every day Anning puts away a two-pound horse steak, smothered in mushrooms and onions. One London newspaper even printed a recipe for "horse steak a la Anning." Follow the simple directions, Les says, and you can't tell it from a porterhouse.

The diet works so well that the Canadian winger is third in the English league scoring list and his team, Earls Court Rangers, second to Streatham.

Les came to Britain from Rimouski five years ago. Before long his mouth began watering for succulent Quebec steaks. He tried whale meat, but that was too stingy. Then a kindly butcher suggested horse meat, and it hit the spot.

Pals Like It, Too

Now Anning not only eats it himself but tries to sell his teammates. One day he went out to a luxury apartment in suburban Chiswick and fried some horse steaks for the three Rangers who share the flat—Ray McNiven and Doug MacDonald of Regina and Gar Woods of Bowsman River, Man.

They were converted. They eat a daily horse steak, prepared by McNiven. Another Ranger, goalkeeper Ken Dargavel of Fort William, Ont., has also switched to horse—but only to the extent of one meal a week.

But Anning is still the most ardent addict. On the day of a game he has toast and coffee for breakfast and a two-pound steak late in the afternoon, followed by a vitamin just before the face-off. "That way I get just as much nourishment as I would in Canada," he says.

On a recent continental tour, Anning streaked around the ice so fast the fans called him "The Bullet."

The winner from Quebec, in his early 20s, lives in Harrow with his English wife, Joan, and their two children. Daily he climbes into a wheezy old British automobile, vintage 1934, and chugs off to see a man about a horse-steak. The provisions come from a continental butcher shop in Richmond, near the rink where Rangers practise.

As a sideline, he runs a skate-grinding concession, sharpening 200 pair of skates used in ice shows and pantomimes.

Here's the recipe for "horse steak a la Anning":

Cover the meat with pepper a day before frying, cut off the fat, fry the steak in half an inch of fat until done nearly rare. Then pile on the mushrooms and onions. "Can't tell it from the real thing," says Les.

Sport in Brief

By The Canadian Press)

Maurice (Rocket) Richard of Montreal's National Hockey League Canadiens, out of action with a groin injury since Feb. 4, will return to the line-up for the game against Boston Bruins in Montreal tonight coach Dick Irvin announced last night.

Richard worked out for 45 minutes with his team mates yesterday.

"It's the best I've felt in a long time," he said. "There's still a little pain but I feel much better."

Rolling up three victories with a high plus of 17, the H. J. Awrey rink of Hillsburg, Ont., Thursday won the top prize at the first annual farmers' bonspiel in Brampton.

Mike King, selected twice as half-back on the Western Interprovincial Football Union's all-star team, yesterday signed a contract for his third season with Edmonton Eskimos. King is a former Toronto Argonaut.

Weston Dukes last night won the Ontario Hockey Association junior B Big Six championship, defeating Toronto St. Michael's 4-2 and capturing the best-of-seven final series 4-3.

In Milan, Italy, Edmonton Mercurys last night wound up their three-game tour of Italy with a 10-0 shutout of a team composed of foreign players living in Italy. The 1952 Olympic champions leave today by train for Zurich, Switzerland, whence they will proceed by plane to London. After seven matches in London, the team is expected to play in Paris.

In Bristol, Conn., a new club which shoots straighter was promised yesterday to golfers. Its shaft is made of fiberglass. The (Norton Bristol Manufacturing) company said: "These glass shafts can be made uniformly as to stiffness or flexibility and experiments so far have proven that straighter shots can be hit with these clubs and there is less possibility of slicing and hooking."

'Don'ts' for Tackle Tinkerers

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT
(Noted Sportsman, Auther and Creater of Solunar Tables)

About two years ago I did a small favor for a gentleman of my acquaintance, something having to do with fishing tackle. To express his gratitude in more concrete form, he insisted that I send him one of my fly rods which might be in need of rewrapping and varnishing so that he could do this somewhat tiresome task for me.

I figured that the northern New England winter evenings are long, dull and extremely cold. Time probably hung heavy on his hands, so I sent him one of my rods. After all, re-wrapping and varnishing is a job that most anybody can do if he has plenty of time.

Having owned and used this rod for a good many years, I was well acquainted with its action and that intangible quality known as "feel." Once you are familiar with a fly rod, you don't forget those things.

Eventually the rod was shipped back to me — brave in its new wrappings and smelling of fresh varnish. I joined the sections so that I could admire it all in one piece. Somehow it did not feel right - - - something was wrong.

I dug a reel and line out of the tackle kit and took the rod out on the lawn. A few trial casts told the story - - - that rod had been scraped down and then polished with steel wool or fine sand paper. It bore not the slightest resemblance to the old friend that I had sent in for overhaul.

All right - - - here's the lesson to be learned from that sad experience. Don't scrape a rod to remove the varnish. Instead, soak the varnish with varnish remover and then remove the softened varnish with a cloth.

There is a good reason behind this "don't." Here it is. The flexibility formula which governs the determination of rod action states that flexibility varies as the cube of the diameter. Thus, a reduction of as little as one thousandth of an inch makes a great deal of difference in the way that rod will bend.

Scraping, no matter how carefully done, is bound to remove some of the wood. Sanding or polishing, to provide for a smooth finish, removes more wood. Do these things and you can't help but alter the action of the rod, probably for the worse.

And while we are talking subjected to repeated, sustained wettings, the result will eventually be harmful.

Don't hang your rod in an outdoor rack at night when you are at camp. Admittedly, a rod rack is a handy thing and it eliminates the fuss and bother of bringing the rod indoors. However, a coating of dew each night operates about the same as leaving your rod in the lake overnight. The rod is bound to suffer from such exposure.
about rods, here's another "don't" for you. Don't forget periodically to inspect your rod or rods for nicks in the varnish. The primary purpose of varnish is to make your rod waterproof so that the wood stays dry.

A nick in the varnish or a break in the windings at the ferrules leaves an opening where moisture can enter. Repeated wettings and drying eventually produces a dry rot. A little care will prevent trouble and breakage later on.

There has yet to be a varnish invented which is not slightly porous. Even repeated coats will not render the rod 100 percent waterproof. Thus, if a rod is Instead of leaving it outdoors, place it in its cloth case, and stand it in an out-of-the-way corner. That way it will be safe, dry and undamaged.

Don't lean your rod against an automobile while you are preparing to go fishing. Once it is assembled, take it away from the car and stand it up in a convenient bush or against a tree or fence. All too many rods are broken around cars every year - - - shut in doors, knocked down and stepped on, all sorts of things.

Play safe and keep it away from the car while it is assembled. Then, when you are preparing to go home, take down your rod first thing, put it in its case and put away your reel. Then, and not until then, change clothes and attend to the rest of your gear.

If your fly line becomes dry and develops "reel coil," don't try to "break it down" by one of the rougher methods, such as drawing it through the tines of a fork. Dress it with good line dressing and polish it with a cloth. Mild tention and friction will soon bring it back to usable condition.

If your fly line becomes sticky or "tacky," don't throw it away. Instead, go to your druggist and get a quart or two of lime water. Soak the line in the lime water for an hour or so; then rub it down with a cloth. Repeat if necessary. When tacky feeling has gone, dress it with line dressing. It should give you several more years of service.

Don't use an abrasive such as steel wool or sand paper, on your rod ferrules to make them fit. Instead, clean them thoroughly with alcohol or lighter fuel. With a cloth, clean the inside of the female ferrule as well as the male ferrule. You will find that they joint just as well as they did when they were new.

Ferrules will become loose and worn with age. When this happens, don't try to tighten them by knocking them out of round with a hammer. Instead, rub a little bee's wax on the male ferrule. In this way you can get the exact degree of desired snugness.

Don't forget to keep your hooks sharp. Hook points become dull with use. A tiny bit of rust is all it takes to dull a hook point. They can be brought back to needle sharpness with a small emery stone or hook hone.

Don't use deer fat or, for that matter, any animal or vegetable fat as a line dressing. These will oxidize quickly and, in turn, oxidize the finish on your line. Use only the prepared line dressings. These are made of mineral oils, sometimes mixed with a little wax to add polish, and they will not injure your line.

Finally, don't discard those mussed-up flies and lures. Try steaming them by holding them in the spout of a tea kettle with a pair of tweezers. After this treatment most of them will look almost like new.

Ma sent in a rime to try to win the 2000 doller prize for the best 2 lines to be ued in a singing commercial for Flurry Flakes, being Use Flurry Flakes for goodness sakes, They are what they are because they've got what it takes, and last nite she said to pop, Oh dear, William, I know I'll never win that 2000 dollers, I'm just not the lucky tipe.

Giving me a idea, and I said, Well G, ma, if you get lucky and win, do you promise to buy me a bysickel?

If I was' ever lucky enough to win 2000 dollers I'd buy you a gold mounted bysickel with streem lined brakes and reversible handlebars, ma said, and I ran up to my room and got the lucky horseshoe I found in the empty lot and went and stuck it under the bottom sheet in ma's bed thinking, Oh boy, if she finds it she'll be just as lucky as the ferst one that found it.

Meening me, and this morning at breakfist ma said to pop, William, I'm a living proof that most of our so-called fizzical ills and trubbles are caused by pure imagination. Call it sycho-somatic or whatever you please, she said, and pop said, I call it bunk.

Then listen to my experience and scoff no more, ma said. Last nite I had the most vivid dreem that I was kicked by a strange horse, and this morning when I woke up, low and behold there was a horseshoe shaped bruise on my leg in the exact spot I dreemed the horse kicked me, she said, and I thawt, Heck, she didn't find it.

Yee gods, pop said, and I said, Well gosh, ma, didn't you even look?

Of course I looked, how elts could I see it? ma said. Now dont interrupt I'm talking to your father, she said, and I said, Yes mam.

And I quick snuck upstairs and got my lucky horseshoe.

Hollywood, March 15 (AP) —It's Oscar time again, and the signal for reminiscing about Academy awards of the past.

Next Thursday night will bring a whole new set of memories.I have witnessed eight other awards presentations and each one brings back sharp recollections. For instance:

1943—Jennifer Jones was the star of this one, winning for her first big role, in "Song of Bernadette." No one was happier for her than her husband, the late Robert Walker. The actress' boss, David Selznik, now her husband, also was there.

1944—This was the year of the big "Going My Way" sweep. Bing Crosby was handed his Oscar by the emcee, Bob Hope. The other winner was Ingrid Berman.

1945— "Lost Weekend" and Ray Milland won this year. I can recall Milland fortifying himself with a drink or two before the event. Joan Crawford was the star of a great comeback story, winning for "Mildred Pierce" after Hollywood had said she was washed up.

1946—This event was noted for "The Best Years of Our Lives." And Harold Russell's holding an Oscar in each artificial hanr. Also for Olvia de Haviland's snub of her sister, Joan Fontaine."

1947—The year of the big upset. Rosalind Russell came prepared to win for "Mourning Becomes Electra" but her friend, Loretta Young won the big prize for "The Farmer's Daughter."

1948—You couldn't forget John and Walter Houston, arm-in-arm with their three Ocars for "Treasure of the Sierra Madre." It was a great father-and-son act that was soon to be broken up by Walter's death. Walter was a native of Toronto.

1949—Broderick Crawford and "All the King's Men" swept the boards. Olivia de Haviland was on top again, this time, for "The Heiress."

1950—This was the year of the absentee winners. Both Judy Holliday and Jose Ferrer got the news in New York.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes, and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR MONDAY, MARCH 17

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Review habits, inclinations, desires. Often we must curtail where we least expect if we would right our course, better our living. Don't choose only the things you like to do.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—It's a grander world than most of us realize. One real look into it proves as much. The grace of God to see His gifts, appreciate them should override temporary troubles.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—A nice big "A" for amenableness, appreciativeness, etc., in today's zodiacal chart—for you to enjoy and also to build upon. The good is available for your taking.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—This day asks co-operation, truer love for fellow man, real appreciation of the niceties in life. And offers in return peace of mind and contentment on which there is no monetary value.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo)—Look for the best in everything, and in even the smallest or meanest you will find some worth. Leo surely can ferret out a person's or a thing's real value. Pray as you go.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)—No starting this day with misgivings or little frettings. Be your true, big self, and build good will about you. A fine time for reflection on how we are going where.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Look briefly into you, then look up and onward to the many good things you will accomplish, to the many others you will surely help if you keep this attitude along the way.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—May say you could do with a better day, but—don't we all? Seldom do we know the best days while we have them; when others arrive, we worry. Well, use each day wisely and try to have few regrets.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—The Life of St. Patrick has been read and re-quoted the world over; it fits today as an example of fortitude, humility and greatness as it did long ago. A little prayer helps, too.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Your planet Saturn is as strongly in favorable aspect today as any day this month. Don't let down sensible, everyday guards, but do put a firm foot forward, briskly, assuredly.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—If your day is free, use it sagaciously, if you must work, as with most of us, aim to start a fresh page with no old errors still showing beneath erasure marks. Heed health needs.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Excellent configurations to bolster a serious-minded, albeit cheerful attitude; to build strength of will.

YOU BORN TODAY are artistic and practical. A wealth of talent, but much of it dormant, needing to be prodded at regular intervals. Though at times seemingly passive and negative, you are of fruitful, creative mind. Buoyant, soundly ambitious associations, at home or work, help keep you on the progressive road to fine, perhaps great, success, as, often with Pisces. Feast day of the great St. Patrick; birthdate of Alexander McKay, publisher.

Nobody Loves Forever

By Margaretta Brucker

Whenever she returned from these meetings with David, Jessica felt an odd sense of guilt and disloyalty to Betsy. Why? Didn't she plan to marry David, not only because she loved him, but because David would be a better father than Tom? He could give Betsy things.

What things? The question mocked her. Money? Social position?

She might have weakened, even then, in her resolution to leave Tom if she hadn't been so irritated by her mother-in-law and Genevieve. Genevieve came often now to consult with Tom's mother about plans for his homecoming. She was helpful, interested.

She asked Jessica "aren't you excited?"

Jessica said dryly. "I've lived alone so long it will be queer to have Tom back." Which it would. She dreaded his appearance and started every time the door opened, expecting to see a tall, broad-shouldered man with hair blond like Betsy's and eyes blue-gray like Lucy's.

"Tom may be sent out again," Genevieve suggested.

"Tom has done quite enough for his country," said his mother. "It's time that he took charge of his family now."

Genevieve said innocently, "I suppose Tom will live here, won't he?"

Mrs. Blake screwed the last cover on a jar of pickles. "I should hope so. It's time someone took the burden off Lucy's shoulders. I declare I don't know what's wrong with her these days."

Jessica surprised an odd gleam in Genevieve's shrewd eyes. "Maybe she works too hard," she hinted.

Doris thought the same. "Lucy works like a slave for Hugh Linton," she remarked one day.

"Try to stop her," said Jessica, absorbed in her own thoughts and wondering just how to approach Doris on the subject of divorce. Doris had stubborn ideas about loyalty.

"I plan to leave Tom," Jessica said suddenly. There! It was out.

"I thought as much. David Gregory?"

Jessica nodded.

"How did you drift into that?"

"I didn't drift. Probably fate."

Doris said dryly. "Don't hand me that line. Fate has nothing to do with the mess you'll make of your life if you make not one but two mistakes."

"I love David and he loves me,"

"You love what David represents," said Doris bluntly. "You love the idea of stepping into the kind of life you led until you met Tom Blake." She shook her auburn head. "It's no good trying to go back, my girl. Look, you married one man whom you'd known too little, and now you plan to leave him and marry another one whom you know less. Love-making tricked you once—"

"It isn't tricking me, as you put it, into another." Jessica prepared to leave, stung by the accusation in Doris' steady eyes. "I've considered the whole affair. I've refused to run away. I plan to wait and discuss the wholething calmly with Tom."

"He'll never let you go."

"He can't keep me."

"He can keep Betsy. Just remember that Tom's a returned serviceman and there will be little sympathy for you when you attempt to leave him for another man and try to separate him from his child. You haven't reckoned with the Blake stubbornness, Jessica."

"If he tries to take Betsy away from me I'll hate him."

Doris shrugged. "Did he listen to your wishes when he left you with Mother and Lucy? Try to oppose Tom and see where it gets you."

"David will find a way," said Jessica confidently.

She hurried back across the street and found Betsy seated on the living room sofa with her fat legs sticking straight out, her blue eyes bright with interest. In her lap a picture of her father. At her grandmother's entrance she looked up. "Daddy!" she said proudly, and raised the picture and hugged it close.

Mrs. Blake rocked steadily in a chair opposite. "What else?" she asked, with a triumphant gleam in her pale eyes.

"I love Daddy," Betsy said dutifully with her blue eyes fastened upon her grandmother's face.

"That's right," approved Mrs. Blake.

Lucy looked up from her sewing. "What else did you learn?" she asked.

Betsy puzzled for a moment, then repeated in a shrill monotone, "God bless Daddy. Bring him home soon."

Mrs. Blake said "it's time she learned to say her prayers. Lucy taught her that. I can remember when I taught Tom."

"It's your bedtime, Betsy," said Jessica. "Give me the picture." She reached out a hand, but Betsy eluded her, shook her head and gripped the picture. "Daddy," she announced stubbornly.

For the first time Jessica wanted to shake Betsy. In her absence Mrs. Blake had busied herself instilling in the child a knowledge of her father. Not because Betsy interested her, thought Jessica angrily, as she dragged the child from the room, but because she guesses this constant talk about Tom maddens me. She's used Genevieve, even Lucy, to annoy me with her hints about how happy I should be, how overjoyed at Tom's return. Now she has started with Betsy, filling her mind with ideas and whipping up an interest in someone who means nothing to her.

If only the days of waiting would end!

Once more the household dropped back into the dull everyday routine of living. David was out of town on a trip to the west coast which would keep him away for two weeks. Somehow Jessica welcomed the chance to be alone and have time to think, time to force her thoughts back instead of eagerly straining forward, time to take stock of herself and the future.

She had the money from her ring. David must not be ashamed of her and, in a reckless moment, she bought a new winter coat and hat, and was shocked to find how little was left of the money she had been keeping for an emergency.

She thought about that ring as she bundled the new things far back into the wardrobe where Mrs. Blake would not discover them. Had Hugh Linton given the ring to his daughter for a present at her debutante party? Some day she would ask David, for David had gone to that party. They had almost quarreled in consequence, for she felt oddly lonely and hurt to think of David dancing at the ball which headlined the Sunday paper; David, dressed as she had never seen him and that girl, with the long pale hair, unaware that David belonged to her.

Did anyone know?

Lucy, perhaps, although Lucy was too absorbed in some troubled thoughts of her own these days to concern herself about Jessica.

Lucy grew thinner and her lovely skin was almost transparent. She took violent exercises. Hikes far off into the country with a Y group. Sometimes she did not return on Saturday but came in on Sunday afternoon looking tired and exhausted. She became distraught and withdrawn.

Probably, we're all tense because of Tom's return, thought Jessica.

It was like Tom not to advise them of his movements. The uncertainty made Jessica nervous and distrustful of her own judgment. She almost quarrelled with David upon his return from the coast.

"Soon the whole affair will be ended," he told her consolingly. "Just a little while longer, although I still insist it would have been better for you to have written to Tom that you no longer loved him."

"That would be cruel and cowardly," said Jessica. They sat in a little wayside restaurant, one scarcely frequented now that the summer was over. Jessica wore the new coat and hat, and David's admiration had quite reconciled her to her extravagance when they set off that afternoon.

But now her pleasure was clouded again by the thought of the scene ahead with Tom. She told David this and he said "we'll never have scenes when we're married."

She did not meet his eyes for ain instant. When she did, she said slowly, "I can't imagine being your wife, David."

"Why not?"

She shook her head doubtfully. "It's more unreal than my marriage to Tom. The nearer the time comes to Tom's return the more any hope that he will release me vanishes. You don't know Tom."

"You'll never fail me now will you, darling?"

When David touched her hand she forgot her apprehensions. They were very gay for a little while. It was on the tip of her tongue to question him about Sara Linton but she disliked breaking the spell of their happiness together by any hint that she felt jealous of another girl.

"David," she said suddenly, "I am not going to see you again until after I've talked with Tom. Until I feel that I've broken with Tom completely, until I am back in my own home with my father. Then I want you to come nad meet my father. I feel—please try to understand how I feel," she pleaded.

His eyes were troubled. Did they reflect a touch of the apprehension which she felt?

"You love me?" he asked anxiously.

She smiled at him and reached across and slid her hand under his, and her touch reassured him. "Of course," she said. "Sometimes I'm silly and full of fancies—"

"You've gone through enough heartache to make you doubt the future. Promise that you'll never do that, darling. I'll try to understand and try not to see you, but it will be hard, desperately hard."

And when they went out into the crisp autumn dusk he took her in his arms and held her, kissed over and over until she drew away quite breathless.

"Here is where you belong," said David roughly. "This is where I want to keep you always, Jessica, close to my heart. Don't ever leave me."

She was moved as she had never been moved by his kisses, uncertain of her own wisdom in demanding that they make no engagements until Tom's return.

She said goodbye and her fingers clung to David's convulsively. "It will be just for a little while," she promised.

She watched him drive away, wanting to retract the promise she had asked of him not to call until she could tell him she was free from her hasty marriage to Tom Blake.

Suppose something happened and she never saw David again? The thought terrified her. What could happen now to separate her from David?

CANADIAN WOMAN HELD IN $1,500,000 ROBBERY

$50,000 in Cash, 28 Pieces Jewelry In Her Possession

Mrs. Marie Michaud Sixth Person Arrested in Case

Flagstaff, Ariz., March 17 (CP)—Mrs. Marie Jeanne d'Arc Michaud, 36-year-old song writer born in Ste. Agathe, Que., who is held as the possible tip-off woman of the $1,500,000 Redfield burglary at Reno, screamed hysterically in her jail cell today.

Agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation took her off an eastbound train here yesterday. She had $50,000 in cash, 28 pieces of jewelry and a package of securities.

Mrs. Michaud is held under $100,000 bond on a charge of inter-state transportation of stolen property.

She had been a guest in the La Verne Redfield home so often that he said he was "shocked and greatly upset" by her arrest. "Why, I trusted her implicitly," he added.

Started Screaming

Upon awakening in her cell, Mrs. Michaud started screaming in French and English. She huddled on her cot with two blankets piled on her head. A jail matron sat at the foot of the bed, watching every move.

A hearing on her removal to Reno was scheduled for later today.

(In Montreal, sources connected with entertainment and art circles said they believe the woman held at Flagstaff once performed in Montreal as a pianist. These sources said she had married a Dr. Laurent Michaud who practised for a time in the Abitibi area of northwestern Quebec before going to the United States.

The blue-eyed French-Canadian writer-artist is the sixth person arrested in connection with the Feb. 29 burglary. Four are men, two women.

Mrs. Michaud was arrested yesterday on the California Limited en route to Chicago. She was arraigned on charges of conspiring to transport stolen goods across state lines. Bail was set at $100,000.

The $50,000 which FBI agents said she carried was the biggest piece of loot yet reported recovered. Arresting agents made no estimate of the value of securities or jewelry she carried.

Redfield reported $300,000 cash, some $250,000 in jewelry and $1,000,000 to $2,000,000 in securities was stolen from his safe.

Almost simultaneously with her arrest agents hoisted the safe from a mine shaft in desolate country near Reno. It was smashed and empty.

Hinted Finger Woman

The safe had been stolen in a noontime burglary.

Investigating officers hinted Mrs. Michaud was the finger woman.

F. B. I. agents reconstructed the crime like this:

Several weeks before the burglary, John Trillegi, 37-year-old Milwaukee hoodlum, met Louis (Firpo) Gazzigli, 44, 230-pound former prizefighter, here. Late in February they drove to Milwaukee and picked up Andrels Robert Young, 46, former convict, and Frank Sorrenti, 38, a petty criminal.

They were back in Reno two days before the burglary. The F. B. I. charges the quartet carted away the 400-pound safe in midday in view of six neighboring homes.

The case began to crack after Mrs. Leona Mae Giordano, 38, Reno cocktail waitress, was arrested trying to pass a $1,000 bill. She has not been charged with participating in the burglary.

U.S. Jets Spray Front Positions, 75 Reds Killed

Communist Shore Guns Hit Flagship U.S. Fleet

Seoul, Korea, March 17 (AP)—United States Shooting Star jets today sprayed front-line communist troop and artillery positions with rockets, bombs and bullets.

Pilots reported killing more than 75 red soldiers, destroying 15 guns and 28 troop bunkers and damaging a tank.

F-86 Sabre jets flying cover for the Shooting Stars exchanged shots with 12 communist MIG-15 jets, but reported no hits. Sunday Sabres destroyed three MIGs, probably shot down two and damaged eight in the first air battle in four days. U. S. losses were not announced.

Communist shore guns hit the superstructure of the battleship Wisconsin, flagship of the U. S. Seventh Fleet, off Korea's east coast Sunday. Three sailors were slightly injured. Damage was described as superficial.

The Shooting Star jets concentrated on communist positions along the eastern and central fronts.

Ground action was minor Monday under a thawing spring sun. Only light patrol clashes were reported by Eighth Army headquarters

Ground Action Light

Infantrymen warmed their chilled bones under one of the warmest suns since last fall but ground action remained light and scattered.

One allied division marked St. Patrick's Day by firing green smoke shells at the reds.

At noon Monday (10 p. m. EST Sunday, the U. S. Eighth Army clamped new censorship on front line troop designations.

Heaviest ground action Sunday was south of Kosong on the eastern front. Three allied raiding parties fought stiff skirmishes with the reds and killed at least seven communist soldiers.

On the central front a U. S. 2nd-division patrol fought a 10-minute, hand-grenade battle, killing four reds.

The British destroyer Concord foiled a communist night raid against Yongmae Island off the west coast. The reds tried to cross the mud flats from the mainland at low tide. The Concord sent star shells high into the night skies for illumination, then hurled high explosives at the reds, driving them back.

Dangers of Atomic Attack Growing In Big Centres

--- Conant

London, March 17 (Reuters) — Dr. James B. Conant, Harvard University president and a leading U.S. Nuclear scientist, said today the danger of atomic attack is growing daily for people in the industrialized centres of Britain, Canada, and the United States.

"Month by month the stockpile of atomic bombs in Russia mounts," he said. "There is no priority of nations in this matter. We talk, together, all of us, in the valley of the shadow."

Delivering the Stevenson lecture at the London School of Economics Conant said the only way to prevent atom bombs from falling is obviously to prevent a third world war.

Conant regretted the "barriers to full Anglo-American co-operation in all aspects of Allied nuclear physics." Bad feeling over exchange of atomic information among Britain and Canada and the U.S. "might have been avoided by greater frankness at the outset."

Provision for sharing knowledge among friendly countries and keeping the public informed "requires a careful weighing of the balance between the demands of security and the demands of liberty."

Mayor's Threat To Seize Loot Brings Retort

Toronto, March 17 — (CP) — Mayor Allan Lamport today found himself at loggerheads with the Canadian Bankers' Association over his suggestion that the city should confiscate part of any money recovered from recent bank robberies.

The mayor said the banks had been careless in handling the money and some of it should be used to reimburse citizens and policemen injured in pursuit of the robbers.

L. G. Gillett of Toronto president of the C.B.A., released a statement last night which termed the Saturday suggestion as "hastily-conceived and ill-considered."

The statements said the banks have intensified their precautionary measures but were not prepared to hire a private police force "which for the Toronto branches alone would cost around $1,000,000 per year."

The mayor countered last night by saying the banks are "putting dollars over human lives." He added: "Apparently they want a showdown. Well, I'm stronger than ever in my view."

Fail to Guard is Claim

Saturday the mayor hinted that authorities may soon recover much of the $163,000 stolen in district bank robberies in the past 15 months. He said the banks had failed to guard their funds properly.

Mr. Gillett's statement said "continual emphasis is placed on the need for keeping counter holdings of cash to the minimum which proper service requires."

It noted that the banks paid the city almost $1,800,000 a year in business and property taxes and said "they share the pride of the public generally in the excellent police work of the past 10 days, and, as has been their policy, their approbation will be manifested in a tangible manner."

The mayor's suggestion, it said, "can only be regarded as a hastily-conceived and ill-considered statement, quite out of keeping with the character expected of the holder of an important public office and one that for all concerned should best be forgotten."

Remarked the mayor: "That last remark is a most annoying one, most unfriendly and most unco-operative."

N.Y., ILLINOIS BOXING CLUBS FACING CHARGES

Said to Control Pro Boxing in Two States

New York, March 17 (AP) —The International Boxing Clubs of New York and Illinois were charged today with conspiring to monopolize the professional championship boxing business in the United States. The department-of-justice complaint was made in a civil action in federal court.

Owners of the clubs, James D. Norris of New York and Arthur M. Wirtz of Chicago, and the Madison Square Boxing Corporation of New York, also were named defendants.

The defendants are accused of conspiring to restrain and monopolize championship boxing bouts.

Chief Promoters

The clubs, of which Norris is president, are the chief promoters of professional boxing matches in the United States.

Norris and Wirtz, together with the Madison Square Garden Corporation, are principal stockholders of the New York-Illinois International Boxing Clubs.

The complaint said the defendants obtained contracts from the champions and leading contenders in all major weight divisions requiring, as a condition of participating in title bouts, to box exclusively for the I.B.C.

Through this means, the charges said, the I.B.C. excluded others from the promotion of such fights, and controlled the sale of radio, television and motion picture rights at the contests.

The defendants also were accused of obtaining exclusive use of all principal arenas in New York, Chicago and other large cities suitable for staging championship bouts.

Through the conspiracy, the charges said, the defendants had succeeded in 1949 in eliminating the Tournament of Champions Inc., the leading competing promoter of championship matches.

In Washington, Attorney-General J. Howard McGrath said the suit was aimed at "removing the monopolistic control of professional championship boxing imposed by these defendants.

St. Patrick Could Not Have Had Word Against the Way His Memory Kept

Dublin, March 17—(AP)—St. Patrick was a dacent man, the ballad says, and came from the dacent people. And even he couldn't have had a word to say against the way his memory was kept green in Dublin this blessed day.

There was a big parade and enough shamrock on hats and lapels to make a carpet the long length of O'Connel Street. But everybody was well-behaved as a young gossoon courting his first colleen. There was not a shillelagh in sight.

It was small credit to them, of course, since there was not a public-house in the town open.

It looked as if every man in the country and his mother were in town for the day. Everyone wanted to see the parade and a brave sight it was too. There were bands galore but none of them to beat the girl pipers. They were as fine a sight as you would see in a month of Sundays, their saffron cloaks floating from their shoulders and their green kilts swinging to the skirl of a jig or a reel.

For two full Irish miles, wagons and floats stretched along the streets and all were got up to show some product of Irish work, whether it was the hard brown turf cut from the boglands of Kerry or the electric light itself that was trapped like the salmon from the River Shannon at Limerick.

The parade, stretching from Trinity College down over the Liffey and circling around sculptured Parnell, took over two hours to pass. And by the time it finished the onlookers were every bit as tired as the craytures marching, what with the clapping and the cheering and the young fellows with the come-hither eyes giving an odd whistle at the girls.

It was tht devil's own thirsty work. Little wonder, then, that there was a record crowd at Ballsbridge later in the day to see the annual dog show. For this was one of the only two places where a man could buy a bottle of stout or a ball of malt—that's Dublin for a glass of whisky.

Many a man who normally would not be seen dead with anything smaller than a gun dog wanted to bring home a Pekinese before the day was out.

He had his pick of Gaelic football or hurling, soccer or rugby. And the night was before him in the mansion house where he could dance 16-hand reels with the finest romping colleens in all Ireland.

President of Dairy Council Says Industry Has Been Made 'Victim' of Government Policy

Seigniory Club, Que., March 17 (CP)—Canada's huge dairy industry, doing about $750,000,000 worth of business a year, has been made a "victim" of Canadian government policy, J. S Turnbull, President of the National Dairy Council, said today.

In a 6,000-word, presidential speech prepared for delivery before the council's annual meeting, Mr. Turnbull charged that immediately after the Second World War, the government "perpetuated artificial shortages" through its bulk-purchasing contracts.

These contracts, mainly with the United Kingdom government, maty have been necessary during the war, he said, but they were continued after the war against the council's recommendation.

"These actions gave rise to the major problem we now are experiencing — consumer antagonism and resistance against rising prices for milk and milk products and an irresistible clamor for substitutes."

If milk prices had kept pace with price climbs in other commodities, milk now would be selling for about 30 cents a quart, observed Mr. Turnbull, and not the 21-cent-a-quart price it now averages.

"Consumer resistance, substitutes manufactured from cheap imported oils and imports of dairy products from abroad have continued to aggravate the production decline to the point where last year we had the lowest per capita production of milk in Canada on record."

Not at Same Rate

Because of the fact that prices have not increased at the same rate as other products, Mr. Turnbull felt that the industry was "entitled to expect a more sympathetic attitude and appreciative understanding of our situation by governments and consumers."

He said the industry will propose, as a means of protecting it against competition from butter substitutes, that the Canadian government impose an excise tax on all substitute products.

"In this demand we are asking for only the type of treatment which has been and now is extended to other basic industries. I suggest that the time is long overdue for government action on the problem."

But while the industry will seek this "protection," dairymen had a responsibility to Canadian consumers to provide high-quality products "at the lowest possible cost consistent with the quality and services which they have demanded of them."

"We must be unremitting in our efforts to exercise maximum per capita consumption of our products.

"We must, with the aid of fundamental, practical marketing research, be constantly searching for ways and means of improving on our products and developing new outlets."

Request to Drop Coloring Ban On Oleo Given Cold Reception

Toronto, March 17 (CP)—A request from the Provincial Council of Women that Ontario drop the coloring ban on margarine was given a cold reception today by the agriculture committee of the Ontario legislature.

Thomas Pryde (PC—Huron) said that if margarine sales increase "we'll have no dairy farmers left."

Mr. G. Kerr of Windsor, acting president of the council, said the majority of its 28,000 members felt the coloring ban was a nuisance act."

Her claim that coloring of margarine wouldn't increase its sale was generally opposed.

"This will increase the sale of margarine, whether we say so or not," said John Root (PC—Wellington North). It would further remove the dairy farmer's initiative to produce milk.

Roscoe Robson (PC—Hastings East) said coloring of margarine would "deceive" people into thinking it was butter.

Art Child (PC—Wentworth) said the council of women was trying to balance the nuisance value of uncolored margarine against the possible harmful effects on the agriculture industry.

"The big packing houses stand to make more money than anybody else in this," he said. "Once the demand for margarine goes up, the price will be raised.

Norris Whitney (PC—Prince Edward-Lennox) said there was no need to remove the coloring ban to encourage the growers of soy beans, one of margarine's principal ingredients, since Ontario growers still filled only one third of the demand for soy beans.

"We should not help the soybean growers while dairy farmers are having trouble selling their produce," he said.

RECORD TEA OUTPUT

Karachi — (CP) — Current reports show Pakistan produced a record quantity of 53,100,000 lbs. of tea in 1951 despite unfavorable weather conditions. The area under cultivation rose to 81,600 acres. Under international agreement the maximum tea acreage for Pakistan is 83,700 acres.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, March 17 (CP) —Synopsis: Strong March winds have been sweeping cold air from the north down over Ontario the last couple of days. These are slackening now and warmer weather is moving toward the province from the west. Although skies will gradually clear today, they will become overcast again Tuesday followed by rain, as the warm air mass approaches.

Prime Minister Warns Against Overconfidence

Toronto, March 17 (CP) —Prime Minister St. Laurent warned the west last night against overconfidence that its growing military might has frightened off Russia and assured peace.

Western peoples will have to make more sacrifices and continue to build up their armed forces, he told the graduating class of St. Michael's College.

"The foundations of combined strength we already have laid in the free world have given us a greater sense of security and grounds for hope that the war all decent people dread can be prevented," he said.

"As our hopes of keeping the peace rise, as our sense of security grows, we in the free world are facing the greatest test of our understanding, our resolution and our patience.

"It is so easy to forget why we feel more secure and so easy to forget to pay the premiums on the insurance or even to ask ourselves whether we still need it. I myself am convinced that if we are not to lose the security now coming within our grasp, we must be ready to keep up the insurance, much as I hope we may never have the fire."

The tyranny of Soviet Russia was the most ruthless, most persuasive and resourceful ever to threaten the world. In the communist doctrine it had an insidious appeal to the natural human craving for social jusctice for all sorts and conditions of men.

"Communism is all the more dangerous because it remains a dynamic faith for its deluded followers," said Mr. St. Laurent. "At the present time there is an uneasy balance between the areas dominated by Soviet imperialism and the western world with its free and Christian traditions."

CANNOT TRIM THEM

St. Thomas, March 17 (CP)—Beards have St. Thomas barbers puzzled—they don't know how to trim them. About 200 young men, growing beards for the Elgin and St. Thomas Centennial in August, want barbers to trim them in various styles. But few barbers here are old enough to know anything about beard styles.

FARMHAND HELD IN CONNECTION WITH SLAYING

Body of Farmer Found Under Pile of Straw

Burketon, Ont., March 17 (CP)—Suffering from cold and fright, Harold Deneau, 16, of Windsor, Ont., today was captured and charged with the bludgeon slaying of Sidney Goff, a 36-year-old farmer. Goff's body was found beneath a pile of straw in his father," barn and it was believed he had been dead about 12 hours. Deneau had been parolled to the care of Sam Goff, father of the victim, last Oct. 2 from the nearby Bowmanville Training School for Boys. The farm is five miles north of here and 12 miles north of Oshawa.

The youth, arrested at gunpoint, was found asleep under a pile of sheets in a vacant house about a mile away from the scene of the scrime. Without a word, the youth held out his hands and was handcuffed.

Goff's relatives said Deneau went to the barn Sunday morning with young Goff to do the chores. It was the fact that the livestock had been left in the barnyard rather than stabled that puzzled the family when they couldn't locate the two immediately.

It bothered Arthur Patterson, of Toronto, brother-in-law of young Goff as he drove back to Toronto. On a hunch he went back to the farm.

With Sam Goff he went to the barn. They searched through the stables. Then Mr. Goff turned over a forkful of straw from a pile in a passageway. He uncovered the body of his son, his head smashed and his rubber boots and a bag over his face.

Neither Responded

Mrs. Sam Goff said her son left for the barn shortly after the hired youth and that neither responded when she called them about 1 p.m., for lunch.

Deneau was described as nearly six feet tall, pimply-faced with fair hair and complexion, about 130 to 150 pounds in weight and wearing a smock and overalls.

$6,000 Ring Returned

Chatham, March 17 (CP)—Mrs. Clarence Moulthrop has her $6,000 diamond ring again.

The gem, set in platinum, was stolen three weeks ago from an Erie Beach home. It was found in Windsor by Theodore Mantha, 20, who turned it over to a jeweler for valuation. When told of its value he turned it over to police and later it was identified as belonging to Mrs. Moulthrop.

Gordon Swartz of Windsor was convicted of jewel theft here Friday in connection with the case. He was placed on two years suspended sentence for theft and posted a $1,000 bond to keep the peace.

Swartz testified in court that he had lost the ring.

A-Busting Sometimes Obscures Research Work, Public Reminded

Ottawa, March 17—(CP)—National Research Council's atom-busting sometimes obscures its other work so the council issued a reminder today.

In a statement, the council reviewed its work since 1917 when it was founded, and added that today's million-dollar business makes a dollar do double duty by encouraging research and at the same time training young scientists.

The N.R.C. is mainly known for operating its own laboratories, largely for the benefit of Canadian industry," the council said. "But it also is the most important scientific foundation in Canada, now disbursing over $1,000,000 a year."

Work began 15 years before the main laboratories were opened in Ottawa.

A system of scholarships was set up to encourage scientific training in Canada. Grants were made to professors to do fundamental research in addition to teaching. To co-ordinate research on major problems of national scope, associate committees were set up.

All this meant an investment of $12,500,000. Some of the money went to 2,397 scholarships to graduates of 23 Canadian universities. Three-quarters of these scholarship winners still are at work in Canada, and many of them "have helped to place Canada among the foremost scientific nations of the world," said the council.

On aid to research, the council spent $8,500,000 to provide investigators at all Canadian universities and at many other Canadian institutions with the means to do important research.

The 24 associate committees bring together the practical experience of industrialists and the special technical knowledge of scientific workers. That means hundreds of experts, all working without salary.

These committees plan and coordinate research projects such as that being done by a number of Canadian scientists in various universities on hardening of the arteries. The committee recommends where money should be spent to help these projects.

Airline Stewardess Admits Slaying Company Official

St. Louis, March 17. (AP)—An attractive, 20-year-old airline stewardess told police she fatally shot a company official during a quarrel yesterday after he accused her of dating other men.

Lawrence E. Keil, 43, married and father of two children, was found in a parked automobile, wounded six times. He died short time later.

Police Chief Browne Hairgrove said the Ozark Air Lines stewardess, Betty Lou Tracy, signed a statement admitting she shot Keil with his own gun.

"I fired the gun until it would not fire any more," the chief quoted the petite, green-eyed girl as saying.

Miss Tracy was booked for the St. Louis County coroner and held without bond and without charge.

FIREMEN BUSY OVER WEEKEND

Firemen were called out on three occasions Sunday night and early Monday morning.

A refrigerator car in the C.N.R. yards had its floor damaged, when fire started apparently from a charcoal heater. The floor was burned through in one spot before the blaze was extinguished.

At Elliott Motors on Dundas Street West, a used car in the parking lot took afire and burned the inside out before it was brought under control. Cause of the blaze was not determined.

A truck owned by the public works department gave a bit of trouble, while it was being operated on Moira Street, the motor fan belt catching afire. Firemen were called to put out the blaze.

Some of them had a "wing-spread" of nearly two inches while the color would turn an Irishman green with homesickness.

POLICE BLOTTER

Mischievous youths who apparently like to hear the tinkle of breaking glass are believed responsible for smashing about 30 windows of a new but still vacant factory building on Moira Street at College.

Mrs. R. Smith complained to police today that a large number of windows had been broken in the building at the above location. Stones or BB pellets were believed responsible.

An Albert Street resident complained that his son had been bitten on the thigh by a dog with which children in the neighborhood had been playing. The city dog-catcher was informed and is checking on the dog responsible.

Police Reject Offer

Hamilton, March 17 (CP)— Members of the Hamilton police department last night rejected the city's latest wage and hour offer.

The policemen had requested a $10 weekly increase for all ranks and a 40-hour week. The three-man police commission offered a 40-hour work week starting next year; no change in basic pay but an immediate increase of $3.70 a week based on the present cost of living; cost of living bonuses up to a 197-point index; a reduction in the time required to become a first class constable and payment of half the cost of hospitalization insurance.

The policemen in rejecting the offers instructed their association executive, headed by Sgt. William Sanderson, to seek "a better deal."

Lady Mountbatten Gets a Peek At Battle Front

Western Front, Korea, March 17 (AP)—Lady Mountbatten got a taste of the Korean war today — helicopter, hospitals, bumpy jeep rides, generals, privates and finally a peek at the battle front.

On the second day of her whirlwind Korean tour for the Red Cross, the wife of Earl Mountbatten met Brig. J. M. Rockingham, commander of the 25th Canadian Infantry Brigade. She was accompanied by Maj.-Gen. A. J. H. Cassels, commander of the 1st Commonwealth Division.

With Cassels at the wheel, she jeeped along a bumpy road to the Indian advance dressing station and climbed a hill to look at communist lines just to the north.

Nearby Commonwealth guns were harassing the reds and in the distance a column of smoke could be seen rising from a position that was hit earlier by an Allied air strike.

Newscarrier Boys and Girls Guests at Sportsmen's Show

Wide-eyed with wonder and amazement at the splendor of the show, 23 newscarrier boys and girls of the Ontario Intelligencer enjoyed a weekend trip to Toronto where they were guests of the management at the Canadian Sportsmen's Show at the Coliseum, Toronto and other featured spots of the Queen City.

Twenty boys and three girls, winners of a recent contest left for Toronto by bus at nine o'clock Saturday morning under the supervision of circulation manager A. F. MacFadden and Miss Florence Walden of the business office staff.

The party reached Toronto shortly after noon and after a luncheon at Child's Restaurant were taken to the Royal Ontario Museum. Here they saw the wonders of this famous institution but the highlight of the tour came at night, when they visited the Sportsmen's Show.

Here they thrilled to the color and spectacle of a show said to be the best on the North American continent. They saw "Sharkey, the Seal" heard the famous Scout House Band from Preston and other interesting features of the exhibition.

On Sunday morning the boys and girls attended divine service, Roman Catholics attending the same mass as Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent and Minister of National Health and Welfare Paul Martin.

Following luncheon the boys and girls visited the Riverdale Zoo where they thrilled to the sight of animals and other features of this exhibition. The party arrived home tired but happy at a few minutes past six o'clock Sunday evening.

Over Thousand Young People Attend Pentecostal Assembly

Over a thousand young people from all over Eastern Ontario and Quebec and a goodly representation from several United States centres, attended the fifth annual convention of the Christ's Ambassadors, which is the young people's organization of the Pentecostal Assemblies of Canada". Commencing with an overflow crowd in Calvary Temple on Friday night, the convention continued over the weekend at the Collegiate auditorium with morning, afternoon and evening services on Saturday and Sunday.

Rev. D. LeRoy Sanders of Terre Haute, Indiana, a dynamic young preacher who has held special services in many countries of the world, and is in great demand as a convention speaker all over the continent, was the principal speaker. Rev. Ralph Peterson, of Burlington, Vermont, was song leader and soloist. Rev. Laurie Price, of Calvary Temple, C.A. president for the Eastern Ontario and Quebec district, was in charge of the convention, assisted by the vice-president, Rev. Hope Smith, also of Calvary Temple, Belleville.

Varied Musical Talent

The varied musical talent, supplied by consecrated Christian young people was outstanding and lost nothing in comparison with top performers in the secular world. These included the Evangel Temple Band of Toronto, prize winners in their class on several occasions at the Canadian National Exhibition, the Revivalairs quartet, and trumpet trio of the Eastern Pentecostal Bible College in Peterborough, Norma Cooper, outstanding soloist of South Africa, Irene McMillan, Canada's own gospel singer of a generation, and Kay Kingdon, vocalist and evangelist.

The call for a consecrated, separated Christian life, emptied of self and surrendered to the will of God through the guidance and indwelling of the Holy Spirit, was the thread of thought running through all the messages delivered during the convention. Rev. D. LeRoy Sanders stated that this was a day when Satan was rising to his full giant strength and defying the Church of God, just as Goliath, the Philistine champion defied the armies of Israel many years ago.

Churches Half-empty

"But, like David the shepherd boy, who was filled with the Spirit of God", said the speaker, "the smallest and most insignificant saint of God can defeat the adversary through the power of the indwelling Holy Spirit. Satan is more than a match for any modernistic, watered-down religious movement. Many beautiful churches that used to proclaim the gospel of Jesus Christ are now half-empty, have no services on Sunday evenings and no prayer meetings during the week. We think it is terrible when we hear that 800 churches have been forced to close in Russia; but what of the 60,000 churches in America that have closed down through spiritual indifference."

Rev. Sanders likened conditions in the world today to those that existed in the days of Sodom and Gomorrah. "The Bible says that Lot's righteous spirit was vexed by the condition of wicked Sodom. Lot had true spiritual perception. He saw the evil about him. He was afraid of the moral trend and he got out of the city before the wrath of God descended and destroyed it. We cannot help ourselves today, but we are living in the midst of Godlessness and lawlessness. Wherever I go throughout the world I find the same conditions, a world intoxicated with the lusts of the flesh."

With impassioned indignation, Rev. Sanders told of the dope and sex clubs to which multitudes of American youth were addicted, and added, "surely the world's cup of judgment is full and overflowing. Most of us are living in a Sodom and Gomorrah but we have blinders on and can't see it all."

Sounds Call

Sounding a call for spiritual prosperity, Rev. Mr. Sanders stated that spiritual stature depended upon daily prayer and reading of the Bible, obedience to the commands of Christ, sanctified, holy living and enthusiasm in worship and witness.

Speaking at the Sunday afternoon consecration service, when hundreds of young people consecrated their lives to Christian service, Rev. Mr. Sanders gave a word of warning. "If you are looking for a big church to preach in, if you want thanks and a pat on the back every time you do something, God can't use you. God cannot use the high and mighty but only those who humble themselves and realize they are nothing."

The speaker back up his statement by reference to the great characters in the Bible, who had done exploits for God, but only when they had become humble and small and entirely dependent upon the Spirit of God.

Halting Car At Rail Crossing Is Not Sufficient

Stopping well back from a railway crossing when a train is approaching is the smart thing to do.

Just ask David Brophy, Victoria Ave., who Sunday had his car pushed across a railway crossing by another car just a few seconds before the train rumbled by.

Mr. and Mrs. Brophy and family were returning to the city by way of the bay bridge road when, as they approached the CPR tracks, the wig-wag commenced to operate, indicating the approach of a train.

Mr. Brophy stopped his car to wait for the train when suddenly his auto was struck from the rear and shoved completely across the tracks.

Driver of the second car, Ray Raddaty of Pembroke, claimed he was watching for the train and did not see the wigwag nor the car ahead.

The Brophy's escaped with little more than a shaking up but damage to both vehicles was extensive.

Tobacco Heiress Weds

Menton, France, March 17 — (Reuters)—Edwina Wills, British tobacco heiress, and Lord Savernake, nobleman turned furniture salesman were married today.

Edwina, 19, rushed to this French Riviera beauty spot last week to defy her father, Lt.-Col. Ernest de Winton Wills, by announcing her imminent marriage to the lord, 25.

French authorities refused to marry them unless the heiress obtained her father's consent. The colonel reluctantly agreed in London last night. He said he still considers his daughter "too young to know her own mind."

Edwina was debutante of the year in Britain last season.

How well do we remember
One year ago today.
All we have left is your picture
And you seem to say
Don't grieve for me, I'm only sleeping,
We shall meet again some day.

EWING. — In loving memory of a dear son and brother, Chester Ewing, who passed away March 17 1951, in his 12th year
He is gone but not forgotten,
And, as dawns another year,
In our lonely hours of thinking,
Thoughts of him are always near.
Days of sadness will come o'er us,
Friends may think the wound is healed,
But they little know the sorrow
That lies within the heart concealed.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, March 17 (CP) —Western oils held firm in afternoon stock market dealings after strong support pushed the exchange's index to consecutive record highs. Base metals dipped and industrials and golds showed little trend.

Speculation in oils again dominated exchange dealings as a broad list of issues showed large turnovers. A few golds and metals also attracted moderate interest. Volume for the first three hours was 2,418,000 shares.

Gains among western oils ranged from pennies to about 50 cents. Anglo-Canadian, Canadian Collieries, Home Oil, Leduc Consolidated, Federated Petroleum, Okalta and Sapphire traded higher.

Refining oils and miscellaneous issues posted a scattered list of fractional advances to form industrials' strongest sections. Papers, agricultures, banks and retail stores also drew firm support but foods, liquors, and manufacturing companies slipped.

Base metal leaders dipped sharply as Falconbridge, Hudson Bay, New Calumet, Noranda, Steep Rock, United Keno Hill and Waite Amulet showed declines ranging to more than 50 cents.

Senior golds were mixed. Secondary issues — particularly junior producers—showed a large majority of penny losses.

Police Capture Master Criminal By Making Trap

Toronto, March 17. (CP)—Sad-eyed Edwin Alonzo Boyd, 37-year-old former Commando who became one of Canada's 10 most wanted criminals, will be charged with the robbery of 10 banks, police said today. The charges include seven he faced prior to a jailbreak last November.

Detectives said they have established that one of an arsenal of firearms found in a North Toronto apartment in a surprise raid Saturday was stolen a year ago from the Canadian Bank of Commerce at nearby Pickering. The bank was held up by two armed men and robbed of $6,000.

Police said with this new charge to be laid when he appears in court March 21, the total of bank robbery charges to face Boyd will be brought to 10.

Faces 13 Charges

In all Boyd faces 13 charges. The others are escaping custody, illegal possession of offensive weapons and car theft.

On Saturday the additional charges of bank robbery were laid, the most recent being the $24,000 holdup of the midtown College-Manning branch of the Bank of Montreal.

Police said that extra guards have been placed around his cell block to prevent the recurrence of a jail-break such as occurred last year when he broke loose together with Leonard and William Jackson.

A police trap clamped its jaws on Boyd Saturday as he slept in a North Toronto apartment.

Last night details were released on how it was done.

Boyd's capture wrote an almost anti-climatic finish to a story of blood, loot and violence in Canada's two largest cities. Involved were bank robberies, the shooting of two Toronto detectives and the apprehension of Boyd's two alleged accomplices in a blaze of gunfire in Montreal.

Though Boyd said he had no connection with Steve Suchan and Leonard Jackson, police here said his fingerprints were found in Suchan's apartment in Montreal.

It was there nine days ago that Montreal police wounded Suchan in a fierce burst of gunplay. Later in the week they downed a savagely-fighting Jackson in another gun battle. Both were wanted for wounding Sgt. of Detectives Edmund Tong and Detective Sergeant Roy Perry of Toronto, the former seriously.

Bizarre Twist

Police said a bizarre twist to the capture of Boyd was the fact that he was escorted into the police trap by three carloads of thugs.

Police traced Boyd to the address by trailing his wife. They found her by tracing a "car for sale" two-line advertisement which offered an English-type car. The advertisement for the car, similar to one owned by Mrs. Boyd, turned out to have been placed by Norman Boyd. Quickly police located his residence and that of his sister-in-law.

Police found a briefcase containing $25,037 in cash and a loaded pistol and letters addressed to newspapers and signed by Boyd but never mailed. The letters said in part: "Start guarding your families, for I am no longer a respector of persons. . . keep out of my way and avoid bloodshed."

What Do You Recommend?...

Year after year this single question seems to be asked us more frequently than any other. For an organization such as ours with broad experience and access to many markets, it should be easy to answer . . . it's part of our business. And very often it is easy to answer . . . it's easy when our client has taken us into his confidence . . . we know his aims, his objectives, his requirements. Together we work out a program to do what he wants done, and to the best of our ability, we see to it that our recommendations fill his particular bill.

You see, we at Ames regard the investing of money as a pretty personal business. The personal requirements of our clients demand our personal care, thought and study. In many, many cases, the personal relationship is really a "professional" relationship, and a competent investment adviser no more has a "universal" investment recommendation than a competent medical adviser has a "universal" prescription. Short term government bonds won't produce 5% income . . . common stocks won't protect a short term cash requirement.

So . . . to get back to the question . . . when we make an investment recommendation, we like to feel that it will meet the personal requirements of the individual. Experience has proved to us that a personal, confidential relationship between investor and investment adviser is the only sound basis for investment recommendations. This, of course, means personal service . . : the type of service which is available to our clients . . . available to you. You will be welcomed in any of our offices, or, if more convenient, we will be happy to discuss your personal investment program by mail.

A GLOOMY PROPHECY

A dire prediction about what is in store for the Canadian livestock industry as a result of the Saskatchewan outbreak of foot and mouth disease was made public last Tuesday by Walter Lips, of Inglewood, Ontario, a breeder of Jersey cattle. As soon as the outbreak was discovered, Mr. Lips communicated with Dr. L. de Blieck, of Utrecht, Holland. Dr. de Blieck is considered one of the greatest authorities in Europe on bacterial diseases in cattle. He is a professor at the University of Utrecht and a director of the Serum Institute at Rotterdam. Foot and mouth disease is prevalent in Holland, as in some other parts of Europe.

In a communication which he has forwarded to Mr. Lips and which Mr. Lips has made public, Dr. de Blieck states that while cattle are on pasture is the most dangerous time for the spread of the foot and mouth disease infection. "This (the pasture season) will doubtless cause the disease to be spread all over Canada," he says.

Dr. de Blieck says "'some one must be blamed for not immediately destroying cattle when the disease first broke out." (There was a time lag of about three months between the time the infection was first detected and the time when the slaughterings began.) Dr. de Blieck warns the province of Ontario against lifting its "iron curtain" against western cattle until all danger from the disease is past.

Dr. de Blieck's letter also points out that the Netherlands government had suggested to Canada that all immigrants should have been disinfected before embarkation for Canada. Canada, he says, should have demanded such action long ago, because the disease is present in so many European countries. He adds further that the financial loss involved in the cattle slaughterings should be of secondary consideration in tracing the source of the outbreak and preventing a recurrence.

Mr. Lips, who is a native of the Netherlands himself, stated that Dr. de Blieck had been engaged as an advisor and consultant on foot and mouth disease not only by various European governments, but by those of such faraway lands as South Africa and Australia. If Dr. de Blieck knows what he is talking about, and apparently he should, the outbreak of the disease is likely to be even more disastrous than was originally predicted.

SOMETHING WRONG SOMEWHERE

Through his lawyers, Bandit Willie Sutton has signed ook, magazine, movie and television contracts for his life tory which will yield about $250,000. Willie has establshed a philantropic trust fund, to be known as the Willie Sutton Helping Hand Fund," to combat juvenile elinquency and rehabilitate ex-convicts.

Willie is tough, all right; or rather, Willie was tough, ntil his recent and sudden reform. He was rated as the o. 1 Bad Man of the United States. His friends are still ough. They have proven it by "bumping off," in approv- gangland style, the individual who "tipped off" the olice to Willie's hideout.

Maybe Willie is sincere in his reformation. But we e inclined to doubt it, because the rest of Willie's life is ing to be spent in places where he will not have a chance spend money. In any event, there is something wrong ith any civilization in which there are organizations willg to pay $250,000 for the life story of any such hoodlum r Willie Sutton. It is no wonder that both the United tates and Canada are oversupplied with individuals who ave a false sense of values.

TOO MUCH BANDITRY

Are the numerous and relatively well paid police rces of this country less efficient than they were a ecade or two decades ago? Or are our criminals becoming ore daring, more enterprising and more ruthless?

We do not know which is the correct answer. But yone who has been reading a daily newspaper during e last few months must have concluded that there is mething wrong somewhere.

Bank robberies and other large scale holdups are beming an almost every day occurrence, especially in the rger centres, such as Toronto. The bandits are showing increasing tendency to "shoot it out" with bank guards d policemen, just as they do in fiction. Sometimes also, e outlaws start shooting at the police on sight. In ort, the crime situation seems to be getting out of hand.

Do we need more police in this country, or more effint policing? Obviously, one or the other is needed.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY MEMORY

ng years ago, ere luncheon clubs had learned to do the hat trick,
e parish ladies planned a feast in honor of St. Patrick.
e hall was trimmed in Erin's green and always green the salad.
e tenor of the choir was there to sing an Irish ballad.
I recall those glad affairs (so far the memory reaches)
e women made the supper and the menfolk made the speeches.

gentle padre of the flock beseeched the good Lord's blessing,
n up and down the tables
long went chicken and the dressing.
those days food was plentiful and many were the courses.
At fifty cents a person, all who came could eat like horses.
I still can see the smiling priest among his children walking,
When the women did the serving and the menfolk did the talking.

St. Patrick is remembered still, but now, with price inflation,
Almost forgotten seems to be the old-time celebration.
"The minstrel boy to the war is gone," but silence makes me wonder,
Does no one sing of the lad who tore the strings of his harp asunder?
And where are those golden tongues of old (today we sadly need 'em)
When the women did the dishes and the menfolk spoke for freedom?

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

In the dining car of the train last week I sat across the aisle from a young man with a fine great black mass of whiskers. I had a full view of him as he ate.

It was not one of those neat little trimmed goattees he wore, but a rich, deep mattressy beard that entirely covered the V where his shirt and tie would have shown. The mustache of it was full and upswept, vigorous and virile. Deep within it all, his mouth and teeth showed as he chatted and smiled with the man across the table from him. I took him to be one of those ex-navy lads who, to a considerable number, grew whiskers during the war.

It was unbelievably fascinating to watch him eat. He broke his roll, buttered it, bit of chunks, and never a crumb fell on his beard. Much to my delight, he took soup next: and with the greatest ease, he spooned the soup, despite the jiggling of the train, into that ambushed mouth; and not a drop did he waste on his whiskers. Not once did he use his serviette to wipe an imaginary dab of it off.

For his main course, he took one of those large, loose railway salads, with slippery tomatoes in quarters, much shredded lettuce, and slathers of salad dressing. With his fork, he manipulated that whole bucketful of rabbit food into the fastnesses of his mouth. While I had to avert my gaze occasionally to eat my own food, not to mention occasionally, out of politeness which even newspapermen can experience, I never saw him trip once.

After dinner, I latched onto him in the smoking compartment, and confessed to him what I had observed.

"Nothing to it, old boy," said the navy type, which indeed he was. "When you have a beard, you keep your eyes fixed on those of your dinner partner. And whenever you note his eyes fastened in horror on your chin, you wipe it off."

OUR TOWN

BY JACK SCOTT

A DOG'S LIFE

The vanity of the human race is a hell of a note for dogs.

I remember some well-to-do friends of ours who had the best of everything and so, when it came to buying a dog, they got a beauty. She was a Chesapeake Bay retriever, an aristocrat bred for hunting, a lady all the way through.

Most pure-strain show dogs these days have had the guts and hearts of them sacrificed for appearance by fantastic crossbreeding, but the Chesapeake, being a man's dog, has so far escaped this cruel fate.

Well, one night I went to a party at the home of these people. Late in the evening the host said: "I want to show you something funny." He brought in the Chesapeake.

Being a lady, she made the rounds of the guests to say hello. Then she put on the performance the host had anticipated. She froze to a point on a cage containing two budgie birds!

Everyone laughed. It was indeed, high comedy because there was pathos in it.

They'd made the Chesapeake a house dog, doomed it to the life of a lap-loving Pomeranian, and, like the flightless birds in the small cage, she was a tragic figure, victim of human vanity.

I got to thinking about that handsome bitch and her noble instinct made ludicrous in a drawing room because I've just been reading the advertisements of one of the major producers of cat and dog food and, honestly, nothing more degrading has happened to the dog since some fool decided to cut the tails off Dobermanns.

"Goodbye D.O.", the advertisement is headed. And "D.O.", if you please, is "Dog Odors"! Some Pekinese-owning advertising hack probably got to be a vice-president with that idea.

Oh, it's a cunning one. They've put Chlorophyll, "Nature's Wonder Deodorant," into the canned horse meat and the result, say they, is "the best news in a dog's age!"

Dog owners are invited to make a seven-day test to prove that bad breath and body odors disappear within 24 hours. I like to sit back and visualize the scene in some panelled advertising agency office when, with perhaps some unhappy and embarrassed Airedale as their subject, the executives gathered to sniff inquiringly.

It reminds me of an advertising representative who came to our home one day with two types of dog food, one produced by the outfit he represented, the other the product of a rival firm.

He put both down on the floor in pans and waited for "Annie," our mutt, to make her choice. "Annie" made the wrong choice.

"Oh, well," the man said, "I'll just keep trying. We want to be able to say that nine out of 10 dogs go for our product, first. I guess if we try enough dogs we'll hit it right." (And so they did).

Deodorizing the dog, merely for the fastidious nostrils of somebody who'd be better off with goldfish, is an invasion of canine privacy with frightening consequences. Presuming that Chlorophyll will work as advertised it means chaos in the dog world.

As you know, dogs are not merely color blind (everything is black, white or grey to them), but have a vision considerably less effective than that of the human. They rely to some extent on their hearing, but mainly on their sense of smell.

Now consider what will happen in a society of aroma-less dogs.

Dogs which have been pals for years will pass each other in the street or, worse, leap to each other's throat.

Dogs which make their way into the woods will never return, having no scent to guide them home.

Tens of thousands of dogs will begin to mope, chin sunk on paws, wondering if they're the last of the canines or, indeed, if they are canines at all.

It will get worse, too. Let the de-odorized hound become popular with fool people and next thing you know we'll be putting salve under their arm pits or dabbing them with a little Chanel No. 5 behind the ears.

I'm not really worried about Chlorophyll, of course. I'm just kidding, Dr. Ballard.

What does put the gloom in me is that nine out of 10 people shouldn't own a dog at all and, as any veterinarian will tell you, it's a disgrace the way big dogs are kept in the city, denied proper exercise and care so that they become nuisances.

Take it from me, there's nothing wrong with dogs. Only people.

There happens, too, to be a slogan on this particular brand of chow. It says "They beg for it." It's a sort of clue to the way a lot of people look at man's best friend.

Show me a man who teaches a dog to "sit up and beg" and you show me a man who has no conception of the true dignity and worth of a dog and who, in short, is the kind of prune who would find amusement in a scent-less hound pointing at a budgie bird.

What's the world coming to?

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

USE YOUR NOSE

The writers of salacious books are offensive not only because of the obscenity in which they deal, but particularly because of their effrontery. They solemnly declare — and many critics join in the chorus—that these books constitute true art. To raise a finger of warning against anything these smut artists care to write is termed censorship. They claim to write what they call "adult literature." Of course they write nothing of the sort. They have an adolescent interest in obscenity and a sufficiently facile pen that they can get away with almost anything and call it art.

Anyone who gets to the place where he considers himself beyond public regulation of any sort needs to be slapped down, and slapped down hard. The individual has to be restrained at times in the interest of society at large. Most of the men and women turning out salacious literature are mediocre writers; their books make the best seller list because perverse human nature — because of its perversity — frequently likes to read that sort of stuff.

"Sour grapes," I hear someone yell. "Could you write any kind of novel yourself?" To which I reply in the words of a famous dramatic critic, "No, and I couldn't lay an egg either; but I can tell a bad one when I smell it."

London (CP) — Excavations on the bombed ruins of St. Bride's Church, off Fleet Street, built by Sir Christopher Wren, have revealed the walls of three former churches dating back to the 12th. century. It is believed further evacuations may uncover remains of a Roman edifice.

REMONSTRANCE FROM A V I R

In a long and checkered career as international quack I have learned to brush off ordinary squawks from, say, vendors of cheat-foods, trick specialists and another bunk merchants who thrive on popular ignorance and credulity. But when I draw one from a VIR it jars me. VIR means very important reader. Any reader under sixteen years of age who writes to me is a VIR. It is of little moment whether you old geezers (past 35) applaud or resent, approve of disagree, accept or reject my teachings. But, believe me, the reaction of this VIR has already spoiled two nights' sleep for me:

Dear Doc:

My mother thinks you are perfect, but I think you are a meddlesome old bore.

Before you put out that dope on Bedtime Schedules I got to stay up until 10 or 10.30. But now it's 9.00, with no questions asked.

I'm a boy 12 years old, 13 next month. I don't see why I can't stay up one or two hours more.

Regretfully yours,
George

P.S.— Just when did you go to bed when you were 12?

I like particularly George's bow to his mother. Trouble with many parents is that they argue, scream, scold or nag. George's mother just says "Bedtime, George," and George heeds the reminder, and no questions asked. Not at that time anyway.

For the life of me I can't remember what bedtime was for me when I was 12 years old. Nor can I fix on any corollary circumstance which might refresh my memory. But I do seem to recall that at the age of five — I doubt that any old geezer can actually recollect incidents of childhood earlier than the age of five—that sometimes I went to bed late because the bedclothes were not sufficiently dried out. And that reminds me, I'll send on written request a pamphlet on the Bedwetting Habit to any parent who provides stamped self addressed envelope. Written request does not mean a clipping.

George probably doesn't appreciate it now, but he is lucky to have a mother who sees to it that he hits the hay at bedtime. Other things being equal, George will have a substantial lead over boys of his age who are allowed to be up till ten or eleven o'clock. For a deplorable instance — Cub Scout troops or dens who attend shows that keep them up late at night.

Ordinarily I don't mind, in fact I get a chuckle out of the names the old geezers call me. But it saddens me to think that a boy who can write such a good letter as George writes considers me a meddlesome old bore. I don't make the laws, kids. Nature makes 'em. Nature prescribes 12 hours sleep for children aged 4; 11 hours for children aged 5 to 7; 10 hours for children aged 8 to 14.

For health's sake we had better leave it at that.

QUESTIONS and ANSWERS

The Desire to Stop Drinking

Sister, 42, divorced, two 'teen age children, has been drinking for several years. She would like to stop now but finds it impossible. She goes for ten days or more without a drink, then feels nervous and depressed and starts drinking and goes to great excess. (H.M.S.)

Answer—If she is serious in her desire to stop drinking, the best suggestion I can offer is that she get in touch with an Alcoholics Anonymous group and attend meetings of the group. Look 'em up in telephone book. Every member of the group has gone through or is now going through the fight to stop drinking, so your sister will find sympathy and understanding.

Fifty Dollar Test

Husband and I went to a doctor to get some hormones. The doctor tried to talk us into having some kind of test to find just what kind of hormones we needed. The test was to cost $50. (H.L.)

Answer — It sounds fishy. Of course I'm just one-horse, etc., but blessed if I can imagine what test would show what kind of hormones any one needs.

Burning Tongue

Burning feeling of tongue, sometimes whole length, mostly the tip, difficulty swallowing foods, pasty look, 41 years old, getting many gray hairs. (Mrs. C. E.)

Answer—Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for pamphlet "The Grey Sickness" — nutritional deficiency anemia.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THINK — BUT TO A PURPOSE

We can accomplish almost anything within our ability if we but think that we can! Every great achievement in this world was first carefully thought out. I recently read that this motto hung upon the workshop of Thomas A. Edison: "It is remarkable to what lengths people will go to avoid thought." Edison was a thinker —and his thoughts crystallized into an amazing number of inventions that have blessed the world.

When confronted with a problem, or emergency, our only salvation is to think ourselves out. We can't depend upon others to save us. We can well have, as one of the most useful mottos of life, ever before us, that one — Think!

I have often stood before the great bronze of Rodin's "The Thinker" and wondered what the sculptor had in mind as he created that outstanding work of art. Just to look at it is enough to make anyone think. Thinkers are always creators.

We may read a great many wonderfully interesting books, but it is always the thought the author has put into his book that makes it notable and instructive. In reading the recently published book "The Sea Around Us", most of the material could have been gained from books and the author's own investigations and experiences, but it is the thought that the writer wrapped it all up in that has made it such fascinating reading, and so outstanding.

We often hear the expression about a certain person that he thinks things out. We like to associated with such people for they inspire us to think things out for ourselves. What a multitude of possible miracles are housed in the human brain! As the humorous poet, Walt Mason, once wrote: "O human head! Majestic box! O wondrous can, from labels free! If man is craving fame or rocks, he'll get them if he uses thee!"

Think—but to a purpose. Think constructively. Think as you read. Think as you listen. Think as you work daily at your desk, or in the field, or while strolling. Think to rise and improve your place in life. There can be no advancement or success without serious thought.

Mr., Mrs. W. Holland Celebrate Their 40th Anniversary

Madoc — Recently Mr. and Mrs. Ward Holland, residing near Crookston, celebrated their 40th. wedding anniversary at their home, where a bountiful supper was partaken of by their family and relatives.

Rev. Boyd Beckel, pastor of White Lake Church, acted as toastmaster and brought greetings to Mr. and Mrs. Holland. Their eldest son, Ernest, read an address on behalf of the family and presented them with a set of dishes. After Eight Months of Wrangling

At Panmunjom, Korea, U.N. Security Officer, U.S. Capt. Richard C. Powers (right), and communist security officials check some of the leaflets which the reds claim had been found within the neutral area. The communists charged it was a violation of the Panmunjom neutrality zone. The leaflets are believed to have been exploded from an artillery shell outside the truce zone, and then blown into the restricted Panmunjom area. — Central Press Canadian.

Farm Forum Notes

Four forums met recently with an attendance of 90 to discuss the problems of "Customers Abroad".

All four forums agreed that Great Britain has been our best long term market. We cannot look into the future, but we believe as she can build up her dollars, and will always require to import large quantitites of food on account of her large population in a small area, that she will continue to be our best long term market. All agree that we cannot do without our American market, too.

In order to maintain our markets with Great Britain we should buy as much from her as we can. Some suggested that we sell to her at a low cost and have our government pay subsidies.

Another suggestion was lowering of tariffs. Quality should be given first consideration and goods should be packaged attractively. Controlled production could help control markets. Another suggested that we build up a good domestic market.

Canadian Marketing Board

River Valley suggests that we have an all Canadian marketing board and active field men to promote a market.

Hazzards says: "Have a good honest system of grading and do not try to beat the grade. It is bound to backfire in any market."

Foxboro believes some money should be put aside for helping the farmer to promote sale of products in other countries.

Brookdale thinks that in supporting our various farm organizations will be helping ourselves to better marketing.

Foxboro had four new members out to forum.

Tar Sands Will Be Developed During Summer

Edmonton, March 17 (CP) — Mines Minister N. E. Tanner recently announced that the first large-scale exploratory work toward extracting oil from the Athabasca tar sands in northeastern Alberta will start this summer.

The sands, straddling the Athabasca river about 165 miles northeast of Edmonton, are believed to contain between 100,000,000,000 and 300,000,000,000 barrels of heavy oil, constituting the largest known reserve of petroleum in the world.

Mr. Tanner disclosed at a press conference that five Canadian companies are taking out leases covering 250,000 acres in the Mildred Ruth Lake area and have paid deposits totalling $250,000 to guarantee carrying out their program.

The five companies are Ashere Oil Co., Pacific Petroleum, Calvin Consolidated, New Continental of Canada, and Charter Oil Co. Three of the companies have undertaken to start work by August, one by September and the fifth by October.

Mr. Tanner also anounced that the Swedish Shale Oil company has arranged with the government to carry on work with a special extraction process. Arrangements are being worked out under which the Swedish company will lease part of the government's pilot plant at Bitumont, Alta., for $25,000.

The minister also said that Lloyd Rogers Champion, Montreal investment banker who a year ago took out the first permit to carry out exploratory work, has obtained a new reservation covering 3,840 acres. He is guaranteeing to spend $20,000 in field research work approved by the minister.

Union-Sponsored Radio Program Barred from Air

Sudbury, March 17 (CP) —A radio program sponsored by Local 598, International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers was banned from the air last night by radio station CKSO. Station owner W. J. Woodill said it was for "indulging in personalities which might be slanderous."

The program was banned from this city's other radio station, CHNO, on the grounds that it was helping to disseminate communist propaganda.

The program started on CKSO two Sundays ago.

Mr. Woodill said: "when the union refused to post a bond of $25,000 to cover any slander action which might arise out of their program, we decided to ban it. We cannot afford lawyers' fees every week to censor the material before broadcast.

"Anything of a communist nature has always been barred on this station."

He said the program scheduled for last night contained statements about Mayor Dan Jessup and two controllers which might be considered slanderous.

The owner of station CHNO said he received a visit from the RCMP after the refrain "Russia goes marching along" was played on the program.

The mine-mill union was expelled from the Canadian Congress of Labor for alleged communist domination.

The cast and their friends were entertained to a social cup of tea and refreshments by members of the W.M.S. before leaving for their homes.

On This Day You Have to be Irish To Know What it is to be Irish

By HAL BOYLE

New York, March 17. (AP)—What is it to be Irish?

On 364 days of the year being Irish isn't visibly different from being Scottish, French, Italian, Jewish, Serbian, Dutch, or—Heaven forgive the word—English.

The Irishman pays his bills, complains about his taxes, does his work, and listens to his wife like the man of any other race.

But in this one day of the year—Holy St. Patrick's Day—the Irishman becomes an Irishman.

And on this day you have to be Irish to know what it is to be Irish.

The outer signs, of course, can be seen by all. The Irishman overnight grows a foot taller and stalks the earth a giant. All traffic lights turn green before him, and if they don't he sees red.

But this air of majesty is only token evidence of interior change. The men of other races who envy the Irishman his bearing on St. Patrick's Day would envy him far more if he could look inside the Irishman's soul.

What is it to be Irish?

It is to have an angel in your mouth, turning your prose to poetry. It is to have the gift of tongues, to know the language of all living things. Does an Irishman pause and turn an ear to a tree? It is because on this day he wants to hear what one sleepy bud says to another as it opens its pale green hands to the warm sun of spring.

What is it to be Irish?

Oh, on this day it is music. Not just the cornet in the parading high school band, but the deep, deep music of living, the low, sad rhythms of eternity. The Irishman hears the high song of the turning spheres, the dim lullaby of the worm in its cocoon. All the world is in tune, and he is in step with the tune, the tune that only he can hear.

What is it to be Irish?

It is to live the whole history of his race between a dawn and a dawn—the long wrongs, the bird-swift joys, the endless hurt of his ancestors since the morning of time in a forgotten forest, the knock-at-his-heart that is part of his religion.

What is it to be Irish?

It isn't only the realization that he is descended from kings. It is the realization that he is a king himself, an empire on two feet striding in power, a strolling continent of awe.

What is it to be Irish?

Why, on St. Patrick's Day, to be Irish is to know more glory, adventure, magic, victory, exultation, gratitude and gladness than any other man can experience in a lifetime.

What is it to be Irish? It is to walk in complete mystic understanding with God for 24 wonderful hours.

It takes much more than a PRICE TAG to make a bargain

Every feature... You've always wanted!

Compare the advantages of the G-E Washer—the G-E Activator which gives positive 3-zone washing-action—the "instinctive" wringer that stops at the slightest pull—the adjustable Timer that watches the clock for you—the "Daily Dipper" that fits inside your regular washer, ideal for those small "daily" washes. We believe that after seeing the advantages of the G-E Washer, you'll accept nothing less. And you'll be so right!

GENERAL ELECTRIC WASHERS

What do you consider a bargain... a few dollars saved at the time of purchase... and years shorter life? Surely that's no bargain. Can you afford to take the chance when you consider that the apparent saving—spread over the years—is but a few cents a week?

Today, when buying a washer, the test of a real bargain is more than ever: "How long and how well will it serve me?" To make today's dollars go farther, last longer—buy quality, buy value. That's the sensible rule for today's shopper who would rather be safe than sorry.

A RULE FOR THE TIMES never buy any washer until you've 'quality compared' it with a G-E WASHER
